(Ed. Note: This interesting account of Peterborough in the seventies was written a dozen years ago by a former resident of Peterborough who has died since. We print them almost unedited from the typewritten manuscript. They are personal memoirs, and subject to the writer's prejudices, views and sometimes unprecise memory of the events and people of eighty years ago. The Examiner does not vouch for their accuracy of detail).

LEGISLATORS

Peterborough, and Peterborough County were represented in both the Senate and House of Commons. Hon. W. Hamilton was Senator and lived on Brock St. across from John Garveys. It was a large frame house, one of the first houses built in Peterborough; there were spacious grounds beautifully kept. Wm. Hamilton had horses, carriages, coachmen grooms, a couple of gardeners, and women help.

Many other residents on Brock St. employed as many help, they all lived on the premises, the male help got $3.00 to $4.00 a week and their board and uniforms and silk hats for coachmen, the women $4.00 to $6.00 a month, board and uniforms and sleeping and eating quarters in the basement. When the writer lived on Brock St., there were kitchen, dining room and laundry, five bedrooms in the basement for the help and also stables for six horses, two cows, pig sty, ice house, smoke house; we smoked our own ham, made our own soft and hard soap.

There was a tennis court and croquet green and ice rink in the wintertime, a large vegetable cellar under the stables and filled to the roof each year in the fall.

Wages and everything were cheap and it did not cost a great deal to live well. Many war veterans lived in Peterborough and they usually had small pensions and worked cheaply and their wives would do washing, ironing and house work. Peterborough had veterans of the Rebellion in 1837, Crimean war veterans, veterans of the northern and southern U.S. armies, veterans of the 100th British Indian regiment, Papal Zouaves. A contingent was recruited in Peterborough to fight for the Pope against Victor Emanuel of Sardinia.

The pay was good and some Protestants joined up; Victor Emmanuel took Rome and the Papal States and the Pope was a prisoner until Mussolini's day. There were veterans of the Nile expedition and the Riel Rebellion. Most of the veterans were able bodied men and could do a real day's work.

SPORTS

No street cars in Peterborough until a later date, many had a top buggy and one horse, most houses had stabling for at least one horse and a cow. The chief sport was lacrosse. When the Montreal Shamrocks played in Peterborough large crowds would turn out, people would come from all the surrounding territory to see the Shamrocks and Peterborough play; 5,000 were often at a game. The Athletic Park was over the Hunter St. bridge in Ashburnham. Cricket matches also drew large crowds. The only baseball club was the William Hamilton Baseball club, they played amateur teams from Toronto and other places.

There were two roller skating rinks and one large ice rink. Hockey was unknown until the late eighties. Boys played shinny on the creek. Many regattas on Little Lake in the summer time, they drew large crowds and were generally at night, with thousands of coloured lights. Peterborough was famous for bands, row boats, sail boats, tents and awnings.

There were stages to Bridgenorth, Lakefield, Hastings and other points in the country; they carried passengers, mail and freight.

MILITARY

There were six companies of the 57th Battalion, three in Peterborough and three at other points in the county of Peterborough. The 57th Battalion band was all Peterborough men. New Year's was the big day in the counties, a bigger day than Christmas. It was a great day for the bachelors. A gang would hire a carry-all and call on all their friends—fruit cake and wine everywhere.

The 57th Battalion Band would serenade all prominent citizens, they would play at the gate, have refreshments, play again before leaving and the host usually came across with a ten dollar bill or more, the usual contribution to the band. The 57th contributed many men to the Midland Battalion under Colonel Williams, which was recruited for the Riel Rebellion. Part of the Midland Battalion saw action. Colonel Williams I think was the only casualty, and he died of fever.

The call came about the 28th of March, and they left about two days later. The morning they left, one of the guns in the drill shed exploded and killed one of the gunners. The Peterborough contingent returned in July and received a royal welcome. Their uniforms were threadbare or worn out; one man would have a pair of grey Halifax tweed pants, and coat of another color, another would have blue trousers and a scarlet coat. No uniforms were available, and they had to take what they could get at Hudson Bay posts. Two of them were former employees and we had to turn the hose on them and burn their clothes. They said they lived on hard tack most of the campaign.

CHURCHES

Peterborough had two Presbyterian churches, one in the north end and one in the west end, the old kirk. They had no organ in the kirk and no bell. They thought it looked too much like Popery. A Baptist church on Aylmer St., an Anglican church on Hunter St., Mr. Beck was rector. He was a good man, liked by all denominations. Had several daughters who were renowned for their great beauty. St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, later on St. Peter's Cathedral, was in the west end. Father Lynch was the rector. He had a large stable and liked to own a fast horse; was reputed a wealthy man. In the seventies after expenses were paid a Roman Catholic Rector had any surplus for his own use. Peterborough was in the Kingston diocese and Bishop Cleary, a new bishop, did away with that, said that the surplus must go to the Church.

In the late seventies Peterborough was separated from Kingston and Bishop Jamot was created first Bishop of Peterborough. He was a French-Canadian. St. Peter's Cathedral was rebuilt and many improvements made. Bishop Jamot died after some months' illness, from hiccoughs. Experts came from far and near and could not stop the trouble. Bishop Dowling was his successor. In early days a majority in Peterborough were Roman Catholics. About this time Bishop Manning and also Bishop Newman, Anglican Bishops, went over to Rome and Pope Pius the Ninth made them both Cardinals, and Pope Pius declared the infallibility of the Pope and the doctrine of the Immaculate Conception and other mutations and created much discussion at this time. Father Chiniquy came to Peterborough and held meetings in the north end Presbyterian Church. He had been a priest. He made quite a number of converts to Protestantism.

Your Garden:

Mildew Shuns Clean, Well-Kept Gardens

By HENRY PREE
Written for NEA Service

Mildew is the common name for certain types of fungi and for the diseases they cause. Particularly annoying to the gardener, especially he who grows roses, is the powdery mildew present on the leaves. While mildew is more prevelant in cloudy, humid weather it seems to hang on well along to the cool of autumn.

Roses, lilacs, phlox, zinnias and many plants grown in shade are paricularly susceptible to attack. The young shoots, leaves and buds may be curled and distorted and the entire plant may be somewhat dwarfed.

Fortunately mildew can be held in check by the regular use of a dust or spray containing sulfur, or by using sulfur alone.

Unfortunately, however, few folks are regular in their garden practices and the grayish-white powdery growth is present on the foliage before the gardener is aware of its disfiguring effects. A wettable sulfur spray, to which a suitable detergent has been added, is probably the best method of control, provided the temperature is below ninety. Copper fungicide and certain proprietory mixtures are also good.

MILDEW SHUNS a clean garden. Burn infected foliage at end of each growing season.

The gardener must be sure that the spray wets both sides of the leaves.

Dr. P. P. Pirone, plant pathologist, New York Botanical Garden, in his book, "Modern Gardening," places emphasis on hygienic surroundings.

"Plants in a well-kept garden in which rigid sanitary measures are practiced are less likely to become diseased than those in a weedy, neglected, over-crowded garden. Mildew is always less prevalent when the plants have plenty of room," writes Dr. Pirone.

"Clean up the garden each fall. This is especially important where roses and perennials are grown, for it has been demonstrated time and again that the removal and burning of all above-ground diseased parts of most perennial plants will reduce disease incidence materially the following year.

"The facts are that a great many bacterial and fungus organisms live over winter in decaying plant parts. Unless such diseased parts are burned in the fall, the disease-producing organisms will return to the soil and will be ready to produce new infections the following spring and summer. Some will argue that composting such material will destroy the parasites. My observations have revealed that few gardeners make the right kind of compost pile and that the parasitic organisms are not destroyed in such piles.

"Among the diseases that can be kept in check or greatly reduced by a thorough fall cleaning are iris leafspot, crown rot of iris, bud blast of peonies, hollyhock rust and phlox mildew. Nor should garden sanitation be restricted to the fall cleanup. It should be an all-season affair."

THREE OF THE STARS—Goalie Moon Wootton, left, Russ Slater (in centre), and Curly Mason were just three of the stars in the senior Petes' 24-5 OLA victory here over Toronto Yorks last night. Wootton was brilliant again in the home net, while Slater and Mason each scored four goals to lead their side in sniping.

Petes Trim Toonto-Orillia In 24-5 OLA Senior "A" To Go Into Top-Place Tie

Playing championship senior lacrosse here last night before 2,600 fans, the Petes' Trailermen trampled all over the Toronto-Orillia Yorks to romp home with a 24-5 verdict. It was their eighth straight win and put them in a first-place tie with the idle St. Catharines Athletics, who are playing tonight. The Thorpe team caught fire from the start to rack up a 6-0 lead in the first quarter, building it to a 10-2 margin at the half, and they rolled in front 17-2 going into the fourth chukker of a clean contest. The Yorks were minus a couple of players, but so were the Petes; Ike Hildebrand nursing a sore foot, and Harry Wipper being on a trip to the States.

The story was simple: The Petes had too much in every department at all times for the visitors. Goalie Moon Wootton once again showed he was far superior to George Johnston as he made many brilliant saves, while the latter and his mates practically quit halfway through. The Petes passed well, shot good and checked their rivals closely. The youngsters of the team also showed plenty of hustle when given a chance. Scotty McPhail and Lou Nickle roughed it up toward the end but only drew minor penalties.

Rusty Slater and Curly Mason counted four goals apiece for the Trailermen, and Ross Powless, Rog Smith and Brian Robinson had three each. Coach Bob Thorpe tossed in a couple, with singles scored by Nip O'Hearn, Mick Magee, Dootch Vitarelli, Don Ashbee and Jerry Fitzgerald. In assists, Powless was high with five, four each going to O'Hearn and Fitzgerald, and three apiece to Slater and Mason. Brian Robinson, Thorpe and Ashbee aided on two each, while Burns, Gary Robinson and Smith were each chalked up with one assist.

For the losers, Leo Teatro tallied a pair, the others being marked to Don McPhail, Tony D'Amico and Joe McNulty. Two assists were gained by Kenny Croft, and one each by Les Digby, Teatro, Johnston and Steve Kapasky. Teams:

Yorks: Goal, Johnston; defence, Hammond and Masters; centre, Teatro; wings, Croft and Joe McNulty; alternates, D'Amico, Chard, Webster, Facto, S. Kapasky, Digby and McPhail.

Petes: Goal, Wootton; defence Fitzgerald and Mason; centre, Slater; wings, Powless and Smith; alternates, Nickle, O'Hearn, Thorpe, Ashbee, Vitarelli, B. Robinson, G. Robinson, Burns and Magee.

Referees P. Bain and J. Murphy.

Lunch Nine Split Civic Twin Bill

Bill's Lunch engaged Sunshine Dairy men (erstwhile Busmen) and Fairviews in a spirited doubleheader at the East City Bowl Friday night, in two advance holiday Civic Softball regular scheduled games, and split results; the first game ended in an 8-6 victory for Bud Arthur's crew while the nightcap found Bob Welch's hustling lads victorious to the tune of 9-0 over Fairviews with (Popper) Sanderson hurling fine ball for the winners.

The first contest however, was protested due to the alleged ineligibility of right-fielder Len Williams of Dairy men , former city-leaguer with UEW, to play Civic softball and league manager Fred Maybee was asked by manager Welch of Bill's to award the game to his Monaghan Road team according to Rule 2 of preseason rules drawn up which states: "Any player participating in three regular city league games during current or previous season is ineligible to compete in civic league; penalty, game forfeited." Maybee upheld the protest on the basis of the inflexibility of a rule laid down. (Williams competed in more than three city league contests during 1952, 12 in all, exclusive of play offs to be precise.

Games to be played next Wednesday find Seabrooke Electrics facing Fairviews and Sunshine Dairy men in a twin-bill. No games Monday.

Pitching: Virgil Trucks, Chicago White Sox, won his sixth straight game since joining Chicago, a three-hit 4-1 victory over Washington.

Batting: Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn Dodgers, hit two home runs, the second with the score tied and two on base, to give Brooklyn a 7-4 second-game victory over St. Louis after the Dodgers had won the first game 14-0.

Lindsay Edges Cobourg 11-10

LINDSAY (ENS). — Lindsay Merchants came from behind a 10-5 deficit here last night to take an 11-10 win from the Cobourg Legionnaires and move back into second place in the Lakeshore League with a 12-7 record. The Merchants have won 12 of their last 15 games. Lefty Joe Lowrey started the game for the Merchants and was hit hard for 10 runs off 12 hits in four and two-thirds innings. Junior West relieved for the final out in the fifth, and claimed the win, when the Merchants scored five in their half of the fifth, then won the game in the sixth. The game was called because of darkness.

The Merchants came within a run in the fourth, when two hits and two errors gave them a pair of runs. The visitors got to Lowrey for four hits, one a double in the fifth, and West came on to end the innings. In the sixth, for the Merchants, Vic Jewell went to first on a fielder's choice, advanced on West's single, and scored when shortstop Tom Hogan made his fourth error of the game. West also scored on the play, but umpire Bob Henry picked up the ball on the relay from the outfield, and a rhubarb ensued, West being sent back to third. Plate umpire Bill Johns then called the game. The Merchants chased Cobourg starter Paul Stevenson in the third, when they scored three runs on four hits.

For the winners Lowrey, Debois and West had two hits each, Lowrey slugging one triple. Garry Turpin with three hits, including a double led Legionnaires from McIvor, Harnden and Hogan had two each.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Tonight we have the Saturday night "family hour" tournament. The committee is expecting a big crowd. It's far cooler out on the bowling greens than it is downtown or at home.

That the men's schelude is developing into a real race, there is no doubt. With the schedule about half over no one rink has what you might say a safe lead, in fact the way the boys are playing there is nothing safe. One night's result could change the picture quite a bit.

The standing of the leaders as of Friday night:

	Won	Lost
A. Black	9	2
W. Jeffries	8	3
R. Knox	8	3
E. Pritchard	8	4
F. Martin	7	3

Word has come through that our boys play the next round in the provincial playdowns in Oshawa on Tuesday.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Just as a cooling thought, pro puck clubs will be holding their fall tryout camps in less than two months. And the NHL-ers and AHL-ers will be starting training along about the middle of September. Meaning chaps here like Red Sullivan, Ike Hildebrand and Don Ashbee will be off to ready up for the ice wars ahead. Red Creighton will take four or five young hockeyists from here to the Detroit Wings' camp at the Soo sometime in September. Bob McCabe expects to take about half a dozen local and district lads to Boson Bruins' camp at Oshawa on Sept. 14. There'll be 60 or more youngsters trying out in the Motor City, and we imagine some of 'em will wind up playing junior "B" for Oshawa or Kingston. Bruins no longer sponsor the IOOF squad in this city.

* * * * * *

However, despite the fact that it is smack in the middle of summer, one must mention football, as it's the next sport—even ahead of hockey—which shortly will be hogging the headlines in sports. The summer games are rolling right along toward playoffs and a lot of folks are thinking ahead to the next season. In fact, our grid Orfuns commence training in a couple of more weeks. They begin loosening up exercises the first week of August, have one or two exhibition tilts during that month, and are into their schedule comes September. How time flies!

* * * * * *

They're Not So Hot, Eh?

Ted Reeve of the Tely remarks: "Now, for the next month we will be hearing about football players sweating, steaming, roasting, melting, and so forth in the midsummer heat. For the love of Mike the lacrosse players for 80 years have been playing a tougher game in this weather and the padding, since 1905 or thereabouts, has been just about as heat producing. These big gridders are getting paid, or overpaid as far as their tackling is concerned, and their workouts consist of about 30 minutes actual toil. Man on a road gang or building tires, or in a boiler factory, goes in the heat for a little longer than that. So, spare us the details of the poor suffering halfbacks." Yes, indeed.

* * * * * *

We hear that OAC Merv McKenzie had quite a rhubarb to settle in Toronto last Saturday. Couple of pro grapplers, Whipper Bill Watson and Fred Atkins, appeared, and they also brought in Yukon Eric and Don Jonathan, son of the former Brother Jonathan of the mat game. It seems that Watson had complaints that Australian Atkins used something to cut opponents in matches, his victims also including Tim Geohagen and Bobo Brazil, all guys who have appeared in rings here during the winter months. As usual, the findings of the commissioner were not made public, and one wonders if it wasn't just another smart stunt by the merry matadors for publicity purposes. Big lacrosse-playing Merv must be hep by now to the wrestling fraternity.

* * * * * *

So Sayeth The Strangler

Strangler Lewis, oldtime champ wrestler, is quoted in the Windsor sheet as saying the phoney showmanship of grappling is giving way to the way it was when the boys "really wrestled." He maintains it is the cleanest sport, with no gambling mixed up in it, and one never sees a drunken wrestler nor a punch-drunk one. He adds: "They are the best-trained athletes. I have seen them stabbed, crowned with bottles and chairs, and injured in a way that would put other athletes in a hospital. But they have great recuperative powers. They will be wrestling the very next night." Yes, they're in first-class condition. Whipper Watson and Pat Flanagan have both assured us emphatically that a good wrestler can beat a good boxer any day in the week.

* * * * * *

Perhaps we should apologize for that OLA senior affair here last p.m. We said it should be a hot tussle, but only the weather was hot. Petes had no trouble at all walloping Toronto-Orillia Yorks 24-5 before a hefty crowd to go into a top-place tie with St. Kitts. Their eighth straight win since they got rolling. The Yorks didn't have it last eve and practically quit in the second half, while the Thorpe team kept romping right in there to rack up the count. Just to mention a few of the local stars in this tilt, let us call the roll on Wootton, Mason, Slater, Powless, O'Hearn, Brian Robinson, Smith, Fitzgerald and Thorpe. Some others, too, no doubt. They had a nice waltz on a warmish evening at the expense of the third-place Yorkers from Greater Orillia.

Canada Holds Good Tennis Lead

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Thanks to the brilliance of Henri Rochon and the courage of little Lorne Main, who all but collapsed from sun stroke, Canada today holds a commanding 2-0 lead over Mexico in a first-round North American zone Davis Cup tie.

The Canadians won the opening singles of the tennis classic at the Mount Royal club Friday under a merciless sun that poured fiery heat down on players, fans and the trim grass courts. Shade temperatures reached well into the 90s.

The furnace-like setting didn't appear to bother Rochon, who raced through a three-set victory over Mario Llamas, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

With Main it was different. The Toronto - Vancouver boy had to overcome not only stomach sickness, dizziness and leg cramps but also Mexico's 19-year-old power-hitter, Francisco Pancho Contreras.

Losing the first set, Lorne called on everything he had to pull out the win, 9-11, 8-6, 6-3, 8-6.

ANNOUNCE CHANGES

Immediately after the matches, Dr. Georges Leclerc, Canadian team captain, announced that 22-year-old Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke Que., would team up with Rochon in today's doubles. Julio Lona, Mexican captain, said he would go along with Llamas and Contreras.

Main's distress from the sun was evident early. He wasn't playing with sureness and overlooked chances where he might have forced Contreras into errors. At the interval after the third set Main was reported running a fever. He took a moderately cool shower, and through the remainder of the match frequently sipped a cool drink.

"It was some sort of sun stroke," said Dr. Leclerc. "As early as the fourth game of the first set Main said he felt wek, with little strength in his arms and legs. He was dizzy and felt sick at his stomach and his breathing was difficult.

MORE TROUBLE

"At one time he told me he didn't know if he could finish out the match. Then cramps struck his legs and he couldn't even sit down after the change-over for the fourth set but the cramps tended to disappear after he got into volley exchanges with Contreras."

Llamas also said he was bothered by the heat. His play was erratic, whereas Rochon came up with one of his best games in a long time. He made better use of his first service, acing Llamas five times against none for the Mexican, and his low shots had Llamas puzzled.

Contreras piled up 14 aces against Main but couldn't follow up each time, and he double-faulted eight times to Main's four.

Main played generally from the base line, occasionally taking the net when pressed. Contreras' serve was his strong game and his hard hitting, mixed with a net attack, frequently forced Main into errors but Lorne overcame this situation with more placements.

Bisons Edge Red Wings 4-3 To Widen Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons widened their newly-won International Baseball League lead Friday night, edging Rochester Red Wings 4-3. Montreal Royals helped by dropping a 6-5, 11-inning decision to Baltimore Orioles.

The Bisons had overtaken the Royals Thursday night for the leadership and now hold a one-game lead. This marks the Herd's second time atop the ladder. Both clubs have been fighting neck-and-neck for first place for some time now.

Jack Crawford's 14th homer of the season proved Rochester's downfall at Buffalo.

THRILLING VICTORY

At Baltimore, Archie Wilson's 11th inning homer with none aboard gave the Orioles the thrilling victory. Chico Fernandez hit the big one for the Royals in the second.

Syracuse Chiefs downed Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3, at Toronto with the help of former Leaf hurler Duke Markell, who staved off a Leaf rally in the ninth. Lynn Lovenguth gave up 10 hits, fanned three and walked only one in the eight inings he pitched for his sixth win.

The tail-end Springfield Cubs came out of a three-game losing streak with a 7-3 victory over Ottawa Athletics at Springfield. A base-loaded triple by Herb Adams in the eighth did the trick.

Fergus Clubs Mimico 15-7

In the Senior Ontario Lacrosse League Friday night the Fergus Thistles downed tail-end Mimico Moutaineers 15-7. Only rough spot in the game came at the halfway mark when Stan Kapasky suffered a broken elbow.

Bob Dobbie was top marksman for Fergus with four goals while Bobby Gear notched three and Don Campbell and Harry Kazarian collected two each. Pete Bradkin was the big gun for Mimico with five markers. Joe Lubbock and Bill Meek tallied the others.

Bethany Whips Millbrook 18-14

BETHANY (ENS)—The Bethanyites still lead in the Rice Lake Softball League as they chalked up another win here on Thursday night, score 18-14 over the Millbrook visitors. Gail Bristow was on the mound for Bethany with Marie Carr her battery mate and the girls counted five in the first, one in the third, eight in the fourth and four in the sixth. June Morrow topped the score sheet when her homer with the bases loaded brought in four runs. Chris Neals' homer brought in three in a real merry-go-round in the fourth inning. Martichenko, Bigelow and Carr were the other heavy sluggers.

For Millbrook Powell started on the mound and was replaced by Todd in the fifth, with Lowery receiving. M. Guthrie really went to town with three homers to her credit and Hutchinson had one homer, as the team counted three in the first and sixth, two in the second, one in the third and five in the fifth.

Out At The Kawartha

LADIES' SECTION

Some gals just thrive on hot weather. That's what we think of Mrs. E. Collins out at Kawartha, who came in with low net and tied for competition on total of holes 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12. The day before (another hot one) at the Peterborough Club, Mrs. Collins came in with low net and won the Marjorie De Graw Trophy. We are really proud of this girl. Mrs. Collins received a point and Mrs. E. Riley won the golf ball for low net. The competition was tied three ways, Mrs. E. Collins, Mrs. R. Miller getting points and Mrs. I. MacGillivray winning the silver spoon.

In the nine-hole event the competition was low on par 3 holes, which was won by two more consistent winners, Mrs. N. Williamson and Mrs. W. Griffin, each winning points and Mrs. C. Touchburn getting the silver spoon and Mrs. G. White the golf ball.

BUSINESS GIRLS

The most popular vacation time is at hand for 1953 so there will be fewer BG's around for the next two weeks. However, there were some very good scores turned in Thursday evening. Ruth McKee won a point for low gross and Gen Murray won the spoon. Bunny Meagher won the prize for score on hidden hole. Following supper, a film on "Movie Etiquette" was shown which was not only interesting but enlightening to the girls.

RETURN—Kurt Niesen took to the air to make powerful returns helping to defeat France in Paris and send Denmark against Belgium in the final round of the European Zone Davis Cup competition. Vic Seixas beat the agile Dane for the Wimbledon Championship.

Marlene Stewart Takes Plane Home For Canada

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Canada's "Niss Golf" flies home today and with her goes the first British women's amateur golf crown ever won by a Canadian.

"Sorry to be going but awfully glad to leave," said 19-year-old Marle Stewart yesterday. She's had a "really terrific time" but the old home town of Fonthill, Ont., is going to look awfully good.

What will she do at home?

"Practise," said Marlene, firmly. Get ready for the Canadian women's open and closed amateur tournaments at London, Ont., early next month where she'll defend her closed crown and try to regain the open title she won two years ago.

Marlene and the rest of a seven-member Canadian women's golf team played their last golf of a jam-packed schedule in Britain Thursday. It was a team effort where Marlene and Mary Gay of Kitchener, Ont., finished eight strokes behind the British winners.

STARTED WELL

The tour started auspiciously in early June when Marlene placed second in the Lady Astor Silver Salver Tournament and her teammaters were packed close behind.

Marlene went out to win the British Open at Porthcawl, Wales. From there Canada's success was indifferent in team play against Northern Ireland, Scotland and England.

Marlene attributed it to too much golf and agreed that the tour was the most concentrated spell of the game she'd met so far.

"Because it was team play, I felt bad about my own game," said Marlene, "But the other members can play far better than they did over here. We talked golf, played it, ate it and slept it."

Marlene said her concentration slumped, although her shots were good, in the round of competition, travelling and lavish hospitality.

WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE

But the tour still remained a wonderful experience.

Miss Stewart poo-pooed suggestions that she may be turning professional, a topic several London newspapers discussed when she won the Open.

She will be leaving for Rollins College, Florida, for her sophomore year in October, probably to major in a business course.

Accompanying her on the flight today is Babs Davis of Vancouver and Miss Gay, as well as the Open cup in a stout wooden box.

The five-foot Canadian champion would like to return next year to defend her title but she doesn't know whether she can.

CHILLS REFEREE

VIENNA (AP) — A 20-year-old Austrian professional boxer, Karl Machain, was disqualified for life Friday night in Vienna after he knocked out the referee in a fit of anger. Machin, a light middleweight, was boxing Alois Formella, 26, of Darmstadt, Germany.

The incident occurred in the sixth round of a fight after referee Hans Fraberger warned Machain about low blows. Machain turned suddenly on Fraberger and knocked him cold.

Yankees Defeat St. Louis 6-4; Chicago Wins 4-1

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

By Sunday night the American League may find itself with a tighter pennant race than the National League. New York Yankees will still be ahead but their margin could be cut to a single game. Brooklyn, on the other hand, stands a chance of ending the weekend as much as six games in front in the senior circuit. Here's the picture: The Yankees finish a series with St. Louis today and then invade Chicago for a doubleheader with the White Sox. New York is nursing a four-game lead. Both the Yanks and the Sox, who play Washington, should win today, but a pair of Chicago victories on Sunday would not be surprising. If it goes that way, New York will lead by only two games.

Brooklyn has won seven in a row from St. Louis at Ebbets Field and could well make it eight today in the windup of a four-game set. Then comes a pair with Cincinati Sunday that the Dodgers should win. Milwaukee's second - place Braves, now three games back, face Pittsburgh Pirates today, and then have to play two Sunday with the revitalized New York Giants. A combination of three Brooklyn victories and three Milwaukee defeats would fatten the Dodgers lead to six games.

DOWN ST. LOUIS

All first-division teams in the American League won Friday night. The Yankees beat St. Louis 6-4 with the help of a triple play and four double plays. Chicago downed Washington 4-1 on Virgil Trucks' three-hit pitching. Bob Lemon threw a five-hit shutout for Cleveland against Philadelphia winning 5-0, and Boston edged Detroit 3-2.

The Dodgers trounced St. Louis twice 14-0 and 7-4. Milwaukee finally beat the Pirates 8-2 after losing five straight to them. Cincinnati ended Philadelphia's seven-game winning streak with a 3-2 decision. The Giants and Chicago Cubs had the night off.

Casey Stengel gambled on his new lefthander from Kansas City, Art Schallock, against the lowly Browns, but he didn't gamble long. The first time Schallock got into trouble Casey yanked him in favor of veteran Allie Reynolds, even though the youngster had a 5-1 lead. Reynolds was below par and Johnny Sain finished up after the Browns scored three runs in the ninth.

SCORE 28TH WIN

The galloping White Sox scored their 28th victory in their last 34 games with Trucks winning his sixth straight. The veteran fireballer hasn't lost since moving to Paul Richards' club from the Browns in June. His over-all record now is 11-4.

The Cardinals' pitching and fielding fell apart in the first inning of the first game at Brooklyn and the Dodgers scored seven runs. Billy Fox hit a grand-slam home run in the fourth and Gil Hodges hit a homer with two on in the fifth.

Jackie Robinson hit two home runs, the second with two aboard, to wrap up the second game for Carl Erskine.

Warren Spahn stopped the Pirates on four hits for his 12th triumph. Johnny Logan homered in the first inning to give the Braves a lead they never lost.

Cincinnati came from behind to edge the Phillies with pitcher Harry Perkowski scoring the winning run in the eighth inning. The loss was the sixth for Curt Simmons who has won eight.

350 Track Athletes At Police Games

TORONTO (CP) — Maids and muscles share the stage today at the annual Toronto police games.

The maids are 60 svelte beauties competing for the title of Miss Toronto of 1953. And the muscles are provided by cops from Ontario and the United States matching speed and stamina in a full day of track and field events.

At least 350 track and field athletes from clubs in Toronto, Hamilton, Kitchener, Galt, Peterborough, Buffalo and Detroit are taking part.

In the Miss Toronto contest, the winner gets a cheque for $1,000 and almost as much in merchandize.

Dudley Hanover Wins By Head In Stretch

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP) — Dudley Hanover, pacing star from the Hayes Faire Acres Stable, Du Quoin, Ill., beat Direct Rhythm by a head in a stretch drive Friday night to win the $5,000 Albany free - for - all at Saratoga Raceway.

Driven by Benny Schue, the son of Billy Direct was clocked in 2:01, fastest mile of the current spa meeting and just four-fifths of a second of the track record set by Good Time last year.

THE NEW PARISH HALL of St. John the Baptist Anglican Church in Lakefield will look like this inside toward the north end. Modern in design, yet planned to fit in with the architecture of the church building, the building of the parish hall was given impetus by a gift from Col. A. T. LeFevre in memory of his wife, Gwyneth Tudor Wallis LeFevre.

Will Turn Sod To Start Parish Hall In Lakefield

The congregation of St. John the Baptist Anglican Church, Lakefield, expect to see sod turned next week to start construction on the new parish hall which will be connected with the church.

A contract has been awarded to W. H. Mortlock, General Contractor and the building is expected to be completed the middle of November.

The new hall is badly needed for growing Sunday School and parish activities. The erection of this new building was made possible by the gift of $30,000 from Col. A. T. LeFevre, in memory of his wife, Gwyneth Tudor Wallis LeFevre. The Parish will contribute $13,000 towards the estimated cost of $43,000.

The design by W. & W. R. L. Blackwell & Craig, Architects, has been carefully worked out to harmonize the new with the old church building. Granite/ fieldstone matching the existing church has been carried around the new addition to a height of about eight feet. The wide pitched roof o fthe addition is separate from this stone by a band of windows on each side revealing the Tudor arches supporting the roof.

Over the whole of the north gable end of the new addition is a diagonal pattern of glazed panels and the south end is closed with verticle panelling spotted with small light ports to create a sparkle of light in the Parish Hall.

A full basement provides facilities for Sunday School, kitchen, vestry and choir room. The connecting passage contains windows and storage space as well as separate entrances for the Church and the Parish Hall.

Miss Universe Charmer From France

LONG BEACH, Calif. (CP)—The new Miss Universe is a petite charmer from Paris.

Eighteen - year - old Christiane Martel defeated a gorgeous galaxy of contestants from virtually every corner of the globe to win the silver-and-gold crown Friday night.

Miss Martel, who aspires to a screen career edged out blonde Miss United States, Myrna Hansen of Chicago, and Japan's diminutive Kinuko Ito.

The French lass became the second 18-year-old to win the Miss Universe crown. The first winner, in last year's inaugural contest, was Armi Kuusela of Finland.

TO RECEIVE CONTRACT

At her coronation ball tonight, Miss Universe will receive a minimum six-month contract with Universal-International Studio, a British sports car, an expensive wristwatch and other jewelry. She got a four-foot gold-plated trophy Friday night. The runners - up received smaller trophies.

Her outstanding qualifications are a beautiful profile, soft gray-blue eyes and wavy brown hair. Just barely 5 feet 6 inches tall, she weighs 125 pounds. She has a 22-inch waist, with bust and hip measurements of 33 and 35 inches.

The five finalists were chosen from a field of 16 semi-finalists after rigorous competition in evening gowns and swim suits. Each semi-finalist also spoke briefly in a test of poise and personality.

Canada's Thelma Brewis of Toronto fell in the semi-final test.

Nominated Candidate

DURHAM (CP)—Walter E. Harris, minister of citizenship and immigration was nominated Friday night as Liberal candidate for Grey-Bruce riding in the federal election. There was no opposition.

Canada Important Economically To U.S.

MEAFORD, Ont. (CP) — Canada's importance to the United States is economic as well as strategic and it would not be wise for Washington to slow down two-way trade between them, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Friday night.

Addressing a party rally for Colin Bennett, who represented Grey North in hte l ast House of Commons, Mr. Pearson said the United States now understands the implications of Canada's geographical position, and from the strategic point of view, this country is indispensible to the security of the United States.

"Just as we are stragically important, so are we economically, and it would be unwise for the United States to hinder our trade".

Canadian Raids Melbourne For Funds

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Melburne is still staggering from an attack on its purse by a 31-year-old Canadian - born nuclear scientist who seeks to transform the Australian economy through atomic energy.

He is Dr. Harry Messel, bearded former Canadian Army paratrooper and now head of the Sydney University School of Physics, who is going all out to raise funds to finance his nuclear-research organization.

In one-man raids on business offices throughout New South Wales he so far has been guaranteed £20,000 ($44,000) a year for his research, plus a lump sum of £50,000 ($112,000).

He's so busy raising funds he has quit shaving—it takes up too much of his valuable time.

Messel, a graduate of Canada's Royal Military College and Queen's University, says his research organization, formed within the framework of Sydney University, can give Australia nuclear-power stations within eight years, if it gets enough support.

Australia, he said, will use most of the uranium it produces.

All the money and promises he has received so far have been from personal contacts and appeals.

"You can't raise cash by sitting in a university office," he said. "Business men won't fork out unless you see them and 'sell' them nuclear research."

After the first raid he made on Sydney business circles "I left their offices with £10,000 in spot cash jammed in my hip pocket," he said.

Messel was appointed to his present post last September. Since then he has gathered a staff of prominent physicists from Britain and the United States.

He is convinced that atomic energy can transform Australia's deserts into lush pastures.

Messel is the son of a Canadian railwayman and likes to say he was born in the "one-house town" of Levine Siding, Manitoba. The one house belonged to the Messel family.

He was raised and attended primary school at Rivers, Man., and later went to RMC, graduating in 1942.

During the war he became a paratrooper in the Canadian Army, making more than 50 jumps and later went to Queen's where he took an honors degree in engineering physics.

Sentenced To Death

The occasion was the departure for London of Lord Salisbury who will report on progress made at the Big Three conference in Washington.

"Hey! You see what I see?"

When a lion appeared on a street in Memphis people fled for the doorways, and from behind windows they asked each other "How come?"

Even though they could watch the lion with their own eyes, they still didn't know the story.

It was from their newspapers that they first discovered that Goldie the lioness had slipped away from a downtown circus. She was so bewildered by the fuss she caused, she turned around and went back.

It's exciting to be an eye-witness to any unusual event. But being on the spot is not much better than seeing one or two photographs of the action, or seeing a headline about it, or hearing a brief announcement.

All of these can whet your appetite for news, but they cannot satisfy your hunger for the whole story.

You need the newspaper for that.

• That goes for advertising, too. The brief message that hangs in the air . . . or brief headlines here or there . . . may indeed have a momentary interest.

But the newspaper ad carries the brass-tacks quality, the urgency of the newspaper itself.

Like a news item, the ad can be examined and re-examined. Can be read any time. Anywhere. Can be clipped and carried in a pocketbook.

And just as the newspaper speaks the special language of the town it mirrors, the ads themselves have the same important local quality.

Add to this the fact that the newspaper reaches just about everybody in town, and you know why the newspaper is the nation's most effective advertising medium.

No wonder advertisers—both retail and national—invest more money in newspapers than in any other form of advertising.

The newspaper is always "first with the most"

Serve Subpoena On Truman

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A subpoena has been served on former U.S. president Harry S. Truman calling for him to explain why the United States entered the Korean war.

The subpoena was obtained by Fyke Farmer, Nashville, Tenn., lawyer who has challenged the right of the U.S. government to collect income taxes for war purposes. He contends the Korean war resulted from "illegal policies."

Truman was directed to appear in court Monday by the subpoena, but a lawyer representing the former U.S. chief executive said Friday a court order has been issued staying the appearance pending a hearing on a motion to quash the summons.

Woman Injured By Tall Shelf

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A Windsor woman, Mrs. Julian Gorski, 58, is recuperating in hospital today after receiving serious head wounds in a robbery-assault at her east-side home Friday.

Held for questioning by police is a 15-year-old youth.

Mrs. Gorski said the beating occurred when she was dozing on the sun porch of her home.

"I was awakened," she said, "by blows about the head. I looked up and saw a man about six feet tall standing over me."

Mrs. Gorski said the man continued beating her while she struggled to escape. Finally she broke away and staggered to a rear porch and then to the street, where she called for help.

In a statement to police, Mrs. Gorski said that a purse on a table beside her had contained $475. Police said the purse had only five dollars in it when they examined it.

Stabbing Ends Cowboy Game

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—A children's game of cowboys and Indians ended with the fatal stabbing of a five-year-old girl. Her boy playmate, 9, was charged with first degree murder Friday.

The boy was arraigned in a U. S. commissioner's court on the murder charge and ordered held for a psychiatrist's examination Monday. Territorial police said the boy had confessed the slaying of Bobbie Jean Denney.

They said the lad told of the game, and how he got angry for some unknown reason. He said he stabbed the girl many times and then, fearing his father "would be put in jail," went home, washed off his jack knife, took a bath and went to bed. Suspicion centred on him when blood was found on his glasses.

An autopsy showed the girl's body had about 100 knife wounds.

She was the daughter of army Sgt. and Mrs. Robert C. Denney, of suburban Mountain View. The Denneys also have a two-year-old son.

The girl's body was found Thursday night less than 200 feet from the boy's home.

Maude Adams "Peter Pan" Dies At 80

TANNERSVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—Maude Adams, "Peter Pan" of the American stage, is dead at 80.

Miss Adams, one of the greatest U. S. actresses, died peacefully Friday in this Catskill mountain village. She had stayed here the last three years with Mrs. Margaret McKenna.

Miss Adams started her stage career at nine months, cradled in an actor's arms, and flowered in the plays of Sir James Barrie. Her performances as "Peter Pan," the boy who never grew up, made stage history.

Shy and girlish, she never married and was cool toward men.

DIES SUDDENLY

The actress, in good health until last spring, was reading a newspaper on a sofa when she said "Oh, Mrs. McKenna, I don't feel good" and died.

Miss Adams was born in Salt Lake City Nov. 17, 1872, the daughter of James and Annie Adams Kiskadden. Her mother was a leading lady of a stock company who kept her maiden name on the stage.

In 1931, when she was 59, she returned briefly to the stage with Otis Skinner in "The Merchant of Venice."

"Smokey Bear" Symbolizes Fight To Save U.S. Forests

By GEORGE E. TRAINOR
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Smokey Bear is eight years old. And with each passing year the husky, sad-eyed protector of forested Peterborough streets America's forests and wild life, decked out in his jeans and forest ranger's hat, becomes more important as the symbol of this country's fight against the useless waste of man-made forest fires.

The creation of illustrator Albert Staehle, Smokey caught on with the American public shortly after his introduction in 1945. He was named after Smokey Joe Ryan, a famous New York City fire chief. Members of the Advertising Council gave him the tag and he soon supplanted other animal symbols which had been used on forest fire prevention posters.

Before Smokey Bear came along, "Bambi," the Walt Disney deer character, had central billing. But "Bambi's" fragile appearance made the deer unfit for the rugged job of fighting forest fires.

The year 1950 was a big one in Smoky's life. He acquired a real life counterpart in the person of a little bear cub which was rescued from a forest fire in New Mexico. Named Smokey, this bear was flown to Washington in a special plane for presentation to the National Zoo as a living symbol of the need to prevent forest fires.

ACT OF CONGRESS

In that same year Congress passed the "Smokey Bear Act," which made it a criminal offence for anyone to use the name or symbol "Smokey Bear" for commercial purposes without authorization from the Secretary of Agriculture. The funds derived from the sale of Smokey Bear licences are returned by the law to further the work of forest fire prevention.

Thus far licences have been issued for a song, a Smokey teddy bear, scarves, hankies, jig saw puzzles, coloring books, ash trays, play kits and belts. Licences are pending for other items which carry out the theme of the program.

Thanks in part to Smokey Bear, forest fires are down 20,000 per year from the pre-war yearly average of 210,000. But, being a modest fellow, Smokey refuses to take any credit for it. He just keeps saying over and over: "Remember, Only YOU Can Prevent Forest Fires."

SMOKEY BEAR AND FRIEND—President Eisenhower — met when Conservation officials gave the forest fire symbol to the President for his grandchildren.

New Monastery Opens Doors To City, District Visitors

The new monastery of the Precious Blood, High Street and Second Avenue, will be open to Peterborough visitors Sunday from 2:00 to 6:00 p.m. Friends from outside the city will be welcome the following Sunday at the same hours.

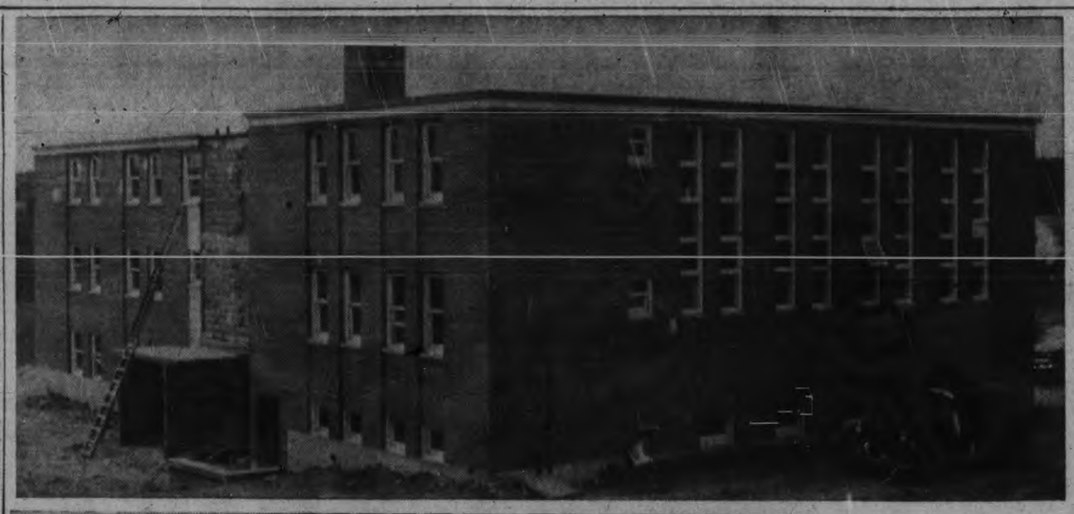
The monastery was tenanted by the sisters last Wednesday.

The Most Rev. Gerald Berry, Bishop of Peterborough, will say the first mass and bless the monastery at 9.30 a.m. Thursday, July 16. All clergy were invited. There will be a dinner served afterwards.

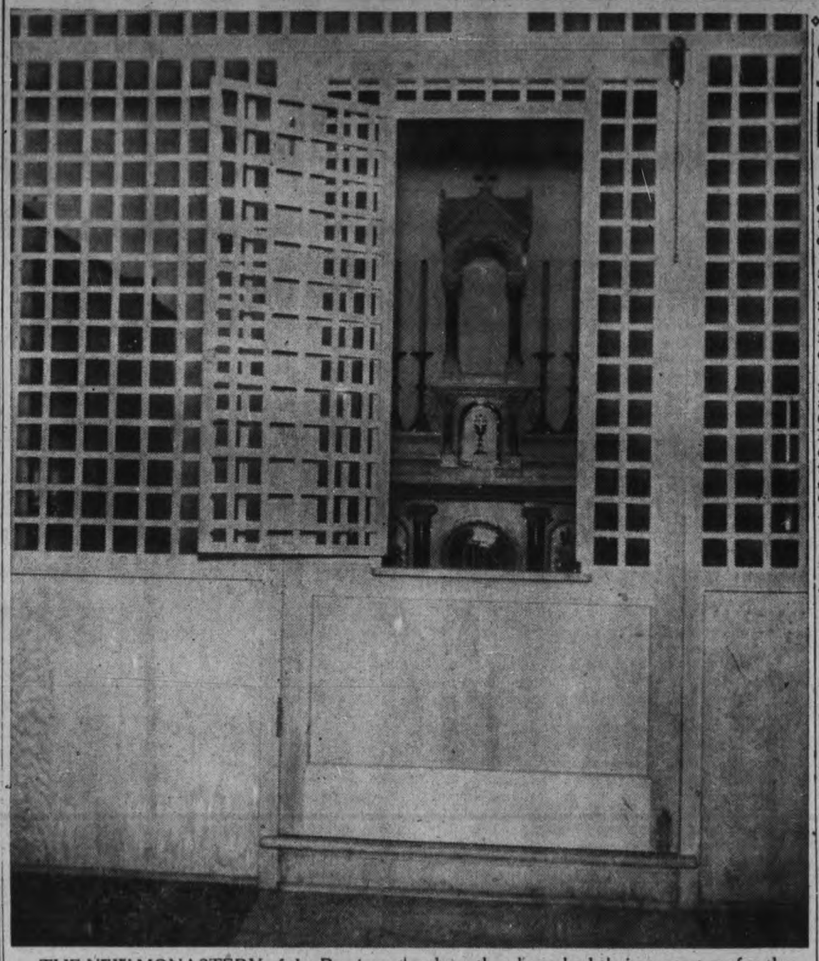
The sisters, 10 in number and under the leadership of the Rev. Mother Mary Immaculate are leaving their old home at 83 Robinson St. where they have been for the past 17 years.

ORIGINAL GROUP

Mother Mary Agnes and five other sisters were the original group who came to the convent in Peterborough from a monastery in London, Ont. They took up residence in the homestead of J. C. Sullivan, which was purchased for them by the Very Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan with money made by his writings. Since they are a Pontifical Community, authorization from the Holy See was required to bring them to Peterborough.



Aside from their extensive program of prayer, they provide the altar breads for the diocese, do sewing of vestments and altar linens and make the priests' soutanes. They manufacture beads, some made of the rose petals from roses used at funerals, weddings and other occasions. The petals are processed into firm beads which wear exceedingly well and retain their perfume for unlimited periods of time.



The new monastery is built along conventional lines and was designed by Robert Savos, a Toronto architect. M. J. Finn is the contractor.

The sisters wish to express their gratitude to the Bishop and benefactors who are helping them to realize their ambition to build their new 'House of Prayer.'

Hold Emergency Meet

LONDON (CP) — General Steel Wares national negotiating committee met in emergency sessions here Friday over what spokesman said was a "tense labor situation" concerning seniority rights. Bob McCallum, president of the local union, claimed the company had laid off 1,000 employees in its four plants in London, Toronto and Montreal, while labor negotiations were underway with Chief Conciliator Louis Fine.

THE NEW MONASTERY of the Precious Blood, High St. and Second Ave., is now completed. The sisters, 10 in number, under the leadership of the Rev. Mother Mary Immaculate, will take up residence there, leaving their old buildings on Robinson St. where they have had their monastery for the past 17 years. Open house will be observed at the new monastery (shown in top photo) on Sunday afternoon. Bishop Gerald Berry conducted the monastery's first mass on Thursday in the chapel (shown in lower photo).—(Examiner Staff Photo).

60 Workers Drowned When Boat Upsets

NEW DELHI (AP)—Sixty workers were drowned Friday in swirling currents which caught a loaded ferryboat and overturned it in the Sutlej river.

The boat was whirled about in the fast currents at a junction of two rivers. First reports said the vessel overturned and sank quickly.

Only 10 men managed to swim ashore.

RULED 21 YEARS

Cleopatra ruled Egypt for 21 years.

Strike Loss Lower In June

OTTAWA (CP)—Loss of time due to strikes and lockouts during June dropped to less than one-tenth of the figure a year ago, the labor department said Friday.

Preliminary figures showed 31 strikes and lockouts involving 6,452 workers with a time-loss of 57,346 man-working days. This compared with 42 strikes and lockouts involving 59,706 workers and a time-loss of 717,845 days in June, 1952.

Most of the time lost during June reflected six work stoppages—among salmon fishermen in British Columbia; shoe-factory workers at Preston; cereal and feed mill workers at Peterborough, and Saskatoon; yarn and carpet workers at Guelph; concrete-truck drivers at Toronto; and steel-tank factory workers at Fort Erie.

2 Contestants Refuse Bathing Suit Photos

BURLINGTON (CP)—Two lovely contestants in the Miss Canada contest said "no" Friday to requests for bathing-suit photographs.

Roma Butler, a 22 - year - old mezzo-soprano from St. John's, Nfld., and 21-year-old Anne Grant, a lyric soprano, of Chatham, weren't in the cheesecake line-up of the 15 contestants.

"With the work I'm going to do (concerts and opera), I really don't think it would be right to have my picture taken in a bathing suit, said Miss Butler.

Miss Grant said simply: "I don't think a singer should."

The girls are judged for talent as well as beauty.

The contestants have a heavy schedule Saturday and Sunday, prior to the actual judging Monday night.

Fleming Says PC's Will Win 57 Seats

WINNIPEG (CP)—Donald Fleming said Friday in a telegram to The Canadian Press from Gull Lake, Sask., that while in Winnipeg he predicted the Progressive Conservatives will win at least two thirds of all Ontario seats in the federal election—that is about 57 seats of the 85 at stake.

(The Canadian Press in a dispatch from Winnipeg Wednesday night erroneously quoted Mr. Fleming, Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Toronto Eglinton, as predicting the Progressive Conservatives will win 52 seats in Ontario.)

Have Big Job Preparing Draw

TORONTO (CP)—The executive of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen will face one of the greatest tasks in its history tomorrow when members meet here to prepare the draw for next week's 71st Royal Canadian Henley Regatta.

The CAAO officials must juggle a record entry of oarsmen and scullers for the 34 final races and their accompanying heats, all part of this year's Coronation regatta program.

In previous years, the executive gathered the Sunday night of Henley week for a few hours of work on the draw. However, this year's entry is so large that J. A. Murray, secretary of the CAAO, felt it could not be straightened out in anything less than a day.

The Canadian Henley, the world's largest rowing regatta and North America's second oldest such event will be rowed July 22, 23, 24 and 25 on the sheltered waters of the Old Welland Canal at Port Dalhousie.

The four-day affair opens Wednesday with junior races and heats for Thursday's events. Heats are rowed the day previously to their final, the whole program leading up to Saturday afternoon's thrilling open races which include the high school eights, the championship singles and the heavy eights.

More Than 100 Players Lined Up For Tennis Tilts

TORONTO (CP)—More than 100 tennis players from six countries, including Davis Cup stars from Canada, Australia, Mexico and Japan, are lined up for the week-long Canadian championships starting here Monday.

Before the definite starters get down to serious business the clay courts of the Toronto Tennis Club will be hopping with about 70 youngsters battling for 16 vacant spots in the men's singles draw. Preliminary rounds started Friday night and continue most of today.

Those in the preliminaries are from Toronto and area.

Leading the cast of 64 men and 40 women who will compete in the men's and women's singles, men's and women's doubles and mixed doubles is Australia's Mervyn Rose seeded No. 1 in the foreign section.

The No. 1 seed in the Canadian section is Lorne Main of Vancouver and Toronto and a member of Canada's Davis Cup team now meeting Mexico in Montreal.

Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., is No. 2 in the domestic seeding. Others in order of seeding are Paul Willey, Vancouver; Beau Summers and Jim Bentley, both Toronto; Lawrence Barclay, Vancouver; Jacques Giguere, Montreal, and Don Platt, Toronto.

No. 1 in the women's singles is Mrs. Anna Sladek from Czechoslovakia who has made her home in Toronto. She recently won the Quebec title.

Ranked No. 2 in the women's section is Mrs. Hilda Doleschell, Austrian champion nine straight years who now lives in Toronto.

Girl Born Blind Has Chance Overcoming Great Handicap

EDMONTON (CP)—After spending the first 10 years of her life in darkness and silence, Marjorie Golinsky is making the first steps towards communicating with the world around her. Her progress has been made largely through the efforts of Miss Louise Fearon, teacher at a Halifax School for the Deaf and the Blind.

Miss Fearon accompanied the young girl here from Halifax after a nine-month course at the special school. Marjorie will return east for further instruction in September.

Marjorie was born with her affliction, and until she came under the tutelage of Miss Fearon, was totally helpless and unable to gain any knowledge of the outside world. The special training has given her a limited vocabulary and she is described as having "a chance to overcome the severe handicap."

Marjorie is not totally blind—she is able to see only shadows of objects—but she cannot be educated by conventional methods.

Miss Fearon said she used the manual alphabet touch system to communicate with the child. By placing her fingers in different positions in the child's hand, the teacher was able to teach Marjorie some of the alphabet.

Marjorie now knows about 200 nouns, can follow certain directions such as "sit down," and "close the door" and has even learned the first part of a prayer.

By acquainting herself with vibrations in the teacher's nose while Miss Fearon talks, the child has learned to duplicate them, thus learning to utter several words.

Miss Fearon said the girl shows signs of having a superior intelligence, but an exact determination will not be possible until she can be taught things of an abstract nature. Just recently the child has started to learn numbers, a feat difficult because of its abstract nature.

While she remains at home until her next session at the Halifax school, Marjorie will be able to communicate with her mother through the touch system taught Mrs. Golinsky by Miss Fearon.

SEEK RACKETEERS

BATH, England (Reuters)—Government investigators revealed Friday night that a phone cable to Bath racetrack was cut by an acetylene torch Thursday—netting some $300,000 for bettors on a 10-to-one horse in the greatest racing coup in British history.

Scotland Yard agents were scouring the country for racketeers.

The severed overhead cable cut off bookies from their agents at the track, as they frantically tried to phone in so the odds on the French horse, Francasal, could be whittled down.

The phone cable was burned dead just a half-hour before Francasal, an unknown colt which had never won a race, was to start. He came in 1½ lengths ahead of a field of 17.

Police investigators said the job was done by a gang setting out to "beat the book," bookies have refused payoffs until it is clear there was no fraud.

BROWNS' NEW HOME

ST. LOUIS (AP)—In a copyrighted story Friday The Sporting News unveiled Kansas City as a possible major-league city and perhaps the new home of St. Louis Browns.

The story said the city council of the western Missouri city—with $1,250,000 available—already has asked Del Webb, co-owner of New York Yankees, to set a price on the Kansas City stadium.

The Yanks own the stadium as home grounds of their American Association farm club, Kansas City Blues.

Bill Veeck, owner of the money-troubled Browns, said he is unaware of any move to shift his club to Kansas City.

CHICAGO (CP) — Navy Page, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, joins seven other rivals including the tenacious Jamie K today against the whizzing gray, Native Dancer, in racing's richest three-year-old event, the $155,000 Arlington classic.

Likely to go postward (5:45 p. m. EDT) a 3-5 favorite, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Dancer was expected to win his 16th victory in 17 starts before a shower-threatened crowd of 40,000 at Arlington Park.

The possibility of an "off" track for the mile event failed to lessen the prohibitive favoritism of the powerful Dancer.

Eric Guerin again will be astride the Dancer, whose only defeat was by a head in the Kentucky Derby to Dark Star, retired to stud Friday.

Jamie K will be ridden by Eddie Arcaro, who couldn't catch Guerin in the Preakness and Belmont.

Building Your Campfire On Sand Or Bare Rock

By NANCY CLEAVER

"This is where the Big Fire swept through last year!" the driver said. We were motoring in Northern Ontario and suddenly we passed from a wonderland of green into a strange country, barren of trees with great black trunks jutting against the sky. These formed a stark contrast to the green and the mauve Giant Willow Herb, or "Fire Weed."

No one knew who started that particular conflagration but it was suspected that a holidaying fisherman had built a fire and failed to choose his site with sufficient care. Possibly he went on before he had made certain that his fire was completely out.

Whatever the camper's mistake, the Big Fire had destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of pulp wood and wiped out a dozen homes. Only a miracle had saved the lives of one family. They had crouched in a small pond and almost smothered when the flames swept past.

$6 MILLION LOST

School children are warned about the waste of forest fires. The movies and the press frequently stress it. But why is it that in a recent year Canada's total damage, from fores fires and fire fighting costs, was over six million dollars? Many fires were started by carelessness with camp fires.

The most effective way to teach boys and girls the right way to build and put out a camper's fire is to have them do it with competent adult supervision and co-operation. Youth groups often give this instruction. But who is better equipped to help a child "learn by doing" than a parent? Here is one vital piece of training which fathers might well take over!

"A Camper's Fire" is a good topic for a family discussion, before setting out on a camping trip. In many areas a permit to build a fire must be obtained. The comments of the official responsible for this permission are often enlightening. They impress on a boy or girl that although cooking over a campfire is fun, and the warmth and light in the evening ar eenjoyable, yet fire can change from being a wonderful friend into a terrible foe.

A metal container for matches is essential, and a small piece of sandpaper can be glued inside the cover for striking ordinary matches. "Safety' matches in a booklet are also popular. But whatever kind is used, a camper must be sure that the match is completely out before throwing it away and it is a good idea to toss it into the fire. Take the extra precaution of breaking the match stick in two.

ON SAND OR ROCKS

A campfire should be built whenever possible on sand or bare rock. It is very dangerous to kindle it on the forest's dead evergreen needles or leaf mould bed. When it must be built on in the woods, the camper must prepare a suitable area by scraping away the needles, dead leaves and branches, right down to the underlying soil.

The site of the fire should be beside a lake or stream.

A fire must never be built under a tree, near shrubs or against a fallen log. Overhanging branches may easily catch fire. There is always danger of the camper having a much larger blaze than he can control. It is only a greenhorn who kindles a bonfire!

Before striking a match, do collect all the necessary wood, build the fire on the site keeping the extra wood supply a short distance away. A platform of small hardwood sticks as a fire base is worth laying for a lasting fire. When lighting, cup the hands around the match and ignite the tinder on the windward side so that the breeze will work with and not against the flames.

EXCELLENT TINDER

Dry leaves, pine needles or grass or weeds make excellent tinder. Damp wood produces a smudge which mosquitoes detest but is no good for cooking. Small sticks of soft wood, frayed with a knife, catch easily. The pointed tepee shape is popular because it allows a draft to circulate. Often a log cabin of hardwood sticks is constructed around the tepee.

Take time to do a thorough job in putting out your fire. Scatter the embers with a green stick, turning them over in the process. Soak the area thoroughly with water, and add an extra pail for good measure. Poke the site again, just to make sure no live spark is lurking which might kindle another fire. If sand is nearby, pour some sand on the site. Here is one task which certainly illustrates the old saying,

"What's worth doing is worth doing well!"

MAKING UP FOR LOST TIME—For 13 years, a cactus, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Phillips, 94 Princess St., just wouldn't bloom. Then three years ago it produced many bright red blossoms and annually since then has flowered. This year is its best year for there are some 98 blossoms and buds on the plant. Daughter, Lucinda, attempts to count the many blooms.

SEE THAT LOVELY CAMPING COUNTRY!—All those trees could be burned in a hurry by camper being careless building a campfire . . . or in too much of a hurry putting it out!

Ernest Wall and his rink from Peterborough this week won the H. B. Rosevear Lawn Bowling Trophy, competed for in Port Hope. This is the sixth year the trophy, named after a prominent Eastern Ontario bowler, has been up for competition. Mr. Wall skipped another Peterborough rink to victory the first year it was competed for; so this makes his second victory. On the team with him were Mrs. Florence Staunton, vice-skip, Mrs. James Cullen, lead, and Mr. Cullen, second.

PC MEETING

The Hon. Harold Scott, MLA, will be chief speaker Thursday night at a meeting in Ennismore parish hall sponsored by the Peterborough Progressive Conservative Association. Other speakers will include the candidate for Peterborough, Gordon K. Fraser, member of the last federal parliament, and John Corkery, a member of the Peterborough Young Progressive Conservative Association. Ted Bradshaw of Peterborough will give a demonstration of magic.

Fierce Fire Wipes Out House, Barn

Getting Established Near Apsley Brothers Laid Low

APSLEY—A house and barn fire at the home of the Bedley brothers, six miles south of this village on Highway 28, wiped out their complete possessions at 6 p.m. Thursday evening. In addition, the fire destroyed the total effects of two other visiting relatives and three suitcases of clothing of a visiting friend from Toronto.

Though these people are now destitute they said they were thankful that the fire, if it had to occur, happened when it did; had it been two hours later the five children of the Bedley brothers may have been burned to death in the upstairs bedrooms of the ten-room frame house.

The dispossessed people are:

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Bedley and children Gail, 8, Billy, 6, and Sandra, five years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur (Kitch) Bedley and David, 5, and Robert, 3.

Mrs. Lydia Bedley, step-mother of the two men who had stored furnishings and building materials in the barn while preparing to build a new home on the property.

Pte. Allen Daley, RCEEE, brother-in-law, and Korean veteran, who had just about finished his two-month debarkation leave.

A Mr. Walters of Toronto, who came to visit them earlier in the week with his son Allen, 4; they lost three suitcases of clothing.

DEFECTIVE WIRING

The fire, Wilbert Bedley believes, may have started from defective wiring in the cellar stairway just after supper time.

It raged so fiercely that when the men were summoned by their wives from the house—they were near the barn — they were only able to save two refrigerators and a cedar chest with some bedding in it.

Everything else was burned and a spark ignited the roof of the barn 250 feet east of the house and, because the brothers were unable to get a ladder up to the steep roof, it too was burned to the ground.

Together with extra furnishings and lumber belonging to all of them, two small pigs and about 75 chickens were destroyed. The basement of the barn was still smouldering on Friday evening. Barn and contents, they estimated, constituted a $6,000 loss.

The Apsley volunteer fire department, under leadership of Earl Trotter, were summoned for help when Wilbert Bedley rushed in his truck six miles north to the village; there were no phone communications after 6 p.m. that evening.

The fire truck arrived in 17 minutes with three portable fire pumps but the fire had gained such headway in both buildings their efforts, though highly praised, were of no help.

NEIGHBORS HELP

Neighbors immediately rallied to help the homeless people. Arthur Bedley's family were housed Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Black of Apsley. Wilbert and his family stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Archie Wilson and lumberman Bert Mace of Burleigh offered his sleeping camp for the use of both families and their relatives on Friday.

FROM TORONTO

Veterans of the Second World War, the brothers came from Toronto last October and purchased property and buildings belonging to Carl Bull. While living at the homestead the men worked on the new highway building program nearby.

They had planned to erect four tourist cabins this summer and had one of them completed. The disaster was a great blow to them.

A relief committee, headed by the Rev. Willard B. Day, of the Church - on - the - Rock, Burleigh, Mrs. W. W. Leonard, Lakefield Branch, Canadian Red Cross Society, and Albert Jessup of Lakefield branch of the Canadian Legion, was set up. They and their members are campaigning for both funds, clothing and furnishings to assist the Bedleys. They request that material donations be left at the Church - on - the - Rock and moneys be made payable to the "Bedley Relief Fund" and mailed to any of the three above-mentioned campaign heads. The first contribution of $20 was made by a Lakefield resident on Friday.

Although there was $2,800 worth of insurance on the house, $1,500 of that amount—mortgage loan—will be deducted from it. Even the wild animals are preying on the defenceless Bedleys. On Friday brother Wilbert reported that through Thursday night a fox had made off with seven ducks.

FORESIGHT AND HINDSIGHT MERGE for Cadet Lester Scharfe, a Grade 11 student at Kenner Collegiate, who is attending a seven-weeks course at Camp Ipperwash. No Pack Drill; No Fatigues For Cadets From City, District, At Ipperwash Camp

No pack drill, no kitchen fatigues, no PT; but clean sheets and pillow-cases, and a chance for everyone to win corporal's stripes and $100 bonus. This is not merely a soldier's dream but a reality for some 1,400 army cadets from collegiates and high schools throughout Ontario who are completing the second week of a seven-weeks training period at Camp Ipperwash, 35 miles north of Sarnia on the Blue Water Highway. The camp area covers two square miles between the highway and Ipperwash provincial park, which has one of the longest sand beaches in the country, stretching for miles along the western shore of Lake Huron.

The cadets are quartered in war-time H-huts with 70 cadets sleeping in double-deck bunks in each of the two wings of the hut. Erected well after the start of the Second World War, the buildings have stood the test of time well and have been maintained in good condition.

There are 79 cadets attending the camp from the Peterborough district, 29 from Kenner Collegiate, 18 from PCVS, 12 from Lindsay Collegiate, seven from Port Hope High School, six from North Hastings District High School in Bancroft, five from Lakefield District High School, three from Brighton High School, two from Campbellford High School and two from Norwood District High School.

The majority of the camp staff consists of reserve force officers and teachers who are members of the cadet services. There is a small cadre of regular army officers and other ranks, including 20 drill sergeants. Each of the 10 companies is allotted two sergeants from the reserve force.

COMMANDS CAMP

Camp Commandant is 38-year-old Brigadier William Anderson, OBE, Commander Western Ontario Area, who each year leaves his office in National Defence area headquarters in London to spend the entire seven-weeks period in the camp. This task he describes as "the most rewarding a man of my rank could have."

Under Brigadier Anderson's watchful eye, the cadets are given a carefully-supervised standard course of instruction which, if they make top marks, qualifies them for the rank of corporal in the Cana-

Car Rolls Over Driver Escapes Just Shaken Up

Clair Foster, 27, of 694 Hawley St. rolled his 1941-model car over on Highway 28 early today when the vehicle went out of control at Scott's Corners, six miles southwest of Peterborough. He was only shaken up but the car received $450 damage.

This was one of two accidents investigated early today by OPP Constables Wallace Mohns and Ernest Lunn.

As he was rounding the sharp curve at 2.15 a.m. Foster lost control of the car and it rolled over and stopped on its right side in the west ditch.

A panel truck driven by Armon Lake, 48, of Toronto, crashed into the rear of a car owned by William Letten of Hamilton at Highway 7A and 28. Damage was estimated at $50.

Letten's 22-year-old brother James was driving the car east. At the junction he turned onto 7A but realized he had made a mistake and suddenly stopped the vehicle before turning around and continuing on Highway 28. The truck, also eastbound, crashed into the rear of the car.

Nobody was injured.

Car Rolls Into Lake, Lindsay OPP Inquire

LINDSAY (ENS) — Provincial police have been called in by Thurstonia police to aid in investigation of an incident Friday night at Greenhurst when a car rolled into the waters of Sturgeon Lake from the government dock. According to reports the car, owned and driven by Jack Black of Lindsay, had been parked on the dock when a group of youths went swimming.

Black was still sitting in the car, reports state, when it started to roll toward the water. Black did not have time to brake the vehicle so he jumped clear, and the car flopped into some six feet of water where it sank. Fee Motors towed the vehicle from the water. The case is still under investigation.

Road Roller Throws Driver, Ankle Fractured

Two men were injured Thursday and Friday while working on road construction. They were Clarence Heath, 50, of Marg's Camp, and Wayne Whitmore, 23, of Humber Summit, both employees of the Beamish Construction Company.

Heath is undergoing treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital for a compound fracture of the left lower ankle, received when he was thrown from a runaway diesel road roller. According to hospital authorities he spent a "fairly good night."

Whitmore was working on road construction eight miles east of Peterborough on the Warsaw Rd. Thursday morning. He was standing near the centre beside a stretch of freshly laid crushed stone and oil when a westbound truck grazed him in passing, knocking him to the ground.

SHOULDER INJURED

Whitmore received lacerations and bruises to his right shoulder and was treated in St. Joseph's Hospital. He was discharged after treatment.

Heath was working on road paving at the southwest corner of College and Murray Sts. beside the county building Friday afternoon.

Driving a road roller upgrade, he lost control of the heavy vehicle. It rolled backwards down the grade and struck the northwest curb, throwing the operator heavily against the curb.

PC William A. Scott investigated.

33,219 Eligible To Vote In Peterborough Riding Shows Increase Of 2,744

Hearings For Citizens To Make Changes In Voting Lists Scheduled To Be Held Next Week

As August 10, date of the federal election, draws closer final preparations for the election are nearly completed. Arthur J. McClellan, returning officer for Peterborough riding reports that there will be 33,219 eligible voters this election, 2,744 more than in 1949. Out of the 31,475 eligible voters in the 1949 elections, 24,686 cast their ballot.

Gordon K. Fraser, PC candidate topped the polls in the last election polling 10,981 votes, barely edging out Dit Clapper, Liberal candidate, who polled 10,738 votes.

Howard Miles, CCF candidate, polled 2,804 votes in the three way race.

24,872 IN CITY

This year in the city 24,872 citizens will be elgible to vote and 8,347 in the rural communities. There will be 88 polling stations in the city and 34 in the surrounding districts. Some will have two or three polls. The exact location of the polling booths won't be given out until nomination day, which is July 27.

The three revising officers for the electoral district of Peterborough are Sheriff John Harstone, W. F. Huycke, QC, city solicitor and Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC.

Sheriff Harstone is in charge of polling subdivision one to 11, which is in the North Ward and subdivision 53 to 61 in East City and also subdivision 63, known as the old Queen Elizabeth district. He will preside at Judge John de N. Kennedy's chambers in the Court House.

Mr. Huycke is in charge of Revisal district No. 2, which takes in subdivision 12 to 34 in the Centre and West Ward and also polling subdivision 48 and 49. He will preside at 395 Water St.

Revisal district No. 3 is in charge of Magistrate Philp, which takes in subdivisions 34 to 47, 51, 52 and 62 known as the South Ward. He will preside at the Exhibition grounds.

The revising offciers will sit Monday, July 20, Tuesday, July 21 and Wednesday, July 22 for corrections and objections and will sit Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the same week for adding names missed by the enumerators.

Their office hours will be from two to five in the afternoon.

Residents in the rural areas who wish to make any corrections or revisions may do so before and on July 23 by contacting their enumerator. After July 23 they will have to wait to election day. They then may be sworn in at the polling booth by the man in charge, and have the right to vote.

DEFINITE NEED

Offering a suggestion for cooling down, a Peterborough lawyer remarked Friday that "what this city needs is air conditioning." He admitted it was impractical but liked to think of it.

Carry Campaign To People Says Ketcheson

Whether or not the current heat wave is caused by the spate of political oratory across the land, it is having some effect on the campaign leading up to the August 10 general election.

That's the opinion of CCF candidate Maurice Ketcheson, who is prepared to give the lie to Mark Twain's famous aphorism: "Everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it."

Mr. Ketcheson figures it this way. With the mercury hitting the 80s and people wishing the hockey season would get underway, they don't want to spend their evenings fanning themselves in stuffy meeting halls.

When they get home from work they just want to remove their sodden garments, dress in flimsy summer wear and, after a mild aperitif and a cold plate, sit on the front porch and watch the tourists whizz by.

GO TO PEOPLE

Well, says Mr. Ketcheson, if the people won't come to the candidate, let the candidate go to the people. And that's just what he's going to do.

The CCF candidate plans to tour the city every evening next week, speaking informally wherever he is able to draw an audience.

And where will he get his listeners?

"Any place I can drive to," Mr. Ketcheson told The Examiner today. "It might be on somebody's large lawn, as long as it's some place where I can talk to the people."

Victoria Nominations

LINDSAY (ENS)—Nominations for Victoria-Haliburton and North Ontario will be held here July 27. No CCF candidate will be named for the federal election, but a well-known CCF-er declared the party would enter a candidate in the next provincial election.

Hot Motorists Slug It Out After Mishap, Police Blame Humidity, Lay No Charges

COBOURG (ENS)—The main street sweltered under a blistering heat Friday afternoon. Every bit of shade was welcome. It was a day when tempers were apt to be a bit tried by things which would not register resentment on cooler days. The traffic was heavy.

A motorist pulled out from the curb and another motorist, about to pass, swerved out to avoid him and almost hit an oncoming car.

"Where'd you ever learn to drive," roared the man who was crowded over.

"If you don't like my driving you know what you can do," rapped back the motorist who was pulling out from the curb.

That was how it all started. And this is how it ended.

Motorists One and Two chewed back and forth and then decided to go around the corner and slug it out. And that they did.

Police came upon the battle and both went to the police station. When things had cooled down again, the police decided to blame it on the heat and no charges were laid.

PUC Workers Get 8-Cent Hike

An eight cent increase, retroactive to June 4 was the big factor in this year's Public Utilities Commission Union contract.

The agreement was signed July 13.

Other particulars of the agreement included a basic starting wage of $1.22 with a requisite raise of nine cents after the first six months.

One week's vacation is given after the first year, two weeks after the completion of three years, and three weeks at the end of 15 years. A four week vacation is given during the 25th year, but not in succeeding years.

Union employees work an average of 22¾ hours per week, excepting operators, numbering about 15 who work a 44 hour week.

New employees are allowed 30 days to either join the union or pay the equivalent of dues to the union. Payment for such members is not necessary in the period, 15 days before renewal of Union contract.

NAILING the 1½-inch slats in place on under side of top.

SIDES are attached to window frames which hold storm sash in winter, either with wood screws or the two-inch flat headed nails. Either method will secure awnings against the strongest winds.

THE TOP is placed on sides, and 1¾-inch wood screws, two on each side, hold top of awning. Wood screws are put into holes drilled through top and sides of awning before hanging operation begins.

Home-made Awnings Keep House Cool

These sturdy, attractive air vent type awnings can cut the cost of keeping cool to a fraction, and they're easy to make. Made of wood and tempered hardboard they cost about $1.50 for the average window, and one can easily be made in an evening.

They are designed to keep out the direct rays of the sun and yet permit a maximum of ventilation. Best of all, no power tools are needed in their construction, because the hardboard can be bought cut in the required strips from any mill.

The only tools needed are: saw, hammer, drill, mitre box, sandpaper and screwdriver.

The material (see photo No. 1)—3-inch strips of tempered hardboard (seven strips about 32 inches long is average); 1½-inch strips of tempered hardboard (same length, six strips per window); 1 x 2 inch lumber (pine), six pieces about 32 inches long per window; 1 x 1 inch pine, five pieces about 32 inches long per window; ½ inch finishing nails; 2 inch flat-headed nails; 1¾ inch wood screws (four per window).

The design is easily adapted to any window, and you can draw a simple plan from your storm sash. Just make the top of the awning wide enough to fit into the window frame which accommodates the storm sash in winter time. Then measure the height of the storm sash and make the awning deep enough to extend half way down the window when cut at a 45-degree angle.

The photos tell the rest of the story. The hanging of the awning is a one-man operation, and they can be installed in less than three minutes each. You may find it easier to assemble the awning before hanging, but for large windows the method illustrated will probably be more satisfactory.

Deny Statement About Indians

SARNIA (CP)—Bryan L. Cathcart, Progressive Conservative Member of the Ontario Legislature for Lambton West, Friday denied statements attributed to him concerning the Sarnia Indian band.

A story quoted Mr. Cathcart as saying Chief Telford Adams of the Sarnia band may lose $18,000 unless he can prove he is an Indian.

Mr. Cathcart, a member of the provincial indian affairs committee, said the Sarnia band was not an issue with the committee and that he would have no reason to make such statements.

"In regard to the $18,000 fund, I had no knowledge that money was being held up in any way," he said. Mr. Cathcart said he didn't know that an Indian leaving the band would lose his status on the reserve and that he did not refer to Chief Telford in any committee meeting.

The Canadian Press carried a story July 13 in which Mr. Cathcart was quoted as saying that when an Indian leaves a reserve he loses his Indian rights and becomes enfranchised. Chief Telford Adams left the reserve and returned.

Neighbors Help

ST. THOMAS (CP)—More than 60 district farmers went to the aid of their neighbors Friday. Thursday morning, William Dufty, 70, was fatally injured on a New York State highway and M. G. McLaws, driver of the car was seriously hurt. When neighbors learned of the accident, they turned out and worked on the farms of Glen and William Dufty, sons of the dead man, and the McLaw farm.

Orientation For Wind, Sun Few Basic Rules Needed

Although the study of orientation is a comprehensive and detailed science, the knowledge and use of a few basic rules will mean comfort and economy for the home owner, and a better house for the developer. Protection from cold winter winds and too much hot summer sunlight—and the use of the warming rays of the sun in winter are the prime objectives.

Simple rules for better orientation—The sun has an extended arc and is high overhead at noon in summer. It has a much reduced arc and is low in the sky at noon in winter. A house needs protection from this overhead summer sun, but in winter the object is to capture all the sunshine possible.

The direction a slope faces is important for solar orientation. Although other factors outweigh this one using land and placing the house, always consider the compass directions.

A south slope is very desirable.

Select an east slope in preference to a west slope.

Don't pick a north slope if you can help it.

A southeast slope is best of all.

Don't put a house in a valley bottom, keep it up on the slope.

Use a roof overhang on the south side of a house. An overhand on any other side may serve another purpose, but it is protection against summer sun only when facing a generally south exposure.

Use something upright on the west side, such as planting or garage to protect the house against summer afternoon sunheat.

Screen the northwest direction to protect against cold winter wind. Some ways of doing this are the use of evergreen trees, high ground to the north, the garage or perhaps the house next door. In summer let the south breeze get at the house.

Large glass windows are really suitable only on the south side. Reduce the size of the windows on the north side. Unprotected west windows are the worst of all, because of hot summer sun.

A few feet below ground, the temperature is cool in summer and warm in winter. Don't sell short the basement, especially if you have a slope, one side can then be located at grade level. It then becomes a comfortable and desirable ground floor.

Warm air is lighter than cold air and will rise. Provide for cool air to come into the house near the ground and allow warm air to escape high in rooms, or in the attic.

Install Your Own Sprinkler System

By MR. FIX.

Lives there a home owner who has never wished for a lawn or garden sprinkler system? Chances are the reason it seldom goes beyond the wishing stage is that the price of such a system has been out of reach of the average family.

But it has come nearer, if not within, home owners' grasp with the recent development of plastic pipe. And, what's nearly as important, most men can install the entire system themselves, if they are so inclined.

The new semirigid pipe, extruded from cellulose acetate butyrate plastic, is used with conventional sprinkler heads and is simple to join as compared to metal pipe, says its maker.

It is light enough in weight so that one man can easily hoist to his shoulder a bundle of a dozen or more 20-foot lengths of ¾-inch pipe. It may be cut with either a hacksaw or handsaw, and may be laid out in curved lines.

Slip-sleeve couplings and a solvent cement produce permanently welded connections in two to three minutes.

In one test installation incorporating 13 sprinkler heads spaced 10 feet apart, the manufacturer estimates that it took less than an hour to lay out the system, join it together and test it before burying the lines under the surface of the ground.

Where the plastic pipe is connected to metal spray-head mountings and to water supply lines, the fittings may be threaded with regular threading tools, or plastic-to-metal adapters may be used.

In the South the plastic lines should be buried in narrow trenches about four to six inches deep so that the spray heads will be flush with the surface of the lawn or garden. In areas where freezing weather occurs in winter, the pipe should either be buried below the frost line or some means of drainage should be provided, say the manufacturers.

The tough plastic does not corrode and is unaffected by electrolytic action, they add. Pipe made of the same material is now in extensive service conducting liquids and gases.

Here's how the splinkler system is installed:

First, lay out the pipe in approximate position on the lawn or garden. Then lay out pre-assembled plastic fittings and metal component parts in position beside the pipe.

Apply solvent cement to adjoining surfaces of pipe and fittings to assure a weld between the two. Allow about 30 seconds to elapse for an effective bond.

At each point where a sprinkler head fitting is installed in the line, drive a wooden stake into the ground. Tie or tape the sprinkler-head fitting temporarily to the stake to hold it securely while cemented areas are drying. (Wait 30 minutes before releasing water into the system.) Stakes are removed later when line is buried.

Join the pipe to the water supply temporarily, using right-angle couplings. This procedure is for spray heads to cover the desired convenience in positioning the area with water. When the trench is dug, the pipe can be cut from the couplings and rejoined to the water-supply line at a lower level.

After the sprinkler system is thoroughly checked for coverage, it is advisable to leave it in operation for several minutes before burying it to proper depth.

Step-by-step procedure in installing a plastic sprinkler system is shown in the above illustration.

dian Army Reserve Force, provided they join the reserve force within two years and stay with it for a year. Lesser qualifications are those of senior and junior leaders in local cadet corps.

The syllabus includes all the subjects taught a junior NCO in the Canadian Army and is designed to teach the cadets all the basic skills of a private soldier and the instructional ability to teach private soldiers.

The cadets' day begins at 6:30 with reveille and, following breakfast and morning parade, instruction continues until 1:30, with a mid-morning snack at 10:30.

AFTERNOON SWIM

Each afternoon, three-fifths of the cadets are transported to the beach for swimming in a specially marked-off area under the supervision of six qualified lifeguards who also give instruction to cadets towards qualifying for Red Cross lifesaving certificates.

For the rest of the cadets the afternoon is free except for occasional quartermaster's and documentation parades.

With the exception of a part of the basketball schedule, all organized sports are conducted in the evening. At the end of camp prizes are awarded for softball, volleyball, basketball, swimming, horseshoes and a cross-country run in inter-company competition. The prizes are purchased from the profits of the canteen where candy soft drinks, stationery and souvenirs are sold.

Each evening two companies—about 480 cadets—are transported to Grand Bend, a summer resort 12 miles north of camp, where they are free to spend their pocket money at a number of midway attractions, refreshment booths and a dance pavilion. (Each cadet who completes the course is paid a $100 bonus, with an advance of $20, if they want it, after the first two weeks.) They return to camp at 10:30.

"We've had nothing but happy relations with the merchants in Grand Bend," Brigadier Anderson said.

GET SINGLE PASS

The cadets are given one long weekend pass—Friday noon until Monday morning—when they are permitted to travel to wherever their parents' written consent is given.

Visiting day for parents is each Sunday when they can obtain a pass for their sons from immediately after church parade until 9:30 p.m. Department of Education officials, school board members and principals are encouraged to visit the camp.

Each company spends four days in a tented camp about a mile away from the central area where the regular course of instruction is carried on and the cadets sleep in the same double-deck bunks as in the H-huts.

Somewhat more rigorous is a seven-mile overnight trek which each cadet is required to take once during camp to a bivouac area among the sand dunes behind the beach.

Marksmanship with the standard .303-calibre service rifle is emphasized. The boys take seven periods of instruction before going to the range to "zero" their rifles (test and adjust them for accuracy). After another week of instruction, they return to the range to qualify as marksmen.

SEND RIFLE TEAMS

This year two teams will be sent from Camp Ipperwash to the Ontario Rifle Association competition at Long Branch and to the Canadian Rifle Association competition at Connaught ranges the first two weeks in August.

Assembled at the camp are 66 master cadets from Central Command who are preparing to attend a special three-weeks course at Banff, along with 90 other cadets from the rest of Canada. To qualify for this course, the cadets must be officers in their local corps and have attended camp previously. They are selected on the basis of private interviews.

In the Banff contingent this year is 17-year-old Cadet/Capt. David Thaxter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Thaxter, 202 William St. N., Lindsay, a Grade 13 student at Lindsay Collegiate, who is attending Camp Ipperwash for the fourth year. David plans to study chemical engineering at university under the Department of National Defence regular officers' training plan.

While at Ipperwash, the Banff cadets mounted a ceremonial guard with the aid of the combined pipe bands of the Copper Cliff Highlanders Cadets and the 48th Highlanders Cadets from Toronto. A trumpet band is also being formed.

FULL MEALS

Meals are provided by a civilian catering company according to weekly diet sheets prepared by the army. At breakfast, fruit juice and cereal are served, topped off with bacon and eggs five mornings a week and beans and bacon twice. There are two hot meals, including meat and vegetables, each day.

Spiritual needs of the boys are met by three resident chaplains. Protestant and Roman Catholic church parades are held every Sunday and there is a chapel where mass is said every morning. The chaplains are available for interviews with the cadets. A one-hour talk is given to all the cadets each week.

What is the effect of camp-life on the boys?

That can probably best be assessed by the number who fail to stay for the full seven weeks for one reason or another. There are no punishments whatsoever and the only disciplinary action taken is to send a boy home if he misbehaves.

At last year's camp, of 1,472 cadets, 75 were sent home, 19 on medical grounds, the majority in the first 48 hours after initial medical inspection revealed it might be unwise for them to remain. Of the remainder, 27 were sent home at their parents' request, usually because of death in the family or because they were needed to help with chores, 27 at their own request and four for misconduct.

"We made a conscious effort last year to try, and encourage boys to overcome their homesickness," Brigadier Anderson said, "and we're reinforcing that policy this year."

Of the 1,425 cadets who came to camp this year, six have been sent home at their parents' request, 17 at their own request and 15 for medical reasons.

Sickness is kept at a minimum by the camp policy of encouraging cadets to go on sick parade, for the slightest injury or sign of sickness.

The camp hospital, with accommodation for 20 and facilities for another 25 or 30, has a daily average of about half a dozen patients, none of them with anything worse than a chest cold or a sprain.

"We hospitalize cadets here who wouldn't otherwise be sent to hospital," it was explained by Lt. Col. M. H. McNally of London, who heads a staff of three army doctors, including a pediatrician, as well as two nursing sisters, orderlies, a radiologist and a pharmacist.

Typical of the hospital patients is Ben Boyce, a Grade 11 student of Campbellford High School, who was put to bed with a sore throat. He spends his day playing cards and games with the other patients and reading magazines and comic books, supplied by one of the chaplains who visits the hospital daily.

FACILITIES COMPLETE

Although the hospital is not equipped for major surgical operations, there are two ambulanees on hand to transport serious cases to the Department of Veterans Affairs Westminster Hospital, 65 miles away in London.

The hospital also contains a dental clinic, run by a reserve force dental company which this year won the Moore trophy for the best reserve force dental work in the country, largely on the basis of work done at the camp.

When the camp first started, Lt. Col. McNally supervised a crew of nine doctors who inspected all the cadets entering the camp. They were given the same inspection as that given to men enlisting in the army, with the exception of chest X-rays. One per cent were rejected as physically unfit for camp.

In addition, one company were weighed. They will be weighed again at the end of camp.

"This is the first time we've done it," said Brigadier Anderson with a twinkle in his eye. "I'm not going out on a limb now but it will be interesting to see how their weight compares at the end of camp with when they came in."

HUSBAND AND WIFE IN REAL LIFE, but father and daughter to their Peterborough audiences at the Summer Theatre next week. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Geldard were re-united Tuesday when Mrs. Geldard, actress Margaret Braidwood, arrived from England to join Michael Sadlier's company also. Mr. Geldard came to Canada more than a year ago and was in summer stock last season and on radio and TV during the winter. Both can give an impressive list of good plays they have been in on the London stage and follow with a list of English film parts. After doing two plays at the Peterborough theatre, Mr. Geldard is complimentary of the facilities and of "the very discerning audiences." His wife will make her first appearance Monday evening as Eliza Doolittle, the cockney flower girl of "Pygmalion," and he will play her father, Shaw's scheming dustman.

To Crown A Formal Fall Evening

In a year that saw the Coronation of a Queen, the very formal ball gown assumes an importance that it ordinarily could not have in the life of the average woman, for there is more tendency to big, dressy affairs.

The lives of Canadian women have changed greatly in the last decade. There are many more women working than ever before. They have more money to spend, generally, but they are also busier. For these women(and many others), the short though dressy evening gown and the evening separates are exactly tailored to their needs.

This autumn, both the full, floor-length and the shorter length are shown. The sweeping gown is most often characterized by slim skirt at front and full skirt at back.

Fabrics for the ball gown could not be more luxurious: gold cloth, silver cloth under white lace, jeweled brocade, black velvet, silk faille and satin, white peau de soie. Utter luxury appears in the mink brassiere to fill in a neckline or in a collar faced with mink, lace or jewelled embroidery.

The short evening dress gets full skirts (often pleated) and some cover for the shoulders. Sparkle touches are used for the bodice, sometimes sprinkled lightly over an entire skirt. The wide cut tank or V neckiline appears most often in late-date dresses that can go on to evening parties or dinner.

THIS IS THE KIND OF DRESS to choose for a very formal evening in autumn. It is white peau de soie trimmed at back with broad bands of turquoise that form a cascade. Fabric will not crush easily, needs little pressing even after packing.

Betty Allen, Fred Hall Wed

A lovely wedding took place at All Saints' Anglican Church Friday evening at seven o'clock at which the rector, the Rev. Maurice Poole, officiated. Miss Betty May Allen, Reg. N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Darrel Allen of St. Lambert, Que., and formerly of Peterborough, became the bride of Mr. Frederick James Hall, B.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hall of Peterborough.

Baskets of pink and white gladioli formed the setting for the ceremony and white carnations were on the altar. Traditional wedding music was played by organist Miss Margaret Flowers.

The bride chose a ballerina length gown of fine, Chantilly type lace. The long sleeves were offset by the wide, portrait neckline which was appliqued to the yoke of sheer illusion. The skirt fell in redingote fashion, and the lace was scalloped about the front panel of fan-pleated nylon tulle. Her waist-length veil of illusion tulle was held by a wreath of lily-of-the-valley and she carried a bouquet of pink demure roses and white baby 'mums with white streamers.

Given in marriage by her father, she had as bridesmaid her sister Miss Darleen Allen and as matron of honour Mrs. Peter Eby.

Mrs. Eby and Miss Allen were both dressed in turquoise nylon net over taffeta, ballerina length, and gloves and white accessories. and wore matching net boleros The headdresses were bands of white flowers and they carried cascade bouquets of yellow roses and gold 'mums.

Mr. David Findlay attended the groom and Messrs. George Ludgate and Donald Allen ushered.

The reception of guests was in the parish hall. Mrs. Allen was receiving, gowned in pink chiffon and wearing white accessories and a corsage of pink demure roses and lacy 'mums. Mrs. Hall chose for the wedding a coral linen dress and she wore a hat of white lace and a corsage of white carnations.

For the trip east to honeymoon in the Laurentians the bride donned a dress of pale blue linen with matching jacket and white accessories.

On return, Mr. and Mrs. Hall will live at 302 Welsh Street.

Woman Begins 29th Year In U.S. Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edith Nourse Rogers, whose trademark is a flower on her shoulder, has begun her 29th consecutive year in the United States House of Representatives. This is believed to be a record for woman lawmakers.

Only nine men have served longer consecutively in the House than this Massachusetts Republican.

The first woman sent to Congress by a New England state, Mrs. Rogers has bettered the record of Virginia-born Lady Astor, who had served 25 years in Britain's Parliament when she retired in 1944.

Mrs. Rogers got into politics when her husband, John Jacob Rogers of Lowell, Mass., died suddenly in his sixth Congressional term. She was elected to finish out his unexpired term.

She was 44 then, and at the time she said she planned to be in congress only a few years. But ask her now if she intends to run again and she says "of course."

Gay, vivacious, chatty and very feminine in her liking for perky hats and pretty clothes, Mrs. Rogers on occasion has been a hair shirt to colleagues. Back in the election year of 1940, when some members wanted to adjourn early despite war clouds, she introduced a resolution calling upon Congress to stay in session.

The resolution was pigeon-holed, but Congress stayed on the job. Later she sponsored a measure to turn the clocks an hour ahead so there would be more daylight for war production.

THE SPANISH INFLUENCE is evident in the graduated shirred taffeta dress (left) by Lawrence Sperber. It's worn with a stole—still high fashion for the season to come. The black bengaline coat dress (right) by the same designer has velvet trimming and Spanish tassels.

BY MARY MOORE

ANSWER: (to Mrs. V.N.S. cont'd.) You are wise to wrap the homemade candy for the bazaar in small packages and sell them for small amounts. You doubtless have noticed in most of the high-class candy shops that they group the 5 and 10-cent bars or patties smack in the middle of the counter to tempt impulse buyers. Do you think you could wrap each piece in cellophane so that the appearance of the candy tempts the buyers? You certainly should have a fair profit. Do you think you could make the candy ¼-inch thinner? Keep the shape of candy and number of pieces the same but make it thinner so it will go further.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE (2½ LBS.)

You must have a candy thermometer.

Four cups white sugar, 2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 squares (4 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, ¼ cup corn syrup, ¼ cup butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix together sugar, milk, salt, unmelted chocolate and corn syrup and stir constantly over low heat until sugar and chocolate are dissolved. Cook gently, stirring up from the bottom occasionally, to 238 deg. Fahr. —never go over 238—it is better to take candy off heat at 236 deg. Fahr. than to overcook it. Remove from heat at once, drop in butter but do not stir. Stand aside to cool without stirring until it drops to 110 deg. Fahr. Add vanilla, beat with spoon until mixture loses its gloss and it begins to retain spoon marks. At once pour into buttered pans. Mark in squares.

NOTES: Eye appeal is important when selling. So you could sprinkle top of fudge with nuts or press one-quarter maraschino cherry in centre of each marked square. When cold cut in clean-cut squares with very sharp knife and wrap each piece neatly in small piece clear cellophane.

This is how you figure costs: roughly 1-3 for ingredients and supplies, 1-3 for labor and 1-3 profit. Since your labor is given free you should figure cost of all supplies and add 60 per cent. Weigh your candy. If it costs you 40 cents to make the above 2½ lbs. candy cut it into 60 pieces and sell them 3 for 5 c which will yield $1. and give you 60 per cent profit. Don't forget to count the cost of the cellophane and added ingredients such as nuts and cherries.

QUESTION: Am writing again for help but of a little different nature.. I have a plaid taffeta dress which had two bad stains which dry cleaning did not remove. However washing did remove the stains but also removed the rustling crispness of the dress. Is there any way of replacing this crispness? . . . I have a white hat of rather rough straw, almost like circular braid. It appears to have yellowed. Is there any way to clean it? Also a tan colored straw which appears soiled... Mrs. John R.

ANSWER: I have talked to my druggist and chemist friends and here are their comments regarding your dress and hats. You have washed the stiffening, as you doubtless know, out of the taffeta. It is probably rayon taffeta. This dressing was put in the taffeta when it was manufactured. The only way you can make the taffeta stiff again is temporarily with each cleaning or washing and the only stiffener available to the retail trade is something like starch. There is a fine starch packaged with instructions for using it on voile and other summer dress fabrics. Try it, being sure you use the instructions that specify using boiling hot water to cook it. Make it more dilute than you would for cotton. I have written you separately telling you the trade name. As for the yellowed rough straw, make up a dilute bleach solution (like you use to bleach your white washing) and dip the hat in and out of it until it lightens somewhat. Then dip it in several clear waters to remove all traces of bleach, then dry the hat on a form made of wadded up paper covered with double towel—to make it stretch back to the original size, for it will shrink. The soiled tan hat is hopeless the druggist tells me. Straw hat dye would have been your answer, but very few large drug stores carry anything but navy blue and black now. I wish you luck in your rejuvenating efforts.

VIRGINIA MAYO, famous for her blonde beauty, takes seriously her responsibility for preserving it. Her hair retains its pale gold color and silky texture partly because she gives herself a weekly egg shampoo. Here she beats up four egg yolks until frothy and four egg whites until creamy (centre). She'll mix these together and use them as suds for her hair which she first wets with lukewarm water. Hot water would cook the eggs. There's enough of the mixture for a second sudsing. She'll rinse with lukewarm water, too. Her good posture and balance are maintained with ballet exercises. One of them she demonstrates above (left). Standing erect with feet together, she extends arms at shoulder level and uses them as levers to twist her entire body around without moving her feet. She gets plenty of open-air exercise riding horses from her own stable (right).

DOROTHY DIX:

Married Widower As Ser "Last Chance"

DEAR MISS DIX: Eight years ago when I was married, I knew my husband did not love me. He was desperate with grief and loneliness over the death of his first wife. I had known him well years before, and frankly, I figured this was my "last chance." He was 36, and I was 38. I told myself it would work out, but almost from the beginning I knew I had made a mistake. About two years ago he told me he had fallen in love and asked for his freedom. Although I knew the other woman was a fine person and would undoubtedly be a good wife to him, my pride was badly hurt and I refused him flatly. As you can imagine, this has been an unhappy house since. Am I right in hanging on to him? We have no children.

E. P.

ONLY A COMFORTING INTERLUDE

ANSWER: There really doesn't seem much chance of happiness for either of you together. Yours was a loveless marriage; you mention that your husband didn't love you, and you strongly imply that your feeling for him wasn't too deep emotionally. He should have had a longer period of readjustment after his first wife's death, before considering second marriage, but that's a mistake that many grief-stricken widowers make. If there's nothing at all holding you together, except your own hurt pride, you'd better let him go. Try separation for a while and see if he still wants his freedom. Talk the matter over with your clergyman before making a final decision. Your marriage certainly has not been entirely wasted. You provided a very comforting interlude, and perhaps saved him from a much more tragic marriage. You made an honest and sincere effort to create a happy home, and the fact that you failed isn't your fault entirely. Marriage without mutual love seldom is successful; there's always the possibility that one or the other partner will eventually fall in love with someone else. It's fortunate for you that the turn of events will leave you with hurt pride rather than a broken heart.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am very concerned about my best friend, Hilda. We are both 16, but while I am interested in boys, she says she isn't. I have coaxed her to double-date with me, but she refuses. She claims she'd rather be home listening to the radio. She's pretty, too, which makes it all the more strange.

A. L. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Hilda is probably just a bit slower in getting around to the boy-friend stage than you were. Give her time, and stop worrying over her. The fact that at 16 a girl doesn't care for dates isn't proof positive that she'll always be that way. Suddenly, she'll meet a boy who attracts her, and your worries will be over. In the meantime, don't try to run other people's lives for them.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What can you do with a middle-aged woman who asks personal questions and wants to know everybody's business?

AGNES E.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Ignore her as much as possible, and meet embarrassing questions with the simple statement that you prefer not to discuss the matter. Lonely people often feel that their own loneliness will be assuaged if they can reach into the lives of others. The course is certainly to be discouraged, since it defeats its own purpose. Discretion, rather than intrusion, is the friend-winner.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 20 years old, and have been dating a boy for three years. He is in service, and though he has given me a ring, and we originally planned our wedding for this summer, he now says he prefers to wait until his period of service is ended. Should I wait or forget him?

BROWN EYES

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If you love the boy—wait; if you prefer good times in the immediate present, to a hope of marriage in the future—give him up.

KEEPS THEM CLEAN

To keep your appliances clean, wipe them with mild soapy water while doing dishes. Never wash enameled surfaces when they're hot; if you do, they might crack.

CRACKER DECORATIONS

Here's a different way to decorate crackers: Fill a frosting bag or heavy white paper funnel with soft cheese or cheese spread, then press the cheese onto crackers in any designs you wish.

Hunting For Antiques Can Be Fine Art; How To Avoid Getting Stuck With Fake

By ANNETTE JEWETT

Is tracking down antiques part of your vacation fun?

"Every woman to her own taste," says Charles Duveen, expert and lecturer on antiques, "but don't think you're getting an 'antique' when you're merely getting something old. In other words, buy with your eyes open."

Speaking on his favorite subject, that which he knows most about, this expert held forth from one of his Charles II chairs, dating from 1670. His feet rested on an antique Kirman rug. The bases of the lamps in his home are Chinese porcelain vases from the 18th century. When he wants to look at his television set, he opens the door of an elaborately carved cupboard dating from the reign of Elizabeth I.

"An antique is not any old thing out of your grandmother's attic. The customs department says that it must date prior to 1830. Why? Because roughly then the Industrial Revolution was ushered in and furniture was no longer handcrafted."

Asked for some advice to pass on to women who like to hunt for antiques, Duveen replied, "When you're dealing in antiques, you're dealing in beauty. That's why it's so difficult to advise anyone who's trying to get a sure guide to the real things."

But, nevertheless, he was able to give the antique fancier some helpful hints.

He advises, for instance, that it must date between 1770 and 1810 and absolutely no later.

"To my way of thinking, the piece becomes a copy even a few years beyond that period, for it cannot possess the spirit of the original. Decorative details become merely laid on, like an afterthought, in the copy. Even in the restored piece, the restoration must have taken place between that same period if there was mor than 40 per cent damage. Or else I'd no longer call it an antique.

"You can look at the interior construction for signs of machine work, which immediately make the piece not an antique. About the hardware, I'd say that needn't be contemporary. It would be impossible not to have to replace the hardware through the years. You have another clue in the size of the piece. Genuine antiques are on the colossal side to go with the type of homes they were designed for."

Mr. Duveen comes by his knowledge quite naturally. His grandfather founded the famous firm of Duveen Brothers. His own father was a pioneer in modern interior decoration. He, himself, has had much experience in the field.

If your dubiousness knows no limits, you can have your antique laboratory-analyzed. It won't help you, however, after you've bought it, to know it's spurious. Take counsel, then, and learn something about the subject beforehand.

THIS EXPERT advises antique hunters to get acquainted with the subject before doing any reckless buying. He is Charles Duveen, shown here pointing out finely carved detail on William and Mary side chair, formerly in the collection of Lord Sandys, Ombersley Court, and now in his own collection.

Of Interest to Women

you put the burden of knowledge on yourself and not on the dealer. If you're putting money into stocks and bonds, for example, you investigate beforehand as thoroughly as possible. It should be the same with antiques. You can visit your local museums and study good examples so that you'll have standards for comparison. You can become to some degree an authority simply by reading and looking at plates. Above all, if you're visiting areas where genuine, indigenous antiques abound, you'll have the best chance of all to see and get to know them, in homes.

"According to my personal definition," says Charles Duveen, "an antique must be contemporary with the designer. If the piece is said to be a Sheraton, for example,

RAB BUTLER: "Brains do mean something."

An Unashamed Intellectual Butler Tory Party Brains

By TOM A. CULLEN
(NEA Special Correspondent)

LONDON (NEA)—Churchill is the heart of the Conservative government; Butler is its brains.

That is the verdict of those who have watched the British leaders at close quarters.

Now that the great Churchill heart has begun to falter, the Butler brains are more and more in evidence, taking over the functions of government. At 50, Richard Austen (Rab) Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, has come into his own.

Although he has held government posts for 14 of the 23 years he has sat in the House of Commons, Butler is still somewhat a man of mystery.

"The people who discuss Eden's personality over cocktails are apt to talk of Butler's career," is the way one Whitehall wit expresses it.

While he may lack Eden's charm, Butler has a way of getting difficult jobs done quietly and efficiently that has earned him the gratitude, if not the warm affection, of his party.

THANKLESS JOB

As chancellor of the exchequer, Butler's job is the most thankless in the government. When it's a question of raising the price of beer one penny, it is Butler who must face the workingman's wrath. Or, again, if he cuts food imports to save dollars, he has the housewives on his neck.

Despite the unpopularity of his post, 53 per cent of those questioned in a recent public opinion poll felt that Butler was doing a good job, while 30 per cent were undecided, and only 17 per cent felt that he should be replaced.

Butler is that rarest bird among practical politicians, an avowed intellectual. Before entering politics, he was a don at Cambridge University, where his father, Sir Montagu Butler, was master of Pembroke College.

He is still inclined to throw his intellectual weight around. Recently, after winning a minor skirmish in the House of Commons, he was heard to say, "You know, brains do mean something, though some of my colleagues find it difficult to believe."

Such remarks are not calculated to endear him to die-hard Tories, to whom exposing one's intellect is almost as indecent as exposing one's limbs was to Queen Victoria. "Disguised Socialist," some of the die-hards mutter when Butler's name is mentioned.

His difficulty in speaking the language of the common man prompted Churchill to remark, after reading one of Butler's election pamphlets: "Brilliant. I wonder how it would read in English."

MARRIED WEALTH

Butler's marriage in 1926 to Sydney Courtauld, heiress to the Courtauld rayon fortune, brought him wealth, a country home in Essex and introductions to leaders of the Conservative Party. Soon after, he stood for election from Saffron Walden and won handily.

Butler is no orator. His maiden speeches in Commons on beekeeping in Essex put even the most alert back-bencher to sleep. His rise has been one of plodding progress through dreary committee rooms and even dreadier party caucuses.

"The only man in the Conservative Party who knows where he's going," is the grudging tribute paid to Butler by his arch political enemy, Clement Attlee, leader of the Labor Party opposition.

The fact that Butler's destination appears to be No. 10 Downing Street, the Prime Minister's residence, does not, of course, make Attlee happy. If Butler arrives there, it will be the triumph of the slow-moving thinker.

Liberals Not Facing Economic Realities

ROSTHERN, Sask. (CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas said Thursday night the Liberals are not facing economic realities.

"We need a society based on co-operation and human brotherhood," he told a public meeting. The Liberals had done more to protect big business than any tory government ever did.

Mr. Douglass said the Liberal party had a majority of seven in 1945-49 and were active. But after 1949, with a large majority, they went to sleep".

3 Campbellford Scouts To Ottawa Jamboree

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Three scouts from the Campbellford Boy Scout Troop have been selected to attend the Canadian Jubilee to be held next week in Ottawa.

The local troop will pay the boys' camp fees while they attend the Ottawa jamboree. This was announced on Friday by Campbellford Scoutmaster, Jack Connor.

Three boys are: Roland Jones, Garry Stapley and Murray Sayers.

Minor Mishap

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Provincial Police here investigated one accident on Friday night, a minor one in the Warkworth area. Wm. R. Petty of RR 4, Warkworth, 25, was coming out of his driveway when his car was in collision with a car driven by Raymond B. Martin of RR 4, Campbellford. Damage to the Petty auto was about $5 and the damage to Mr. Martin's car amounted to about $40, all to the left side. Provincial Constable Archie Eady who investigated said no charges would be laid.

UPS AND DOWNS OF PIGTAILS — Seems to have been a hair-raising experience for nine-year-old Iris Baratta, left, of New York City, when she won the Children's Aid Society's contest for the longest pigtails. She's getting a congratulatory kiss from her brother, Louis. A contrast in the pigtail news is offered by 20-year-old Alice Penfield, of Bury, Sussex, England. While other muscular marvels lift barbells to show off their strength, she demonstrates hers by attaching a 56-pound weight to each of her pigtails and raising her head.

Truckers Quite Prepared To Go Ahead With Strike

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Truckers in the Windsor, Chatham and Sarnia areas lined up with employees of 19 trucking firms in the Hamilton area in favoring strike action midnight Sunday.

The strike would involve some 3,500 employees of 36 transport companies in Southwestern Ontario between Hamilton and Windsor.

Meanwhile, President I. M. Dodds of Local 880, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, (AFL-TLC), and President James Groat of the union's Local 879 are scheduled to meet with Labor Minister Daley early Monday in an attempt to settle the disupte.

Union officials advised members to favor strike action after a conciliation board report recommended wage increases of seven cents an hour for drivers and 11 cents for mechanics. A similar contract was accepted two months ago by the Toronto local.

However, both the Windsor and Hamilton locals turned it down. Originally, the Toronto and Hamilton locals asked for a 20-cent hour increase for drivers and 30 cents for mechanics. Windsor asked for general increases of 52 cents an hour.

Members of Local 879, which covers Hamilton, London, Kitchener, Galt, Brantford and Woodstock, cast strike votes two months ago after turning down the proposal. However, the vote was not counted until it was known what action Local 880, which covers employees in Windsor, Sarnia and Chatham, would take.

Mr. Dodds said in Windsor Friday that Local 880's decision was "practically unanimous" in favor of a strike.

Neither Mr. Dodds or Mr. Groat would say if the strike action would be postponed until after they have met with the labor minister.

George Delaney, London, an official of Local 879, said he could see no possibility of the strike being called off. Pickets had been asked to report midnight Sunday for duty at the gates of 14 trucking firms in London.

Mr. Daley said in the telegrams to the presidents of the two locals he felt the "issues can be resolved without a strike."

Earlier, the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, Toronto, urged the workers not to cause "irreparable damage" to the industry by going on strike.

Although the railways have said they would be able to handle all extra cargo assigned to them during a strike, it was felt it would take some time before a system could be worked out for the prompt and efficient handling of the extra freight.

Trucks are used extensively in southwestern Ontario for short, inter-city hauls of heavy cargoes.

Seaway Situation Never Better Chevrier Says In Interview

By JOHN LeBLANC

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal quarters take the view that a new phase of United States Congressional inaction on the St. Lawrence Seaway serves to enhance the prospects of a start on the $750,000,000 project, with Canada taking the lead.

"The situation has never been so favorable as at present," Transport Minister Chevrier said in an interview after the U.S. Senate leadership had sidetracked until next January a bill calling for U.S. participation in the navigation end of the development.

The Canadian government wants to build the main navigation locks on this side of the river and officials here suggested the Senate slowdown improves chances of this. The Senate bill called for canals on the U.S. side.

Shelving of the Senate act on navigation came a few days after the U.S. Federal Power Commissioner had granted the New York State Power Authority permission to join with the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission in developing the 1,200,000 horsepower of hydro-electric power in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence.

SHOULD ACT IMMEDIATELY

On learning of the Senate leadership's move late Friday—just after returning from a general election campaign trip to the west—Mr. Chevrier said that "it now is clear Canada should proceed to act immediately, under the authority granted by the Federal Power Commission."

He said he expects the Canadian government will start to dig a navigation seaway on the Canadian side when the N.Y.-Ontario power bodies—who have to build dams to back up the water—get going.

Mr. Chevrier said it is his view that "if construction could be started at once on one or another of the dams in the international section, the Canadian government would proceed without delay on the navigational facilities."

The dam where work is expected to start in a control structure across the river near Iroquois, Ont., upriver from the power dam near Cornwall, Ont. All dams would be built jointly by New York and Ontario.

NEVER SO FAVORABLE

"The situation," Mr. Chevrier said, "has never been so favorable as it is now, and we should lose no opportunity to seize the initiative once again."

By "seizing the initiative" the transport minister — who is in charge of seaway matters for Canada — evidently meant pushing things through to a conclusion without waiting for U.S. action on the navigation job.

WHICH TWIN HAS THE TOKEN?—"Which twin swallowed the Indian?" asked Mrs. William Burtz when she brought her four-year-old twins into Atlanta, Georgia's, Grady Hospital. An Indian-head charm from a vending machine was missing, and neither twin would talk because sometimes the wrong one gets spanked. X-rays showed that Patrea Lenora, left, and not her sister, Theresa Lee, had the charm.

A TON PER FOOT—The season's largest craft to pass through the lift locks went through Friday. It was the 92-ton, 92-foot pleasure boat, owned by Dr. W. I. Henderson, who spends his summer months at Bobcaygeon. The boat (shown above) practically fills every lock o nits way to Bobcaygeon and keeps the five-man crew stepping as they gradually slip it into the locks. Dr. and Mrs. Henderson boarded the boat at Trenton for the trip through the Trent waterway.

Pearling Fleet Disappointed, Defy Hardships

By DOUGLAS LOCKWOOD

DARWIN, Australia (Reuters)—More than 100 professional Japanese pearl divers operating in heavy seas off the north Australian coast have been disappointed not to find a sea bed thick with the world's best mother-of-pearl.

Though the beds have not been fished since 1940 and should be rich in oyster shells, Japan's first big post-war pearling fleet has in the first month out brought up only about 200 tons valued at $224,000.

The 317 men of the control vessel Taiyo Maru and 25 luggers, tossed about like soapsuds on the rough Timor sea northwest of Bathurst island, are battling severe hardship on a diet of dried oysters and boiled rice. Drinking water is rationed.

SEEK THE BLACK LIP

They are searching for the large oyster pteria margaritifera, known as "the black lip" because of the smoky-colored band near the edge of its shell.

This oyster, measuring up to eight inches in diameter, and the even larger but rarer silver-lip and gold - lip pteria maxima, which weigh up to 12 pounds, produce the world's best mother-of-pearl.

Strangely, any actual pearls found in these mulluscs are less important since they are whiter than Arab pearls and less attractive.

Japan has for generations carried out a flourishing trade in the lustrous lining of these big oysters, mother-of-pearl. Its main consumer, mainly in the United States and Britain, is the button industry. It is also used at home and overseas for knife handles, fans, inlays, jewelry and for other ornamental purposes.

KEEP 35 MILES AWAY

Australia also harvests the shells and has forbidden Japanese pearling fleets to come with 35 miles of her coasts, which explains the scarcity of fresh water aboard the Japanese ships.

Defying hardships aboard and hazards below, the divers, looking like martians in their steel helmets and diving suits, dive between 90 and 120 feet with their wicker baskets in search of the oysters.

Below decks, the sailors live in dungeon-like cabins. Drums of salt water are lined up for them to bathe. There is no comfort, no chance to relax.

VICTIMS OF FOUL PLAY — Quebec Provincial Police have launched a full-scale investigation into the discovery of the torn bodies of these three Holidaysburg, Pa., hunters in the thick Gaspe Peninsula bush country. Condition of the bodies, reported as horribly mutilated, was first attributed to wild animals, but police later said they suspected foul play. Left to right, the hunters Albert Claar, 20; Eugene H. Lindsey, 47, and his son, Robert, 17.

Stock Markets Drift Lifelessly Speculators Capture Spotlight

By GORDON MacKINNON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Stock markets simmered lifelessly in the week-long heat wave, seemingly in no hurry to pull out of their doldrums.

In Toronto uncertainty concerning such factors as the highly unpredictable international scene, mounting protectionist sentiment in the United States and business prospects for the last half of 1953 kept many investors on the sidelines. Meanwhile, speculators captured the spotlight.

Interest focussed mainly on stocks highly sensitive to special news such as drilling reports, underwriting agreements and staking announcements, particularly in penny mines and oils.

AMONG FAVORITES

Among the favorites were Sudbury Contract and Landover Oils and Mines, Ltd. These two companies, owning property in the Lake Athabaska region of northern Saskatchewan, began trading heavily following announcement of underwriting arrangements.

Pioneer companies like Sudbury and Landover may enter underwriting agreements with trust companies whereby they deliver blocks of shares in return for the capital needed to begin exploratory and drilling programs on new properties. The underwriting firm then offers its shares to the public through stock exchanges.

Over the week, Sudbury moved 2,348, 300 shares, adding 7½ cents at 71½. At one time this year the stock sold at 13 cents. Landover gained nine cents, closing at 41 on a 1,814,211-share turnover.

MAKE STEADY PROGRESS

Selected industrials made steady progress on the Toronto exchange this week as the group edged forward two index points, running its gain for the last month to 11 points.

Despite a labor dispute that closed Porcupine Gold Mines and threatened to spread to other large producers in the area, golds added an index point.

Base metals and western oils eased slightly in the face of growing protectionist sentiment in the U.S., expressed in approval by a committee of the House of Representatives of a bill authorizing curbs on imports of oil, lead and zinc.

In New York the week began with a sharp downturn, initiated by weakness in defence stocks. Prices levelled off Tuesday and staged a rally during the rest of the week with rails, steels and aircraft leading the way.

Montreal sessions were mixed between Monday's decline and Friday's upturn. Weekly averages showed little change.

Mrs. Mary Jane Ward

The funeral service for Mrs. Mary Jane Ward, aged 83 years, who died in Civic Hopital, Peterborough, following a lingering illness was held from the home of her sister, Miss Florence Smith on Tuesday.

Mrs. Ward had lived her entire lifetime in this community. The Rev. T. S. Gault, rector of St. Paul's Church had charge of the service.

Pallbearers were four nephews, Charles, Mervin, Emory and Carl Smith, and Harry O'Brian and Clarence Neals. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

She was predeceased by her husband, the late John Ward, a son Stanley and a daughter Mrs. Arthur Jamieson (May).

Immediately surviving is her son Cecil Ward of Toronto and five grandchildren Garry and Brian Ward, Pauline Jamieson, Mrs. J. Harris (Bernice) and Ross Jamieson, all of Toronto; also one sister, Miss Florence Smith of Bethany; two brothers, Robert Smith of Millbrook and John Smith of Bethany.

Seize Butter

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal authorities said Friday they have seized quantities of adulterated butter in Montreal, running into "hundreds of thousands of pounds." They said they are planning to press court charges against several Montreal firms who handled the butter. Names of the firms were withheld.

American Men Like New Edwardian Style

LONDON (Reuters) — American men in London have shown so much enthusiasm for Britain's "new Edwardian" style suits that London tailors are planning to establish a clothing centre in New York, it was disclosed Friday.

Savile Row — men's fashion centre in London—said dollar orders from overseas and American tourist orders here have given the industry its biggest fillip in years.

Bespoke (custom 8 made) suits this Coronation season have set off a style counter - revolution, going back to the early days of the century when men wore tight single-breasted jackets and pipestem trousers. They are a direct contrast to the wide shoulders and draped affect of the post-war era. The "Edwardian look" also calls for bright, checked vests.

Man-Eating Shark Terrorizes Fishermen

LOUISBOURG, N.S. (CP)—Cape Breton's inshore fishermen have an answer to the question they've argued for the last two weeks: What is the Forchu Rammer?

But with the killer fish still at large they don't feel any happier.

Dr. A. W. L. Needler, head of the Atlantic Fisheries Biological Station at St. Andrews, N.B., gave the answer, Friday. He said the Rammer is a shark and probably a man-eater.

He based his conclusion on a section of razar-sharp tooth, one of three the Rammer left behind when he ripped open a fishing boat at nearby Forchu last week.

John Burns, 26-year-old lobster fisherman, drowned and his partner, John MacLeod, 21, nearly shared the same fate in that attack, most serious of several skirmishes with the fish so far.

DEFINITELY SHARK

"It is quiet definitely the tooth of a shark," Dr. Needler said. "Quite probably a white or man-eater shark, not at all common in our waters."

The St. Andrews fisheries research official recalled that a few years ago a man-eater appeared off St. Pierre bank, south of Newfoundland, attacked fishermen's dories and terrorized the coast.

The man-eater does not normally appear north of New York, although found in tropical waters around the globe. Man-eaters over 20 feet long are a rarity.

Charlie Rafuse, 55-year-old Forchu fisherman who rescued John MacLeod from drowning, said the Rammer was about 25 feet long and had a six-foot dorsal fin.

ATTACK SIX TIMES

In the last two weeks he has attacked at least six times. His latest appearance was off Petit de Grat three days ago when he drove a fleet of herring boats to shore.

He has ranged along the whole 100-mile southeast Cape breton coast from Main-a-Dieu, south of Glace Bay, to Arichat near the Strait of Canso entrance, terrorizing fishermen and pleasure boaters.

So far he has wrecked one boat, but only luck and a fast getaway prevented a higher toll.

WEDDING BELLS rang out for more than 40 young couples Saturday in Peterborough. It was by far the largest number of weddings for one day in Peterborough in several years. Ceremonies started early in the morning and continued late into the evening. Cars with horns honking and cans, boots and sheets of cardboard waving behind barged their way through heavy downtown traffic. Most stores sold out their confetti early in the day as couple after couple were showered as they left churches, photography shops and homes. Typical of most married couples Saturday are Mr. and Mrs. John Hawthorne (formerly Jean Hill).

Gaspe Mystery Grows As Remains Thought Those of Hunter, 17

GASPE, Que. —(CP)— The puzzle of the three vanished Pennsylvania hunters today took another in a series of strange twists with an investigator's expression of belief that human remains found in the Gaspe wilderness may have been wrongly identified.

At an inquest opened here Saturday over a few bones and bits of clothing found scattered about by bears near a bush trail, the remains were said to be those of Eugene H. Lindsey, 45, of Hollidaysburg, Pa., one of the missing men.

The man who made the identification before coroner Lionel Rioux was Clarence Claar, father of 20-year-old Fred Claar, another of the missing trio.

Today in Montreal, Dr. Jean Marie Roussel, Quebec crime investigation expert, expressed the belief the Gaspe bones will turn out under laboratory examination to be those of a human of the age of Richard Lindsey, 17-year-old son of Eugene H. Lindsey.

SEEK MISSING TWO

The word reached Gaspe while armed police and experienced bushmen returned to the grim mountain scene of the discovery of the bones trying to account for all three men who vanished June 9 on a bear-hunting expedition into the Gaspe wilds.

When the first trace of the party, (scattered bones and shredded clothing) was found last Wednesday, searchers thought they were bits of the hunting garments and bodies of all three men from Pennsylvania.

Friday when Dr. Roussel, on a 600-mile trip to Gaspe from Montreal, visited the scene, police believed that the remains were scraps of the body of Eugene H. Lindsey, torn apart by bears after a mysterious death.

Dr. Roussel's present theory, which needs confirmation by laboratory work in Montreal, altered the baffling puzzle once more.

RETURNING TO GASPE

Meanwhile, police at Gaspe said they have word that Wilbert Coffin, Gaspe prospector, thought to be one of the last to see the three hunters before their disappearance, would return to Gaspe late today.

They said Coffin's testimony about a meeting with the hunters deep in the Gaspe interior was needed for the inquest which opened Saturday before Dr. Lionel Rioux and adjourned shortly after.

Agreement In Saskatoon Reached Over Weekend; Work Week Cut To 40 Hours

The strike of 435 Quaker Oats Co. production workers in Peterborough and another 115 in Saskatoon ends at midnight, officials of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL), announced today. During the weekend an agreement was reached in Saskatoon between the company and the union and the membership of Local 418, UPWA, voted Sunday to accept the company offer. Signing of the agreements here and in Saskatoon will end the longest strike in the history of the UPWA in Canada. The workers walked out April 22 to enforce their demands.

Exactly a week before, Local 293, UPWA, the Peterborough local, had voted 251 to 46 to accept a compromise offer from the company. But they added the rider that there must first be a settlement in Saskatoon before they returned to work.

This rider once more deadlocked the two parties and Tuesday night Lewis H. Ingram, vice-president in charge of personnel flew by plane to Saskatoon with full powers to arrange a settlement. Negotiations began Wednesday morning and continued daily through Saturday.

Announcement of the settlement was made Sunday in Saskatoon by Mr. Ingram and N. R. Riches, UPWA western director.

10% WAGE INCREASE

The Saskatoon settlement provides for an immediate reduction of the work week from 44 to 40 hours and a 10 per cent wage increase to maintain the take-home pay based on the rates of Jan. 1, 1953; also a union security clause (all employees in the bargaining unit pay union dues whether or not they are members of the union); three weeks vacation after 15 years service, instead of after 20 years.

The Saskatoon contract is for two years and is retroactive to Feb. 1, 1953. Settlement pay, in lieu of retroactive pay, is the same as in Peterborough: $90 to male employees and $75 to female employees.

James G. Wharry, company general manager, said today it was too soon to determine when full production would begin at the Peterborough plant. As the strike does not officially end till midnight the first workers will clock in tonight. They will be watchmen and power house operators and then a trickle of production workers will begin.

ISSUE INSTRUCTIONS

An advertisement appearing elsewhere in the Examiner today informs the membership that the strike is over at midnight. And it advises all employees who are not called back into work immediately to go to the company's employment office and pick up their unemployment insurance books.

Mr. Wharry had no comment to make on the end of the strike and William Triggs, president of Local 293, UPWA, said today: "I'm glad it's over, that's all."

Both parties met at 10 a.m. and

One Of World's Wealthiest Men Dies In Britain

LOCK MORE, Scotland (AP)—The Duke of Westminster, one of the world's richest men, died Sunday night at his estate here. He was 74.

The peer, four times married and three times divorced, owned vast estates in Scotland, Wales and England, as well as about 600 acres of London's expensive Mayfair and Chelsea neighborhoods.

Only this year he bought an island in the Fraser river in British Columbia, and launched an industrial development project estimated to cost £63,000,000 ($176,400,000).

His London holdings alone were valued at £20,000,000 ($56,000,000) before the Second World War and land values have increased greatly since then.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST DEALS

One of his biggest real estate deals was the letting of a long lease on part of Grosvenor Square —London's "Little America" to the U.S. government.

In the square are the embassy and other U.S. government buildings. The price of this deal never was made public but one report estimated it at not less than £1,000,000 ($2,800,000).

Though he was married four times he left no son to inherit his titles and vast fortunes. They pass to a bachelor cousin William Grosvenor, 59.

The stocky, good-looking Duke Hugh Richard Arthur Grosvenor inherited his London property, but he acquired the rest of his vast land empire by himself.

The duke was an earnest collector of lands and property — 160,000 acres sprawling across England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, Canada and Australia.

Rescue Many In Flood; 2,306 Casualties

TOKYO (AP)—Thousands of Japanese were rescued today from debris - litered floodwaters as ground, sea and air teams worked feverishly to cut the human toll in the nation's second great flood disaster in three weeks.

The sudden flood that started with cloudburst rains Friday swallowed whole villages at Wakayama on central Honshu Island's Pacific coast about 200 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Police headquarters here estimated the toll at 273 dead, 433 injured and 2,033 missing.

Earlier, police said more than 6,000 were dead or missing, but a spokesman reported later those totals listed many duplications caused by chaotic communications.

More than 2,000 persons stranded on roof tops or trapped in flooded homes were plucked to safety by rescue teams searching the swirling waters.

DROP FOOD

U. S. Air Force planes criss-crossed the flood scene, dropping tons of food to stranded persons, while Japanese ships and ground forces scoured the area for survivors.

The rains stopped Sunday after two days of cloudbursts sent three mountain streams thundering down narrow valleys.

Flash floods hit valley villages—some before sleeping residents could flee.

Although skies began to clear and the rivers to recede on central Honshu, new rains hit in the Tokyo area and the rivers there rose steadily. Thousands worked during the night to plug gaps at river dikes with sandbags.

Say Taxpayers Persecuted By Snoopers

AMHERST, N.S. (CP)—George Drew wound up his week-long election tour of the Maritimes Saturday with two speeches criticizing the government's trade record and what he termed the "persecution" of taxpayers by "government snoopers."

Today the Progressive Conservative leader heads into the home stretch of his campaign, with the next three weeks in Ontario and Quebec where 160 of the Commons seats are at stake Aug. 10.

He speaks tonight at Thetford Mines.

Mr. Drew raised the trade issue both here and earlier. Saturday at Cambridge, N.S.—a village in the midst of the rich Annapolis Valley farming area. Trade figures for the first five months of this year showed a truly "alarming" difference between imports and declining exports.

EXPLOITED NEEDS

"The fact is that this government exploited Europe's post-war needs for our products in exchange for American dollar aid without any serious attempt to establish firm long-term markets.

"Now when those long-term markets are disappearing and competition is the order of the day our exports to the sterling areas are falling in the most alarming manner while many of our products are being barred by the United States."

The Progressive Conservative party promised that if it came to power Aug. 10, it would take immediate steps to regain British and sterling-area markets and seek ways of overcoming currency-exchange problems between the dollar and sterling trade areas.

Mr. Drew said he had asked Trade Minister Howe to go to the United Kingdom last winter for that purpose.

MARKETS DWINDLING

"Instead he went to South America, and ever since our markets in South America have been dwindling rapidly."

Chinese Give Truce Approval

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Three teams of Allied and Communist officers—including for the first time the men who would oversee a cease-fire—worked today on final details of a Korean truce which seemed almost at hand after the Reds issued a go-ahead Sunday. There was no official indication just when the historic document would be signed to end the three years of fighting. But some observers said it could be within a week. Fighting is to end 12 hours after the signing. Three U.S. members of the military armistice commission flew here unexpectedly for the first time to join an Allied-Red staff officers session. The commission, which would be made up of two officers from the opposing armies, will control the buffer zone separating the opposing forces.

They met at 3:40 p. m. (1:40 a. m. EDT) and recessed 1 hour, 50 minutes later without setting a time for another session.

DISCUSS ARRANGEMENTS

"We discussed suggested arrangements which they (the Reds) will consider and probably come back with their proposal," said navy Captain B. M. Coleman, McLean, Va., one of the three.

The staff session then reconvened at 4:40 p m. without the commission members.

Another United Nations spokesman said no truce meetings of any kind have been set for Tuesday, but they may be called by either side.

The main truce delegations presumably are awaiting a call from the lower level staff officers to set a date for the signing.

Both sides quickened the pace toward a truce signing in the wake of the sudden Communist announcement Sunday that they were ready to go ahead with final preparations in return for Allied assurance that South Korea would abide by a cease-fire.

MORE OPPOSITION?

But South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai hinted more opposition from Syngman Rhee's government might be in the wind with a statement that the Communist agreement contained "many traps."

He said it showed the Reds intend to take "all South Korea by subversive activity and by liquidating the army which we have built so painstakingly and with so much expense."

An unnamed Republic of Korea (RoK) spokesman said Allied assurances meant the UN "had lost the war."

1,500 Truckers Out On Strike

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

More than 1,500 truck drivers in nine southwestern Ontario cities struck today for higher wages. Thirty-six interurban transport companies from Hamilton to Windsor were closed and picketed.

The striking drivers are members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL-TLC). Only companies which carry freight between cities are affected.

Some 1,500 other truckers, not members of the teamsters union and who drive in local areas, are continuing normal operations.

Only a few pickets turned up when the strike went into effect However, hundreds started picketing the companies early this morning.

Scores of pickets spread across the highway leading from Burlington to Hamilton and stopped traffic this morning. There were no incidents, and local truckers were allowed to pass the lines.

Intend Canada To Become Fully Autonomous, PM Says

MONT JOLI, Que. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Sunday night his government aims to make Canada fully autonomous while protecting Quebec's language and religious rights.

Speaking in this lower St. Lawrence town at the gates of Gaspe peninsula, which serves as terminal for much of the air traffic to and from the great Quebec-Labrador iron mines, Mr. St. Laurent said Canada has travelled a good way in the direction of autonomy.

It had travelled a good way in the direction of full partnership with other North Atlantic countries for defence needs aimed at preventing a third world war.

COULD NOT STAND ASIDE

If such a war broke out, Canada could not stand aside he told about 1,500 persons who had come to hear him in the Mont Joli arena during one of the warmest evenings of the summer.

Speaking in French without notes, Mr. St. Laurent said he hoped Canada will soon be able to settle all its affairs without asking the permission of the British Parliament.

He did not mean Canada should be outside the Commonwealth.

"I want Canada to remain in the Commonwealth but with all the privileges of the United Kingdom itself."

Mr. St. Laurent said the Supreme Court of Canada had replaced the Privy Council of England as a court of last resort and the governor-general now was a Canadian.

NEED ARRANGEMENT

Canada could not yet amend its own constitution without asking permission of the mother country. Some arrangement had to be worked out with the consent of the provinces to achieve this step. He hoped the step could soon be taken.

Following the meeting, Mr. St. Laurent attended a brief reception and boarded his special train for St. Lawrence south shore points and the asbestos mining town of Thetford Mines as the Quebec portion of his national election campaign moved into its fourth day.

He referred briefly to the promise made by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, to cut taxes by $500,000,000.

Taxes were high, but expenses were high, too, and no one, he felt, wanted necessary defence measures and social benefits diminished.

Mr. St. Laurent told voters if they felt he isn't doing the best job possible, it was their duty to elect another man.

Disobey Drill Orders 7 Convicted Of Mutiny

FORT DIX, N.J. (AP)—Seven United States Army privates charged with disobeying an order to fall in for drill have been convicted of mutiny. Six of them were sentenced to 20 years in prison, the seventh to 15.

The army announced Saturday that the mutiny had taken place June 11. Capt. Harry H. Lapham, public information officer, said the seven were in a special unit made up of malcontent violators of military rules.

Lapham said the seven privates refused to fall in for close-order drill after being ordered to do so by a sergeant. He said they then refused when a commissioned officer repeated the order and explained the gravity of the offence to each man.

Gordon May Get Job In Britain

LONDON (CP)—Published reports suggested today that the British government may invite Canada's Donald Gordon to succeed Viscount Hurcomb as chairman of the commission which runs the nationalized inland transport system.

The Daily Telegraph said Transport Minister Alan Lennox-Boyd may invite a Canadian to head the commission, and The Daily Express said it is believed the man in question may be Gordon, Scottish-born president of the Canadian National Railways.

A CNR spokesman, here however, said today the whole idea seemed "unlikely."

Lord Hurcomb will retire next month. The commission, comprising a chairman and four other members, is the central executive body for Britain's inland transport system, publicly owned since Jan. 1, 1948.

In Montreal, Mr. Gordon declined to comment on the reports.

10 Planes Take Off In Search Of Pilot

NORTH BAY (CP)—Ten RCAF planes took off today in search of an air force pilot missing since Saturday in dense bush country between here and the Lakehead.

The missing plane, piloted by FO. J. L. Suttle, 25, of Calgary, was one of nine Mustangs of No. 403 reserve squadron returning to Western Canada after participating in Operation Tailwind, a defence and attack exercise in the Quebec-Ontario area.

The planes were bound from North Bay to the Lakehead on the second leg of their trip back to Calgary. Suttle's aircraft disappeared after about 25 minutes of flight.

Aiding Hungry East Berliners

By DON DOANE

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin expanded its food relief for hungry East Berliners today.

Despite Moscow's refusal to admit $15,000,000 worth of American aid into restive East Germany, West Berliners found several ways to slip food past the Iron Curtain to their neighbors under Soviet rule.

Thousands of food packages were handed out in two districts. Coupons redeemable in grocery stores were issued in others. All the East Berliners had to do was come across the sector border and pick up the gifts.

Donations from private citizens and public relief funds financed these stopgap plans to bolster East Berlin's courage until a large-scale government relief program can get under way early next week.

Communist officials, embarrassed by the eagerness with which their people accepted charity from "Western capitalists," rushed in new food supplies to replenish the empty shelves of state - owned stores.

Find No Negligence In Soldier's Death

OTTAWA (CP)—Army headquarters said Sunday there is nothing to indicate that Pte. Frederick Joseph Burke of Regina, who died Thursday after undergoing punishment at Petawawa military camp, received anything but normal treatment.

The Army said a board of inquiry has found there was no negligence or lack of proper consideration on the part of the staff of the detention barracks.

Burke collapsed after a 20-minute exercise on the Petawawa obstacle course while serving seven days' detention for being absent without leave and died in camp hospital a short time later.

A post mortem conducted Friday at Ottawa Civic Hospital showed that Burke died from "asphyxia caused by bilateral pneumonia."

Philip Falls Off Horse During Polo Game

AMERSHAM, England (Reuters) The Duke of Edinburgh fell when his horse slipped during a polo match Sunday but was able to continue the game. The Queen was not present.

The Duke was riding his chestnut mare Turkan—a wedding present from the president of Turkey—in the junior county cup final.

The crowd applauded as the Duke, 32, remounted and continued to play.

The Duke was playing for Cowdray Park. His team won an easy 6-1 victory.

This is the Duke's second recorded fall while playing polo.

U.S. Marines Driven Off 2 Key Outposts

SEOUL (AP)—Recklessly attacking Chinese engulfed two vital western front outposts defended by United States Marines Sunday night and the first marine survivors staggered back to Allied lines today.

In their last act before their radio went dead, the trapped marines, back in the battle lines only three weeks, called in their own artillery on top of them in a desperate effort to halt the violent onslaught.

The number of marines in the battle was not immediately released.

Fourteen members of the first marine division, were the first known survivors of the bloody battles for outposts East Berlin and Berlin, part of a key hill area on the western front. Eight were from Outpost Berlin and six from East Berlin.

DON'T KNOW DETAILS

How they got back was not learned immediately. It was assumed they worked their way down the bloodied slopes after the Reds left the hill during daylight.

They said more marines may still be alive in the battered bunkers and shell-ripped trenches on the outposts. The survivors described the hills as a battle-torn no man's land. They said no Chinese were left atop the outposts, which were plastered by savage Red and Allied artillery fire during the 1,500-man Red assault.

Allied fighter-bombers and marine guns pounded the hills relentlessly, but there was no immediate move to retake them.

The U.S. 5th Air Force said its planes, taking advantage of hot, clear weather, slammed 500,000 pounds of bombs at Communist frontlines from the Berlin outposts to the Kumsong front in the East.

LOSE 6,290 DEAD

Meanwhile, the U.S. 8th Army said the Communists lost 6,296 killed and 1,260 wounded across the front Sunday mostly on the turbulent east-central front, where the Reds last week hurled their biggest offensive in two years. The figure may have included some delayed reports.

A thunderous artillery barrage heralded the Reds' reckless assault on East Berlin and Berlin even as Communist and Allied truce teams met at Panmunjom to the southwest in an effort to sweep aside last barriers to a cease-fire.

Two reinforced Chinese battalions, about 750 men each, stormed the slopes of the twin hills Sunday.

About two hours later, a burst of machine-gun fire signalled the end of the marine resistance as the Chinese overran the outposts.

The Red victory—won with staggering casualties—gave the Communists full control of a vital hill area.

NO COUNTER-ATTACK

Allied observers speculated the Reds grabbed the Berlin outposts in the belief no effort would be made to retake them with an armistice apparently imminent.

The fighting on the western sector hills was the most violent along the 150-mile front, although smaller-scale but qually fierce action flared along the tense Kumsong sector in east-central Korea.

Buck Predicts U.K. Won't Buy Wheat

SUDBURY (CP) — Tim Buck, national leader of the Labor-Progressive Party, predicted Sunday that Britain will announce shortly that she "will not buy one bushel of wheat until Canada changes its present trade policy."

In a picnic address at nearby Trout Lake, Mr. Buck said Britain will divert its trade to Poland, Romania and other eastern European countries, including Russia, because of the Canadian government's insistence on receiving payment for Canadian goods in dollars rather than sterling.

He urged that Canada build up trade with Britain and the Soviet Union rather than with the United States.

Quaker Strike Ends

discussed some minor changes in the draft copy of the two-year contract. There were a few other details to be ironed out before a general return-to-work order was given by officials of Local 293. The union and management were scheduled to meet again at 3 p.m. and during this session the contract will likely be signed.

As the strike is not yet officially over, there is still some token picketing. Early today the pickets had abandoned their stand on Hunter St. bridge and at the other two posts—Simcoe St. and London St.—they were busy cleaning up the sites where they have maintained a 24-hour guard for nearly 13 weeks.

MAIN PROVISIONS

Main provisions of the company offer to the Peterborough workers which was accepted by them on July 12, are.

A contract to March 1, 1955;

Settlement pay of $90 for men and $75 to women;

An immediate wage increase of 15 per cent on present rates and a further increase of 2½ per cent January 1, 1954, bringing basic rate at the beginning of the year up to the union objective of $1.39½ an hour;

Immediate reduction of the work week from 44 to 40 hours;

Three weeks' vacations after 15 years, instead of after 20 years;

Swing shifts only applicable to the flour mill and allied departments, involving, according to a company estimate, 60 employees; watchmen, boiler room, electrical, power house and feed store will continue as formerly but on a 40-hour basis;

A Monday to Friday schedule for those employees not on swing shifts.

FEELING OF RELIEF

Throughout the city there was a general feeling of relief that the long strike is at an end. For the past two weeks—and particularly last week when there were a couple of scuffles on the picket line—the strike replaced the coming general election as the No. 1 topic of conversation in the Peterborough district.

After nearly three months the workers were feeling the financial pinch; the company wanted to get production underway again; district farmers were worried about disposing of their grain; and city merchants were noticing the slackness in sales.

It was this general feeling that the strike had gone on long enough that prompted Mayor Hugh Waddell to call a meeting July 9 in the city hall. At that meeting an acceptable formula was evolved and the membership voted July 12 to accept it.

Since then the holdup has been getting a formula equally acceptable to the Saskatoon workers who went on strike the same day as their fellow unionists at the Peterborough plant.

Drownings Take Heavy Toll Across Eastern Canada

By The Canadian Press

Drownings took a heavy toll in Eastern Canada over the weekend, claiming the lives of 25 of the 38 persons who met violent deaths. The hot weather that sent city residents to cottages and summer resorts also resulted in 11 fatal traffic accidents. A Canadian Press survey showed the heaviest loss of life in Quebec, where 23 people died, 17 of them by drowning. Eleven lost their lives in Ontario, two in Nova Scotia and one each in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

A boating accident cost the lives of a brother and sister on the Nation river near Papineauville, Que. The victims were Mrs. Rheaume Perrier, 18, and her 20-year-old brother, Rejean Fahey, both of Notre Dame de la Paix, Que.

DOUBLE FATALITIES

There were two double fatalities in accidents involving automobiles in Ontario. Rene Chasse, 25, of Matane, Que., and a 32-year-old man named Savoie from Bathurst, N.B., were killed when their car was struck by a freight train at a level crossing near Monteith.

At Whitby a two-car collision took the lives of Mrs. Margaret Thorburn and Edward Arthur Smith, both of Toronto.

Other Ontario fatalties:

Drowning: Claudette Rouleau, 5, in Lake Ramsey near Sudbury; George Beechman, Jr., 10, Port Weller, in Lake Ontario near his home; Robert McMillan, 15, Thornloe, in the Wabi river near Haileybury; Robert Reffner, 4, Youngwood, Pa., near the wharf at Bala; Bernice Cuckoo, 32, Maniwaki, Que., in Ottawa river at Ottawa.

Traffic: Mrs. Barbara Brittain, 24, Ottawa, in a two-car collision at Scarboro; Ardah McCallum, Iona Station, in a level-crossing accident near St. Thomas.

Striking Seamen Manning Ships

CHICAGO (AP) — Great Lakes seamen who tied up 17 tankers when they went on strike last month, are manning the ships again pending a vote on acceptance of a new contract, a union spokesman said today.

The men, members of the National Maritime Union (CIO), agreed to vote next month and in the meantime to continue work. Some of the union's proposals have been met, but not all, the spokesman said.

An estimated 510 men and 17 tankers were made idle by the strike. The old contract expired June 5 and union members had refused to work without a contract. Representatives of the union and firms engaged in bulk shipping in the Great Lakes region had negotiated a month until the men agreed to the vote.

Adrian Duffy, union vice-president said the NMU is trying to bring the pay of Great Lakes seamen into line with that of coastal crews on the seaboards. He estimated that the average pay for a tanker crew member on the Great Lakes is $350 monthly, including overtime. He said members of coastal tanker crews averaged $450 a month.

1. The Peiping radio announced that Czechoslovakian and Polish delegates who would serve on a four-nation armistice supervisory commission have arrived in the Red China capital. The Swedish and Swiss delegates are already in Tokyo.

RESUME WORK

2. The Reds sent 200 North Korean and Chinese troops to resume work on the "signing building" at Panmunjom. Construction was suspended a month after Rhee freed 27,000 anti-Red North Korean prisoners from Allied camps. Communist correspondent Alan Winnington of the London Daily Worker said the building should be finished Thursday but the signing probably would not be that early.

3. Gen. Mark Clark, UN Far East commander in Tokyo, hailed the Red go-ahead as "most encouraging," and said it "should lead to an early signing." However, he said some details remained to be worked out.

4. Peiping radio said the Communist agreement to go ahead with truce signing preparations came after "resolute efforts by the (Red) Korean and Chinese side in the past one month."

5. Liaison officers, who have maintained the Allied-Communist contact during the prolonged negotiations, conferred 49 minutes and recessed without setting another meeting date, suggesting their work was finished.

FIRST REACTION

Foreign Minister Pyun's comments in Seoul represented the first official reaction by the South Korean government to the latest Panmunjom developments.

"We did not like the armistice talks from the beginning," Pyun said. "We feel as bad now as we did before."

Pyun is one of Rhee's closest advisers on truce matters and has been the most vocal opponent of the truce within the government.

CCF Asks Food Surplus Used

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said Sunday night North America's food surplus must be used to relieve hunger in the Far East if countries there are to be saved from communism.

In a federal election campaign speech in this Northern Ontario gold-mining centre, he said Canada has more grain than she can consume. In the United States, a government forecast had said, there will be enough grain at the end of the present crop season to feed U. S. citizens until 1956.

Meanwhile, taking the world as a whole, two persons out of every three went to bed hungry every night. Communists won support by promising a bowl of rice.

WRONG RATIO

For every $100 Canada spent on defence, she paid out $1 in aid to backward areas. Defence was necessary but the ratio was wrong.

Mr. Coldwell spoke in the gathering dusk to an audience of 350 persons in a schoolyard. Earlier he drove out to a beach at Round Lake and addressed 300 from a pavilion verandah.

At Round Lake he said that in Ontario and Quebec there was an accumulation of 30,000,000 pounds of cheese when the season opened May 1.

He said that in eastern Quebec some farmers are offering to let Americans harvest their hay crop and take it away for $1 a load.

Tow Cable Struck By Hastings Driver

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) While Fred B. Morrow of Hastings was pulling a car out of the ditch with his tow truck on the River road in Hastings about 7.30 p. m. Saturday, an old model car, driven by Charles F. Rupert, 27, of Hastings, came around a curve and collided with the tow cable.

OPP Constable Archie Eadie, who investigated said Rupert would probably be charged with driving while impaired.

Damage to the front of the car was slight.

The 37-year-old prospector, subpoenaed by coroner Rioux for appearance at the inquest, was located in northwestern Quebec, miles from Gaspe where he was visiting mining associates.

Police said his appearance at the inquest probably would be little more than a formality though it was hoped his information might help police in their investigation of the mysterious disappearance case.

SET UP CAMP

Evidence collected by police indicates that the three men from Hollidaysburg set up their hunting camp in an old loggers' cabin. The spot is along the northern branch of the St. Jean river.

Police found a large number of bear tracks at the site and believe one of the hunters, believed to be Eugene Lindsey, was devoured.

DEVOURED REMAINS

Police have discounted the theory that bears attacked the hunters, but accepted the theory that wild animals devoured the remains.

The hunters' truck was found four miles from the camp site. The battery had run down and the truck was in a condition to indicate it had stalled on the trip into the forest.

Investigation has disclosed the men left Gaspe about June 9, drove some 40 miles along a road leading west to Gaspe copper mines in Holland township, then turned south onto a bumpy, mountainous logging route.

Police believe it was at this point that Coffin may have met the hunters. They said Coffin returned to Gaspe with one of the hunters, believed to have been Richard Lindsey, to purchase a fuel pump for the truck.

The police said they have established that Coffin took the hunter to a shop operated by his brothers Don and Wes. An attempt to weld the pump failed and a new one was purchased. Police also said Coffin and the hunter later were seen drinking bee in a local pub.

Mrs. Albert Coffin, the prospector's mother who lives on a farm in nearby York Centre, said her son left Gaspe July 12. Coffin's wife was in Montreal with her mother at the time.

Slow Trading Brings Mixed Price Pattern

TORONTO (CP)—Slow early afternoon trading produced a mixed price pattern at the stock market today.

Golds and industrials managed modest index gains but base metals and western oils faded.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals were unusually quiet today in trendless dealings that saw Gunnar, Pitch-Ore and Chimo ease but Conwest, Nesbitt Labine and Landover edge forward.

In golds gains spread over a narrow list of issues—most of them juniors. Macleod, Madsen, East Malartic and Preston East Dome firmed from five to 10 cents each while Lake Shore and Hollinger topped winners in seniors.

Western oils weakened after early firmness disappeared in midmorning. Down were Federated Petroleum, Western Leasehold and Home Oil but Husky countered the trend with a 30-cent gain.

Base metals improved a bit. Smelters and Noranda made fractional progress. United Asbestos, Ontario Pyrites and Inco tended lower.

northbound from the city for Lindsay.

The cars met head-on 180 feet south of the intersection of Highway 7 and the road to Bridgenorth. Provincial police who investigated believe the Leishman car to be a total loss, while more than $700 damage was done to Bond's car.

The Port Credit man's car, a 1953 convertible, had only 134 miles logged on its speedometer.

More damage and worse injuries would have resulted, police believe, had either car been travelling fast. Speed of both was set at "below 30 miles an hour".

An unidentified motorist on the scene drove the passengers of Bond's car to hospital while Gordon LaPlante, RR 2, Peterborough, took Leishman's passengers to hospital. A second unidentified driver took Leishman himself to Civic Hospital.

OPP Constable Emmet Crough investigated.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 29-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Friday's noon rate was 5-32. Pound sterling $2.79, against $2.79⅛.

Oshawa Priest Freed By Reds

HONG KONG (AP)—A 54-year-old Canadian priest dressed only in frayed shorts and a polo shirt arrived last night from a Chinese Communist island and said the people there were dissatisfied with Red rule.

Rev. J. E. Venini of Oshawa came here from Lowong Island, carrying all his worldly possessions in a potato sack.

He said the Chinese public still does not know that the Russian leadership has kicked out Lavrenty Beria, head of the Soviet secret police.

Father Venini said the Chinese are fed up with Communist rule and, if there were a free election the Reds would be out.

The priest spent 27 years in China. He was accused by the Reds of cutting the hearts from cadavers to make medicine in his small mission clinic.

In Oshawa Mrs. Leo Kanaph, Father Venini's sister, said the last letter she received from her brother was 14 months ago. It appeared to have been smuggled out of the country. The address was written in a strange hand and the letter was postmarked from the British embassy in Shanghai.

In the letter, Father Venini said he had received some mail from Canada, including one from a member of a religious order in Toronto in which were enclosed clippings telling of the death of King George VI. He said he was called to Communist headquarters and given a severe grilling before he was given the clippings.

Say Taxpayers

At Cambridge, Mr. Drew also criticized income tax investigators, who, he said, are "hounding the small taxpayers and going back 15 or 20 years demanding records they can't possibly produce."

"Our party objects to this persecution. We object to these government snoopers."

Mr. Drew said he was not talking of taxpayers who falsified income tax returns, but those who made honest returns only to be asked for further details several years afterwards.

Tax investigators demanded that farmers keep the kind of records that would be kept by large corporations.

"They are acting as if they were your masters, not your servants. You have a far greater right to demand an accounting from them than they have to demand it of you."

Fined For Speeding

A Keene man, Percy Wood, 23, was fined a total of $35 in Magistrates Court today on charges of having liquor in a place other than his residence and speeding. The two charges were laid July 19.

Wood, stopped for driving 50 miles an hour on George St. early Sunday morning, was found to have liquor in his vehicle. He was fined $15 and $2.50 costs on each count.

Pleading guilty to having liquor, Charles Taylor, 48, of Curve Lake and fined $10 and $2.50 costs on a charge laid June 29.

Trade Policies Under Fire From 2 Opposition Parties

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

The leaders of the Progressive Conservative and CCF parties fired broadsides at government trade policy during the weekend. Instead of firing back, Mr. St. Laurent made a speech in which he said he hopes for greater Canadian autonomy. In speeches at Cambridge and Amherst, N.S., Hon. George Drew blamed Liberal government trade policy for an "alarming" import surplus in the first five months of this year. At Kirkland Lake, M. J. Coldwell said Canada should promote British buying by accepting some payment for her goods in sterling. Mr. St. Laurent didn't discuss government trade policy, already fairly well explored in the earlier weeks of the Aug. 10 election campaign.

Instead, at Mont Joli, Que., on the upper St. Lawrence river, he drew a picture of a Canada which would have the constitutional authority to settle all its affairs without reference to another country.

CONFIRMS RUMORS

Meanwhile at Cap St. Ignace, Que., 140 miles southwest of Mont Joli, Finance Minister Abbott made an announcement which confirmed rumors drifting about government circles for many months.

He said that if elected he would not again occupy the finance portfolio. That would be filled by Jean Lesage, Liberal member for Montmagny-l'Islet riding in the last House of Commons, if Mr. Lesage were re-elected.

Mr. Abbott was speaking in support of Mr. Lesage, his parliamentary assistant in the last House.

Mr. Drew wound up his week-long tour of the Maritimes Saturday. He moves into Quebec today and will spend the next three weeks there and in Ontario where 160 of the Commons seats are at stake.

Besides criticizing government trade policy, he took a shot at what he termed federal government "snoopers." Tax investigators were "hounding the small taxpayers and going back 15 or 20 years demanding records they can't possibly produce."

GIVE EXPLANATIONS

The question was not one of investigating those persons who made false tax returns, but of requiring persons who made honest returns to give explanations of the earnings several years later.

"They are acting as if they were your masters, not your servants," said Mr. Drew. "You have a far greater right to demand an accounting from them than they have to demand it of you."

Of government trade policy, the Progressive Conservative leader said:

"The fact is that this government exploited Europe's post-war needs for our products in exchange for American dollar aid without any serious attempt to establish firm long-term markets.

EXPORTS FALLING

"Now when those long-term markets are disappearing and competition is the order of the day our exports to the sterling areas are falling in the most alarming manner while many of our products are being barred by the United States."

Mr. Coldwell, who campaigned last week in the Maritimes, spoke of falling farm prices in his Kirkland Lake speech.

He said there is an accumulation of 30,000,000 pounds of cheese in Ontario and Quebec. In eastern Quebec some farmers were offering hay at $1 a load to anyone who would harvest it. There was no adequate outlet for the wheat crop of the Prairies.

He urged that Canada supply what he termed her natural markets in the United Kingdom and western Europe which did not produce enough food of their own. Canada could accept sterling for British purchases and invest it in Africa, India, Pakistan and other undeveloped areas.

Mr. Coldwell moves through Ontario until Thursday. Then he will campaign in Manitoba.

SETTLE OWN AFFAIRS

Mr. St. Laurent said at Mont Joli he hopes Canada will soon be able to settle all its affairs without asking the permission of another country. He was referring to the existing legislative process which requires that an amendment to the British North America Act—which sets the Canadian constitution—be passed by the British Parliament.

He said that Canada should be able to amend its constitution without asking British permission and declared that he hopes that "my grandchildren . . . will see the day when all that concerns Canadians will be settled within Canada."

This would not mean that Canada would be outside the Commonwealth.

"I want Canada to remain in Commonwealth but with all the privileges of the United Kingdom itself," said Mr. St. Larent.

He referred—as he has often done before—to the government's record.

It was apparent, he said, that the people of Canada seemed "fairly well satisfied" with the Liberal administration. Although there was prosperity in Canada, the government did not claim credit for it. It was the result of work done by everyone.

Mr. St. Laurent this week moves about Quebec, with a brief plane trip to the Maritimes.

FIRST "NIGHT ACE" — Navy Lt. Guy Bordelon, of Monroe, La., became the first "night ace" of the Korean war by downing his fifth Communist plane in a night engagement over Seoul. When the 31-year-old pilot's "kill" claim is confirmed, he will have four firsts: first pilot to become an ace in a propeller-driven plane; first to knock down five propeller-driven enemy planes; first to shoot down five planes in night battles, and first to down five "Bedcheck Charlies," small Red planes which drop small bombs or mortar shells.

Abbott Announces Lesage Next Finance Minister

CAP ST. IGNACE, Que. (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott said Sunday night Jean Lesage, his Parliamentary assistant and Liberal member for Montmagny l'Islet riding in the last House of Commons, would become the next finance minister if re-elected in the federal elections.

Speaking in support of Mr. Lesage in this St. Lawrence south shore village, 45 miles east of Quebec, Mr. Abbott said it would be the first time a French-Canadian had held this portfolio.

Of the election campaign in general Mr. Abbott said the Progressive Conservatives were not sincere when they promised to cut taxes by $5,000,000.

ONLY TWO WAYS

He said there were only two ways of reducing taxes — reduce government services or borrow money.

The Liberals had already reduced taxes in the last two budgets by more than $5,000,000 and they will do it again as soon as national production increases and the international situation is more secure.

In a campaign speech Saturday night at Beausejour, Man., Mr. Abbott said the only alternative to a Liberal administration after Aug. 10 would be a weak Progressive Conservative government bolstered possibly by a "rump Social Credit party from Western Canada."

He told a crowd of 130 at Beausejour that the real issue in the federal election is whether people believe "the Liberals under Prime Minister St. Laurent could do a better job than the Conservatives under George Drew."

P.C. Party Names 4 To Act As Scrutineers

TORONTO (CP)—The Progressive Conservative party has named two men from Quebec and two from Ontario to act as scrutineers for the armed services in Europe and the Far East in the general election next month.

Dr. J. L. Petitclerc of Giffard, Que., and Edward F. Conover of Meadowvale, Ont., will represent the party in London, where the votes of servicemen serving in Europe will be counted.

E. A. T. Paquet of Ville St. Laurent and William L. Archer of Toronto will officiate at the Far East returning office in Kure, Japan.

Each party with a representation of 10 or more members in the Commons is entitled to have scrutineers in attendance at the overseas voting stations.

Hillary Honey Boom

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—There may be nothing in the idea that honey from the hives of beekeeper Sir Edmund Hillary gave him stamina to reach the top of Mount Everest, but New Zealand housewives think it is worth trying. Shops have been inundated with demands for Hillary's product.

Candidate Finds Many Hurdles In Elections

OTTAWA (CP)—Many hurdles must be leaped before the Canadian who wants to be a candidate in the federal election can contest one of the 265 Commons seats.

Besides possessing vote-getting ability — theoretically, anyway—he must be 21 and an eligible voter and have at least 10 voting friends and $200 to bet on himself.

There is also the general cost of running a campaign, which can be high.

By and large, most Canadians can get into the fight, but there are exceptions.

Those ineligible include prison inmates, federal civil servants, Doukhobors and most Indians on reservations.

OTHERS DISQUALIFIED

The insane are disqualified, and so are judges and electoral officers, clerks of the peace, county crown attorneys, government contractors, members of provincial legislatures and of the Northwest Territories Council.

Members of the active forces can run for office in wartime. However, the Korea police action does not count as a war for election purposes.

Shareholders of companies with government contracts are eligible, except where the contract is for building a public work.

Apart from eligibility, there also is the problem of support. A candidate does not necessarily have to live in the riding he plans to contest, but he must be nominated by at least 10 qualified voters in that riding.

He must put up $200 as an election deposit and be prepared to lose it if he does not get enough votes. The money is forfeited to the federal treasury if he does not obtain half the votes polled by the winning candidate.

Freedom of City

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The city of London recently presented the Royal Canadian Regiment with an illuminated scroll giving it permission to march through the city with "bayonets fixed, drums beating and colors flying."

Civic Officials Ask Mines Not To Resume Operations

TIMMINS (CP)—Civic officials issued a joint statement Sunday, calling on owners of the three district strike-bound mines—Broulan Reef, Hallnor and Preston East Dome—not to make any attempt to resume operations just yet.

Mayor Wilf Spooner of Timmins, Reeve Victor Evans of Tisdale Township and Reeve Al James of Whitney Township said they felt if no attempts were made to get the 900-odd strikers back to work there would be no violence in the touchy situation.

"If we receive that assurance from the companies," their statement read, "we will immediately request Premier Frost to call a meeting of the operators, the unions and ourselves to resolve the differences which exist."

The differences which do exist are mainly over wages and new contracts, the seat of the trouble being at the Broulan Reef property. The miners at Broulan, all members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), walked off their jobs July 13. Since the same entrance is used by Hallnor employees, their mine was tied up when they refused to cross picket lines.

Wednesday, Broulan Reef obtained an injunction restraining picketing of their property. The Broulan strikers immediately agreed to go back to work, but workers walked out. Broulan miners refused to cross their picket lines.

The picket lines were comparatively quiet over the weekend. Only a few picketers were at each gate Sunday. Some workers passed through without incident.

A conciliation board recommendation made public last Wednesday would give Broulan workers a seven-cent-an-hour across - the-board increase. Basic rate at Broulan is $1.02 for surface workers and $1.16 for miners.

Fail To Face Market Problem

SHARON (CP)—Hon. Earl Rowe, Progressive Conservative member of the last Parliament for Dufferin-Simcoe, said Saturday that the government has failed to face up to the problem of marketing farm products.

Speaking at a picnic rally for C. A. Cathers, Progressive Conservative candidate in York North, Mr. Rowe charged the government with ostrich-like tactics.

Not only had it failed to devise a satisfactory policy regarding the marketing of farm products, but it had not recognized that the market is declining.

Mr. Rowe attacked Colin Campbell, president of the York North Liberal Association, for his statement last week that Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew is "probably one of the most-hated men in Canada."

Mr. Rowe said such attacks reveal "the fear of desperate men."

Candidates Busy In New Riding

LINDSAY—(ENS)—The political pot in Victoria, Haliburton and north Ontario county is simmering and beginning to boil.

C. W. Hodgson, Progressive Conservative candidate, has held organization meetings at Sunderland for Brock township, at Beaverton for Thorna township and at Hartley for Eldon township. The attendance was large.

Dr. Foster Graham, Liberal Progressive candidate, will be the speaker at a special rally in Coronation hall, Omemee, on Wednesday night.

The Liberal Progressives have secured new headquarters on Kent St. in the store formerly occupied by the Liquor Control Board. The Progressive Conservatives are using the town hall.

Veteran Retires

MELBOURNE (CP) — Airline pilots from all over Australia gathered here recently to honor Capt. Frank Cooper, who has retired as chief pilot for Trans-Australia Airlines. He has an unbroken 27-year-flying career, beginning with service in the Royal Australian Air Force in 1926.

Mine Union At Timmins Supported By Coldwell

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, in a campaign speech at this gold-mining centre, Sunday night accused the management of gold mines at Timmins of trying to break the union and discard collective bargaining.

Mr. Coldwell said the issue in the Timmins strike is union security, wages and hours.

He said that the Broulan Reef mine, where men are out, had paid between 1951 and April 1 last a total of $1,400,000 in dividends.

Research by competent persons into mining statements led them to believe there had been an attempt to "plunder" the federal treasury, which in the last four years had paid the companies more than $40,000,000 in production subsidies.

The CCF insisted that the companies in return should improve conditions for the community and for labor.

"Obviously Broulan Reef and other mines have not been doing this," Mr. Coldwell said, "but have been paying inflated dividends to the shareholders."

WINS FUNDS TO FIGHT RARE DISEASE—Lee Henry, 11, of New York, victim of the rare blood disease hemophilia, made a heart-touching appeal to aid fellow victims when he appeared on Dennis James' "Turn to a Friend" radio show. So as a reward, Dennis and film star Lenore Ulric planned this surprise dinner for him at New York's Belmont Plaza Hotel. The Hemophilia Foundation supervises distribution of funds for the fight against the rare condition, in which failure of the blood to clot causes excessive, sometimes fatal, bleeding.

Election Date Shows Liberals Lack Sympathy With People

PICKERING. — Choice of August as the month for the federal election shows that Prime Minister St. Laurent and his advisers "are in their stone towers, completely removed from and out of sympathy with the common people," Joseph Noseworthy, CCF MP for York South, charged here Sunday.

"It could be that they have occupied those towers for too long a period for the country's good," he told a Workmen's Circle picnic meeting. "A wave of indignant protests expressed in ballots on Aug. 10 could bring a callous government to time."

Certainly, he declared, the government could have given no thought to the cost to working men on holidays who wanted to vote next month.

"In fact, one wonders whether the government had any concern for any class of citizens in this matter. They seem to place so little importance on the place of a general election in our democratic system that the one and only feature that mattered was their own convenience and political expediency.

MAY ALL RIGHT

Mr. Noseworthy said voting day might easily have been set in May, and suggested that the Liberals put it off until after the Coronation so as to reap prestige from their representation at Westminster Abbey.

It also could have been put over until June, 1954, "but the truth is that the Liberals feared that the rising tide of discontent with their government would be much higher in June, 1954, than in August, 1953.

"Regardless of what party suffers most from an August election," Mr. Noseworthy said, "the date does nothing to encourage citizens to exercise their franchise and places entirely unnecessary obstacles in the way of tens of thousands who would otherwise have had the franchise."

Despite this, the Liberals, only party to know of the date, failed even to revise the Election Act before parliament prorogued to provide for an advanced poll for holiday-makers.

Sask. No Closer To Obtaining Dam

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Saskatchewan is no closer to getting the South Saskatchewan river dam than it was 10 years ago, despite a provincial government offer to put up half the total cost, Premier Douglas said Saturday night.

Speaking in support of David Corney, CCF candidate in Prince Albert, Mr. Douglas admitted the CCF would probably not be in a position to form a government after the federal election, but argued that CCF members elected would actively crusade against poverty and want.

He accused the federal government of lethargy and indifference and urged voters to re-awaken the administration.

Many Immigrants

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Sweden, which has 112,100 foreign workers employed, was described as an "immigrant country" by Per Eckerberg, permanent secretary to the Swedish government. He said Sweden has pursued a policy of encouraging the creation of a common North European labor market.

Question:

Mr. Swanston, on what national problems can you claim to have some first-hand knowledge?

Answer:

As chairman of the Board of Peterborough Civic Hospital, I can claim to know one of the Public Health problems of this country intimately. The country needs hospitals, and believe me, without the financial grants that have been made by the Liberal Government, the building of hospitals would be even more difficult than it is. I know hospital financing on the most practical level; I know where money must be spent, and also where money can be saved. I know the hospital problem because I am concerned with it every day of my life.

UNJUST TAXATION UNDER LIBERAL GOVERNMENT ADMITTED BY LIBERAL CANDIDATE FOR PETERBOROUGH

We quote from a statement by the Liberal Candidate in the edition of the Examiner of Thursday, July 16th: "In my opinion the burden of tax on just about everything that is needed to build a home, or furnish one, or live in one is unjust." This is a candid admission by your Liberal candidate that taxation under the St. Laurent government HAS BEEN and is UNJUST. Yet in the same article he urges you to vote this same government back into power on August 10th.

Surely the Liberal Candidate will give the taxpayers of Peterborough credit for having a little more common sense. The majority of them realize by now that if they wish to see a reduction in taxation they must have a change of government. The only other party which could form a government is the Progressive Conservative Party, which is definitely pledged to cut taxes. Vote FRASER and tax reduction.

Growing Pains

The United States is still undergoing a painful process of mental adjustment to her new position as leader of the Free World. It is not unnatural that Americans should at times hark back wistfully to the days when Britain guarded the seas (though nothing is said of this aspect) and America unfolded her own immense resources undistracted by foreign commitments. It is only potentially dangerous when this natural nostalgia for an era that will never return is rationalized as a possible basis for America to abdicate from her grave responsibilities at the present time.

* * *

This type of loose thinking is not confined to the professional isolationists. Dorothy Thompson writes: "The United States was a great and secure country when it followed George Washington's advice to have no permanent foreign entanglements, when it 'relied upon itself, invited no one, sat in calmness and light, and knew no discouragement'—to quote Walt Whitman's immortal description of liberty. American power in reserve has ever 'cheered up slaves and horrified tyrants'."

* * *

The reality behind the combined rhetoric of Dorothy Thompson and Walt Whitman is less palatable. It involves the break-up of the whole system of alliances for the purpose of containing Communism, the abandonment of America's allies to be swallowed piecemeal and the eventual subjugation of the American continent by a Communist Eurasia. There would be very little "calmness and light" if President Eisenhower were to take this sort of talk seriously.

* * *

Fortunately for America and the world there is a growing number of Americans who understand the implications of her present position of power and wealth. But America is still suffering from growing pains.

Pressure On Rhee

Rhee's intransigeance—some went so far as to call it treachery—in wrecking the armistice negotiations by freeing the Prisoners of War is rebounding unpleasantly. The Chinese Communists are determined to teach him a lesson and have attacked the RoK lines with some 100,000 troops in the largest attack in two years. At the same time he has been stalling in the truce negotiations in order to give time to maul South Korea's best divisions and to be able to claim that the U.N. forces were obliged by military pressure to seek a truce.

We fear that the lesson will not be understood, for Rhee has the support of a large section of the populace of South Korea in his policy of union of North and South Korea at all costs; and it is doubtful whether sober considerations will ever make much headway against this "all or nothing" attitude.

However wrong-headed Rhee and his supporters may be we should make some effort to understand his point of view. He is an old man, and old men are inclined to be stubborn. He has spent much of his life in exile rather than live in Korea under Japanese rule. All that time he tried to organize resistance to the Japanese, though until the last war the liberation of Korea from foreign domination must have seemed a forlorn hope. His experience in public office dates only from 1945, and this holds good for his colleagues too, for the Japanese would not allow Koreans to take part in the government of their own country. Thus he has had little training in the game of political horse-dealing which is necessary in the conduct of negotiations with friend and foe alike: his whole inclination is to go bull-headed for his objective, which has remained the same throughout his career—a free, united Korea, preferably under the leadership of Syngman Rhee.

It may seem strange that Rhee has managed to align so many Koreans, including some who are politically opposed to him on other grounds, in favour of a policy that can only bring more hardship and destruction to the devastated peninsula, but the psychology of a nation at war often disregards such considerations. To the South Koreans Rhee appears as a sort of Churchill booming out that the Koreans will never surrender and never rest satisfied until Korea is free and united.

The U.N. must not be deflected from its course in favour of visionary schemes that would embroil the whole world in atomic warfare, but it would do well to keep closer in touch with what the South Koreans are thinking. If it had done so earlier the recent embroglio need never have happened. The only party to profit from it have been the Reds, and they are making full use of their opportunity.

Hilaire Belloc

We regret to hear that Hilaire Belloc, the illustrious author, has died at the age of 82 as a result of falling into a lighted fireplace.

One of the strongest claims of English to be the most universal language must surely rest on the strange fact that some of the most famous English authors hail from non-English-speaking parts of the globe. Joseph Conrad was born in Poland and spoke hardly any English at all until he landed in England at the age of 20; his first book, Almayer's Folly, was written at the age of 38.

Belloc was born at St. Cloud, near Paris. His father was a French barrister, his mother an Englishwoman. He went to school in England but returned to France for his period of military service; this being completed he went to Balliol College, Oxford, which had during the previous twenty years or so acquired enormous prestige under the brilliant leadership of Benjamin Jowett. Unlike the majority of his contemporaries who had come straight from school, Belloc, with his service in the French army behind him, seemed mature and experienced. He read History, and his brilliant undergraduate career culminated with him being elected President of the Oxford Union, nursery of many a famous parliamentarian, and taking First Class Honours.

With such a background it might be expected that Belloc would turn his attentions to politics. He did indeed stand for election as a Liberal in the 1906 landslide and held the seat for four years. But his main love was in literature.

He has written 153 books, mainly of an historical and biographic nature. A convinced Roman Catholic, who saw in the Middle Ages an era of faith, when Christendom was united as it has never been since, he set about the task of revaluing historical figures in the light of his convictions.

He found an ally in his crusade in G. K. Chesterton, and the similarity in their outlook and style was so marked that they were humorously lumped together as "the Chester-Belloc," a sort of improbable heraldic beast. These two men set about extolling the Middle Ages, the divine right of kings and the authority of the Pope while denouncing usury, Whiggery, the Jews, Socialism (except their own mediaeval brand of Guild Socialism) and other characteristics of the modern English way of life. G.K.C. died in 1936, but Belloc continued to pour out a steady stream of books. He whitewashed Charles I and Charles II and painted extra-large warts on the face of Cromwell. He has also written some exquisitely humorous children's books, such as the Cautionary Tales, in which he parodies a type of children's book that is now extinct. What child or adult does not thrill responsively to an opening such as this:

"A crime that everyone abhors
In little girls is slamming doors."

Or the dreadful fate of a young scion of the British aristocracy:

"Go out and govern New South Wales".

Looking back on the palmy days of the Chester-Belloc, with their urbane paradoxes and their mellow gusto we cannot help comparing them favourably with the more recent crop of Roman Catholic apologists in the world of literature: Evelyn Waugh and Graham Greene despite their talent for writing display an embittered distaste for life that contrasts unpleasantly with their precursors. If only they could rediscover the are of joyful controversy.

Ghoulish Signs?

The Highway Commission of the state of Maine is removing red highway signs marking the place of fatal traffic accidents. This is being done because of numerous complaints that the signs were 'ghoulish'.

More important is the question whether such signs are effective. If it can be shown that they are effective in reducing accidents then the more the merrier; let them be as ghoulish as possible. If, on the other hand, they fail to justify their purpose by all means let them be removed. The countryside is spoiled enough already by hoardings and road signs.

We do not think that an occasional forceful reminder would do any harm. If all the accidents that have happened during the last five years in the Peterborough area were posted on the spot where they occurred it might have a salutary effect for a while.

But every reminder is staled by repetition. It may be that the Maine signs have outlived their usefulness and that Maine motorists have become hardened to them. There are so many road signs that they cancel one another out. It might be a good thing to reduce their number rather than add to them. If all except essential road signs were removed perhaps drivers would pay more attention to what was left.

PROFILE:

Lord Salisbury

WHEN the Americans look at the British Acting Foreign Secretary, at present in Washington for talks of great importance, they will see a man of simple dress and modest manners, an amiable, stooping figure, utterly informal and unpretentious.

It will be difficult for them to realise that this plain and hard-working politician is the person who but six weeks ago was playing a leading role, in ermine and coronet, at Westminster Abbey. There he carried the Sword of State, while nearby his sister, Mary, Duchess of Devonshire, walked with such striking elegance, directly behind the Queen and her maids of honour, as Mistress of the Robes.

The Marquess of Salisbury was the only man present on that occasion who bridged the gulf between those with political power to-day and those descended from the great nobles who had political power in the past. His family, the Cecils, have a unique record; they played an important part in the reign of the first Elizabeth, whose closest adviser was William Cecil, and now do so in that of the second Elizabeth, providing in between a fair number of Lord Chamberlains and Secretaries of State, and one Prime Minister.

THAT Prime Minister, a most eminent and bearded Victorian, was still alive when his grandson, Robert Anthony James Gascoyne-Cecil, the present Marquess, was born in 1893. Hatfield—the romantic family home in its great deer park, but with surroundings much suburbanised since James I presented it to the family—provided an extraordinary setting for his youth. There was wealth, mainly coming from the Gascoyne brewing and other interests with which the Cecils had allied themselves early in the nineteenth century; and there was serious intellectual conversation.

The boy grew up hearing the great problems of the day being discussed, at leisure, by the leading men of the day, with his father and uncles joining in. All his grandfather's sons were to have distinguished careers. The eldest was to become a careful Leader of the House of Lords; William to be Bishop of Exeter; Robert was to devote a lifetime to international affairs, becoming the chief British proponent of the League of Nations; and Hugh was to play the role of philosopher of High Toryism and to become Provost of Eton. In the next generation, Lord David Cecil, Salisbury's younger brother, established himself with a book on the poet, Cowper, and is to-day a distinguished Oxford don with a literary following.

This family background has given Salisbury an independence of judgement and sense of vocation that is in the best traditions of conservatism. He regards it as natural that he should do his duty and serve his country; and, in all modesty, he would assume that this could best be done by controlling some department of Government. His judgement of what is the right policy for the country is not based on what people want, but on what he himself regards as being both right and possible. He is a democrat in the sense that the people have a veto which he fully accepts; but he regards it as a politician's duty to provide leadership.

IN foreign affairs, he is a practised devotee of the grand strategy of checking war by international action; but he probably assumes that Britain should always play a fundamentally independent role, with her sovereignty intact. He is deeply conservative in his desire to hold on to present possessions, whether India or Hatfield. And he has little of the commercial instincts which have, from Peel to Baldwin, been one animating force in British conservatism.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN Lord Cranborne (as he then was) entered the House of Commons in 1929, he made foreign affairs his chief interest. As the nephew of Lord Robert Cecil, President of the League of Nations Union, he naturally spoke on League matters, and soon became Parliamentary Private Secretary to the young Minister for League. Affairs, Mr. Anthony Eden. When Mr. Eden became Foreign Secretary, after the Hoare-Laval fiasco, Cranborne got his first ministerial post as his Under-Secretary.

His courteous and helpful answers to Parliamentary questions in the troubled days of the Abyssinan and Spanish wars earned him the regard of the House, and his real modesty and friendliness won him effection on both sides. Yet it was easy to underestimate this genial, rather untidy, often unpunctual, figure who put the Foreign Office view faithfully and without eloquence.

Then, as matters worsened, he made an impact of real strength. It came at the anxious and dark hour when Mr. Eden explained to a tense House why he had resigned his office rather than carry on negotiations with Mussolini. Following him, Lord Cranborne rose and gave the reasons for his own resignation. Without losing his composure, he said quite bluntly: "These negotiations are not a contribution to peace, but a surrender to blackmail."

From that date, February 21, 1938 till the outbreak of war, Cranborne was a leading opponent of the Chamberlain foreign policy. Of Munich, he said, "It has been described as peace with honour. Where is honour? I have looked and cannot see it . . . It is one of the most humiliating episodes in our history." Characteristically, his opposition was empirical rather than ideological. He told his constituents: "It would have been better at the start not to have intervened in the Czech crisis, since we did not intend war."

AS A Conservative critic of Munich, he was inevitably in the Churchill administration from 1940-45; but he never became one of the Prime Minister's cronies. In the Cabinet, he would express disagreement with a naturalness that none of his colleagues could command, and showed himself full of moral courage. He never held any post of great importance, and his specific request to join the War Cabinet in 1941, when he became a peer in his own right and was made Leader of the Upper House, was rejected.

However, near the war's end he was given an important mission; he was sent to the founding of the United Nations at the San Francisco Conference, where for most of the time he was leader of the British delegation. Remembering the fate of the League, he opposed the right of veto being given to the Big Five Powers but, acting empirically, he dropped the matter when he saw he could not persuade Russia or America to agree. He rather shocked his American colleagues when, with unmodified imperialism, he refused to consider the possibility of the United Nations Trusteeship Council being allowed to set foot on any piece of British Colonial soil.

AFTER the 1945 election, he had the very delicate task of leading the large Conservative majority in the Lords against a Labour Government. This established his reputation. He made no attempt to conceal his extreme, sometimes passionate, distaste for Socialist measures of all sorts; yet he more frequently used his majority to amend than to obstruct. Of 210 Lords' amendments to the Nationalisation of Transport Bill, 173 were accepted by the Commons.

But on issues where the Labour Party was divided, such as the Steel Bill or the abolition of the Death Penalty, he used the Tory majority in the Lords successfully to embarrass the Government. When Labour replied by a Bill to lessen the delaying powers of the Lords, Salisbury exposed a major Socialist hypocrisy by asking for a radical reform of the Upper House to make it an effective Second Chamber. "The day when hereditary birth should give the right to legislate is long past," he said; but the Socialists played deaf.

His post-war record on foreign affairs is of special importance to-day. As early as the winter of 1945, he called for further meetings with Russia, despite the disillusioned feelings of that time. Since 1950, he has frequently repeated this plea, on the pragmatic grounds that it is important to continue speaking directly to the rulers of Russia.

HE has always been a strong advocate of the closest Anglo-American relations. (he was President of the English Speaking Union from 1941-47) and a staunch supporter of NATO. Military power, he has repeatedly said, is the only basis for a realistic policy, and his criticism of Labour's foreign policy has been in these practical terms. He objected to the exclusion of Spain from NATO, and to the recognition of Communist China without our obtaining any quid pro quo. But he supported the Attlee Government's suggestion that a Communist Chinese General should be heard at United Nations in 1950, because, he said, that was the only possible way of negotiating with China over Korea.

His realism only forsakes him when confronted by the emergent nationalisms of the subordinate, or formerly subordinate, peoples. He speaks of recent British policy on India, Burma and the Middle East in terms of "scuttle"; and he called for "stronger" action in Persia at the time of the Abadan crisis. Since returning to Government he has treated the opinion of all Africans in Central Africa as of negligible importance.

✧ ✧ ✧

AT THIS moment, Lord Salisbury is faced with a supremely difficult task. What is perhaps least certain is whether has has an idea of what Britain's place should be in the world as it is, in contrast to Britain's place in the world as it was. Sympathetic imagination and a rational spirit, as well as sound common sense, may be a lot to ask; but that is what the Cecil of our day will need to understand the ever-changing situation that meets us in every continent. Certainly, he has great courage and steadfastness, and he does not lack the diplomatic skill to seize any chance of settlement that may present itself in the immediate situation.

SCRAM! SCAT! SHOO!

Bringing Home The Harvest, 4,000 Years Ago

FOR several centuries in ancient Egypt it was the custom to furnish the tomb with wooden models of servants and retainers executing various tasks. The Royal Ontario Museum possesses several interesting examples of this type of object, and among them is an appealing group of two loaded donkeys with their drivers, about ten inches high and roughly carved and painted. It has recently been placed on special exhibition as the "Object of the Month" for July.

This group formed part of the stock funeral equipment that provided the owner of the tomb with the pleasures and necessaries of daily life in the next world. Thus it served the same magical purpose as the pictures decorating tomb walls at all periods of ancient Egyptian history. Wooden models of the kind were usually unskilled work, naively conceived and roughly executed, and they cannot be compared with the finer art of their period. They carry an unusual appeal, however, to the modern eye because of their liveliness and the direct way in which they furnish information about a wide range of daily activites. To the archaeologist they are important because they represent subjects that commonly appear in the ancient paintings, thus explaining obscure details in these paintings when unfamiliar stylistic conventions make them difficult to interpret.

The saddle-bags are probably filled with grain for delivery to the government storehouse, since they bear the inscription "royal treasury." As in rural Egypt today, the donkey was the common means of transportation and always brought the harvest home.

Welsh Singing

(Windsor Daily Star)

Most Welsh folk can sing well. Even if their voices have not been trained, they have a natural talent for expressing themselves in song.

It was fitting that Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh should be greeted in Wales by choral singing. Three times in one day at Cardiff, that musical welcome was accorded Her Majesty. The people gave forth with song to show their good will and warm affection for the Queen.

In Wales the people just love to sing. It is a national trait that has been a feature of Welsh life through the ages. Men, women and children have found expression of their feelings in song and the music is recognized as better than good.

In choral groups in Canada, whether they be church choirs or musical societies, there are usually some Welsh folk. They just naturally sing their way into membership. Their voices are a valued asset.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And a certain centurion's servant, who was dear unto him, was sick, and ready to die. And when he heard of Jesus, he sent unto him the elders of the Jews, beseeching him that he would come and heal his servant . . .

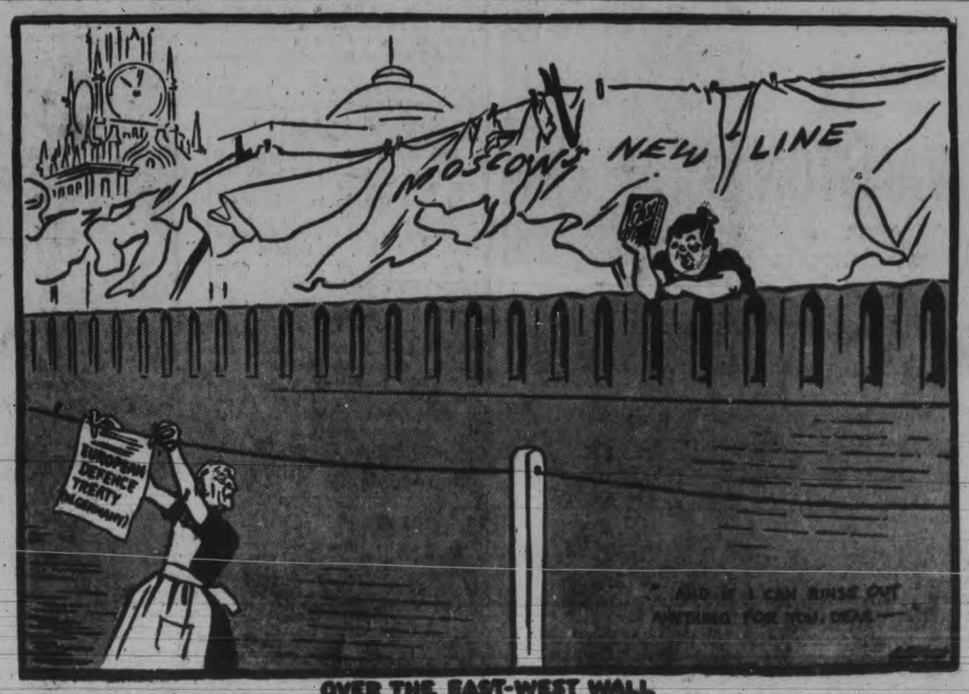
Then Jesus went with them. And when he was now not far from the house, the centurion sent friends to him, saying unto him, Lord, trouble not thyself: for I am not worthy that thou shouldest enter under my roof: wherefore neither thought I myself worthy to come unto thee: but say in a word, and my servant shall be healed.

For I also am a man set under authority, having under me soldiers, and I say unto one, Go, and he goeth, and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.

When Jesus heard these things, he marvelled at him, and turned him about, and said unto the people that followed him, I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel.

And they that were sent, returning to the house, found the servant whole that had been sick. (Luke 7: 2, 3, 6-10.)

Letter To The Editor



PETERBOROUGH'S DANGEROUS CROSSINGS

Sir: I was told the other day that if a person could drive in Peterborough he could drive anywhere. In other words, the average car operator here does not signal when coming into the line of traffic from a parking space, does not signal either when turning to the right or left, or when stopping. Quite possibly this is correct as I understand this is one city where automobile insurance rates were increased this year due to the high ratio of accidents.

However, not all the fault can be blamed on the drivers. The other evening when we were returning to the west end from a Sunday evening band concert, we proceeded along Parkhill Road and going down a slight grade near Jackson Park were nearly struck by a Canadian National passenger train coming into the city. At that crossing there are no signals of any kind, with the exception of the usual X sign in common use at all crossings. There was no signal by the train that it was approaching a crossing and the only reason we stopped at all was that we could hear, above the usual sound of our motor, something that sounded like a small waterfall. On enquiry, the railway company referred me to a city ordnance that states that no whistle or bell may be sounded within the city limits by an engineer except in cases of emergency. As a clear view of the railway at each side at that particular crossing is obscured, surely our city ordnance should be amended so that engineers should be forced to signal their approach. Failing that, an automatic signal light, wig-wag, or other device installed to warn motorists—particularly visitors—that they are approaching a particularly dangerous crossing.

I believe if a comparison were made, it would be found that there are more railway crossings in this city than any other city of its size in Canada. If it is impossible to bring all lines into the city along some adjacent right-of-way, then at least let us do something about making our crossings as safe as possible. You cannot blame motorists for not stopping at all railway crossings because if this were done your traffic would soon be snarled; that's for sure.

Yours very truly,
SAFETY FIRST.

17th Generation To Work Korean Farm, Farmer Han, Family, Forced Into Begging

The Korean fighting has swept sixt times across the ancestral lands of farmer Han in the shadow of towering Three Horn mountain. It wrecked his home and forced proud farmer Han and his family to become beggars. The old farmer told the story of his wartime suffering to AP correspondents John Randolph, a veteran of the Korean war front beat, and Bill Shinn, interpreter.

By JOHN RANDOLPH

CHANGDONG, Korea (AP)—The fields of tender rice were brilliant green, and summer rain clouds hid the jagged crown of Three Horn mountain.

Farmer Han Chul Hi sat cross-legged on a rice straw mat in the courtyard of his ruined home. He puffed slowly on his old man's pipe, with its tiny brass bowl and long bamboo stem.

His deep brown eyes looked through the little knot of village children gathered around us, across the broad valley, and beyond to the foothills of soaring Three Horn.

For 67 years farmer Han had looked across those fields, watching the young rice grow green each spring, cutting it down in the fall, and waiting patiently for the winter snows to melt and start the eternal cycle once again.

ON LAND 500 YEARS

And behind this, stretching back beyond memory, deep into the story of his country, 17 generations of the family Han had tilled their six acres of land and watched the seasons turn and turn.

Seventeen generations. Five hundred years.

And now he sat in the ruins of the farmstead his ancestors had left to him, his body slowly wearing out, waiting with quiet dignity for the death that is as natural as the fall of ripe grain.

With profound courtesy Han spread three rice straw mats on the ground beside the squash vine, and we sat.

Han told me of his boyhood. How he was seven when the Japanese first came past the little farm, fighting China, then Russia.

And finally, in the old man's 64th year, came the Communists.

"We heard their guns at Uijomgbu," he said. "We had heard the stories and we knew we had to go."

LOSES WIFE

From his village of Changdong it is seven miles to Seoul. Han, his wife, their children and their grandchildren straggled into the frantic capital that was jammed with bewildered soldiers and hordes of fleeing country people.

Somewhere in the crowd Han was shoved aside. He grabbed for his wife, missed her, and was alone.

Han trudged south in a mass of refugees looking for his wife and family.

Then the tide turned. Han trudged back up the north road, back through smoking Seoul. He plodded out the north gate and up the road that leads to his village. There, unharmed and unbelieving, were his wife, children and grandchildren. There was joy and joyful weeping.

But the big old house was gone. Fire had done its work and the tile roof and plaster walls were a heap of ruins. Only the little chicken house stood and there the family lives today.

FIELDS RANK

But the chickens are dead and gone, the great earthen jars of rice and peppers and soy sauce and hot sauce and pickels and corn are smashed and scattered. The fields are rank with weeds and untended rice.

"We work," Han says, "we have little to eat but we get some rice from the fields and we save some for winter."

He says the 1950-51 winter was one of the bitterest in his long memory. It was so cold there was eight inches of ice on the Han river, a blessed thing when the Communists came again on New Year's eve and the little tribe packed its rice and fled south across the frozen river.

This time they stayed together.

"We were beggars," says Han, "we had nothing. People took us in."

Then the armies moved north again. Six times the armies had passed over the Han farm. All that was left was the land itself and the mud walls of the old chicken house.

BEGGARS ON OWN LAND

"We were beggars on our own land," Han said, and he shook his head sadly. "The UN people, they gave us a little rice and a little cloth."

Two years passed.

"It is getting better," he says. "If we all work, we can eat. But nothing more. Someday we must make the big house again. I have saved the tiles. But I know now I will never see it. My body is growing paralyzed and I can only do a little work in the fields. But maybe my sons can build again."

Then Han stopped for a moment, slowly shaking his head.

It was a strong head, burned brown by the sun, with sunken eyes and stiff, short-cut hair that was more white than black. Beneath a big nose was a straggly but enormous grey moustache, its outer hairs an inch and a half long, sloping down. On his chin was a short and bristling white goatee.

Then he spoke again in the gutteral, musical language of his people.

"For myself I have no hope. I am just an old man now. I wait to die. For my sons and daughters, maybe I have a little hope. But not much. There is too much trouble. Too much ruin."

GOOD WORDS FOR THE WEARY — Letters from home absorb the attention of these weary soldiers after coming back from the battle for Pork Chop Hill in Korea. A fierce attack by Chinese Reds kept them busy fighting for 48 hours without sleep or rest.

BRITISH HOUSING

LONDON (CP)—More than 26,000 permanent houses were completed in the United Kingdom during May, compared with 19,000 for the same month last year.

Mine Captain Asks Protection

TIMMINS (CP)—John M. Girvan mine captain at the strikebound Broulan Reef gold mine here, sought police protection Sunday for himself and his family from what he termed "possible retaliation" by strikers as the result of his leadership in a back-to-work movement at the mine.

Girvan led a number of workers to the mine Saturday, but they were turned back by pickets at the entrance. The Girvan group wanted to restart operations at Broulan, on strike since July 12 for higher wages.

Girvan told police his wife was warned by phone Saturday to leave their home about a mile from the mine and not to return without police protection. The family moved to a local hotel.

"I keep dreaming about Shirriff's Marmalade."

Betty Gibson, 20, Miss Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Miss Toronto for 1953 is a pert brunette whose boy friend "didn't think she'd win."

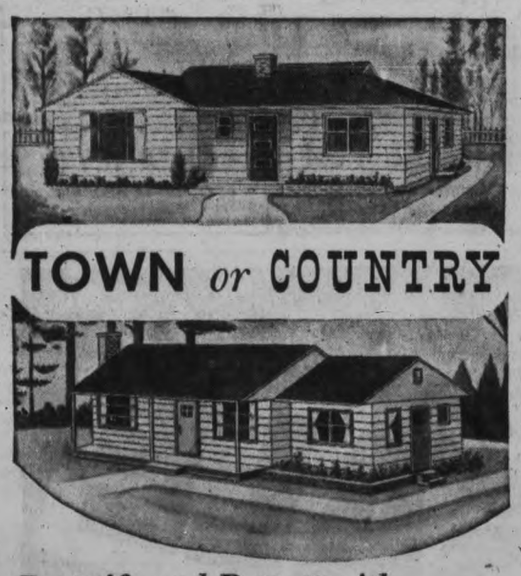
Betty Gibson, 20, was picked as the Queen City's queen Saturday night at the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand. A crowd of 15,000 showed a whistling appreciation of the judges' choice.

Held in connection with the annual Toronto Police field day, the beauty contest saw 60 girls turn on the charm to try for the coveted title.

Betty, whose five-foot, five-inch frame is distributed neatly around a 36-inch bust, a 25-inch waist and 36-inch hips, has been entering beauty contests since she was 14.

After the flash bulbs had stopped popping Betty ran to the side of the platform to plant a kiss on Norm Roffey, 22, the boy whose engagement ring she has worn since last December.

"I didn't think she'd win," said Norm, quite obviously proud that she had.



Make New Protests About Foreign Ships

MONTREAL (CP)—Hal Banks, president of the Canadian division of the Seafarers' International Union (AFL), said in a week-end interview that new representations will be made to the federal government to keep foreign vessels out of international trade in the Great Lakes.

Mr. Banks said several European countries are building ships solely for lakes trade. He said such ships are taking money which domestic vessels could be earning.

Cricketers Record Close Victories Home And Away

Both Peterborough cricket clubs scored Saturday victories at Nicholls Oval and in Toronto. The "A" cricketers edged out a 126-115 victory over Avro "B" in Toronto while at the same time at the Oval the "B" team eked out a 98-89 win over Toronto's St. Edmund's "B" team.

At the Oval the Peterborough "B" club batted first and made a strong opening, taking the score 60-5. Later batsmen fell quickly and the total was 98 for 10 wickets. J. Holroyd topped the scoring with 35; other high batters were Freeman with 16 and K. Illingworth with 14.

St. Edmund's response was good, W. Edwards scoring 24, C. Richardson 24 not out and J. Roe 21, helping the score reach 87 for seven wickets. Then Frank Dyer bowled three men out. St. Edmund's ended with 89.

For the "A" cricketers it was their second win this season over the Avro "B" club. On June 20 Peterborough won handily 78-28.

Peterborough jumped to an early start, running up 109 runs for five wickets. This was mainly due to fine batting by F. Booth for 32, B. Roberts for 22 and E. Cotton for 16. Later batsmen did little and the innings closed at 120, including 20 extras.

The Avro innings was featured by J. Cheetham's opening batting. He scored 56 runs out of the 82 scored while he was batting. Avro batters later did little against some good bowling by F. Booth who took six wickets for 24 runs. The innings closed at 115.

Committee To Change Regatta Course Length

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The executive committee of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen voted Sunday to change the course length of future regattas from the present mile-and-a-quarter distance to 2,000 metres, the Olympic distance.

It was suggested at the executive meeting that the 1954 national regatta be held at Seattle or some other Pacific Coast point.

Rangers Acquire Johnny Bower As Goaltender

NEW YORK (CP)—Johnny Bower, Cleveland Barons goalie and backbone of their championship American Hockey League teams, today was acquired by New York Rangers of the National Hockey League in exchange for goalie Emile Francis, forward Neil Strain and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Cleveland also gave up Eldred Kobussen, who is expected to be turned over to the Rangers' Saskatoon farm club of the Western Hockey League.

Bower, 27-year-old native of Prince Albert, Sask., led the Barons to three regular-season AHL titles and two playoff titles in the last four years. He has won all-star rating in the player polls the last three years.

A five-foot-nine 170 - pounder, Bower will vie with Lorne Worsley for the regular Ranger goaltending job. Worsley, 24-year-old Montreal native, won the Calder Memorial Trophy as rookie of the year in the NHL last season.

LIKE BRIMSEK

Bower, who is bigger than Worsley and has a style and temperament reminiscent of Frank Brimsek, former Boston netminder, is insurance for Rangers who are trying to build up after finishing last during the last several seasons.

"He rarely plays a bad game," said manager Frank Boucher. "In the last three years, injuries in goal have set the Rangers back. Now we have the goaltending depth to safeguard against possible injuries."

To get Bower, the Rangers gave up Francis, 26-year-old native of North Battleford, Sask., who was rated the most valuable player in the Western Hockey League while at Vancouver last season, and Strain, 165-pound left-winger, who comes from Kenora.

Kobussen, a centre who was born in Vanscoy, Sask., has played with Buffalo, Springfield, Pittsburgh and Cleveland in the AHL. His transfer to Saskatoon will take him back to the city where he last played amateur hockey, with Saskatoon Navy juniors.

Today's deal is the second in the off season the Rangers have made with Cleveland. Earlier they obtained Bob Chrystal, 23-year-old Winnipeg-born defenceman.

Rose Seeded Against Veteran Duff

TORONTO (CP)—A classy field headed by Davis Cup players from four countries went into action today in the opening rounds of the Canadian tennis championships.

Mervyn Rose, crafty Australian southpaw who has beaten most of the world's top-ranking players and is top-seeded among foreign entries, war pitted against the veteran Jim Duff of Toronto in his opening-round assignment.

The top-ranked Canadian, Lorne Main of Toronto and Vancouver, fresh from a double victory over Mexico's Davis Cup squad, was drawn against Hugh Murray of Hamilton

SEES ACTION

Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., who saw action in the doubles against Mexico over the weekend, was drawn against George Czuzka of Toronto and his teammate, Paul Willey of Vancouver, was matched with Robin Arnold of Toronto.

The top-ranked American entries were Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N.J., seeded No. 4 in the foreign section, and Tony Vincent of New York, 1951 champion, No. 7.

All four members of Japan's Davis Cup team, which lost to the United States at Vancouver a week ago, are entered as well as the Mexican team.

Vancouver's Larry Barclay, sixth in the domestic seedings, as drawn against Hugh Sweeney of Los Angeles.

In the women's singles, defending champion Melita Ramirez faced Joan O'Brien of Toronto.

Native Dancer Sweeps Race

CHICAGO (AP)—In the opinion of those who watched him make Saturday's $154,300 Arlington Classic little more than a comic horse opera, Native Dancer is the greatest three-year-old since Citation.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's gray ghost ambled along in the pack for three-fourths of the classic's mile distance and then, in a blurring burst of speed, rammed home for an astonishing nine-length victory.

Left far behind were such as Van Crosby, the early leader who tired in the stretch and finished third to Sir Mango; fourth-place Ace Destroyer and Jim Norris Jr.'s Eddie Arcaro-ridden Jamie K.

Even farther back were Navy Page, Royal Bay Gem and Thaxter.

Navy Page, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto and ridden by J. Vina, was in third place during the early part of the race but dropped back to fifth at the three-quarter pole and then finished sixth in the eight-horse field.

BIG HORSE—Changing the conditions of the Sysonby Mile from a handicap to a weight-for-age race, brightened prospects for a meeting of Tom Fool, above, the handicap king, Ted Atkinson up, and Native Dancer. As the Sysonby is run at Belmont Park, October 6, Tom Fool would carry 126, the 3-year-old champion 120.

Bisons Divide Twin Bill Increase League Leadership

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The high-flying Buffalo Bisons strengthened their hold on the International Baseball League leadership during the weekend—and at the other end of the ladder, Springfield Cubs continued their losing ways.

The Bisons won only one game, but increased their lead over Montreal Royals to two games. The Royals failed to come up with a victory.

Buffalo split a doubleheader with Rochester Red Wings Sunday, dropping the first 9-6 but winning the nightcap 2-0. A Saturday contest between the clubs was rained out.

Montreal dropped two weekend games to Baltimore Orioles, who jumped into third place ahead of Rochester. The Orioles won 9-6 Saturday and 14-7 Sunday, making it a clean sweep of a three-game series with the Royals.

In the Buffalo opener, the Wings registered seven of their tallies on homers for the victory. Eddie Mierkowicz whacked a pair, Charley Kress rapped his 15th and Les Fusselman another.

Earl Harrist pitched four-hit ball to earn the shutout in the second game for the Bisons. Jake Crawford's 16th homer in the first inning accounted for the winning run. He hit his 15th in the opener.

Three errors had a lot to do with Montreal's loss to the Orioles at Baltimore Saturday. The former league leaders also were outhit 11-7.

Jack Sanford went the route for Baltimore's Sunday win. He gave up 11 hits for his ninth victory, while starter Earl Mossor of Montreal and two relieving mates were belted for 18 safe blows.

Jack Graham hit the long ball for the Birds, while Dick Whitman and Charley Thompson hit homers for the losers.

The tail-end Cubs lost their 58th and 59th games of the current campaign during the weekend, compared with only 28 triumphs.

ATHLETICS TAKE TWO

Seventh-place Ottawa Athletics were their masters both times. The As edged the Cubs 7-6 in a heavy-hitting Saturday game at Springfield and walloped them 7-1 Sunday, behind the hitting of Joe Taylor and Jack Littrell. Taylor doubled home two runs and Littrell got four straight hits.

Toronto Maple Leafs, who are fifth, won once and lost once to sixth-place Syracuse Chiefs. A third game, the seven-inning nightcap of a Sunday doubleheader was called at the end of six because of Toronto's Sunday curfew law. Syracuse led 5-2 at the time.

In the Sunday opener, Mike Goliat's home run with two aboard in the ninth broke a 1-1 deadlock and gave Toronto a 4-1 decision. Vic Lombardi went the distance for the Leafs, allowing only five hits and one walk.

Syracuse downed the Leafs 4-2 Saturday behind the six-hit performance of Al Hartley.

All clubs are scheduled to see action again tonight.

Grattan Challenger

TORONTO (CP)—Argyle Grattan won his 15th race in 16 outings Saturday and then suddenly found himself challenged as the top horse at Thorncliffe Raceway by a four-year-old swifty from Chatham, Ont., named High Lee Baldwin.

All of the spotlight had been focussed on the final of the $3,000 Leaside Pace which Argyle won by a length in 2.07 2-5.

Then suddenly, two races later, High Lee Baldwin, owned by Lafe Morgan of Chatham, spun a gaudy 2.06 4-5 in winning a $450 B pace. The Chatham horse's time was just 3-5 of a second off the meeting's best mark of 2.06 1-5 set a week ago by Argyle Grattan.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

Whistles in sport usually stop play but Friday night whistles stopped work for thousands of Peterborough workers. Practically immediately they started to summer cottages and on holiday trips.

Among those hiking into the northern woods in search of bright sunny days, cool breezes and fish was friend Cec. So off and on throughout the next two weeks we'll be reeling off what little sport there is.

The annual factory layoff usually plays hob with the sports as the various athletes take time off, not only from work but their favorite pasttime. A few sports such as softball will gradually grind to a stop, but the lacrosse boys, the junior ballsters and the golfers will still be plugging away.

SIX-MAN LACROSSE PROVES VERY ATTRACTIVE

For this day's column we'll just jump from one sport to another, catching up on a few loose ends.

Bob Thorpe's Trailermen are finding the six-man lacrosse just like peaches and cream, very tasty. Meanwhile other teams around the circuit seem to be having a little difficulty getting adjusted, especially St. Catharines and Toronto (a thousand pardons, Orillia) West Yorks.

The well-conditioned Trailermen have the legs for the speedy offensive work which the six-man game is producing. Ike Hildebrand, Russ Slater, Ross Powless, Roger Smith and chunky Curly Mason apparently like the new system for they have been hitting the twine with ease.

The speed has helped bring on the Trailermen's kids, Red and Gary Robinson, and Grant Burns. These lads have drive, racing for passes, breaking quickly and always on the hunt for loose balls. All they need is some more experience about the net.

Incidentally to a number of people, including yours truly, the red-topped Robinson looks very similar to former Hamilton star, Blaine MacDonald. His running, stick-handling and shooting is very similar to Blaine's.

Defensively the six-man game also favors the Trailermen. With fewer men to check, the Thorpe-men send on stiff checkers like Jerry Fitzgerald and Nip O'Hearn, huddle around the goal (often too close for comfort) and snuff out enemy probing attacks.

About the smaller goal. That's a laugh. As far as the Trailermen are concerned, it has resulted in just what the OLA wanted, fewer goals (that's for the other side, man). Big Moon Wootton fills the gap. Nothing more need be said.

VERY LITTLE SOFTBALL ACTION

Apart from Tuesday's games at the Bowl, the city softball leaguers will see little action during the holidays. It'll soon be playoff time for these lads.

It's a pleasure to watch an expert (it doesn't matter whether it's in sport or work) give a demonstration. Ball fans will see a pitching master at work when Eddie (King and His Court) Feigner visit the softball Bowl on July 29.

The 5,000 fans (one of the city's record sports attendances) who saw Eddie pitching his assortment of curves, fast and slow balls, plus all his trickery, will probably be back for this encore. It's wonderful to see just what he can do with a softball; in fact, it's amazing.

From a wheat field out in Gainsborough, Sask., comes a note from big Bill McMaster who played several seasons with the hockey Petes before leaving for bonnie Scotland. He'd like to be remembered to all his friends (including a few Legion or Eagle fans).

His years in the Scottish league have probably come to an end. When he returned home this spring, he hinted quite strongly that unless he was traded to Paisley, he would stay on this side of the pond for his hockey roamings.

Apparently Bill has decided to remain a Canadian. His note clearly states he'll be back in Peterborough this October for a hockey tryout with the Petes.

Millbrook Lions Win 11-2 Over Blackstock

Millbrook Lions cemented their hold on first place in the North Durham League by taking an 11-2 decision over Blackstock on Saturday night. Darkness forced a halt to the game in the top half of the sixth.

"Big Brent" Dawson ran his string of victories to nine in a well pitched game backed up by tight support. Bailey started for Blackstock but retired in favour of Gunter in the third when the first three batters tagged him for hits. Howere, the hit-hungry homesters continued the barrage refusing to be mystified by Gunter's assortment of deliveries.

The game produced an unassisted double play when Wright in left field came in a long piece to take Venning's liner behind third and outsprint Werry in his scramble to get back to third. Another unusual feature was three putouts at third base in one inning when two forceouts and an attempted steal that Lord nailed retired the side.

In addition to a nice pitching chore Dawson disproved the theory that pitchers can't hit by wielding the bat for a 1.000 batting average including an out-of-the-park homer. Ginn, the Millbrook shortstop patrolled the area between second and third in major league style in handling a flock of fielding chances and Edmunds made a sensational stop of a smoking grounder.

Dawson will face the acid test on Friday evening when he will face his teammates in an exhibition game supported by Alf. Brooks' old-timers. The has-beens are confident that experience and baseball savvy will offset creaking joints and dimmed eyesight and freely predict a victory over the 1953 edition team.

Lineups: Blackstock—Cochrane, Gunter, Philps, Bailey, R. Werry, Venning, Grieve, Crawford, N. Werry.

Millbrook: Wright, Brackenridge, Ginn, Dawson, Handley, Edmunds, Lowery, Lunn, Lord.

Lorne Main Helps Canada Score Davis Cup Tie With Mexico

By. W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP)—Little Lorne Main, back on the tennis court only two days after a slight sunstroke, scored the all-important singles victory Sunday that won for Canada the Davis Cup tie with Mexico.

Main's straight-set romp over Mario Llams, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3, came in the first of the day's singles. It proved to be the decisive match in five in the first-round North American tie.

Losers in Friday's singles, Llamas and Francisco (Pancho) Contreras brought Mexico sharply back into contention Saturday by taking the doubles from Henri Rochon and Bob Bedard, 6-2, 6-4, 2-6, 6-2.

It was just as well Main settled the issue. Although nothing depended on the final singles except the glory of winning, 19-year-old Pancho handed out a 6-4, 6-4, 7-5 setback to Rochon, who is 10 years older than Contreras and was competing for the eighth time in Davis Cup tennis.

MEET CUBA NEXT

Canada will meet Cuba next month, with play again at the Mount Royal Tennis Club.

Light sprinkles of rain fell during Sunday's matches. The grass court became slippery during the second match and Rochon and Contreras often skidded going after shots.

Main, the Toronto - Vancouver star, scored 30 placements to Llamas' 17 and had only 19 outs to Llamas' 36, but he netted 30 times to the Mexican's 23.

Llamas couldn't break through Main's serve in the first set, losing his own in the fourth game, when he double-faulted, and the eighth when forced into errors. His erratic play cost him his serve in the second game of the second set and he broke through Lorne's serve for the first time in the fifth when Lorne suddenly began hitting long. Lorne practically wrapped up the set in the eighth game by forcing play and volleying well to break service.

Each broke service in the first two games of the final set, but when Lorne did it again with placements on ground strokes, Mario could never recover.

DIDN'T REGAIN SHARPNESS

Against Contreras, Rochon was unable to regain the sharpness he showed against Llamas Friday. The hard-hitting young Mexican wasn't bothered with Henri's left-handed and unorthodox style. He broke through Henri's service in the first game and held his own service five times in winning the opening set. In the final set, with Henri leading 5-2, Pancho reeled off five straight games, including two service breaks.

Contreras and Llamas proved too good a team combination for Rochon and Bedard in the doubles Saturday. The young Sherbrooke player, called on because of Main's illness, couldn't fit himself into Henri's unusual style although he improved as he went along and overcame a hesitancy to come into the net.

The Mexicans covered court better, Contrerar supplying a powerful overhead and Llamas scoring often with placements. They suffered only two service breaks, both in the third set, won by Canada.

Yankees Batter White Sox In Doubleheader

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer

Ed Lopat and Vic Raschi, a couple of seasoned veterans who count World Series pay as regular income, have straightened out New York Yankees. For the first time in weeks, there is no frantic patter of pursuit in the American League. Chicago, whipped twice Sunday, is six games back. Cleveland's disastrous collapse has dumped the Indians into fourth place, 11 games behind. Boston, working on a six-game winning streak, is fourth but still a distant 10½ games to the rear.

There is no change in the National League pattern after three split doubleheaders. Brooklyn still holds a three-game lead over Milwaukee, Philadelphia remains third six games behind the Dodgers, and New York Giants, who took over fourth place Saturday, hold a one-percentage-point edge on St. Louis. Both are seven and one-half games behind.

FINALLY SCORE RUN

Big news of the day in the National was that somebody finally scored a run on Allan Worthington, the Giants rookie hotshot. Milwaukee snapped the righthander's scoreless string at 19 2-3 innings and beat him 2-1 in the second game of a doubleheader, called after five innings because of darkness. New York had won the first game 7-5 on Hank Thompson's two-run homer in the ninth.

The story in the American League was the twin job the Yanks did on the White Sox, 6-2 and 3-0, before 54,215 fans, an all-time Comiskey Park record crowd.

Lopat copped the first to boost his season record to 10-1 on an eight-hitter.

Mantle, returning to action after a two-day layoff despite a sore knee that still bothered him, drove in three runs to help Lopat.

The upstart Boston Red Sox rolled over Cleveland 2-0 and 7-5 to oust Cleveland from third place. Maury McDermott gave the Tribe only one hit, Al Smith's single, in eight innings of the first game and homered himself. When he threw two balls to the first hitter in the ninth, veteran Ellis Kinder was called and finished the job in 1-2-3 order. George Kell's three-run homer in the eighth wrapped up the second game.

Ralph Branca won his first American League game for Detroit 13-3 over Philadelphia. The Tigers and As settled for an 8-8 tie in the second, called after 11 innings because of darkness. Ray Boone hit two big homers—grand slam in the opener and a three-run clout with two out in the ninth to tie up the second.

Washington turned five walks and seven hits into 11 runs in the third and fourth innings to grab the second game from St. Louis 13-4 after dropping the first 5-4. Roy Sievers and Les Moss hit homers for the Brownies' victory, Keith Thomas and Clyde Vollmer for the Nats.

Brooklyn had to come from behind with five runs in the eighth and then stave off a Cincinnati rally for a 7-5 victory and an even break with the troublesome Reds. Cincy won the first game 4-1 with Ted Kluszewski's 27th and 28th homers for a Cincinnati team home run record of 112. Fred Baczewski former Chicago Cub, tamed the Dodgers with five hits.

Hank Thompson's ninth-inning homer backed up Ruben Gomez for a Giant decision over Milwaukee in their wild first game. The umpires called the second game almost two hours before official sunset time although they still were playing the ninth inning across the river in Brooklyn.

The bobtailed game, in which the veteran Max Surkont won his 10th for Milwaukee with a fine two-hitter, goes into the record as an official game, called by darkness because the clubs are not allowed to turn on the lights on a Sunday.

St. Louis, on the other hand, won a game at Pittsburgh 8-2 and trailed 6-4 with one out in he Cardinal half of the sixth when the Pennsylvania curfew law intervened. That goes as a "suspended game" to be completed from the point of interruption before today's single game. Stan Musial knocked in three runs with a double and his 11th homer and Solly Hemus hit four singles to ease Harvey Haddox's way to win No. 11.

Philadelphia came up with three runs in the ninth to top Chicago Cubs 6-5 after losing the opener 5-3 on home runs by Dee Fondy and Hal Jeffcoat. Willie Jones' single drove home the winning run in the ninth inning spurt.

Misjudging Of Wind Costs Victory

BISLEY, England (Reuters)—Lt.-Col. Steve Johnson, 48-year-old sharpshooter from the King's Own Calgary Regiment, misjudged the wind on his final shot and lost the Queen's Prize, top honor for rifle shooting, at the windup of the two-week National Rifle Association meet here Saturday.

Winner of the coveted prize was Maj. N. W. McCaw of the London Rifle Brigade who scored an aggregate of 273—one point ahead of Johnson.

Col. Johnson needed an inner to tie and a bulls-eye to win when he prepared for his last shot at 1,000 yards. McCaw had already completed his shoot. The wind came up just then and he misjudged it, scoring a magpie.

That gave him a total of 272, the same as R. Bennett of Guildford, Surrey. But Bennett had a better long range score and took second prize of £50 and the silver badge.

Johnson said afterwards he had "no alibis."

"I thought I might have got it, but it was bad luck and a tricky wind."

News Of Revolt In Satellites Sails In To Czechoslovakia

(New York Herald Tribune News Service)

NEW YORK — Swift Russian-built MIG-15 jet fighter planes and Communist ground troops were sent out one day this week in a vain effort to halt 3,000 slowly-moving weather balloons carrying messages of freedom into the Soviet satellite of Czechoslovakia, according to anti-Communist sources here.

For the Communists, it was a poor show all around. The five balloons they did manage to shoot down loosed their packets of pamphlets all the same and showered them down upon the countryside. The 2,995 balloons they let through will drop their messages across the length and breadth of Czechoslovakia.

JJ The balloons were released on the Czechoslovok-German border under the auspices of the Crusade for Freedom. Against them, the Communists pitted a squadron of MiGs and uncounted numbers of ground troops and security police. The foot soldiers did better than their Red counterparts in the air, the reports said. They bagged three balloons, while the MiGs managed only two. The rest sailed blissfully on.

The first balloons were released on Tuesday, and they will continue to be released so long as the wind holds steady in the desired direction. An initial balloon experiment was carried out by the crusade, an independent organization, in 1951. There were no reports of violent action on the part of the Reds.

Tuesday's balloon barrage apparently surprised the Communists and also escaped any attempts at interception. The next day, though, they thought they were prepared.

As the balloons, which are some 20 to 24 inches in diameter, soared over the barbed-wire of the borderland, Communist security police and army patrols opened fire. The MiGs came in to see what they could do when the balloons reached the 2,000-foot level.

The balloons each carried up to 10,000 pamphlets telling the news-hungry Czechs of the anti-Red uprisings in Poland and East Berlin, of the United States' spurned offer to supply East Berlin with $15,000,000 in food products and of the expected demise of Lavrenti Beria.

Completes Consultation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles E. Bohlen, U.S. ambassador to Moscow, has completed his consultation with State Secretary Dulles on the Beria purge and will be back at his post in about 10 days. The state department announced that Bohlen plans to leave New York Monday for Europe.

BRIGHT CROP REPORT

Grain crops in southern Saskatchewan have been advancing rapidly in the last week. Growth conditions are excellent. Similar development is reported by the CNR in the three prairie provinces.

CURRANTS RIPE

Red currants in the fruit stores of the city today contributed their own evidence of the maturing of the summer. Raspberries appeared to be fairly plentiful in their Monday arrivals, and the sunflowers are coming into flower.

YOUNG BASS FISHERMAN

Howard Ebbs, 9, of Fowler's Corners, staying at W. Terpstra's cottage on Lancaster Bay of Chemong Lake, took six nice green bass with small frog bait on Sunday. The largest fish weighed 3 pounds, 10 ounces.

IN THE MOVIES

The Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club is being featured in a Sportscope short film, Mrs. Pansy Forbes, coach of the club, learned today. A friend wrote her from Florida to say that he had seen the film and to congratulate her and her swimmers. Aug. 7 the club will be again entering championship competition in Florida.

REEVE ON DISASTER FUND

Reeve Norman Wilson, Burleigh-Anstruther township, is a committee member of the Bedley Relief Fund, which was set up following the family fire loss in his constituency last Thursday. Cash donations mailed to Mr. Wilson, the Rev. Willard B. Day, Church-on-the-Rock, Burleigh, or Mrs. W. W. Leonard, Lakefield Branch of the Red Cross, will produce receipts for income tax deduction purposes for donors.

MAUDE ADAMS HERE

News at the week end of the death of Maude Adams whose stardom in the theatre was established before the First World War must have kindled regret of Peterborough people who saw her at the old Grand Opera House in Peter Pan. Those were the days when this city was included in the circuit of Toronto, Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal. Barrie's charming fantasy of the Never-Never Land, Peter, Wendy, Hook and other characters of that play has been one of the enduring memories of delightful seasons of a theatre established in its own right.

WATER SAMPLES OKAY

Following the sampling of water in Little Lake recently by the City's Health Department, to guard the health of swimmers and water skiers at the coming meet, an alternate area was sampled. The department turned thumbs down on the samples from Little Lake and the second area from Parkhill Bridge to the railway bridge on the Otonabee River was sampled last Wednesday. Dr. J. P. Wells received reports from Toronto today that the Inverlea area is satisfactory on all 22 samples taken. Ski meet executives have been advised of this.

Price Fixer

LINDSAY (ENS)—Seldom are egg prices quoted FOB but one here received its price tag right in the factory. Al Perrin, local dance hall proprietor, has a hen that recently laid an egg with 7 cents plainly visible in raised letters marked on one end of the shell. Neighbors verify the freak occurrence. The egg has been on display in Mr. Perrin's dance hall.

Farmers Asked To Seek Grain Disease

Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative ,is requesting district farmers to look for dwarf bunt in their wheat fields.

"We have had several reports about the occurrence of this disease in the province. One of them was by Frank Marritt, of Keswick, who is here judging the field entries of wheat in our senior '50 bushels an acre' club," Mr. Paterson said.

"Mr. Marritt said he had found evidence of dwarf bunt in grain on his own farm. It is similar to ball or stinking smut, especially in its odor, smelling like fish.

"In its effect it dwarfs the plant which grows to about half the normal height, and the heads of grain are mostly confined to the main or primary stem. The life of dwarf smut is in the ground, and that is what makes it a serious threat. As our farmers know, ball smut lives in the seed, and is comparatively easier to combat.

"We are asking farmers to be on the lookout for any sign of this disease. We have so far heard nothing of it in this district, but now is the time to be vigilant, because it is said to be quite prevalent in New York State. Federal department botanists are also interested, and it is suggested to farmers that they be suspicious particularly of any dwarf grain they see in their fields."

Toronto Man Hurt At Springville

Collision of a passenger car and a pickup truck on Highway 28 in Springville early Saturday evening injured a Toronto man, 20-year-old James W. King. King suffered a broken left wrist.

His car was in collision with a truck owned by Barbara Staples, RR 1, Ida, and driven by 15-year-old Lorraine Paddock, Springville. Neither Miss Staples nor Miss Paddock was injured, and also unhurt was King's passenger, Edith Nickle, 17, also of Toronto.

Miss Paddock told police she was driving south and making a left turn into Springville United church grounds when the crash occurred. She said she signalled, stopped and looked back before crossing the highway. She saw no cars behind her, she said.

King said he tried to pass in the east lane when Miss Paddock appeared to hesitate in her turn. His car caromed into the ditch, skidded back onto the highway, and came to rest on its side in the east lane.

OPP Constable Emmet Crough, who investigated, estimated damage to the truck at $50, to the car $150.

Spain Too Strict

LONDON (CP) — The French tourist bureau here commented that at least half the French tourists will cancel their visits to Spain if new, severe bathing-suit restrictions are enforced.

Two Horses Killed By Train

Animals Needed To Thresh Crop of Wheat

Two farm horses were killed by the CPR local train to Toronto when they wandered through an open gate onto the railway track about 7:10 today.

Loss of the horses came at a critical time for the owner, Grant Clark, RR 3, Peterborough, who has completed his haying and planned to arrange tonight for threshing his wheat which already lies cut in the field in front of his house on the 10th concession of North Monaghan township.

How the gate in the railway fence came open is a mystery to Mr. Clark. It leads to an additional three acres of pasture on the opposite side of the track from the field where the horses had been grazing.

WORTH $125

One of the horses was 12 years old and the other was 10. Mr. Clark, who raised the horses himself, valued them at $125 apiece. They each weighed about 1,400 pounds.

The first the farmer knew of his loss was when he was told about it by Milton Carr, CPR section foreman. One of the horses was carried almost half a mile by the train. The other was thrown 40 feet.

"They weren't such a good-looking team but they were just what I wanted," said the sorrowful owner who explained that, although he had a tractor, there were some jobs the horses could do better. For instance, the tractor cannot be used to pull loads directly into the barn because of the fire hazard.

Now, Mr. Clark will have to hire an extra hand to help with the threshing.

Sharing the work of the farm is the owner's father, John F. Clark.

FIRST IN 50 YEARS

"It's the first loss like this we've had in the 50 years we've lived here," said Mr. Clark Sr.

The Clarks have always kept horses and Grant was very fond of the team which were killed this morning as he had raised them himself. At one time he had two teams but when he bought a tractor he sold one pair and kept the other.

Accidents Occur 100 Yards Apart

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Two accidents occurred within 100 yards of one another near West's Corners about 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

Joan L. Haig, 24, of Campbellford, driving north on Highway 30, slowed down to turn around when a car driven by Gideon Brown, 53, RR 2, Norwood, struck the rear of the Haig car, which was damaged to the extent of about $100. Damage to Brown's car was estimated at about $75.

While this accident was being investigated by OPP Constable Archie Eadie, a car driven by Stanley Kostoff, 23, RR 4, Port Hope, ran out of gas about 100 yards away.

While Kostoff was stopped, a car driven by Robert J. Ellison, 41, 212, Belmont St., Hamilton, ran into the rear of Kostoff's car. Damage to both vehicles was slight.

Charges are pending against Ellison.

2 Toronto People Die In Collision

A two-car collision killed two Toronto people passengers in a car driven by John Powell of Toronto, Saturday night south of Manchester situated at the intersection of Highways 7A and 12.

Mrs. Margaret Thorburn was killed instantly. Edward Arthur Smith, died Sunday in Oshawa general hospital.

The Powell car was involved in a collision with a car driven by John L. McCarroll, also of Toronto about five miles south-west of Port Perry.

Town Cleaning Cart Struck By Jallopy

LINDSAY (ENS) — The street was covered with debris shortly after midnight Saturday when Charles McDonald, aged 16, of 40 Peel St., rounded the intersection at Kent and Cambridge St. N. and drove his 1928 jallopy into the town street-cleaning cart.

The cart suffered considerable damage when it was hoisted 50 feet. Fortunately the cart attendant, Howard Steele, was not in the path of the car at the time.

McDonald is being charged with careless driving.

CHEEK TO CHEEK—Despite the warm weather this baby raccoon, owned by Jack Smith, well-known Peterborough barber, cuddles up to Mr. Smith's daughter, Jean. Five weeks ago the raccoon was found during a hunting trip in Manvers township. Since then the Smiths have raised it, feeding it at first with a bottle and nipple. Now it's definitely the family pet, wandering close at their heels during walks and when tired riding aloft on their shoulders.

Plan Inquest In Death Of Man Crushed By Logs

BANCROFT (ENS) — An inquest will be held Wednesday into the death last Friday afternoon of 56-year-old John Peplenskie, of Barry's Bay, fatally injured when two logs fell on top of him .

Peplenskie was working at Herman, 15 miles east of Bancroft, loading logs on a truck with driver Ivan Hartwick, of Barry's Bay. Peplenskie was attempting to secure the chain on the load when the cable of the loader broke, letting two logs fall on top of Peplenskie.

He died 15 minutes after the accident, Hartwick and two other drivers, Ewart Wilson, of Boulter, and George Whelan, of Barry's Bay, took the logs off the fatally injured man.

Dr. O. W. Anderson, Bancroft coroner, said there would be an inquest at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Peplenskie's injuries were mostly internal.

Perth County Fund Deadlne Set Friday

MITCHELL (CP)—Deadline for contributions to the Perth county tornado relief fund has been set for next Friday, the county Federation of Agriculture said today.

The campaign, started by the federation early in June, has raised more than $18,000.

Mitchell is about 40 miles west of Kitchener.

Vicar Gives Ironic Set Of 10 Commandments

BOGNOR, England (Reuters)—Dr. Sinclair Snow, the vicar of Bognor, Sunday pronounced a new if somewhat ironic set of 10 commandments from his pulpit.

They included: "Thou shalt commit adultery if so inclined, for it is fashionable.

"Deck thyself out with flashy clothes and wear lucky charms.

"Doubt not the scientists when they tell thee thou art conditioned by thy glands.

"Covet thy neighbor's house, wife and also his daughter if she is pretty. Thou shalt covet also thy neighbor's poodle, washing machine, TV set and car and everything that is his."

Adjourn Assault Case For Mental Exam

COBOURG (ENS) — Wallace Percival, 40, of Haldimand township was remanded to a mental institution for an examination when he appeared in police court on a charge of assaulting his wife. Crown Attorney Harry Deyman informed the court that the accused was a war veteran and was bothered periodically with nerves. He suggested a remand to the Ontario Hospital at Kingston after which he would be transferred to another hospital by the D.V.A.

His mother, Mrs. Ellen Percival said that he was a shell-shock case and took "spells." Efforts to have him treated as a war veteran for his apparent mental attacks, had not been successful. She said that he was very anxious to receive treatment.

Seize 29 Boats

TOKYO (Reuters) — Russians seized 29 Japanese fishing boats and more than 80 fishermen in the first 18 days of this month, Japanese coastguard authorities announced. They said the fishing boats were captured in Japanese waters around Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island, and around the Kuriles, the Soviet islands off Siberia.

Lights Blind Both Drivers

Two drivers Saturday night blamed the beams from each other's headlights for a $600 accident involving a truck and a car on Highway 28, half a mile north of Apsley.

It was raining when the accident occurred about 11:30 p.m. and the drivers, both from Toronto, said that the light beams playing on their windshields caused them to be temporarily blinded. They were in sideswipe collision.

Drivers were Norman Brooks, 37, of 303 Queen St., who was travelling north in a 1947 panel truck, and Alvin Bruce, 21, of 396 Dupont St., who was travelling south in a 1942-model sedan. Neither man was injured.

OPP Constable Jack McKendry investigated.

W. Howell Candidate For Lt. Governor

Walter Howell, last year's president of Peterborough Kiwanis Club, has been nominated as Peterborough candidate for the office of Lieutenant Governor of Division 6 for the 1953 Kiwanian slate.

Belleville is sponsoring Jack Slade, a former president of the Kingsway Club of Toronto, and it is understood that Kingston will also place a candidate in the field.

The temperature reached 114 degrees at Aswan during the week-end. It was 106 in Cairo Sunday.

Waite Retires From Civic As Pathologist

Dr. C. B. Waite has retired as pathologist for Peterborough Civic Hospital. He will be succeeded by Dr. John Whiteside.

Details of the doctor's retirement were worked out this morning in discussion with Max Swanston, chairman of the board of governors, and John Hornal, superintendent of Civic.

In appreciation of the doctor's 28 years of service to the hospital in pathology, he will be paid an honorarium of $1,200 in the year following his retirement, which becomes effective August 31.

RECOGNIZE SERVICE

Dr. G. S. Cameron commented at the last meeting of the board of governors that Dr. Waite had given the hospital great service since 1925. "That service should be recognize in some way," he declared. "We can't just say thanks very much for such a job."

A letter from the hospital board will be sent soon to Dr. Waite expressing appreciation for his sevices.

For a year after his retirement, Dr. Waite will remain as consulting pathologist, and after that period, he will be paid for any Surprise!

LINDSAY (ENS) — Firemen and police were called to the banks of the Scugog River at Rainbow Bridge when they received word that a man's clothing had been found on the shore but with no man in sight.

For two hours the river was dragged, the authorities being assisted by other boats and men.

The mystery was solved when the missing man arrived in a yacht. He had a chance for a cruise up the river and had a delightful time but firemen and policemen were not so pleased.

Orman McPhail, new to town, was the party in question.

Charge Promises By Liberals Blackmail

Max Swanston, Liberal candidate for Peterborough in the August 10 general election, has been charged with a "brazen admission of Liberal government patronage and neglect of Peterborough county for the past 13 years".

The charge was made by Ed. Humphrey of the Political Action Committee of the Peterborough and District Labor Council before a group of CCF supporters in the Labor Centre Saturday evening at a meeting in support of Maurice Ketcheson, CCF candidate for Peterborough.

Mr. Humphrey claimed that the Liberal candidate's admission was contained in a letter which Mr. Swanston had sent to voters in the riding.

CAN EXPECT SHARE

He said Mr. Swanston's letter made it plain that Peterborough can expect a fair share of government spending in Canadian development only if it is represented by a Liberal in the House of Commons.

"This looks very much like blackmail to me," Mr. Humphrey said.

Guest speaker was Spencer Cheshire, Fraserville, a member of the CCF provincial council, and candidate for Durham in the last provincial election.

Mr. Cheshire said that at the beginning of the present campaign he considered it was possibly inadvisable to draw attention to the fact that a depression usually follows wartime and post-war plenty. After studying the subject thoroughly, he decided the people should know there were facts to show a depression had already started.

He said he spent six days a week talking to district farmers and, although they all reported a slight increase of income, their operating costs had increased two and a half times. The result had been large lay-offs by farm implement manufacturing concerns. Statistics were available to prove this, he said.

"Anyone who lived through the dark days of the 30s will tell you this is exactly the way that depression started," the speaker said.

"Mr. Coldwell must have been referring to the long sleep of the Liberal conscience since 1919 when he drew attention to a recent statement by Health Minister Martin that 'a national health plan could not be made overnight'.

LONG NIGHT

"'Thirty-four years is a long night,' was Mr. Coldwell's reaction. So the Liberal conscience has been doing a Rip Van Winkle since 1919.

"Perhaps you noticed in the report of Mr. P. J. Rowe's speech for Durham candidate Roy Armstrong that in 1935, on the eve of the election, R. B. Bennett, Arthur Meighen and other Conservatives condemned capitalism.

"Well, that conscience soon went to sleep again after the Tories lost an election and the party's policy has been cold-bloodedly opportunistic ever since, exceeded only by that of Mackenzie King and his successor, Louis St. Laurent.

"No. You won't find much conscience in either of the old parties.

"I would class the Labor Progressive party as a devil's advocate," Mr. Cheshire continued. "The devil used to be Stalin and we don't know yet whether we should name the latest devil Malenkov or Beria.

"In any case, their intimate ties with Russia make the LPP the missionaries to the West from behind the iron curtain—nothing more. As the Far East learned, after the missionaries come the battleships and exploiters.

The speakers were thanked by the candidate, Mr. Ketcheson, who also spoke briefly. Chairman was Irvin Yeo.

City Council To Decide On Building

Outboard Plans Addition; Mayor Calls Meeting

Mayor Waddell has called a special meeting of the city council for Tuesday at 8 p.m. to consider the application of Outboard Marine & Manufacturing Company for a building permit for their new addition at Romaine St. and Monaghan Road.

Contract for this work has been let to Eastwood Construction Co. of Peterborough. Ground has been broken on the lot at the corner which has been used until recently as a parking area for employees.

So far their only street frontage has been on Monaghan Road. This new producing unit brings them on to Romaine St., and according to the city's plan that street is confined to residential purposes. On account of that restriction the company's building permit has been held up at the office of City Engineer Chalmers.

Council meeting will be preceded at 7:30 by a committee session of all the members. The evening will be concluded with meetings of the finance and board of works.

LEARN TO TALK — Patience and training are paying off for Don and John, Winnipeg twins suffering from a rare type of cerebral palsy. When they were three they came to the Winnipeg Children's Hospital cerebral palsy clinic. They couldn't walk and couldn't be understood. A speech therapist, Mrs. Lyle McDonald, undertook to teach them to speak. She spent countless hours getting them to conquer simple sounds. Seated before a mirror they learned to form basic sounds with their lips by following her example. Soon they were moving around the hospital with the aid of tiny canes, voicing greetings to doctors and nurses.

Boy 7, Spends Night In Swamp

OLIPHANT, Ont. (CP) — Seven-year-old Michael Hudson spent a night by himself in the dense swampland of Cranberry Island before a rescue party found him early Sunday.

Michael wandered away from his family's cottage near this Bruce Peninsula town Saturday and wasn't missed till dusk. When the searchers found him he was bedded down in the bush, suffering only from slight shock.

Destroyer Arrives

SASEBO, Japan (AP) — The Canadian destroyer Huron arrived at this large U.S. navy base in southern Japan Sunday for repairs after running aground Monday off the east coast of Korea. Extent of damage to the ship had not yet been determined.

Brandy For The Tars

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — The traditional rum issue for the South African Navy has been stopped, the pro-government Die Transvaler reported Sunday. Instead, sailors will get a native product—brandy.

Won't Be Visiting Canada As Much

BAIE COMEAU, Que. (CP)—Col. Robert R McCormick, president of the Chicago Tribune Company, said in an interview Saturday night he probably will not be visiting his Canadian companies as frequently as he has been.

Earlier, at a dinner celebrating the opening of a power project, Col. McCormick had said that, since he'll soon be 73, he would pass on many of his duties to Arthur Schmon, president of the Manicouagan Power Company, which built the project, and chief of Chicago Tribune subsidiaries in Canada.

Col. McCormick said he will retain control on all major decisions as at present.

Patience And Training Paid Off In Big Way For Palsied Twins

WINNIPEG (CP)—Patience and training are paying off in a big way for Don and John, fair-haired Winnipeg twins.

The brothers are identical twins, both suffering from a rare type of cerebral palsy which nudged their balance off kilter, affected their speech and, to a lesser degree, their co-ordination.

They became the pets of the Winnipeg Children's Hospital cerebral palsy clinic, set up in 1949. Three years old at the time, they couldn't walk and couldn't be understood, except by each other.

In six months of physio and speech-therapy, the boys learned to walk with the aid of canes and speak rhythmless, single syllable sounds. They became more perceptive mentally.

A speech therapist, Mrs. Lyle McDonald, undertook to teach the children to speak. She spent countless hours getting them to conquer simple sounds. Seated before a mirror, they learned to form basic sounds with their lips by following her example.

In time they were moving around the hospital with the aid of tiny canes, voicing greetings to doctors and nurses. They appeared at a luncheon at the Kiwanis Club, founders of the clinic, to stand on a table top and thank the club, haltingly, for all it had done in the cerebral-palsy field.

They went off to kindergarten last year and now are enrolled in a grade - one public - school class where their marks are good, they walk unaided and carry on an almost normal flow of conversation. They are especialy adept at reading.

Election Issues Unchanged In Campaigning Last Week

By JOHN LeBLANC

OTTAWA (CP) — The election issues have not changed any in the last week of campaigning. It's still the Liberal record against the field.

The government party, in electioneering, is still sticking pretty tightly to its record. The Progressive Conservatives are bearing down hard on tax cuts. The CCF is talking of nationalization of basic industries. The Social Credit group speaks of monetary reform.

These subjects have been pretty well explored in earlier speeches of party leaders, in and out of Parliament. However, leaders laid new emphasis during the week as they personally hit different parts of the country.

HOT AIR PROMISES

Prime Minister St. Laurent was in the west and in his native Quebec. In the west, he suggested the Progressive Conservatives are using "hot air" promises of tax cuts to get into power. The Progressive Conservative tax-cut pledge amounts to $500,000,000 a year, or one-ninth the current budget.

In Quebec, he took another belt at the Progressive Conservatives' suggestion that his government is "centralizing" power in Ottawa. He would, he said, fight any threat to taking away the autonomy of provinces.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, has been hammering at such things as convertibility of sterling — to improve Canadian trade with the British countries—and the value of Canadian government bonds.

DELAYED CONVERSION

Mr. Drew, whose party has been promising it will work out a convertibility system to break down trade barriers, hooked onto a statement by External Affairs Minister Pearson that Canada is working with Commonwealth countries and the U.S. for convertibility. He described this as a delayed "conversion to economic commonsense."

The Progressive Conservative leader also hit at Prime Minister St. Laurent's suggestion that the election of a PC government would lead to a deterioration in the value of Canadian bonds. He said the value of war bonds already has declined because of Liberal policies.

The CCF during the week, through leader M. J. Coldwell and other spokesmen, reiterated promises to nationalize such industries as basic steel and meat packing. Mr. Coldwell also underlined his party's promise for a national health plan.

WATCH MONETARY POLICIES

The Social Credit party said Canada could do much to solve international currency problems through its monetary policies. Leader Solon Low was campaigning in his northern riding of Peace River.

In the coming week, the leaders of the major parties will be concentrating their fire in the east—particularly Ontario and Quebec—where there is a decisive number of seats.

Author To Marry

LONDON (Reuters) — J. B. Priestley, 59, novelist and playwright, Thursday will marry Mrs. Jacquetta Hawkes, divorced wife of a university professor. Priestley was cited as co-respondent last month when Prof. Charles Hawkes of Oxford University divorced his wife, Jessie Jacquetta, 42-year-old writer, lecturer and broadcaster. Hawkes, professor of European archaeology, claimed his wife committed adultery with the twice-married author during a tour of Japan last fall.

Indian Rights

NIAGARA FALLS (CP)—There shouldn't be any laws made in the United States or Canada without representation by the Indians to safeguard their rights, the Rev. Emery Kocsis of Plainfield, N.J., said here Saturday. The Baptist clergyman and United Nations observer was guest speaker here at the annual Indian Defence League gathering.

Baptist Leader Dies

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP) — Dr. Waldo C. Machum, 67, for the last 10 years secretary of the Baptist Federation of Canada and general secretary of the United Baptist Maritime Convention, died here Saturday night. He was born in Fredericton.

Major Terms Of Korean Truce Draft

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Here are major terms of the Korean truce draft, expected to be signed soon now that the Reds have given the go-ahead to proceed with final details:

Fighting stops 12 hours after the truce signing; troops withdraw from buffer zone about 2½ miles wide across Korea; troops and arms frozen at truce level but rotation of 35,000 men monthly permitted; Allies withdraw within five days from North Korean coastal islands.

Military armistice commission of five senior officers from each side supervises armistice terms; neutral nation supervisory commission (Sweden, Switzerland, Poland, Czechoslovakia) observes truce terms.

EXCHANGE PoWs

Prisoners of war who want to go home exchanged at Panmunjom within two months; PoWs unwilling to return home turned over to five-nation repatriation commission (India, Sweden, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, Poland); India supplies guards for PoWs; Red agents (seven per 1,000 PoWs) make "explanations" during 90-day period—in presence of neutrals—to encourage repatriation; PoWs who change minds repatriated on commission majority vote.

Recommendations made for a political conference to begin within 90 days after an armistice to discuss peaceful settlement to entire Korean question; problem of PoWs persisting in refusal to go home handed to conference for 30 days; after the 30 days, those still refusing repatriation released to civilian status in South Korea with right to go to neutral nations of their choice.

The Communists reserved the right Sunday to place before the political conference the problem of 27,000 anti-Red North Korean PoWs released in South Korea on orders of President Syngman Rhee. They have disappeared into the South Korean population.

ILLEGAL ENTRY—It could be the heat—but whatever the reason a 375-pound tire flew off the rear wheel of a trailer truck in Montreal and crashed through a restaurant window (left), coming to rest beside the soft drink counter.

Driver Stanley Barclay (right) shows what caused the trouble—studs holding the tire to the right rear wheel broke, allowing it to bounce off. No one was injured, as the wheel bounced 15 feet in the air to clear a group of people waiting at a bus stop.

Hit-Run Mishap Causes $10 Damage To Auto

A hit and run accident Saturday on Hunter St. E. resulted in damage esimated at $10 to a parked car owned by Mac McAuliffe of RR 1, Ennismore.

In the accident, which occured sometime Saturday afternoon, a car, apparently backing up, crushed the left rear fender of the McAuliffe vehicle. There were no witnesses to the crash.

Manoeuvres In Greece

LARISA, Greece (AP) — Jet fighter-bombers of four countries swarmed over Greece in tactical support to the first Greek national army which "fought" a holding action along the Olympus mountain line against a simulated invader. For the first time since NATO's south Europe command was formed, Greek field commanders were able to call on F84 thunderjets based in Turkey and Italy.

No Driver's License Hospital Bill $1,000

COBOURG (ENS) — Richard Martinell, 22 of Hope township, was fined $25 and costs on a charge of driving while his license was under suspension. Russell Honey of Port Hope, solicitor for the defendant, told the court that as a result of the accident, in which a borrowed car was damaged, Martinell had been in hospital in Peterborough and the medical and hospital bill would be around $1,000. The defendant had missed a turn near Garden Hill and struck a bridge. Delbert Langstaff of Kendall, owner of the car, was fined $10 and costs for permitting his car to be driven knowing that the driver's license was under suspension.

Mrs. Andrew Fawcett

Funeral for the late Mrs. Elizabeth Stockdale Fawcett, 85, of Lakehurst, was held in the hamlet on Friday afternoon at Knox Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Fawcett was the widow of Andrew Fawcett. Mr. K. Wilcox, assisted by Mr. Kenneth Stewart of Lakehurst United Church, officiated.

Pallbearers were James, Donald and Keith Fawcett, Allen Aliver, Joe and Fred Bowen. Flowerbearers were Helen and Dianne Bowen, Keith and Marilyn Clysdale, Allen Curtis and Neil Fawcett. Burial was at Lakehurst Cemetery.

120 Degrees In Shade

CAIRO (AP)—The Middle East simmered in a heat wave that sent temperatures up to 120 degrees over the weekend. The thermometer hit 120 Sunday in Baghdad, Kuwait and other Persian gulf points. Cairo reported a one-point drop from Saturday's 105.

Fourth Of World's Land Area Vitally Affected By Drought

PARIS (Reuters) —International bodies in three European centres have embarked on a long-term study of means to combat drought, which affects one-fourth of the world's land area and cuts deeply into essential food production.

The United Nations educational scientific and cultural organization has set up an "arid zone research council" here to study the problem.

In Rome the anti-drought campaign is in the hands of the United Nations food and agricultural organization, which will hold regional meetings next month in Cairo, Egypt and Bangalore, India, to discuss how water can be brought to the arid areas of the Middle East and South Africa.

The third UN body concerned with drought problems is the world meteorological organization in Geneva, which studies weather statistics to determine long-term weather trends.

ANTI-DROUGHT WEAPONS

UNESCO has sponsored investigations of anti-drought weapons such as dew, fog, rain-making, distillation of sea water and the more conventional methods of dams, irrigation and conservation.

Its arid zone research council's most recent findings include:

1. Dew is an effective source of moisture and can be stored in the soil by certain plants. Dr. F. W. Went, director of the Earhart Research Laboratory of the California Institute of Technology, working under an UNESCO grant with Dr. D. Duvdevani of Israel, found that plants such as tomatoes, sugar beets, peas, squash and mint absorb water from dew at night and store it in the soil for later use by exuding it through their root systems.

2. Countries which have extensive coastal deserts, such as Argentina, Australia, Mexico, Pakistan, Peru and most of the Middle East nations, can get water from fog by developing a belt of vegetation which will absorb the moisture directly.

3. Those nations with coastal deserts also have "enormous potentialities if economic means for the purification of salt water could be developed."

PRODUCING WATER

The production of water through the seeding of clouds with silver iodide or dry ice has also been studied.

Another project which UNESCO is supporting this year is an international expedition to explore the Sahara and Sudan arid regions.

FAO is helping countries in sound development of their water systems by designing irrigation systems and by teaching proper storage and distribution of ground and surface water.

In East Pakistan, FAO is helping to build an irrigation system covering 2,000,000 acres. This system will divert water from the Ganges river and make possible two or even three crops a year instead of the present one uncertain crop.

Other places where FAO has anti-drought projects are Iran, Syria, Southern Israel, Jordan, Iraq, the Sudan, Yugoslavia and Latin America. In Saudi Arabia, an FAO team is making a survey for a 20,000-acre system which will enable the Arabs to use flash flood waters which rush down river channels only three or four times a year.

Building Collapses

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Three women and two children were killed and 22 people injured when a two-storey building collapsed in Old Delhi. Five of the injured were reported in critical condition.

Lights Go Out, Cause Two-Auto Accident

Vanishing headlights confused a driver Saturday night and were the indirect cause of an accident on Highway 28 near the Drive-In Theatre.

Ray Jones, 17, of Peterborough, was driving south when his headlights suddenly went out. He stopped, then tried to drive off the road. A second southbound car, driven by J. R. Brown, 44, 208 Lake St., sideswiped the left rear fender of Jones' car.

Brown's car then left the road at right angles, crashed through a wire fence in the east ditch and stopped, right side up, more than 100 yards away in a field.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown and Brown's passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Higgins, 537 Rose Ave., were shaken up and suffered some bruises. Otherwise they were unharmed.

Front end of the Brown car was damaged to the extent of about $450, and damage to Jones' car was estimated at less than $50. OPP Constable Ken Barker investigated.

Television Camera, A Guard, Against Shoplifters

NEW YORK (AP) — The shoplifter edges up to a counter. The clerk is busy with a customer. There's the flash of a practised hand and a half-dozen expensive ties disappear.

It looked easy and it was, until the shoplifter started to walk out and a store detective quietly collared him. The completely baffled thief hadn't reckoned on a concealed, midget television camera on which his entire operation was observed.

That's only one of the countless future business or industrial uses for TV envisioned by Dr. Allen B. Dumont, video pioneer and president of Allen B. Dumont Laboratories.

Dr. Dumont says the real potential of industrial TV only recently has been opened up with development of small, low - cost cameras a fraction as expensive as previous models.

He predicts industrial and business uses of TV ultimately will eclipse its entertainment use, just as electronics grew out of radio and now is several times as big as the radio business.

He foresees increasing use of TV for such purposes as checking signatures on cheques, for enabling a control operator to monitor an entire assembly line or fabrication operation, in railroad yards, and even in the home for keeping an eye on a child or for seeing who is at the door.

CATCHES BIG ONE—Fisherman Joe Bouley shows a 40-pound salmon he caught to Hon. George Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, touring New Brunswick during the federal election campaign.

To Lay Charges Following Hit And Run

LINDSAY (ENS)—Charges are being laid by Chief Constable John Hunter against parties involved in a hit and run accident at the intersection of Lindsay and Queen Sts.

A 1940-model car, driven by Frank Miller, 1 York St., was sideswiped by a hit and run driver. The fender was bent and other damage to the extent of $50 resulted.

Although the accident took place at 11.45 p.m., a witness picked up the licence number of the second car and police found it in Lindsay several hours later.

Moss McDuff has been charged with failing to return to the scene of the accident.

He claims that he did not realize there had been an accident but when police lined up both cars it was discovered the McDuff car was damaged to the extent of $15.

Moss stated he has only had the car for five days. On investigating, police discovered the original owner was Earl Wood, of Toronto. The car has changed hands several times and a number of charges of failing to make legal transfer of the vehicle are being preferred.

Alter Agriculture In Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Newfoundland's agriculture, not a major economic factor in the life of the province, is to receive a complete overhauling by a Royal Commission.

Appointed by Premier Smallwood, the commission is headed by Dean Alexander Malcolm Shaw, chairman of the agricultural prices support board, Ottawa. Board members are Prof. W. M. Drummond, a member of a United Nations agricultural mission to Korea; and P. J. Murray, deputy minister of resources.

Terms of reference include a general examination of the agricultural resources of the province and suggestions for possible improvement. All phases of the industry—ranging from marketing to land settlement—will be investigated.

The idea behind the commission, the government said, is to find a basis for a long-term program for development of the industry.

10 Workmen Hurt

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—A section of a multi-million dollar oceanfront under construction collapsed, sending 10 workmen to hospitals. The men fell 25 feet to the ground when a framework of concrete, steel and planking caved in under their feet.

Climbs Bars, Reads Bible, Needs Treatment: Jailer

COBOURG (ENS) — "He took all the magazines and books away from the other prisoners and their cigarettes and he climbs the bars in his cell. He reads the Bible at night. I think he needs mental treatment," said jail governor Ed Mottershed of John Haggerty of Toronto, who was picked up in Clarke township on July 15 on a vagrancy charge.

Provincial Constable Art Watson of Bowmanville said that he picked up Haggerty after a truck driver complained that Haggerty tried to throw himself in front of his truck.

"Why did you take the books away from the prisoners?" asked Magistrate R. B. Baxter.

"Do you read John?" asked Haggerty. "The Lord says there is only one Book." Haggerty went on to quiz the magistrate a bit on the Scriptures.

"Remanded to the Ontario Hospital at Whitby for a term not exceeding 60 days for mental examination," said the magistrate in terminating the quiz.

Buffalo Has Truckers Strike

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Buffalo business firms braced today for the full impact of a truck drivers strike that was tying up freight shipments for a 50-mile radius.

Union spokesmen said perishables and defence shipments will be allowed to roll in and out of Buffalo, but practically all other freight movements, including those to and from the railroad terminals, are paralyzed by the strike.

Members of Local 375 of the Truck Drivers Union (AFL) walked off their jobs one minute after midnight Sunday. The strike, which is directed at the 150 trucking firms that comprise the Buffalo Trucking and Common Carriers Association, affects about 2,200 drivers, loaders and helpers.

TURN DOWN OFFER

The union voted 706 to 153 Friday night to turn down the association's last contract offer, which provided for a 12-cent hourly wage increase, a company-paid hospitalization plan, and fringe benefits.

William E. Patterson, association president, said present wage scales ranged from $1.50 an hour for dockmen, to $1.62 an hour for drivers. Union spokesmen could not be reached for comment on the scales.

Earlier, Ernest G. Belles, president of the local, said the strike "will continue until contract issues have been solved."

The strike was originally set for June 30, but was postponed by agreement between the union and management.

Nine People Injured In Two-Car Crash

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP) — Nine persons escaped serious injury Sunday when two cars crashed into a ditch on a sharp curve near Kirby's Corners, 14 miles north of here.

Seven who suffered lacerations, bruises and shock were released from hospital Sunday night. James Sherlock, 20, and Marion Bordinuc, 14, were held in hospital for further medical treatment and examination.

Mayfield Gets 1st Win Of Professional Career

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Twenty-nine-year-old Shelly Mayfield came through to the first victory of his professional career Sunday with a scorching 19-under-par 269 to win the St. Paul Open golf tournament.

Mayfield, from Cedarhurst, N.Y., climaxed a blazing four-day sub-70 grind with a 65 to edge Dutch Harrison, Ardmore, Okla., by two strikes.

One stroke further back was Sam Snead, the favorite, who played erratically to miss the chance to overtake a collapsing Fred Haas, the third round leader.

The win was worth $2,400 for Mayfield.

Camera Missing

LINDSAY (ENS) — Gregory's drug store lost a camera valued at $41 and police are investigating. Saturday night was open night for the store with a large weekend business and the camera was not missed until closing time. Constable Mosely is investigating.

Forbid Smoking

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—A law is being drawn up forbidding smoking in any Johannesburg store where food is handled. Health officials said the law will prevent cigaret ashes being dropped into food.

JUNIOR FARMERS and 4-H clubbers of Peterborough County met at Morrow Park Saturday morning and afternoon in sport competition. In one of the softball games during the afternoon, Erlene Sexsmith, of Keene, is seen, top, taking a healthy slice at the ball. Catcher Elda Wilson, of Fairview, is behind the plate. Erlene's blow did little to save the day, however, as her East Peterborough 4-H Club lost 36-7 to the Peterborough Junior Farmers. Opposing captains meet in pre-game friendliness in the bottom picture. Jim McMullen (left), of the West Dairy Club, is shown with Barry Wilson, of the Grain Club.

400 Air Cadets Enjoy Summer Course

AYLMER—After a week of being back to school during their summer holidays, about 400 air cadets Saturday strutted their stuff for their commanding officer, Air Vice-Marshal J. G. Kerr.

Brown as berries and every bit as trim and smart as their brothers in the RCAF, the cadets, ranging in ages from 14 to 18, led by their own band, marched stiffly by their CO for the general salute and inspection.

These air cadets—the air force of the future — represented the second and largest group to take two weeks of summer training at the Air Force station here. The cadets and their officers are from 20 Ontario and five Quebec squadrons.

Their big day Saturday, unfortunately interrupted by a heavy and continuing downpour, was their opportunity to show what a week of living under canvas, with mornings devoted to classroom lectures and afternoons to swmiming and field events, had done for them.

Other than the visit of their commanding officer, the important part of the day for the boys was when they were subjected to the eagle eyes of members of the civilian committees who guide them during their training course the rest of the year.

CLOSE INSPECTION

These members, all civilians, led by J. F. Scruton, chairman of the Ontario Provincial Committee, left nothing unobserved as they closely examined living quarters, sanitary facilities and wound up by personally sampling the food their air cadets are eating. The verdict on the food was "up to the usual air force high standards."

The two weeks the boys spend here are packed with activity. They devote about 40 hours a week to drill, lectures and plenty of sports and swimming. The emphasis in training is on water safety, and swimming periods prepare them for Red Cross life saving certificates.

Morning lectures include RCAF supply procedure, squadron maintenance, a projectionist course, drill and range firing.

Guided by experienced RCAF instructors, the cadets are given an insight into the operation of aerial engines, aircraft and various weapons.

The highlight of the two weeks for all of the cadets is the flying time they put in. Each cadet gets two flights, totalling about 1½ hours' flying time, in one of the five Expeditor planes at their disposal.

Five permanent RCAF pilots handle the aircraft and each flight is made in a different direction, with the cadets following the course via marked maps.

BOY MUSICIAN—Nine-year-old Jimmy Hume, of Re..., plays a farm boy in the new National Film Board production, "Musician in the Family." Jimmy didn't get the job because of his acting ability, but because he can ride a horse and play a trombone. That's what the hero of the picture does. The NFB film is entered in the Edinburgh Film Festival this summer.

Nine-Year-Old Regina Boy Hero For Canadian Film

OTTAWA (CP) — Nine-year-old Jimmy Hume, a "city slicker" from Reina, plays a farm boy in the new National Film Board production "Musician in the Family."

But Jimmy didn't get the job because of his acting ability. He got it because he can ride a horse and play a trombone.

That's what the hero of the picture does.

The NFB film—being entered in the Edinburgh Film Festival this summer—will be seen by a total Canadian audience of 13,000,000 through the NFB's non-theatrical circuits.

SHOT NEAR REGINA

The film was "shot" around Milestone, near Regina. It tells about a farm boy who wants to play trombone in a small-town music festival despite his father's feeling that farm work is being neglected.

"The script for the picture was written some time ago, and it was a problem getting a boy with the ability of the hero," said Gudrun Parker, the NFB's woman director.

"Jimmy was the boy," she said. "He loves playing the trombone and belongs to a band. And he rides very well."

PICKED FROM DOZENS

Jimmy was picked from dozens of average school children interviewed by the woman director.

Paul Helstrum acts as Jimmy's film-father, who thinks he should look after the farm and forget about the "horn blowing." Lillian Cornish is the understanding mother. Both are from Regina. Richard Watson, director of the Regina Conservatory of Music, also appears in the picture.

Official Wounded In Mau Mau Raid

NAIROBI (Reuters) — Bearded Sidney (Davo) Davidson, husky Kenya government official reputed to have killed 33 Mau Mau terrorists, was wounded Saturday while leading a jungle raid against the anti-white cult.

But with four bullets in him, he managed to club his assailant with his own rifle before collapsing.

Davidson, 41, was shot at point-blank range by a Mau Mau man armed with a sub-machine-gun. He was leading African troops in an attack on one of the biggest terrorist camps in the Aberdare forest, one of the worst trouble spots in this colony.

Blind Sculptress Succeeds In "Molding Shadows"

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

PARIS (NEA) — "It is not astonishing," said Ginette Leroi simply. "My father was a talented engraver an dmy mother paints."

You had to listen very carefully to catch her words. The 69th All-Women Exhibition of Painting, Sculpture and Decorative Arts here was buzzing with spectators. Most of them stopped at Ginette's clay nude, "Awakening."

"Besides," she half-whispered, "I love everything beautiful. And I have tried to express this in clay."

According to some experts, 18-year-old Ginette has accomplished the wonder of "molding shadows." The shadows of her own world.

For Ginette—Genevieve Leroi—has been totally blind since she was four.

It was at the National Institute for the Blind that she was first discovered. Raika, a famous Yugoslav sculptor, had come to teach and stayed to marvel at the girl's work.

"She has a sensitivity, a suppleness, a dexterity," said Raika, "such as I have never yet found in my seeing pupils."

But Ginette sees. She has been to the Rodin museum with her mother and with her quick fingers she has "seen" the warm, beautiful world of bronze art.

And with her sister she has been to the Sainte Chapelle. There stands the whole history of creation in bas-relief. She could not "see" it all at once, for the weather was cold and she would have to stop often and warm her hands.

Her family comes from Caen. But during the heavy Allied bombing that preceded D-Day, her father died of a heart attack. Their home was destroyed and the Lerois moved to Paris in the wake of advancing troops.

Her schooling was irregular. She could not master science or mathematics and so her professors let her follow her artistic instinct. Not only clay modelling, but ceramics became her avenues of expression. And in the past months she has been learning to play the organ.

"Yet," she said, "I realize that I must learn to do something useful because art is not a very dependable source of income."

And so, for several hours each day, she learns the trade of chair caning.

"But," she whispers from out of her shadowy world, "I'm not very good at it." And her hand goes out to touch the clay statue of "Awakening."

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—A minister from Ceylon visited the Mount Crawford prison, saw the spring-mattress beds, heated and lighted cells, radio, good food and bottles of milk and rubbed his eyes. "If this prison was in Ceylon," he said, "there would be long queues for admission."

BRANTFORD—Public wards in the 100-bed St. Joseph hospital, soon to be built here, will be no larger than six-bed capacity, hospital authorities have announced.

Private ward accommodation will be kept to a minimum with the majority of facilities composed of two, three, four or six beds per room.

The six-floor building, including ground floor and basement, will have patients' beds on the fourth and fifth floors, while the sixth floor will be reserved for nurses' accommodation.

Saguenay Shrine Draws Huge Pilgrim Crowd

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — A colorful procession winds its way annually through the rolling, picturesque hills near this Saguenay district city as Roman Catholics pay tribute to the area's special patron—Ste. Anne du Saguenay.

Residents have never credited their favorite saint with any miracles. But each year the procession to her shrine gets longer.

Recently, more than 20,000 people marched in a procession that marked the 75th anniversary of the first pilgrimage.

The first pilgrimage was made May 16, 1878, by four priests, eight seminarians and 80 students at the Chicoutimi seminary. The shrine is located on a hilltop across the Seguenay river from here.

Travel was hazardous in the days of the original pilgrims. Seminary annals tell how the pilgrims crossed Ha Ha Bay on the Saguenay by horseboat — shallow ferries driven by a team of horses walking an inclined treadmill.

HAZARDOUS PASSAGE

At times, the pilgrims were nearly drowned as movements of the horses rocked the boats dangerously, allowing waves to swamp the craft.

Arriving at the Church of Ste. Anne, built in 1861, the pilgrims sang hymns, celebrated mass, and prayed for spiritual favors before returning home.

Annual journeys were made from 1878 to 1881 when heavy rain forced cancellation of a shcéduled pilgrimage. For some unrecorded reason, another pilgrimage was not made until 1885.

In 1895, local religious authorities encouraged the celebrations and they became diocesan in scope for the first time. Since then all parishes in the Chicoutimi diocese have been taking part in the pilgrimage.

The village of Ste. Anne is decorated and illuminated each year in preparation for the event.

In 1942, a monument was erected on the site of the shrine.

PRAIRIE WINDMILLS — Three RCAF Sikorsky 51 helicopters, used in search and rescue operations and surveying, take to the air at the Canadian joint air training school at Rivers, Man. The three services were in on this photo. It was taken by naval photographer A. B. Carroll, and the helicopters were piloted by Flt. Lt. Tom Causey, RCAF, and Maj. A. Stewart and Capt. Percy Davis, of the army.

Hoodoo Vanquished

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — Cabin D-87 on the liner Rangitiki has disappeared. While the ship was bound for England last year a man was found hanged in the cabin. On the next voyage a young woman occupant disappeared. When the ship returned here there was no D-87, but the cabins on each side were larger.

Fifth Member Of U.K. Cabinet Now On Sick List

LONDON—(Reuters)—A fifth minister in the 17-member Conservative cabinet has been forced to give up his duties temporarily through illness, it was announced Sunday.

He is James Thomas, 49, First Lord of the Admiralty, who is in hospital with an acute attack of neuritis in the neck and head.

First member of the government sick list is Prime Minister Churchill himself, ordered to rest because of overwork.

Churchill, 78, reported to be making good progress, had a third visit Sunday from R. A. Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer and acting Prime Minister.

DISCUSSED DEBATE

They are understood to have discussed the foreign affairs debate in the Commons Tuesday and Wednesday.

Butler will be chief government speaker in the absence of Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, 56, still convalescing after his gall-bladder operation at Boston last month.

Also absent from the cabinet are Harold MacMillan, 59, Housing and local government minister, and Churchill's son-in-law, Duncan Sandys, 45, supply minister. MacMillian, like Eden, has gall-bladder trouble and Sandys has gone into hospital for an operation on his hand.

Property Sales Zoom 50% In Kitchener

Real estate transactions are setting new records in Kitchener and Waterloo.

In the two cities property transfers have been on the increase. In Kitchener more than a 50 per cent increase for the first six months as compared to last year, is reported, and Waterloo had its greatset number of property transactions in a six month period and also its largest amount of transfers for a single month.

Total number of transfers for the first six months for both cities was 1,610. The total amount of money involved didn't correspond with the increase in transactions.

This year's figure for the first six months, in Kitchener was $7,921,843, while last year the total was $6,463,385.

The fact that no really large transaction took place during 1953 in the period, while at least one early deal last year was estimated at $500,000, explains the difference.

BEATS HEAT WAVE—Eleanor the groundhog has her own way of beating the hot weather. She licks ice cream from a stick in the home of her owner, Bert McInnes, of Burks Falls, Ont. Mr. McInnes adopted Eleanor last spring and since then has taught her to sit up at the table and use a spoon or fork.

Destroyer Due At Halifax From Korea

OTTAWA (CP)—The destroyer Haida will arrive at her home port of Halifax Wednesday after a seven-month patrol of Korean waters, the navy announced Sunday. She is under the command of Cmdr. Dunn Lantier of Montreal.

During her patrol Haida blasted North Korean factories and shore installations and destroyed three trains. She emerged unscathed from the fire of enemy shore batteries. Less spectacularly, she patrolled friendly islands off the Korean coast and joined in the escort of aircraft carriers.

The navy said that on her arrival at Halifax, Haida will become the second Canadian destroyer to have sailed around the world.

INTERESTING TRIP

She left Japan a month ago to return to Canada by way of Hong Kong, Singapore, Colombo, Aden, the Suez Canal, Malta, Gibraltar and the Azores, retracing last year's homecoming journey of HMCS Nootka.

Haida was relieved in mid-June by another Halifax-based destroyer, HMCS Huron. The Huron, reported at the beginning of last week to have been damaged in a coast, was scheduled to arrive at grounding off the North Korean Sasebo, Japan, for repairs.

Bug Invasion

LEAMINGTON (CP) — Agricultural representative Alexis Burnell said during the week-end that hordes of cinch-bugs are attacking corn crops in Essex County. The tiny, brownish bugs usually breed in wheat fields and then invade nearby corn crops. They suck the juice out of the corn and leave it dry and unmarketable.

A HEAP OF FLIES—A woman in La Crosse, Wis., steps carefully through a mass of flies which swarm all over the sidewlak outside an auto dealer's show window. La Crosse wasn't sure what to call the insects—May flies, barge flies or June bugs—but it was sick of sweeping them up after a heavy overnight "invasion." There were piles of the flies wherever there has been a light on during the night.

Three English Girls Making Cross Country Motorcycle Tour

CALGARY (CP) — Three girls from Birmingham, England, were sympathetic to cowpokes who endured the jolting heaves of unsaddled broncs at the Calgary Stampede.

After being guests of Mayor Don MacKay at the world-famous rodeo, it was time for the three to start enduring some jolts and shakes of their own. They resumed their cross-country motorcycle tour that will eventually take them to Vancouver.

The three young "brunys," as they call themselves, are 23-year-old dancing instructor Violet Riley, 22-year-old laboratory technician Joan Poole and 20-year-old dressmaker Deryl Checkley.

"DREADFULLY COLD"

After disembarking from the liner Georgic at Halifax last Nov. 2, the girls made their way to Toronto despite a "dreadfully cold" Canadian winter.

After a two-month rest-up, they pointed their machines towards Windsor, then made a swing through Michigan before finally arriving in Winnipeg. Funds were boosted in a five-week working stop-over, then they made their way across Saskatchewan to Lethbridge, and up to Calgary.

All three girls logged a good many touring miles before arriving in Canada, and their plans call for many more before they finally arrive home. Each of them spent two years travelling in Europe by "hostelling."

Once in Vancouver, the girls hope to work their way across the Pacific to Australia where they'll board their motorcycles once again.

Train Hits Car Man Jumps Out

ST. CATHARINES—When his old model car stopped on the CNR railway tracks five miles west of St. Catharines early Sunday morning, Charles Hertlein, 40, RR 1, Jordan, jumped out when he saw a freight train approaching.

The car was demolished. The freight, under conductor Roy Crane, of Toronto, with engineer Herbert Jones of Mimico, at the throttle, was undamaged. Hertlein, who was alone, was arrested on a charge of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol. OPP constables Don Campbell and Peter Henderson investigated.

Accidents over the weekend in the St. Catharines area caused about $5,000 in property damage, but in only one case were there any physical injuries. Lucien Gadal, 30, of Delhi, suffered a broken left arm after his car sideswiped one driven by John O'Flanagain, 16, of Hamilton, and then struck a cement bridge on the Queen Elizabeth Way near Jordan. Damage to the two cars totalled about $800, it was estimated.

NEW RECORD — Lt.-Col. William F. Barnes of Palos Verdes Estates, Calif., is the holder of a new world's speed record after flying an F-86D Sabre Jet at 715.7 miles per hour. The record, which bested the previous mark of 698.5, was set at the Thermal, Calif., desert test course.

Lobster Fishing Industry Almost Ruined

HALIFAX (CP)—A major reconstruction program will be required to get the Maritime lobster fishing industry back on its feet after destructive storms in late May.

Described by many veteran fishermen as the worst they could remember, gales pounded the coast throughout one week-end, wiping out thousands of dollars worth of traps, weirs, boats and other equipment.

Operations practically ceased in some areas and as a result prices rose to their highest level in years. About the middle of June fishermen were getting up to twice as much for their lobsters as they received last year.

The federal fisheries department sent survey teams to assess the damage, and their investigations continued for weeks. Fisheries Minister Sinclair promised Prince Edward Island fishermen that Ottawa would pay three-quarters of their rehabilitation bill. Fishermen in the other provinces sought similar assistance.

At one point on the P.E.I. coast four lobster boats were carried to sea and smashed by the churning combers.

STAGGERING LOSSES

From Gabarous to Glace Bay, on Cape Breton Island, it was estimated that more than 13,000 traps were destroyed. Estimates of damage ranged from $25,000 to $60,000 and similar losses were reported from other sections of the Cape Breton coast. Some fishermen lost 90 per cent of their gear.

Also hard hit was the Northumberland Strait shore, both in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. A fisheries protection officer predicted a "sharp decline" in New Brunswick landings.

Until the storm hit fishermen were having a good year, despite an upward revision in minimum size regulations making it illegal to land lobsters whose body shells measured less than 2½ inches.

The increase, one-eighth of an inch, was expected to reduce catches somewhat the first year but raise them and make for better catches in succeeding years.

Plans Changed

OSLO (CP)—Representing Norway at the "Miss Universe" beauty contest at Long Beach, Calif., has upset the ambitions of Synnove Gulbrandsen, "Miss Norway 1953," to become a ship stewardess.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Play In Your Own Backyard And Be Safe In Summer

At a highway accident last week a nurse from the car behind the accident so capably looked after a gentle lady whose collarbone was broken, that I, by some silly quirk of the brain, denied the truth of this pseudo-wisdom: When a girl is 18 she needs good parents; when she's 28 she needs good looks; when she's 38 she needs personality; when she's 48 she needs brains; but when she's 58 the old girl needs cash.

Sounds very smart at the time of first hearing it but at the scene of an accident what is required is human kindness and patience and a cool head. The nurse I speak of was 40 and while the officer kept the traffic flowing the cool-headed nurse sat down on the grass beside the injured little lady. She turned out to be 73, and while appearances showed she had the cash it was fortitude that she needed at that point, and believe me she had it.

I'll never forget her wan little smile at the nurse as she murmured "You must be the good Samaritan."

The incident sickened me of highways. We've decided that until we go on our vacation we will stay at home and have our fresh air in our own garden. Besides, I'm reading Kenneth Roberts' "Northwest Passage" which is 700 pages of enough travel and adventure to hold anybody.

In the last week the menus which follow have been tried by us. I'm trying to cut down running and dish-washing. You see when we cook outside it's so entertaining that somebody else wants to take charge of the cooking. Me —I just sit.

BARBECUE SUPPER NUMBER 1

Sausages and Pancakes
Maple Syrup
Large Tray of Finger Salad Foods
Raspberry Chiffon Pie (see below) Coffee

We had a guest at this meal who does not like mayonnaise on salad, so I cut things in strips and piled them in groups on a big divided dish: strips of green pepper, strips of dill, strips of fresh cucumber, radishes, celery and carrot strips, even 3 or 4 little hard lettuce hearts, and some midget tomatoes.

RASPBERRY CHIFFON PIE

Wash 1 pint raspberries in sieve drain and measure 2-3 cup and reserve these. Mash the remainder and make up to 1 cup by adding water if necessary. Place in top of double boiler with ¾ tablespoon gelatin, let stand until gelatin is soaked, then place over hot water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Mix 3 egg yolks with 1-3 cup sugar and stir them in, then beat over hot water until very light and thick. Water should be at simmering point. Remove from heat and add shake of salt and cool. Then add reserved berries and 1 teaspoon lemon juice and a few drops of red coloring if desired. Beat 3 egg whites until stiff and slowly add 3 tablespoons sugar to them, then fold this into the raspberry custard. Pour into pastry-lined pie plate (this may be graham cracker crust if desired). Chill. This is usually served with whipped cream.

DOROTHY DIX:

Tightwad Husband Insists Wife Open Her Purse to Him

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I both work and during thirteen months of marriage have paid up $2,000 worth of furniture bills. Now I feel I'd like to buy some clothes before we begin saving again. I am by no means extravagant, and Carl knows it. I do like to look nice at business, though. The trouble is that Carl feels I should consult him before I buy anything. He says he has the right to know where every penny goes and the fact that I work doesn't give me the right to buy what I please.

MARY S.

SOPHOMORIC SCROOGE

ANSWER: When serious money problems are so evident after little more than a year of marriage, the outlook for a happy future looks rather dim. Being married to a tightwad is bad enough, but having as a husband a man who is tight with his wife's earnings is just about intolerable.

If you have the intelligence to hold a good job, you certainly are smart enough to manage your own money. At the very least, you should have the privilege of budgeting some of it for clothes, as a necessary business expense. Arguing with a miser is futile, and you might as well face the fact that the disease is a progressive one. The story of Scrooge is rarely repeated in reality. The more money you pour into Carl's hands, the more he'll want.

Your only salvation from a most unpleasant situation is to insist, and firmly, that a definite portion of your salary is to be spent as YOU see fit. Since you realize thoroughly the necessity of saving, there is no indication tha you'll squander whatever money you manage. Do your best to nip Carl's parsimony in the bud, before it spreads from his pocketbook to his soul.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been keeping company with a man for three years, and all that stands between us and marriage is the fact that his seven sisters—all married, and well off—refuse to assist in the financial care of their mother. She owns a small house, but has no income. My friend would have to bear the entire burden.

M. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: All members of the family should, by agreement, contribute a definite amount of money each week, or month, to the mother's support. In a family so large, a division of the financial responsibility would incur no burden on any one member. It is certainly an ungrateful bunch of children who would be so neglectful of a mother.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 11 years old, and am attending a summer day camp. I'd like to take up archery, but my daddy says the equipment is too expensive. I could get an archery set for $6.00, and could even make arrangements to pay for it on the installment plan. Daddy also objects to this because he didn't care for the sport when he was young.

C. W.

ANSWER: I'm sure if daddy would look back into his own boyhood—which probably isn't too remote—he'd remember other sports equipment that he did covet. Young people should get every possible support from parents in any sport they would like to pursue—provided, of course, it's not a dangerous one, or one beyond their years. Perhaps dad will let you buy the set if you pay for it yourself. Surely there must be jobs around the house, or even around camp, that you could do for a set sum a week. If you show particular aptitude for archery at camp, won't your instructor put in a good word for you?

SEARCH FOR HUNTERS—Map shows Gaspe, Que., district where provincial police and a provincial government crime expert are investigating the mystery of three American hunters. Police said the remains of one of the hunters has been found. But it is not definite whether it is that of Eugene H. Lindsey, 45, of Holidaysburgh, or his 17-year-old son. The third man is Fred Claar, 20, also of Holidaysburgh. Police have a subpoena for a prospector believed to be the last man to have seen the hunters.

Refugees From Red Satellites Give U.S. Air Force Secret Data

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)— Refugees streaming out of Russia and her satellites are providing the United States Air Force with some of its best information on where and how to set about retaliatory bombing if the U.S.S.R. should start war.

This information goes into voluminous records already amassed on target systems of the Soviet Union. It is in addition to equally-important technical data on Russia's air fleet which becomes available through defection of such former Red military personnel as the two Polish fliers who escaped on recent occasions with jet fighters and have since travelled to the United States.

A quantity of the intelligence on Russian affairs and vulnerable spots in her defences must be assumed to reach this country through normal commercial and industrial reports or through the covert channels of agent or espionage activity.

But augmenting that is material provided by interviews with refugees, the volume of which has increased steadily in recent months coincidental with the unrest in the Communist world.

Among other projects, the U.S.A.F. now has at hand a secret report on a study begun for it by Harvard University in 1950 and recently completed.

That study, made under contract with the air force, was intended to explore one phase of the broad subject of the targets and vulnerabilities of Russia—possible psychological and sociological impact of strategic bombing on the Soviet empire.

While there had been some previous brief mention of the project, the air force disclosed details for the first time in testimony before a Senate appropriations subcommittee released over the week-end.

While the air force is giving major attention to how it would wage war against Russia, it also is taking a look at the probable methods used to undermine morale or terrorize Americans in a war against the United States.

Studies are being made of Soviet application of air power and psychological warfare during the Second World War and of Russian psychological warfare documents which have come into the hands of the United States.

Most Of Fleet Becalmed In Yacht Race

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) With barely a breath of wind, and sails hanging limp the Sabre and the Kittyhawk inched abreast of the Detroit-owned Escapade today in the Port Huron-to-Mackinac yacht race.

The coast guard reported that the three ships, and most of the rest of the fleet, were becalmed. The leaders were only about 25 miles from the finish at 11 a.m. EDT.

However, there was a promise of freshening east winds that would fill the sails and probably bring the three in for a fast, close finish.

The Escapade, owned by Detroiter Wendell W. Anderson, had built up almost a 20-mile lead earlier, while Cleveland's Kittyhawk, the scratch boat owned by the Timken brothers, and Chicago's Sabre, owned by Roman Brotz were held captive by the still Lake Huron.

The coast guard said it would be well after noon by the time the boats made the finish line.

Information on the rest of the fleet was scanty as contact was lost with land. Occasional planes reported some of the locations.

Escapade, a 71-foot yawl, was near Spectacle reef while the 72-foot Kittyhawk and the 82-foot Sabre were three miles east of the reef.

Bird Pictures For Cartoonist

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—The birds and animals in the Canadian Rockies are having their pictures taken for Hollywood's Walt Disney.

Dick Bird and his wife Ada, Canadian photographer - lecturer team, are making a series of habits of the birds and animals of the high mountain places.

Last year the couple made a movie of the pika or rock rabbit, a "cute" little animal which lives around rock slides. The movie aroused Disney's interest.

Now the Birds are taking pictures for the famous cartoonist. They think Disney will use the films to make one of his popular movies on live animals.

CHIEF SUBJECTS

Their chief subjects are woodsheep and goats. It's not only a matter of photographing the birds or animals on the mountain slopes or on a tree, but of trying to get a little of the daily life of each.

Movie making is nothing new to Dick Bird who has operated a photography business in Regina for years. He has worked as a cameraman and assistant director for such American concerns as Universal, Biograph, Mutual, Selig, Thanhauser and Essanay, for overseas studios such as Gaumont and Pathe, and for Hearst, Fox and Pathe newsreels.

He's shot newsreels of Pancho Villa in Mexico, horrors of famine in China, bombing of Madrid, and the Canadian tours of the Duke of Windsor when he was Prince of Wales.

He took pictures on his own in British Guiana which he used in his lectures. While working with a German zoological expedition in South America, he ran up against one of the occupational hazards in that area when he was bitten by a snake.

MOUNTAIN TRAVELOGUE

Bird's first films in the Rockies were taken in 1910 when, with the co-operation of the Canadian Pacific Railway, he made a mountain travelogue.

The CPR put a flat car in front of a locomotive, and while the train shuttled up and down the line, he ground away on an old-fashioned hand-cranked camera.

Bird became famous for his thrilling pictures of a pin-point of light growing bigger and bigger as the train approached the end of the tunnel.

New Vocabulary

Beria Most Hated Man

Countless Thousands Driven To Death In Labor Camps

By EDWARD CRANSHAW
London Observer Foreign News Service

LONDON.—Premier Georgi Malenkov and his remaining friends have done nothing to clear up the mystery of former Deputy Premier Lavrenti P. Beria's downfall.

The Soviet Press, instead of elucidating, has confined itself to vilification and reports of the universal approval of the Government's wisdom in defeating the machinations of so hideous an enemy of the people.

The official reports that Beria is universally execrated throughout the USSR no doubt contain more truth than most reports of this kind. Anybody who has lived in the Soviet Union since Beria became a power in the land could have told the Soviet government for the asking that at any time Beria was the most hated man in the country, where hatred is a conspicuous emotion.

RUIN TO MILLIONS

He brought ruin to some millions of harmless men and women not only in the Soviet Union but also in the satellites. His men carried out the fearful deportations of whole sections of the population of the countries of Eastern Europe. They took the Katyn Forest massacre in their stride. With complete impartiality they drove countless thousands of their fellow citizens to death in the labor camps of the far north and elsewhere.

The Ruissians may be trusted to rejoice at Beria's fate. Whether they will also congratulate Beria's late colleagues for taking 30 years to discover that he was a bad man is another matter.

At the same time, like us, they will be wondering what the affair is all about and what it portends. They have learned no more from Malenkov than we have.

And some of them, also like us, will be a little shocked by the fact thata the fight for power has broken out publicly so soon. They will draw their own conclusions about the stability of a regime which has found itself unable to preserve even a semblance of decency of unity for more than four months after the death of the great leader tyrant and leveller, Josef Stalin.

Indeed, when one comes to think of it, it is not a very impressive performance. If the Kremlin at any time needed to put on a show of unity that time is now, with the country still shaken by the death of Stalin and with the satellites on the edge of revolt.

But no, the new government has found it impossible to stay even ostensibly united for more than 15 short weeks.

The deduction is that it has been even more shaky than we knew it must be. The Russian people—and the people of the satellites—will make this deduction without any help from us. They will go further. Throughout all the territories of the Soviet empire, but above all in the Soviet Union itself, the burning question this week has been "Who next?"

MALENKOV NOT MENTIONED

There is nothing at all to show that Beria's removal has strengthened the personal position of Malenkov. Throughout the whole affair the name of the Prime Minister of the USSR has not been mentioned. It has been the Central Committee of the Communist Party which has ordained this and that.

And the Central Committee of the Party is still insisting on the secret principle of collective leadership. Somewhere in that leadership is Malenkov.

But there are others. And Malenkov could not have got rid of Beria, with over half-a-million picked troops at his disposal, wihtout enlisting the support of extremely powerful forces.

Certainly he needed the army: that means Marshal Nikolai Bulganin. Equally certainly, he needed those ministers responsible for the industrial might of the Soviet Union.

What sort of a price are Malenkov's supporters making him pay for their backing?

92-Day Wheat Will Push Frontier Back

EDMONTON (CP)—Nurseryman E. W. Manchester thinks he has licked 25-1 odds in developing a new wheat strain to push Canada's agricultural frontier farther north.

Tests of the wheat, said to mature about 92 days after seeding, are being made at the University of Alberta here. The average period between seeding and harvest is 100 days plus, depending on climate and weather conditions.

Manchester developed the wheat at his nursery near the town of Jarvie, 80 miles north of Edmonton. If successful, it can be used in large areas of northern Canada where there is much arable land, but a short growing season.

The wheat, a cross between Marquis and Red Fife, is called Early Harvest. Manchester has been growing it for 16 years. He is also working on four other strains.

He had to brave the red tape of officialdom to get the tests made.

The grain finally was taken to the university.

Dr. A. G. McCalla, dean of agriculture here, warns against raising hopes too high. Experience shows the chances of breeding a new wheat to meet export standards are about 25-1.

Any new strain must be resistant to rust, an annual hazard to growers. Three years of testing are necessary before a definite recommendation can be made by the university. Then another three years are required for testing on a national scale before the seed can be registered.

Manchester says the yield last year was almost 50 bushels an acre on ground that was not fertilized. He expects to harvest his crop this year at least three weeks ahead of wheat in commercial use.

Attends Religious Retreat Held By Church Council

Miss Norma Timlin, RR 10, Peterborough, returned this week from Alma College, St. Thomas, where she had attended the Canadian Christian Ashram, a religious retreat sponsored by the Canadian Council of Churches, July 11-17.

The ashram was under the leadership of Evangelist Dr. E. Stanley Jones, who led more than a hundred members in prayer and meditation. Representatives from as far as West Virginia were present and all the provinces were represented.

The program was essentially one of prayer and meditation, "an attempt to be in the Kingdom of God for a while." The first service was at 6.15 a.m. and was followed by an hour of silence before breakfast. Religious exercises were interspersed with periods of recreation and manual labor, consisting of painting and gardening. Bed-time was 10.00 p.m.

Many of the conferences were held in an open air theatre located on the campus grounds, but one public meeting was held in the Knox Presbyterian Church, at which the town people were welcome.

The ashram was open to all who wished to attend, but it was hoped that if they should come they would remain the week—which all in attendance did.

At one point in the program a 72 hour vigil of prayer of intercession was carried out.

Other ministers present were: Professor D. Hay of Knox College, Toronto and Dr. C. Hendrey, Director of School of Social Work, Toronto.

Wins 4 Boat Championships

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia, led by former Diamond Sculls champion Jack Kelly Jr., rowed to four championships Sunday in the final day of competition in the 79th National Rowing Championships on the Schuylkill river to win the Julius H. Barnes Trophy, emblematic of national team rowing supremacy. Vesper's final point total was 149.

The Detroit Boat Club finished second with 117 points. The West Side Boat Club of Detroit was third with 97 points and defending champion New York Athletic Club, winning two of nine championship finals, finished fourth with 92 points.

The St. Catharines Rowing Club came seventh with 24 points. The Toronto Rowing Club was 13th with four points.

WINS SINGLES

Kelly, twice winner of the Diamond Sculls, won the championship singles and the senior quarter-mile singles, teamed with Chukker McIlvaine to win the senior doubles crown and then stroked Vesper's senior eight-oared shell to victory in the final event of the two-day regatta.

New York Athletic Club lightweight and Olympic oarsman Joe Angyal took the senior 150-pound singles crown over a quarter-mile distance and teamed with Terry Walsh to win the senior 150-pound doubles title over the full regatta distance of a mile and a quarter.

Fire Destroys Factory; Blaze Colorful

UXBRIDGE.—Two walls were all that were left standing today of the three-storey Beaver Lamb Shearling Company's factory which was destroyed by a fire which broke out shortly after 4 a.m. Sunday.

Twelve hours after the fire was discovered by OPP Constable Winton and town Constable Jim Swinson, volunteer firemen from Uxbridge and Port Perry were still pouring water on the smoking ruin.

Cause of the fire was not known and no estimate of the damage was available. Officials of the company said the loss was partly covered by insurance.

The blaze lighted up the country for miles around in garish colors as chemicals used in the plant exploded and burned. One wall of the brick building collapsed during the fire, and a second was knocked down by firemen to prevent the flames from spreading. All nearby buildings were saved and no injuries were reported.

The plant normally employs about 50 people, although only about half that number have been working there in the past few weeks. No fires have been burning in the building since Friday, a spokesman said.

Constables Wilton and Swinson said they discovered the fire while they were driving past the factory. They said they heard an explosion and saw flames shooting up inside.

Great Slave Lake Industry Produces Fish For U.S. Market

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP)—Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories is the centre of a booming fisheries industry which last year marketed some $1,500,000 worth of whitefish and lake trout in Chicago, Detroit and New York.

The current issue of Trade News published by the fisheries department describes the growth and activities of the Great Salve fisheries during the past summer and winter seasons.

Two new freight boats were launched in the lake, 500 miles north of Edmonton, and two icehouses and packing-plants were completed, one at Ptarmigan Point on the north shore near Yellowknife and the other at Dawson Landing on the southeast shore.

Some 500 licensed commercial fishermen netted 7,224,000 pounds of fish in the 250-mile-long lake. Whitefish at 4,006,000 pounds accounted for the bulk of the catch. There were 2,999,000 pounds of lake trout and 219,000 pounds of other species which included pike and pickerel.

Total marketed value of all species exceeded $1,750,000 of which the fishermen received some $557,000.

TWO PATROL LAUNCHES

Two fisheries department launches equipped iwth radio telephones patrolled the lake, Trade News says, giving assistance when patrol boats discovered several new fishing-grounds.

Several new lakes in the vicinity of Great Slave were opened for commercial fishing last winter and from these 13 licensed fishermen produced 57,400 pounds of pickerel, whitefish and lake trout.

The publication says there is a "distinct possibility" that more of the thousands of small lakes which lie in the vicinity of Great Slave may be opened soon for commercial fishing.

Trade News describes the rebirth of another fishing industry in northern Canada, the quest by Eskimos and Indians and some white hunters for beluga or white whale in Hudson's Bay and in the Churchill river near Churchill, Man.

ROAM IN HERDS

The beluga, a milky-white creature which may reach 17 feet in length and 4,000 pounds in weight, roams in herds near the mouths of rivers. Fishermen trap the animal by driving it on shore or into nets previously set up.

The fishermen, the Eskimos often use kyaks, drive the whales by beating on the water with paddles and sticks. When grounded or entangled in nets, the whales are killed and towed away for rendering into oil and meal.

The publication says that between 1941 and 1948, some 50 beluga were captured annually. With the establishment of a rendering-plant at Churchill in 1949, the fishery boomed. Some 500 were taken in 1951 and a total of 699 in the summer of 1952.

The hunters received some $7,000 last year for that part of the catch which was rendered into oil and meal. Much of the meat was eaten in the region.

Engineers Seek To Preserve Niagara Falls

The United States and Canadian governments plan new aid for Niagara Falls in its fight for survival with nature.

Increased diversion of water upstream from the Falls and installation of a control structure in the Niagara River a mile above the Canadian Horseshoe Falls are the latest engineering schemes devised by the two nations to prevent the spectacle from gradually crumbling away.

In the last 100 years, Niagara's twin cataracts have receded 300 feet and the retreat continues at the rate of one to four feet annually, says the National Geographic Society.

If the erosion continued unchecked, American Falls would be a bone-dry cliff in 2,000 years, and in another 20,000 years there would be nothing but 35-mile rapids from Buffalo to Fort Niagara.

MORE ELECTRIC POWER

With more water diverted to hydro-electric use, the Falls will be slowed down at night and in the off-season to 50,000 cubic feet per second, only a fourth of their normal flow. During spring and summer months, the daytime flow will be maintained at 100,000 cubic feet for the benefit of the 3,000,000 annual visitors.

The lip over which the water tumbles is a hard limestone ledge 12 feet thick. Beneath it are layers of shale, limestone, red medina and sandstone. The churning waters from the upper river wear away the soft strata and produce the overhanging lip of hard limestone, from which huge pieces break at intervals.

On June 25, 1850, a slice of famous Table Rock on the Canadian side broke away and tumbled into the gorge. There were breaks in 1853, 1877, 1889, and half a dozen since. Some 900 feet of the Canadian Horseshoe Falls have worn away since a French missionary, Father Louis Hennepin, first came upon the Falls on the morning of December 6, 1678.

DRAINS LARGE AREA

The Niagara is remarkable among the world's rivers for the constancy of its volume. It collects the entire natural discharge of four of the five Great Lakes, all except Ontario. The watershed covers an area nearly as large as the state of Texas and holds captive half of the fresh water in the world.

Niagara is not the world's biggest waterfall. Both Africa's Victoria Falls and Iguassu Falls in South America are wider and higher and crest a much greater water volume in their local rainy seasons, but Niagara's year-around volume is much greater. South America's Guaria Falls and the Khon Cataracts of Indo-China carry larger volumes than Niagara, measured around the year, but neither is as high.

The American Falls at Niagara is 167 feet high and 1,000 feet wide, while the Canadian Horseshoe Falls are three times as wide but only 160 feet high. About 94 per cent of the Niagara River's flow passes over the Canadian falls.

Says Early Immunization Reduces Loss Of Swine

TORONTO (CP)—Early and effective immunization against hog cholera greatly reduces the loss of swine through intestinal diseases, the American Veterinary Medical Association was told today.

A report by Drs. L. M. Hutchings and L. P. Doyle of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., said hog cholera, swine dysentery and transmissible gastro-enteritis are the most common causes of intestinal problems, but hog cholera should be suspected and treated first.

The best way of combatting swine dysentery and gastro-enteritis among young pigs was to scatter them as widely as possible to reduce losses.

REDUCED FEEDING

Dr. L. C. Swan of St. Catharines, Ont., told the association's convention good housing and heat lamps will eliminate intestinal trouble caused by chilling and damp pens. He also recommended reduced feeding of the sow after farrowing.

Digestive upsets leading to enteritis can be overcome by a special ration for young pigs at weaning, to bridge the gap between sow's milk and regular rations, Dr. Swan said. A well-rounded program could best control enteritis, with antibiotics and other new drugs used to combat outbreaks.

In his presidential address to the week - long convention, which opened today, Dr. W. L. Boyd of St. Paul, Minn., urged greater farm acreage and improved livestock methods as measures to provide for population gains of the future.

Boyd said the need for an expanded research program is emphasized by the recent spread of vesicular exanthema and anthrax in the United States.

Athletics Thump Fergus 20-13

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Athletics hoisted themselves into top spot in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series Saturday with a resounding 20-13 victory over fourth-place Fergus Thistles.

Orillia Terriers kept up their fight to hold the first division by downing Hamilton Tigers 14-8. The win left Orillia firmly in third place and Hamilton holding down fifth.

Jim Bradshaw and Al Frick led the St. Catharines attack which had Fergus snowed under throughout. Each scored four goals for the winners while Bob Dobbie was top man for Thistles, notching five markers in the losing cause.

Len Sibbald tallied three times for Hamilton while Joe McNulty scored three for the Terriers.

Gregg Jones was the only casualty of Saturday night's play, being hit by the ball while guarding the Orillia nets. He was replaced by veteran Sam Arthurs.

Homecoming Thrills Marlene Stewart

By JIM BASTABLE

TORONTO (CP)—Marlene Stewart, the quiet, small-town girl who won one of the world's biggest golf tournaments, arrived here Saturday for the "most thrilling homecoming a gal could get." The 19-year-old golfing sensation from Fonthill, Ont., stepped from a plane at nearby Malton airport to be met by her parents, her younger sister and scores of well-wishers.

Marlene had come home after winning the British Open Amateur Golf title at Porthcawl, Wales, last month.

"This is just too much for words" she said. "What a home-coming. This is almost as exciting as winning the tournament."

CHATS WITH PARENTS

The crowd gathered around the plane as Marlene chatted with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stewart.

Gordon McInnis, the pro who taught Marlene the fine points of the game at the Fonthill course, was there, too. That's when Marlene exclaimed:

"I did it Gord. I came through for everyone."

What is she going to do now?

"I'm going home for a good rest. I had nothing but golf for the last two months. In a few days I'll start warming up for the Canadian Women's Open and Closed Championships at London, Ont."

The Canadian tournaments start early next month. Marlene will defend her closed crown and try to regain the open title she won two years ago.

After that it's back to school at Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., where she plans to major in business administration this year.

Deevey Testifies On Power Bill

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Governor Thomas Dewey has accepted the invitation of Senator Edward Martin (Rep. Pa.) to testify next Thursday before the Senate public works committee on bills involving construction of new power facilities at Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Dewey's office said Sunday the governor had wired Martin that the Niagara power issue is "a matter of the greatest importance to the people of the State of New York."

Dewey will testify on behalf of a bill to give the state the right to construct the project, estimated to cost $400,000,000.

Martin is sponsoring another measure, identical to one passed last week by the House of Representatives, which would authorize a combination of five big private utilities to build the project.

Earlier last week, Dewey asked the Senate committee to approve the bill authorizing the state power authority to construct the facilities.

Queen's Speech Inspires Commonwealth Company

LONDON (Reuters) — A recent speech by the Queen has inspired a project to raise £1,000,000 for a company to increase the strength of the Commonwealth.

Conservative MP Peter Baker launched a public appeal Saturday night for the funds, and said friends already had pledged £250,000 toward the goal.

Baker said the project was inspired by the Queen's speech at the recent Coronation review of ex-servicemen in London, in which she said much depended on the strength of purpose "that we can, in our daily lives, devote to the goal of peace."

She added, "The power of the Commonwealth weighs mightily in the balance. All that we can do to strengthen the spiritual and material forces keeps us towards the goal of peace."

MAKES APPEAL

Baker said: "I appeal to all who are willing to venture some measure of their time, resources and skill in strengthening Britain and advancing the unity and prosperity of the Commonwealth."

He gave the company's objects as: "To bring the leaders of the spiritual faiths in the Commonwealth together in a Commonwealth assembly to marshal spiritual impulses and moral values and to forge a strong spiritual bond for youths:

"To promote a policy for land and food development:

"To promote a common policy of economic evelopment in the Commonwealth:

"To encourage free development in the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth:

"To complement in every way the co-operation of the United Kingdom and Commonwealth governments by closer unity and understanding between their peoples."

Old Nazis Hold Hannover Rally

BERLIN (Reuters) — Men who once fought for Hitler and the families of men who tried to kill him attended two functions in West Germany Sunday.

In Berlin, widows and children of German officers executed for trying to kill Hitler in 1944 attended the unveiling of a memorial to the plot leaders.

The memorial—a bronze statue of a chained man—was erected in the yard of Hitler's war ministry where the leaders of the plot were executed by an army firing squad nine years ago.

At a Hannover rally of the old Nazi labor corps, many soldiers wore old military badges including some emblazoned with the great names of Nazidom—"Horst Wessel" and "Reichsfuehrer."

Speakers called for the establishment of a new army.

P.M. Refines Whistle-Stop Art Drew Develops Press Conference

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's party leaders are adding new touches to vote-seeking techniques in this election campaign.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, for instance, has refined the whistle-stop art to the point where he could give lessons to Harry S. Truman, the old master.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, has added a different twist by developing the campaign press conference beyond where it has ever been used by a Canadian political chief on tour.

SHARP CONTRASTS

All four leaders have their own particular methods, and they show sharp contrasts in the types of skills used to draw voter support.

The 71-year-old Mr. St. Laurent has been sticking largely—at least in the early stages—to the fatherly approach of his successful 1949 campaign, with some 1953 embellishments. He tells of his family including his 17 grandchildren, of how he has tried to be a good father, and of how he tries to do his best for the larger Canadian "family" of 14,000,000.

Children play a big part in the prime minister's campaigning. They are clustered wherever he stops—at stations, in front of schools, at outdoor meetings. He seems to enjoy talking to them as they hang onto his coat-tails, climb into his automobile or sit with legs danging from his speaking platform.

Mr. St. Laurent talks to them of the Coronation, of Queen Elizabeth, of the fine thing it is to be a Canadian.

For his grown-up listeners, too, he has been adopting a relatively easy-going pace. Mostly, he has said the government is standing on its record, is making no promises. Only occasionally, he has taken a swipe at some of the Progressive Conservative promises. For the most part, he has ignored the CCF and Social Credity party.

On his train-whistle stops, Mr. St. Laurent has ditched the conventional speech from the back platform in favor of getting down among the people at the station. He walks around shaking hands and talking. Then, standing in the middle of the group, he'll make a small speech. If it's a sizable crowd, he'll use a hand microphone hooked up to loudspeakers on the train platform.

Sometimes, he boosts himself up to a baggage truck to give his talk.

George Drew has been waging a harder-hitting, on-the-offensive type of campaign, as is natural for the challenger. He has been punching at government "waste, extravagance and inefficiency," and promising deep cuts in taxation.

Mr. Drew has been speaking largely from the platform, using the whistle-stop comparatively seldom. His speeches generally run somewhat longer than the prime minister's.

The Progressive Conservative leader has been holding press conferences fairly regularly—a contrast with Mr. St. Laurent, who has not yet initiated any on his tour, though he readily talks to reporters who may want to question him on a point.

Mr. Drew gets two advantages out of the press conferences. He may hit a town in the afternoon with a night speech scheduled. A meeting with reporters from the district gives him coverage in that day's afternoon papers.

The second benefit from the press conference is that the newspapermen's questions post Mr. Drew on the issues that are of most immediate interest to a particular area. He will work in references to these at his subsequent meeting.

On his train stops in the early part of the campaign, Mr. Drew has mainly confined himself to disembarking and chatting with a few people on the platform. However, he is expected to do more whistle-stopping as the campaign progresses.

STRAIGHT STUFF

The other two leaders of the parliamentary parties—M. J. Coldwell of the CCF and Solon Low of the Social Credit group—have been "politicking" by and large in the orthodox fashion. They speak almost exclusively at public meetings, some of them of the outdoor picnic type.

Both talk off the cuff, though Mr. Coldwell often delivers a short prepared section on a specific point, which his Ottawa headquarters will issue to the press.

Mr. Low has added some deviations from the routine. Sometimes he asks his audience what they would like him to talk about, and then proceeds to discuss the subjects. He also has been known to pitch in with the haying as he tries to convince a farmer constituent of the virtues of Social Credit.

Mr. Low also was the first of the leaders to bring his wife into active campaigning. Mrs. Low, a schoolteacher, joined him on a national radio broadcast in late June, writing her own part of the script.

Reds' Pledge May Boost U.S. Gift

New York Herald-Tribune News Service

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The Russian pledge to contribute $1,000,000 to the UN's program of technical assistance to underdeveloped countries may force the United States, by far the largest contributor to the program, to pay as much as $600,000 more this year.

The United States pledged $12,700,000 to the 1953 program, but the total American contribution could reach as much as $14,708,000 under a scheme in the pledge for matching contributions from other nations.

To date, Congress has appropriated $8,000,00 of the pledge and $6,000,000 has been turned over to te UN. The remainder of the contribution is contained in the foreign aid bill now being debated in Congress.

The Russian pledge also is likely to increase the contribution of Canada, whose pledge contains a similar matching plan.

UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold commented that the Russian contribution—the first from that country—would be, like a contribution from any nation, "most welcome."

More than 70 nations have contributed to the program, which will involve this year an expenditure of about $25,000,000. Since the program was initiated in 1950, some 2,500 technical experts have been sent by the UN to 62 countries requesting aid.

Soviet State Machine Shows Signs Of Stress And Strain

It took 11 years to write this story. Those were the years Eddy Gilmore spent in Moscow as a correspondent of the Associated Press. Now he is en route home to the United States.

The lack of normal news sources in the Soviet Union is more effective than censorship as a barrier to finding out what goes on there, so Gilmore does not pretend to have all the answers. But he has certain definite impressions and this story sums them up.

By EDDY GILMORE

STOCKHOLM (AP) — I saw Soviet Russia put into action the greatest fighting force in history, 12,500,000 men, by official United States reckoning, to help win the most terrible of all wars.

And I saw this same Soviet Union, while a weary world sighed for peace, openly embark upon a policy of imperialism more ambitious than any czar's.

This all happened under Joseph Stalin, the self-styled man of steel who drove Russia, you can never say led, to a position of power never before achieved by that country.

PINNACLE REACHED

But today the pinnacle of power seems to have been reached. With the grim dictator gone, the monolithic Communist party of Russia and the huge, lumbering state machine of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics are showing signs of real stress and strain.

This has taken place while I have been living in the Soviet Union and trying under a cold calculated state censorship to report Russia to the outside world.

Whither Russia?

Nikolai Gogol, 19th century Russian writer, asked the question as he compared his vast, sad and unfortunate homeland to a troika (a vehicle drawn by three horses) plunging headlong and recklessly into the future.

Gogol didn't have the answer. Present experts haven't the answer. I, a reporter, and no expert, haven't the answer and I doubt if anyone has.

Stalin beat Russia into a world power. Ivan the Terrible pushed it along a terrible and bloody road. So did Peter the Great They all did a lot for Russia, and to Russia. I doubt if any of them was loved very much, but all were feared.

MOSCOW RELAXED

When Stalin died you could almost see Moscow relax. Came the funeral and the feeling was inescapable that the tenseness was easing.

Stalin, said a taxi driver to me the day before I left Russia, "was too much I, I, I. He didn't know how to get along with America and he thought he did."

In the Western world such pontification from the front of taxis is normal. In Russia, especially when the audience is a foreigner, it's amazing.

Premier Georgi Malenkov, and his associates have lashed out at the political police in freeing the framed doctors. They disgraced the police and condemned their methods, jailing Ryumin, the head of the investigations department, and in Russia that covers a great deal of terror. They fired his immediate minister, Ignatiev, a high ranking member of the Communist party.

As they moved to meet the slow but massive restlessness of the people, they grabbed for power. Lavrenty P. Beria, the super policeman, didn't like the way things were going. He is gone.

PRICES REDUCED

Malenkov ordered a price reduction. It was a good one too, not phony like so many of the others. Some reductions were as much as 50 per cent and many items of consumer goods were included. Prices, however, are still up.

Then the Malenkov government ordered the amnesty and many people were freed. But not political prisoners.

Communist officials started to treat Western diplomats and the handful of correspondents in Moscow with courtesy and, in some cases, consideration. There were other signs too:

The signal went up to change the tactics in Korea; the Soviets took steps to regularize relations with Yugoslavia; the sharp and at times ludicrous name-calling of the West slackened. The press department invited correspondents to take a trip through the Kremlin. Then they organized a trip to the Volga-Don canal; once told to get out of the buildings they'd occupied for years, the British and U. S. embassies were informed they could stay if they liked. The British did; the Americans went into a new building; six Russian wives of Americans were told they could leave the country with their husbands and children.

Some in the West, and the East, said everything was changing in Russia.

NORMALIZING THINGS

I met a highly-placed Russian at a party just before I left Moscow June 30.

"You people think a revolution is going on here," he said. "It isn't. We are normalizing a lot of things though."

The Italian ambassador in Moscow, the astute Baron Mario de Stefano, used to put his hand on my shoulder, shake his wise head and say: "Eddy, everything goes back to the doctors."

That was a Borgia plot with a Conan Doyle twist and an O. Henry ending. Or has it ended?

Is there a new look in Russia, or is this Stalinism with Malenkov sauce? I saw enough to make me feel, with some reservations, that a lot of Stalinism is dead.

I can't get it out of my head that unless Malenkov plays his cards right, down to the deuces, someone from the army, or V.M. Molotov, or Nikolai Bulganin, or Nikita Khrushchev or some dark horse may come rushing into the act.

Well, I'm glad I'm out, out of Russia with my wife and my two children after 11 years.

And I'm also glad that I'm not in the political business in Moscow. That has always been one of the world's most dangerous games. It would be even more hazardous now.

New Rumblings Of Opposition From South Korea

PANMUNJOM—(AP)—New rumblings of opposition came from South Korea today as Allied and Communist staff and liaison officers put finishing touches on a Korean armistice. All signs pointed to a cease-fire soon, possibly within the week, but there was no indication just when the historic signing would come. One group of staff officers and liaison officers recessed without scheduling further meetings. A second team of staff officers who were reported revising the truce line across Korea worked on into the night.

South Korea's foreign minister told reporters his government might "change its attitude" toward obstructing a truce unless it gets prompt assurances from Washington that Korea will be unified.

He said South Korea also wants guarantees from the United States on how to stop possible new Red aggression.

WORK CONTINUOUSLY

Two separate teams of staff officers from each side worked almost continuously in secret while nearby, a swarm of North Korean and Chinese workmen hurried to complete a building where the truce will be signed.

The Communists labor troops worked all through the night under floodlights put up for them by U.S. soldiers.

One group of staff officers is reported to have worked on revising the line that will separate opposing forces during an armistice. The other group was believed mapping the route to be used by neutral nation inspection and observer teams to and from the five ports of entry on each side.

The feverish pace began Monday, a day after the Communists agreed to go ahead with final preparations for the signing of an armistice.

HINT NEW TROUBLES

While truce sessions appeared to be progressing smoothly, some RoK leaders hinted new troubles. President Syngman Rhee himself has made no public comment on a Communist statement Sunday.

The Red statement, revealing portions of secret Panmunjom meetings, disclosed the UN command promised not to support any "aggressive action" by South Korean forces after a truce.

Rhee and government leaders let it be known they were awaiting a reply from Washington on questions they said were left unsettled after the conferences in Seoul earlier this month with President Eisenhower's special envoy, assistant state Secretary Walter S. Robertson who spent 16 days conferring with Rhee and returned to Washington with written assurances Rhee would not block a truce.

What questions were left unsettled were not clear but a highly-placed source in the South Korean government said Rhee raised questions which were beyond Robertson's powers to give a final answer while he was in Korea.

Coldwell Says CCF To Give New Social Order

HAMILTON (CP) — CCF leader M. J. Coldwell says the only way Canadians can get a government dedicated to the building of a new social order is to elect the CCF party in the Aug. 10 election.

He also said in a recorded broadcast over the CBC Dominion network that the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties "are financed by vested and privileged interests."

The broadcast was part of a meeting attended by about 350 persons in a school here. A portion of the meeting was recorded on kinescope film for televising later.

Mr. Coldwell said Canada "has put up with Liberal governments long enough" and since the Progressive Conservatives "are the same kind of a party" they would be no better. He added:

"The only way Canadians will get the kind of government that gets things done on behalf of the people—that places human needs before private profit—that means not just a change, but a change for the better—that is not just another government but a government dedicated to the building of a new social order—the only way Canadians can get that kind of government is to elect the CCF."

Bomber Seeks Missing Pilot

NORTH BAY (CP)—A solitary Lancaster bomber droned through the darkness over wild Northern Ontario bushland last night on a lonely mission.

The RCAF search plane was on the lookout for flares from the pilot of a missing Mustang fighter, down in the bush since Saturday, when it fell out of a formation of RCAF reserve planes returning to their Calgary base from a civil defence exercise in Ottawa.

The single - engine, propellor-driven aircraft, piloted by FO. J. L. Suttle of Saskatoon, was making a hop from North Bay to the Lakehead when it disappeared.

Today, weather permitting, a 20-plane search armada was to resume its patient screening of thousands of square miles of rugged terrain north of Michipicoten on Lake Superior's north shore. Its low-level hunt already has covered 38,000 square miles of territory and 25,000 more were to be scanned in today's dawn-to-dusk operations.

Sqdn. Ldr. A. M. Halkett of RCAF search and rescue, Trenton, said the search area will continue to be extended and more aircraft will be called in if no trace of the missing plane is found.

Arrest Six Germans On Spying Charges

BONN, Germany (AP) — British authorities announced today the arrest of six Germans on charges of spying for the Soviet Union.

BUCKLED LIKE A CARDBOARD BOX is this steel box car that was ripped open shortly after 5 p.m. Monday by exploding perchloric acid. Fortunately the car had been shunted onto a deserted siding, south of the CPR sheds and near the river, so nobody was hurt. But the 400 gallons of bottled acid valued at $2,800 was destroyed and the box car was damaged. The shattered door is shown in the foreground as firemen play hoses into the smoking interior. Three and grass were burned by the fire that billowed from the box car and a nearby woodpile owned by the city was set on fire. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Explosion Of Acid Bursts Steel Freight Car On Siding

An explosion that blasted and singed a 100-foot swath of waste ground—between a CPR siding south of Charlotte St. and the Otonabee River—was set off shortly after 5 p.m. Monday in a box car containing 400 gallons of perchloric acid. Nobody was injured but the 80 carboys (five gallon bottles of acid in wooden crates), valued at $2,800, were destroyed. The heavy steel door on the east side of the sealed box car was ripped off and the sides and roof of the gox car were buckled. The blast was heard for at least a couple of blocks and a fine spray of glass from the shattered bottles was showered over a wide area.

SINGED TREES

Witnesses said that after the explosion a tongue of flame darted out of the east door of the box car, blasting the ground and singeing the tops of trees on the west bank of the Otonabee which is 100 feet away.

"The cloud of smoke that rose made it look like a miniature atomic bomb explosion," said one youth. "The cloud had that mushroom shape."

Cause of the blast is not known. Fire Chief Ralph Leonard said he couldn't be sure at this stage of the investigation how it happened. A chemical engineer from

Distinctive Canadian Flag Predicted By St. Laurent

ST. ANSELME, Que.—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent aroused cheers and applause Monday when he told federal election rallies in Quebec that some day Canada will have a Canadian ambassador to the Vatican and a distinctive flag. Mr. St. Laurent, touring his native province of Quebec, told his listeners in the asbestos-mining town of Thetford Mines that the question of an ambassador to the Vatican is controversial and would raise "a religious quarrel" at present.

Later, in this ancient village in Dorchester county, he told a lively meeting of about 6,000 persons on the parish church grounds that the flag issue would be settled when [illegible] repeat his statement [illegible] can-

Mrs. Miniver Author Dies

Bad Weather Forces Plane To Land

WINNIPEG (CP)—Thirteen passengers aboard a Trans Canada Airlines Dakota bound for Winnipeg from Toronto finished their journey Monday night by automobile after bad weather forced their plane to turn back to Kenora, Ont.

Captain of the plane, J. R. Fisher of Winnipeg, decided to return to Kenora, about 150 miles east of Winnipeg, when he encountered severe thunderstorms between the two points.

In landing on the Kenora runways, the plane struck a rock, damaging part of the undercarriage and one wingtip, but without serious damage or injury to passengers or crew.

Gas Price Boosted 1.4 Cents

World Oil Prices Have Risen Forcing Increase

TORONTO—(CP)—The Imperial Oil Company announced today that effective immediately wholesale gasoline prices will be increased by more than a cent a gallon because the company must pay more for crude oil. Retail prices will go up similarly "within a few days," the company said.

The wholesale price has been boosted 1.4 cents a gallon in all provinces except British Columbia, where the increase is ½ cent. Retail prices, which now run from about 38 to 42 cents a gallon, will go up about 1 2-5 cents.

Peterborough retail serivce stations have not yet decided what their new price will be. It is expected they will change Wednesday morning.

Officials said other oil companies will probably follow suit in a few days.

REASONS FOR INCREASE

The reason for the boost, Imperial said, is the result of recent increases in world crude oil prices and the higher exchange value of the United States dollar.

Prices for light fuel oils were also increased from 1.4 cents a gallon on the Prairie provinces to ½ cent in B.C. In Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes, the boost is ½ cent.

Shell Oil Company officials said they will probably increase their wholesale price by the end of the week.

Two Arrested For Army Graft

TORONTO (CP) A Toronto paper in a newspage story from Cayuga, Ont., today that five charges have been laid against an army captain and a warrant officer as the result of an investigation into trucking contracts at Hagersville army depot.

Cayuga and Hagersville are about 18 miles south of Hamilton.

The story says "Capt. Charles Harris, who faces four charges and WO. Edward Parton, charged with one offence, will appear Thursday."

It says the charges were laid by the RCMP under a section of the Criminal Code that deals "with offences committed by persons in government service."

The story adds:

"Capt. Harris is charged with accepting sums to give trucking contracts to certain individuals. He is also charged with demanding payments to give firms contracts.

"Capt. Harris is accused of accepting $150 from Hugh McLellan for a trucking contract and $400 from Graydon Fess. Charges of demanding compensation from David Faith and from Hugh McLellan were also laid.

"WO. Parton is accused of accepting $300 from McLellan."

First Violence Brings Prompt Government Action

TORONTO—(CP)—Premier Frost said today the Ontario provincial police have been ordered to stop striking truck drivers from picketing highways in southwestern Ontario and to prosecute those who obstruct traffic. Mr. Frost, in the capacity of attorney-general during Dana Porter's absence, made the following statement: "The attention of the attorney-general has ben drawn to occurrences Monday afternoon and this morning where attempts were made to picket public highways in the province causing inconvenience to those using the highways and causing obstructions which could be hazardous to the travelling public.

"Commissioner McNeill of the provincial police has issued instructions to all provincial police to prevent such practices and to prosecute in event of any violations of the law which is quite specific. The Criminal Code of Canada covers the point, and in the enforcement of the Highway Traffic Act the responsibility of regulation and control of traffic on the highways is entirely for the police authorities.

"At any time the practice of picketing and obstructing traffic on the highways is in contravention of the law, but additionally it is particularly hazardous at the present time in view of the very heavy summer traffic on the roads.

"The provincial police have been instructed as above and all Crown attorneys, all heads of municipalities and all municipal police forces are being contacted and are instructed to enforce the law."

FIRST VIOLENCE

The order came shortly after the first report of violence in the strike and while Labor Minister Charles Daley met with union leaders and representatives of the trucking industry in attempts to reach agreement on wages.

The report of violence was from a driver at Windsor, who pulled in from Leamington, Ont., with a broken side window and said it had been shattered by a rock.

At Hamilton, a truck driver is reported to have pulled a hunting knife when stopped by pickets. A policeman grabbed the knife and let the driver go on.

In the same area, trucks lined up at the Burlington Beach canal and pickets said they would use force to prevent the vehicles from going through, even under escort. Provincial police sent for reinforcements.

An estimated three-quarters of southwestern Ontario's highways transports were kept off the roads by the walkout which began at midnight Sunday.

Centralization Of Power Denied By Drew

THETFORD MINES, Que. (CP) Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Monday night that Liberal speakers see the issue of centralization of power at Ottawa as a "bogey" being used by the PCs to frighten Quebec voters.

Addressing an outdoor crowd of 2,000 persons in this asbestos mining centre, 70 miles south of Quebec City, Mr. Drew said:

"If Quebec is afraid of anything, it is certainly not a bogey because nothing is more real than the centralization of the Liberal party, which will surely lead you to a unitary state if you don't stop its advance next Aug. 10."

He said his is the "only party now supporting provincial autonomy in House of Commons," and described federal-provincial relations as "the issue at stake" in the current election campaign.

Speaking in both French and English, he added:

"If Quebec has anything to be afraid of, it is the 'centralizer,' the Liberal party."

OVERSTEPS RIGHTS

Mr. Drew also said Finance Minister Abbott had overstepped his rights by naming his successor in the cabinet.

He referred to a speech by Mr. Abbott in Montmagny-l'Islet constituency Sunday night, in which, he said, the finance minister had said that Jean Lesage, Liberal candidate in that riding, would be the next finance minister.

It was not Mr. Abbott's right to choose his own successor, he said. "That is the right of the next prime minister, and he has not been chosen yet."

(In a statement issued in Ottawa, Mr. Abbott said Monday he apparently had been misunderstood. He said he had expressed the view that Mr. Lesage "might go farther" than being the next solicitor-general, as a previous speaker had mentioned. Mr. Abbott had said that Mr. Lesage "might

Investigation Takes Sudden Turn

Discover More Bones In Old Camp Fire

GASPE, Que. (CP)—A sudden turn in the investigation of the fate of three Pennsylvania hunters in dense Gaspe peninsula wilderness takes provincial police today to the new town of Murdochville, site of Gaspe Copper Mines Limited.

The hunters were Eugene H. Lindsey, 45, his 17-year-old son Richard, and Fred Claar, 20, all of Hollidaysburg, Penn. The remains of one of the trio have already been recovered.

Sgt. Henri Doyon, head of the Quebec provincial police squad investigating the mysterious disappearance of the three Americans, did not elaborate on the Murdochville development. He reported Monday night that an experienced bushman discovered bones in an old camp fire between two and four miles from where the Americans disappeared in the Quebec wilds June 9.

Sgt. Doyon said game warden Pat Adams reported he found bones when he kicked over the ashes of an old camp fire.

The bones were taken to Gaspe for further examination by Dr. Lionel Rioux, district coroner.

BONES OF YOUNG MAN

Meanwhile in Montreal, Dr. Jean-Marie Roussel, Quebec criminologist, said bones found in the Gaspe bush last week were those of a young man. Dr. Roussel said he hopes to establish within 24 hours whether the hunter was murdered or a victim of wild animals.

Dr. Roussel said the bones he brought back from the scene were those of a youth — presumably Richard Lindsey.

The father of one of the hunters, Clarence Claar, declared Saturday at a coroner's inquest that tattered clothing found by police were those of the elder Lindsey.

Fifteen experienced bushmen and Quebec provincial police are combing the area.

SCOUR 10 ACRES

The men, armed with rifles, will scour about 10 acres around the district where the first bones and pieces of clothing were found. Following this they will cover a four-mile area between the hunters' camp and the stalled truck of the trio. The searchers carry food for four days.

At Gaspe, police awaited the return from a trip to northwestern Quebec of Wilbert Coffin, a prospector thought to have been one of the last persons to see the three hunters before their disappearance.

Dr. Lionel Rioux issued a subpoena for Coffin's appearance before him when inquest evidence indicated the 37-year-old prospector helped the hunters arrange for repairs to the truck in which they set out on the bear-hunting expedition.

Rules Striking Miners May Keep Picketing

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice Rene Danis ruled monday that striking miners may continue picketing Broulan Reef Gold mines by having four pickets at each of the three roads leading to the property.

At a hearing in Osgoode Hall, he extended an injunction he granted to the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) regarding the wage walkout at Broulan. The company is one of three mines closed down in the rich gold-producing Porcupine camp.

Last Friday an injunction prohibiting picketing at Broulan was amended by Mr. Justice Danis permitting the union to use four pickets at each of the gates. The injunction forbidding picketing was issued July 15 by Mr. Justice R. W. Treleavan when he ruled the walkout was illegal.

Report Russ Troops Attack Partisan Bands In Poland

BERLIN (AP)—The West Berlin newspaper, Nacht Depesche, said today Soviet troops had attacked partisan bands made up of Poles, Czechs and Germans who seized two towns in a former East German region now part of Poland.

This followed a report on Telegraf, another West Berlin newspaper put out by the same company that publishes Nacht Depesche, saying Polish partisans fought a battle with Soviet troops last Thursday in a forest near Niesky, a German town 10 miles from the Neisse river frontier with Poland.

There was no confirmation from Allied sources. They recalled that previous West Berlin rumors of widespread Polish rebellion and martial law in Warsaw and Krakow had been discounted later by Western diplomatic missions in Poland.

This was the Nacht Depesche report: Russian troops supported by jet fighters attacked the partisans. The towns seized were named as Hennersdorf and Seifenhennersdorf, both near Hirschberg in the mountainous Riesenbirge area along the Czech-Polish frontier southeast of Goerlitz. A few renegade Russians have also joined the partisans.

The report in Telegraf: "Many Polish resistance fighters" were wounded and captured by Soviet troops in the battle near Niesky. Soviet military and East German police casualties were treated at Goerlitz.

Niesky broke into the news Monday when the Soviet news agency ADN disclosed 16 of its citizens had been sentenced to prison for burning down the local secret police headquarters and beating Red officials in the June 17 revolt.

Hog Cholera Appears Spreading Eastward

OTTAWA (CP)—Hog cholera appears to be spreading eastward with a new outbreak reported today at Scarborough, on the eastern outskirts of Toronto.

The agriculture department said today that about 100 hogs are being slaughtered in the latest outbreak, uncovered on the premises of a licensed hog garbage feeder.

All previous outbreaks were located in southwestern Ontario, west of Toronto.

The latest outbreak brings to 2,930 the number of hogs either fatally stricken or destroyed in the eradication program.

The number of counties hit by the pig virus now has climbed to 15 and the number of infected premises has risen to 53.

Reds Promise Food For Germany

But Proposition Has Strings Attached; Must Produce More

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Russia countered the United States' food offer to East Germany with the promise today of $57,500,000 in extra victuals and cotton for the hungry satellite, but it was a proposition payable in manufactured goods.

The Russian agreement, an extension of a previous East German-Soviet trade deal, was made public just one day after President Eisenhower renewed a 10-day old U.S. offer to send $15,000,000 worth of U.S. food to Germany's Soviet zone with no strings attached.

The East German Communist government and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had angrily rejected the American offer as a "propaganda manoeuvre" and said the East Germans didn't need food relief.

STEPPED-UP SHIPMENTS

The Communists announced the stepped-up Russian shipments would include 7,000 more tons of cotton and 32,000 more tons of foodstuffs, 27,000 tons of butter, 8,500 tons of fats, 10,000 tons of vegetable oil, 15,000 tons of seed oils, 20,000 tons of meat and 1,500 tons of cheese.

Under the East German government's trade treaty with Moscow, announced in April, grain was the only food item Russia supplied the hungry satellite. That was before the June 17 East Berlin riots followed by slowdowns in East German industry as workers demanded more food and better working conditions.

Today's announcement of the Russian food offer also admitted the East German government had been forced to call on Moscow for help "several times" to ease food shortages.

OFFER STILL STANDS

The U.S. White House said last week that the American offer "still stands regardless of any Soviet rejection of that offer or any Soviet allegation that the people do not need food."

With an American ship on the high seas loaded with gift food, the Communists apparently felt obliged to come through with a food statement. The Reds' announcement said the East German government had sought Soviet special assistance two weeks ago, before the U.S. offer.

New Clemency For Nazis

BONN—(AP)—Britain, the United States and France Monday announced new clemency plans which are expected to speed the release of scores of German war criminals still held in Allied jails. The scheme is designed to relieve Allied-German friction over the war criminals issue and also to help Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in this summer's critical federal elections, as he will get popular credit for winning the releases. The Allies agreed with Adenauer's government to set up consultative boards in each of the three western occupation zones which will review the sentences of those still in jail and make recommendations for clemency or parole.

UP TO CABINET

In Ottawa, official sources said it will be up to cabinet to determine whether Canada joins in sentence-reviewing bodies that are to be set up.

The No. 1 prisoner held in the British zone on behalf of Canada is Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer, serving life for the murder of Canadian prisoners of war by his SS stormtroopers. He was moved from New Brunswick's Dorchester penitentiary to a British prison in Germany two years ago.

An informant in Ottawa said there is no disposition on the part of the Canadian government to accord any special treatment to Meyer. Friends of his have been making continuous attempts to get him released on the grounds of ill-health.

GET SAME TREATMENT

However, it was indicated that the Canadian view is that Meyer should be treated the same as other prisoners—without representations from the Canadian government on his behalf—under the tribunal system to be set up.

Canada, under the proposed arrangement, will be enabled to name a member to a British-German tribunal that would deal with the cases of war criminals in the British zone.

Thinks Drew Would Make Poor Leader

LAC DU BONNET, Man. (CP)—Justice Minister Garson said Monday night: "I can't think of anything worse for the country than to have Mr. Drew as prime minister."

In an address to an audience of 70 in support of the Liberal candidate for Springfield, Anton Weselak, the justice minister said if ever there was need for a strong government—"which only the Liberals can supply"—that time was the present.

Canada, dependent upon trade, was more exposed than most countries to outside conditions, and "we live in a very dangerous world."

The fact that the Progressive Conservatives and other opposition parties predicted a post-war depression showed they did not recognize the principles under which the Liberal government operated, nor did they have any policies of their own that would prevent a depression.

A depression following the Second World War was averted in part by the policies of the Liberal government at Ottawa, together with other governments such as the United States and Great Britain, Mr. Garson said.

The Liberal party believes Canada's prosperity depends on the largest amount of trade possible, the justice minister said. "Every year that foreign trade was high, we were prosperous; every year it was low, we were not."

Convention Permits Visit Of Warships

ISTANBUL (AP)—The Turkish foreign office said today the forthcoming visit of British and U.S. warships to the Dardanelles area is permitted under the international Montreux Convention governing the strategic straits.

Nuri Birgi, head of the foreign office's political section, made the comment in reference to a Soviet protest charging that the visit of the warships to Turkish waters will constitute "a kind of military demonstration."

Birgi, announcing receipt of the Russian protest, said:

"An answer will be easy since such courtesy visits of foreign warships are permitted under the Montreux Convention."

U.S. Planes Recorded 65-to-1 Win Over Reds

SEOUL (AP)—The United States 5th Air Force today announced a 65-to-1 victory margin over Communist MiGs met in the last two months of flashing aerial battles high over northwest Korea.

A comparative lull fell over the ground front after savage hill clashes between the Communists and South Korean troops as truce preparations proceeded busily at Panmunjom.

Announcement of the aerial victory came with the disclosure that two U. S. Sabre jets were shot down Monday—the first since May 17 — with one pilot blasting two MiGs out of the sky before he went down.

In the same period, more than two months, Allied Sabre pilots destroyed 131 of the sleek, swept-wing MiGs, the USAF said. The period included a record day—June 30—when 15 MiGs were destroyed. Seventy-four were shot down in June.

Betty Hutton Collapses Before Evening Show

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Betty Hutton, who has been appearing nightly at the Desert Inn for two weeks, collapsed a few hours before Monday night's show, a spokesman for the hotel reported. He quoted a physician as saying she was suffering from exhaustion.

The comedienne was taken to a private ranch to rest.

51 Suggestions In Soil Report

TORONTO (CP)—Fifty-one recommendations are embodied in a report on soil and water conservation presented Monday to the provincial government by the Conservation Council of Ontario.

The council—representing some 100,000 members of agriculture, forestry and wildlife organizations—visualizes the farmer as the key figure in conservation. The solution of flood control, erosion and soil fertility, all features of conservation, rests with the farmer.

The report recommends that Agriculture Minister Thomas, recently named co-ordinator of conservation for the province, be allowed to assume the role in fact as well as name. Under him a department should be formed to coordinate the several government departments concerned with conservation.

It also suggested that 20 per cent of southern Ontario should be forest covered. From 1901 to 1943, the forested area of the province dropped from 16.6 per cent to 9.7 per cent.

PC Charges Dishonest Claxton Says

MONTREAL (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton Monday night described some Progressive Conservative charges against his department as "about as dishonest a performance as we have seen in Canadian politics."

He made the statement at a political rally in the constituency of Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George where he is seeking re-election.

Immigration Minister Harris also addressed the rally. He said that Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, had made 22 written promises before being elected premier of Ontario.

NOT MANY KEPT

"I am sure that no one single Progressive Conservative supporter would assert that the Progressive Conservative leader has carried out more than three of them," said Mr. Harris.

Mr. Claxton said Progressive Conservatives were claiming that the defence department had purchased enough carpets to cover six miles of Toronto streets.

"Now, we did not buy these carpets for Toronto streets," said Mr. Claxton. "We use carpets to provide less than a square yard per man in the regular forces.

"This is about as dishonest a performance as we have seen in Canadian politics."

1 Dead, 4 Hurt In Smash-up

BRANTFORD (CP)—One man was killed and four others were injured today when a car went out of control, hit a parked car, sideswiped a truck and ended up on its side.

Driver of the car, Constable Thomas Jordon of Brantford, was charged with manslaughter. He will appear in court Monday.

Dead is John E. Wilkes, 38, a Brantford fireman. He was thrown to the roadway from the rear seat.

Injured were Jordon, and three other firemen, Charles Whatley, 35, John Wolski, 47, and Thomas Mason. Wheatley suffered a broken collarbone. The others received only cuts.

The men were returning from an "old-timer's" baseball game at nearby Paris when the accident occurred. After the car hit the truck, it slammed into a highway sign and snapped off a light standard.

Power Development Dispute Tricky Problem

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON (AP)—One June day in 1944, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, in high spirits over the successful Normandy invasion, climbed up on the carriage of a captured German artillery piece and hopped about like a youngster.

"Look out!" somebody shouted.

Eisenhower slid down, only then noticing the sign dangling from the gun's muzzle:

"Danger; booby trap!"

He must have had a similar sensation recently when a reporter asked what he thought of the Capehart-Miller bill, which has turned into a booby trap for a president determined to get along with Congress.

Eisenhower brushed the question aside, politely explaining he would not know what to think unless the bill was actualy before him.

WOULDN'T GRIEVE

It could hardly grieve the president, however, if the measure, which would turn over to five private companies the U.S. share in development of Niagara water power, got shunted aside in Congress' rush toward adjournment.

This bill, already passed overwhelmingly by the House of Representatives, hasn't had the public attention in the U.S. it sooner or later will get.

It is being strongly backed by the power industry and by a strong, perhaps dominant, faction in Congress which wants to see less public power development.

It is being fought by an unusual assortment of allies, New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the same state's Republican Senator Irving Ives and Democratic Senator Herbert Lehman, and many Democrats of the political wing represented by Lehman and by Representative F. D. Roosevelt, Jr., of New York.

DEWEY HAS BALL

Currently, Dewey has the ball. He and Ives are scheduled to appear before the Senate public works committee Thursday and argue for development of Niagara power by the state of New York in co-operation with the Ontario hydro-electric power commission.

The governor was not successful in arguing along that line in the House. Not even the New York state delegation went along with him. He dropped in at the White House with an 11th hour plea for help. Publicly, at least, Eisenhower remained silent.

What is Eisenhower to do if the Senate now votes with the House in favor of the private companies?

Go along with Dewey, who helped him mightily in the fight for the presidential nomination last summer? A veto of the bill would be sure to bring accusations the president had surrendered to "fair deal" pressure and had abandoned his stand for private enterprise.

Suppose he signs the bill, Dewey notwithstanding. The Democrats already are crying "giveaway." Roosevelt declared in a broadcast over New York state radio stations Sunday night a filibuster if necessary to block the bill, others would be happy to see it put on the spot as a Republican president whose popularity with the voters they regard as still high after six months in office.

"We might," said one Democratic strategist, who asked not to be named, "make some headway against a president who had been a party to giving away Niagara Falls."

Pigott Claims Trucks Stoned By Pickets

OSHAWA (CP)—Jacques Pigott, president of the Pigott Construction Company, charged Monday night that a convoy of five company trucks was stoned here in the latest of several trips through truckers' picket lines.

The trucks hauling gravel for the new General Motors plant, were passing through picket lines set up by independent truckers in an effort to win an increase in rates paid for hauling material.

The five-truck convoy first forced its way through the picket lines early Monday morning after Mr. Pigott, driving the lead truck, and four supervisory workers took over when the company's drivers declined to drive, because of what Mr. Pigott said was fear of violence.

POLICE DON'T INTERFERE

Mr. Pigott charged no effort was made by police to halt the pickets in their efforts to block the trucks.

The company head said the convoy made two round trips to the gravel pits under a barrage of eggs, tomatoes and stones. Later three more round trips were made unmolested after a police inspector arrived on the scene.

The striking truckers, many of whom are, in effect, sub-contractors, are being represented by the Windsor local of the International Teamsters Union (AFL).

Britain Hopes Big 4 To Meet

LONDON (CP) — Britain still hopes for a top-level meeting of the Russian, British, French and American heads of state, Acting Prime Minister Richard A. Butler told the House of Commons today.

Opening a two-day foreign affairs debate, Butler said Britain hopes the proposed four-power foreign ministers conference on the German and Austrian questions would be a prelude to talks at a higher level.

The proposal in no way excluded "talks of a wider scope either in personalities or topics," Butler said.

Butler said:

The Big Three foreign ministers conference in Washington showed that both Britain and the U.S. consider the maintenance of an effective base in the Suez canal area is essential "in the interests of world peace."

Prices Rise Slightly On Stock Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Prices rose slightly in early afternoon stock market trading today.

In industrials strength in a few leaders sent the index forward. Golds gained while base metals traded gains and losses about evenly. Western oils faded.

Uraniums traded at mixed prices. Ankeno had a gain of pennies. Elsewhere in the group, Rix and Gunnar firmed while Pitch-Ore and Chimo eased. New Brunswick base metals had losses along a narrow front.

The industrials picture was motionless. Papers, banks and agricultures advanced but steel, liquors and refining oils slipped. General Motors and Aluminium New were on the extreme end of the losers with 1½-point drops. Brown Second Preferred came up with a $1 gain.

Western oils showed declines in Canada Southern, Federated Petroleum and Canadian Williston. Canadian Atlantic countered the trend with a 15-cent gain.

Golds drew little interest in any section. Up were Hollinger, East Malartic, Preston and Macassa.

Base metals were also quiet as gains for Barvue and Steep Rock were balanced by weakness in Dominion Asbestos and Fenimore.

The choice for voters was not between himself or Prime Minister St. Laurent, "but between the maintenance of the federal constition or the gradual establishment of a single government in Canada."

The fear of centralization was not a pipedream. All provinces had several reasons to oppose the "sabotage of Confederation."

Windsor fanned out to check highway traffic to such centres as Sarnia, Guelph, Galt, Kitchener, Waterloo, London, Chatham, Brantford and Woodstock.

Trucks carrying perishables, bonded goods and liquor were exempt on the strike's first day, but the exemption was to be lifted today as cargoes dispatched before the strike began reaching their destinations.

Police warned the strikers against molesting drivers. The pickets operated in flying squads, flagging down truckers on the highway or setting up roadblocks at key points and persuading them to leave their trucks. Non-striking drivers faced expulsion from the union and possible consequent loss of their jobs.

Picket lines also were set up in front of the offices of the 35 trucking firms affected.

Howard Gibson, Jr., boss of the Hamilton picket line, said the strikers had orders "not to fool around with the government."

"This blockade will mean the difference between success and failure for us and we've got to be careful," he added.

Immediate effects of the strike were reduced because of the number of industrial firms closed down for their summer holiday. If the

WANTS TO KNOW MORE

But while another speaker addressed the crowd following Mr. St. Laurent's speech, a woman wearing a white shawl approached the outdoor platform and asked the prime minister: "Tell us about the ambassador to the Vatican."

Mr. St Laurent looked at her briefly and resumed his listening posture.

When Veterans Minister Lapointe called for three cheers for Mr. St. Laurent, the woman joined in.

The meetings were the main events of a full day for the 71-year-old prime minister, who today begins his fifth day of campaigning in Quebec.

He will visit Nicolet on the St. Lawrence river south shore and then ferry across to the north side of the river for meetings of Joliette and Shawinigan Falls.

LIVELY QUESTIONS

Before an audience of asbestos miners at Thetford Mines, Mr. St. Laurent touched, although sometimes only in passing, on questions that have been lively in Quebec for the past few years.

It was the first time during his campaign that the question of an ambassador to the Vatican was brought up.

His brief reference to the Newfoundland-Labrador boundary also touched on an issue frequently discussed in Quebec.

BOUNDARY UNSATISFACTORY

In telling how the entry of Newfoundland into Confederation has made real Canada's motto "from sea to sea," Mr. St. Laurent said he was not critical of the Privy Council judgment which gave Labrador to Newfoundland. But he added he would just as soon have seen the boundary line drawn elsewhere.

Mr. St. Laurent also told his listeners about his government's policy in international matters.

Canada had participated in the framing of the United Nations charter. It was hoped that the charter would help maintain peace but "the bad faith" of a foreign power had made it necessary for North Atlantic countries to form an alliance to discourage aggression.

Canada had a role to play on the international scene and if a third world war broke out, Canada would inevitably be drawn in.

NEED STRONG DEFENCE

That was why the Liberal government advocated strong defence measures. These measures were expensive, but the money was well spent.

He spoke of labor matters at Thetford Mines but discussed agri[illegible] at St.

IMPROVES PATTERN

Although his party has yet to hold federal office, it "may justly claim to have improved the whole pattern of Canadian life." The CCF, and the men and women who preceded it, had played a leading part in the struggle for family allowances, unemployment insurance, the rights of labor, federal aid for education, and the abolition of legal appeals to the Imperial Privy Council.

"Time and time again, in scores of instances," said Mr. Coldwell, "the CCF party, and the men and women who preceded it, have proposed and fought for measures to improve our way of life over the bitter opposition of the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties." But the social benefits Canada had obtained so far were still insufficient.

The CCF leader charged that "old-line political parties have millions of dollars to spend on election campaigns and most of it comes from big corporations."

"Whether any strings are attached to such donations or not, the parties accepting money from such vested interests are placed under obligation to these same interests and I question whether they can, when in office, reach decisions impartially where these interests are concerned."

ATTACKS STEEL INDUSTRY

Mr. Coldwell's appearance in this industrial city was his second visit to a Canadian steel centre. As he did when he spoke in Sydney, N. S., he attacked the steel industry and said that between the

CAR SEALED

The 400 gallons of perchloric acid were being sent by sealed box car from Toronto to Sulphide. Presumably the acid is used to treat ore at the Sulphide plant.

Forty-five minutes before the explosion the car had been inspected by Customs and all was in order. Five minutes or so before the explosion the box car had been shunted onto the farthest east siding, near the river, and 150 feet southeast of the south end of the CPR freight shed.

Had the blast struck the wooden-frame freight sheds the damage would likely have been much higher. The south end of the sheds contains a couple of Peterboro[illegible]-type boat [illegible] explosion. A 12-foot tree directly in the path of the blast, some 20 feet away, had its bark singed and all the foliage burned off.

City firemen had to use hose to put out another fire that started in some cord wood piled near the railway siding.

HIGHLY EXPLOSIVE

Edison Foster of Lakefield Research Ltd. told the Examiner today that perchloric acid is highly explosive, though it usually takes a spark or flame to set it off. If there was seepage from a bottle it would char any organic material it came in contact with.

Mr. Foster said that it is possible that under freakish hot weather conditions — such as Monday — the acid could be exploded inside the box car.

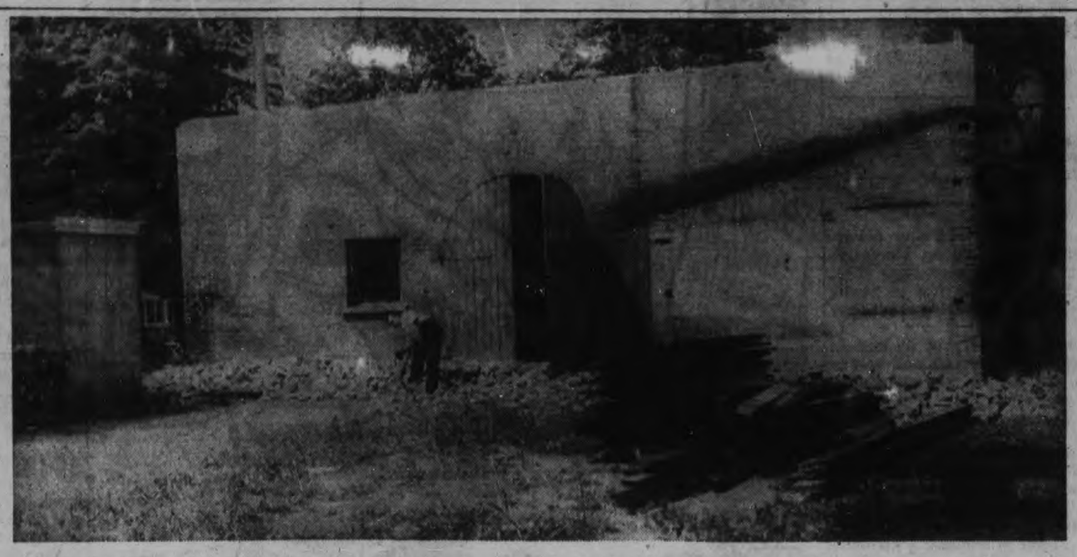
Talk On Timber Given Rotary At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Lumbering in Canada was the topic of an informal talk heard by Rotarians Monday. Ken Godden, who gave the talk, also showed slides to illustrate the industry.

The lumbering industry was largely responsible for the settlement of this country. It followed the fur trade and the coastal fisheries in the matter of time, but far outran these other industries both in importance and stability.

The fur trade was the father of exploration, based on water routes to the interior of the new continent. Lumbering was the first real industry to attract settlement. The Maritime provinces received great stimulus from a three-cornered trade with the Gold Coast, the British West Indies and Great Britain, about the time of the Napoleonic wars. Slaves from the Gold Coast were brought to the West Indies, and then cargo vessels, loaded with sugar, molasses and rum, proceeded to Canada's east coast to exchange their goods for the products of the Maritime forests. These products were mostly square timber. As the market grew, lumbering followed the St. Lawrence river inward.



The present Trent Waterway system provided a great deal of export timber.

Today, the picture has changed. There is practically no forest grade pine in Eastern Canada, and freight rates make the prices of what little there is prohibitive. The grades have been changed, so that first grade pine is not as good as it was at one time, even though it has risen remarkably in price.

The present problem is to reforest vast areas of Canada. Areas that are suitable for the growth of timber are explored and planted. The forest fire problem is ever present. Plastics and chemical substitutes are in some cases taking the place of wood in present day industry.

Mr. Godden pointed out the need for reforestation as a means of preserving the soil and water supply, which provide us all with a livelihood.

An interesting film on lumbering on the West Coast was shown, after which Mr. Godden was thanked by Rotarian Bill Dawson.

Will Have Vatican Envoy Some Day St. Laurent Thinks

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

The election-campaigning head men of the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties hit the asbestos town of Thetford Mines, Que., Monday—at different times of day—while the CCF chieftain got on television. Prime Minister St. Laurent and PC leader George Drew spoke from the same platform in the town school yard. Mr. St. Laurent drew an afternoon audience of 1,500. Mr. Drew, who arrived at Thetford Mines minutes after the prime ministed had left, attracted 2,000 in the evening. Mr. St. Laurent spoke in French and Mr. Drew mainly in French. Mr. St. Laurent said the day will come when Canada will have an ambassador to the Vatican. An appointment couldn't be made now "because there are still honest Canadians who would interpret this gesture as an insult against their religion."

"They are wrong and I might add that if the matter rested only with my colleagues the appointment could be made," the prime minister said. "But what would be the good of arousing a religious quarrel?"

WANT AUTONOMY

He said his government is striving to make Canada fully autonomous and that so far many steps have been taken without causing quarrels. In constitutional matters affecting both the federal and provincial governments, assent of the British Parliament was still required; but it was hoped some system could be worked out so that Canadians could settle these matters themselves.

He said he wanted to make clear that he was "as much of a provincial autonomist as any citizen of Quebec province, not for Quebec only, but for all 10 Canadian provinces."

Mr. Drew also brought up the subject of provincial autonomy, but in a different light:

"If Quebec is afraid of anything, it is certainly not a bogey, because nothing is more real than the centralization of the Liberal party, which will surely lead you to a unitary state if you don't stop its advance next Aug. 10.

"If Quebec has anything to be afraid of, it is the centralizer, the Liberal party, and not the Conservative party, the only party now supporting provincial autonomy in the House of Commons."

ISSUE AT STAKE

Mr. Drew said federal-provincial relations are "the issue at stake" in the election campaign. Liberal party speakers were trying to characterize the issue of centralization of power at Ottawa as a "bogey" being used by the Progressive Conservatives to frighten voters in Quebec.

Mr. Drew said his party is "determined to block the trend toward centralization and to respect the letter and the spirit of the Confederation agreement."

The choice for voters was not between himself and Mr. St. Laurent but between the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties, he said. The Progressive Conservatives threw a four-man team—their own word—on one recorded half-hour political free-time broadcast over a CBC network. The team comprised Donald Fleming, member of the last Commons for Toronto Eglinton; Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, member for Nanaimo, James Macdonnell, member for Toronto Greenwood, and A. J. Brooks, member for Royal. They were introduced by Mr. Drew and all spoke on how their party plans to carry out its promise of a $500,000,000-a-year tax cut.

Mr. Fleming said the Liberal government is feeding "the fires of inflation" by "extorting" indirect, hidden taxes from Canadians, thus increasing living costs.

"Inflation has robbed the people of half of their savings, half of the value of their insurance policies, half of the value of their bonds. . . . High taxes have resulted in high prices. High taxes have resulted in driving up the cost of production and thus pricing Canadian products out of the market, both in Canada and abroad. High taxes have reduced take-home pay and deprived wage earners and salaried persons of their rightful share of Canada's prosperity."

Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Drew continue their Quebec tours today while Mr. Coldwell moves on to another industrial city, Windsor, Ont.

Fleming Says Liberal Government Feeding Fires Of Inflation

OTTAWA (CP)—Donald Fleming Member of Parliament for Toronto Eglinton, charged Monday night that the Liberal government has fed the "fires of inflation" by "extorting" indirect, hidden taxes from the people, thus boosting living costs.

"Inflation has robbed the people of half of their savings, half of the value of their insurance policies, half of the value of their bonds," he said during a four-man Progressive Conservative broadcast recorded for the CBC's trans-Canada network.

The speakers, saying how the party plans to cut taxes by $500,000,000 a year, if elected to power, were introduced by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader.

Besides Mr. Fleming they were James Macdonnell, member for Toronto Greenwood; Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, member for Nanaimo; and A. J. Brooks, member for Royal.

$170 REDUCTION

Mr. Fleming said the PC tax reductions would amount to $170 a year for the average Canadian family of five persons. If the Progressive Conservatives are elected, the cuts will be made next fall, he said.

High taxes have resulted in high prices. High taxes have resulted in driving up the cost of production and thus pricing Canadian products out of the market, both in Canada and abroad. High taxes have reduced take-home pay and deprived wage earners and salaried persons of their rightful share of Canada's prosperity."

Mr. Macdonnell, the party's financial critic, said that $500,000,000 is a lot of money but a business acquaintance, "who knows government circles in Ottawa," has assured him that "tens of millions could be saved by cutting out overlapping and duplicate services."

". . . It makes a tremendous difference whether you tackle waste and extravagance with a sharp knife or with a feather duster. The government belongs to the feather duster school."

NOT GETTING VALUE

Gen. Pearkes, the party's defence expert, said the Canadian taxpayer has not been getting "100 cents of defence for the dollars spent on national security."

Canada spent $60.40 a day for every man and woman on active service, compared with $26.50 a day in the United States and $13.70 in Britain. A special Commons defence committee in the last Parliament had proven "beyond a shadow of doubt that lamentable waste and reckless extravagance has existed."

Mr. Brooks said the $500,000,000 tax-cut would not impair Canada's social-security program. The Progressive Conservative party wanted to increase social benefits rather than reduce them.

"In making our saving in taxes, not one dollar will be taken from old-age security—not one dollar from family alowances or other social security payments."

Campney Accuses PC's Of Playing Politics

VICTORIA (CP)—Associate Defence Minister Ralph Campney Monday night accused the Progressive Conservative party of "playing politics" with national defence.

In a speech prepared for delivery at a rally here in support of Frank Fairey, Liberal candidate for Victoria, Mr. Campney said the Progressive Conservatives are conducting a "smear" campaign.

Mr. Campney, who also is solicitor general is seeking re-election in Vancouver Centre.

Pump Water Up To Make It Fall

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Power Ltd. engineers have dreamed up a scheme to pump water up a mountain so it will run down again and produce power.

Located above the Spray power plant at Canmore, Alta., 60 miles west of Calgary, the project will divert water from Goat Creek, which now flows directly into the Bow river, into the Spray Canal.

It will be lifted a total of 307 feet at two different places, and then allowed to drop 900 feet to the Spray and another 325 to the Rundle plant.

At the first site, a 701 h.p. motor will pump water a height of 80 feet at the rate of 70 cubic feet a second. The second lift will be powered by a 1,400 h.p. motor, and will pump the water 227 feet at 40 cubic feet a second.

The additional water through the penstocks will increase the kilowatt hour output of the plants by one-sixth, or 14,085 horsepower.

The maximum load capacity of the plants will not be increased by the new installations, but the greater amount of water will keep the load capacity at a peak for longer periods.

Says PM's Retirement Just Wishful Thinking

FORT ERIE — W. L. Houck, 14 years a member of the Ontario Legislature and former vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission, said here at a dinner on his behalf Monday night that it is just wishful thinking on the part of opposition members to say Mr. St. Laurent is going to resign. Mr. Houck is Liberal candidate for the House in the Niagara Falls riding.

"The truth of the matter is," Mr. Houck said "the opposition wants Mr. St. Laurent to resign. They are just grasping at a straw when they try to make this subject one of their election topics."

He scoffed at promises being made by George Drew that he is going to cut Canadian taxation. He reminded his large audience that Drew was elected Premier of Ontario in 1943 on his "22-point program," and then failed to institute even five per cent of his promises.

Coldwell Halts Plant Visit Because Of Discrimination

TORONTO—(CP)—M. J. Coldwell, national CCF leader, said Monday he would not make a propsed visit to the A. V. Roe aircraft plant at nearby Malton under conditions imposed by the company. Arriving at Malton airport en route to Hamilton on his election campaign tour, Mr. Coldwell issued a statement which said:

"According to information I received, I would be restricted to three people accompanying me through the plant. The press would be excluded and I would be refused the use of the public-address system to speak to the workers.

HAD ALL PRIVILEGES

"Mr. St. Laurent, who toured the plant recently, was allowed a full-dress contingent and the use of the public-address system, and several Liberals accompanied him.

"A. V. Roe is a government plant and Parliament, not the government, appropriates money for it. They have no right to discriminate between myself and Mr. St. Laurent."

Mr. Coldwell had planned the plant tour for Wednesday.

A company spokesman said Mr. St. Laurent's visit, his first to the plant, was considered an official visit and the prime minister was extended every courtesy.

The company would welcome a visit by Mr. Coldwell, the spokesman said, but the visit should not be made a political issue.

Liberals Work On Revision Of Anti-Dumping Laws

CORNWALL—(CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier said Monday night the Liberal government now is working on a revision of Canada's anti-dumping laws which would be the salvation of the Canadian textile industry. Both Mr. Chevrier and Trade Minister Howe addressed an election meeting in this textile-producing town. It was Mr. Chevrier's first campaign speech in his home riding of Stormont.

Mr. Howe said: "I believe that when fall buying starts in October we will find that demand and supply will be in balance again."

At another point, the trade minister said: "We think that whatever damage was resulting from this dumping will be remedied before long."

IN BAD WAY

Mr. Chevrier said the textile industry is in a bad way throughout Canada. The situation had started shortly after outbreak of the Korean war.

The condition affects staple fibre and rayon industries mostly, he said. There were substantial imports of these products from the United States.

"If these goods are being sold in Canada at prices higher than or below those on the home market, that is 'dumping' and a double duty is imposed on the importer," Mr. Chevrier said. "If there is no dumping then only the regular tariff is applicable."

TWO REMEDIES

Two suggested remedies for the situation were increased tariffs or quotas. Mr. Chevrier said tariffs are not too low and the industry is not complaining. He maintained that quotas would bring retaliation by the country against which they were imposed.

Therefore, he said, the solution lies in the tightening of anti-dumping laws.

Graydon Blasts Tax Program

PORT ELGIN (CP)—Speaking at an executive meeting of the Bruce Progressive Conservative association here Monday night Gordon Graydon, MP for Peel, flayed the present taxation program of the Liberal government and their extravagances.

"Taxpayers are becoming weary of the load and the lop-sided government," he said.

Unwise Trade Policy Hinders Employment

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP)—Health Minister Martin said Monday night that unwise trade policies or unwise tax policies could endanger full employment.

Addressing a meeting in support of George E. Nixon, Liberal member of the last Parliament for Algoma West, Mr. Martin said that the Progressive Conservatives are "too unclear about their trade policies to give Canada much indication of what they might do to meddle with our record levels of external trade."

End Of The Strike

Nobody rejoices because the strike at the Quaker Oats plants has ended. It has been too long and costly a dispute; its termination leaves every affected person too hurt and exhausted to feel joyous. There is only relief and thankfulness that a workable compromise has been found. It is not our business to comment upon the terms of settlement but it concerns this city and district very much that a major industry has been unproductive for two days short of three months, and that some $300,000 in wages have been lost to employees and their families—$300,000 that can never be regained.

* * *

We are thankful that the strike has been orderly, without violence. This is proof of the good sense of Peterborough people, and the final negotiations towards settlement were another proof of good Peterborough sense. Peterborough is not a big city, and its citizens are too well-known to one another for big city methods of settling industrial disputes to be effective here. We applaud the initiative of Mayor Waddell who arranged the meeting which resulted in the agreement on which settlement terms here were based. Had Peterborough people been left to themselves the strike would have ended a week ago. The fact that its prolongation was due—properly or improperly—to external elements is not lost upon the citizenry and upon that part of it which suffered the loss of an additional week's wages. Both sides were, we believe, sick of the strike.

* * *

Who won? The terms of settlement mean wage increases and a shorter working week. This may be a victory for the union but at best it is a Pyrrhic victory for the workers who have lost three months' pay; a victory as costly as defeat. Who won? Nobody. Who lost? Everybody. Not the least of the costs has been and will continue to be for many years after the wounds have healed, the loss of ease in workaday relationships; the scars will remain.

* * *

Well, the strike has ended, and it is well that it has. This morning workers began to trickle back to the plant, which of course cannot regain full production immediately, and therefore, anything like full employment. Strikes must always be unpleasant affairs for everybody concerned. This strike avoided some of the worst features of strikes but, unhappily, not the consequences of a long one.

Food For East Germany

The East German puppet Government's haughty rejection of President Eisenhower's offer of $15,000,000 worth of much-needed foodstuffs was not unexpected, and should serve to discredit still further this clique of servile Soviet nominees. Speaking from Moscow Molotov denounced the American action in making the offer through the Russian Government without consulting the Germans as "behaviour which would nowadays offend even the population of a colony, let alone the German people and its lawful democratic Government". It is obvious from every President Eisenhower's reaction to the Communist refusal has been swift, shrewd and humane. He has ordered food to be rushed to Hamburg and other points near the East German frontier, where the psychological effect of the offer will be at its greatest.

The Communists are in a quandary. If they relent and allow the American food to enter it is tantamount to admitting that conditions in East Germany are bad. It is ironic that East Germany, with its preponderating rural economy, should be unable to feed herself, while West Germany, with her swollen population is thriving. Adlai Stevenson had the right answer when he said in reference to East Germany's plight, "East Germany is said to be a food-surplus area and West Germany a food-deficit area. If things are now the other way round something is wrong." Asked what that might be he answered, with a grin, "The Soviet Union".

Continued Communist refusal to allow the food through will harden German resistance unless substantial quantities of food are shipped immediately from Russia. The present unrest in the satellite countries is due to a variety of causes, but it has come to a head as a result of food shortages. Uprisings have seldom taken place on full stomachs, and the East German riots are no exception. It is true that there is no real famine in the accepted sense of the word, but there is an almost continuous shortage of cooking fats, butter, margarine and milk. Bulk supplies of grain and potatoes are apparently adequate, but distribution is patchy.

The American offer has been opportune. It expresses the real humanitarianism of the American people. We should not however be blinded to the fact that its very opportuneness lays the American Government open to a charge of opportunism. The charge is indeed flimsy, but Soviet propagandists will undoubtedly lose no time in twisting the facts to prove that Eisenhower timed the offer of food as a cold and calculated move in the "cold war". There is also an element of truth in the supposition that food gifts are a way of disposing of awkard surpluses in the American market—but what a market to be able to afford such bountiful outpourings!

$15,000,000 sounds a great deal of money. When distributed in the form of food to the inhabitants of East Germany it may not amount to more than a day or two's food for each person, but even so the Communist Government's refusal is cynical and irresponsible. Their day of reckoning may come sooner than they expect.

South Africa And The Jews

Opposition Leader Jacob Strauss was probably tilting at windmills in the South African Parliament when he stated that Premier Malan's proposed amendment to the constitution would probably deprive South African Jews of their right to vote. In spite of Malan's undoubted friendliness to the Nazis that almost amounted to treason during the war there has been no indication that he contemplated acts of discrimination against the Jews.

Yet the Boers remember the prominent part played by Jews such as Barnato in the development of the mining industry, for it was this that created the conditions which caused the Boer War. The Jewish community, for its part, could hardly view with favour the narrow Boer nationalism preached by Malan. Thus it would be to Malan's advantage to deprive Jews of their civic rights, but we very much doubt that he will take this step in view of the very slight advantages and the very real dangers that such a step would involve.

The number of Jews in South Africa is so small that it could not possibly have much effect on the voting figures, while the reaction against discrimination that would take place in the rest of the world, more especially America, would have grave economic consequences for the country.

In passing we should note that anti-Semitism, though discredited, is by no means extinct in this country. A recent example has been the type of literature brought to light by the protests of Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa, who has been receiving pamphlets aimed at identifying Communism with Jewry. This objectionable material is put out by the self-styled Canadian Intelligence Service. We have on occasion waded through some of this dreary stuff and found it not only poisoned with hate but also just plain boring.

In connection with this allegation of a Communist or other party tie-up we observe that the Canadian Jewish Congress has very sensibly published an open letter disclaiming any idea of an ethnic or religious block such as "the Jewish vote". "The Canadian Jewish Congress is of the opinion that Jewish citizens of this community," the statement continues, "participate in municipal, provincial and national elections as citizens of Canada, sharing with citizens of all other faiths and origins a common interest and political views." This should be the last word on the Jewish question in our forthcoming elections—but will it be?

Maud Adams

Maud Adams was an actress of peculiar charm. She had no classic ace of feature, and she never had the largeness of style which was required of Shakespearean actresses in her day. But she had a sweetness and a soft charm which enchanted her audiences, and made her an ideal player in such roles as "Lady Babbie" in The Little Minister and the unfortunate son of Napoleon in L'Aiglon.

That sweetness, however, was not a sign of weakness. Maud Adams was a woman of somewhat rigid principles, and she lived very much according to her own plans. She never married, and no hint of scandal ever touched her. Until the end of her life she adhered to the belief—now unfashionable—that an actress ought never to be seen except on the stage, and she insisted upon seclusion. She was a woman of unusual talents, and she gave pleasure to hundreds of thousands of people. Her death, even at the age of eighty, is a cause for regret, and for grateful recollections.

PARIS LETTER:

The Begum And Bicycles

By NORA BELOFF

THE "Tour de France," the three-week bicycle championship race, and the case of the Begum's (wife of Aga Khan) stolen three-hundred-thousand pounds' worth of jewelry, are the big hits of this summer season here.

In fact, apart from limitless and always sympathetic interest in Princess Margaret's private life, and voluble protestations about the new five-franc tax per litre of petrol, people in Paris are hardly talking about anything else.

It would be no good trying to explain why, in this era of jet aircraft and broken sound-barriers, the French can still get so excited about people pedalling "push-bikes." Yet millions of men, women and children line up along the route of the "Tour de France," waiting for hours to cheer their sweating favourites along. The French Press has even been able to publish photos of monks and nuns crowding the pavements in obvious excitement. It is something foreigners have to accept, like cricket in England: a harmless and inexplicable sport which the natives seem to enjoy.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE SECOND big story, the Begum's jewelry case, on the other hand, has perfectly understandable reasons for attracting public curiosity and excitement.

First, the heroine herself: the beautiful though no longer youthful Begum, once a modest French mannequin and now wife of the Aga Khan, one of the richest princes in the world. Her Highness came to court each day wearing a different and always impeccable ensemble, with varying and appropriate ornaments. For the great day of her personal testimony, she chose a white organdy gown with blue polka dots, a little flowered white hat, exquisite earrings, and long white kid gloves.

Then there is the loot itself, particularly the world-famous twenty-five carat diamond, "La Marquise." This diamond has changed shape since the Begum saw it last, having allegedly been cut by one of the accused, Mr. Wafelman, from its original oval into the shape of a heart—but she said she recognised it nevertheless by its "lovely lustre, white, tinted with pink and blue."

Then there are the Corsican trio, Messrs. Sanna, "Meme" (short for Barthelemy) Ruberti, and Bendetti, self-confessed executors of the biggest highway robbery of modern times. They are insisting that the machine-guns they brandished were nothing but wooden fakes and that they used only the gentlest forms of persuasion to induce the Aga Khan and his wife to hand over the treasures. Victims and assailants seem to agree that the robbers afterwards punctured the four tyres of the hired Cadillac which had been carrying Their Highnesses to the Nice-Deauville plane, urged them to be "sporting about the whole thing" and drove away.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT THE MAIN reason why everybody agrees in treating this as what the French call a "cause celebre" is the discovery of contacts—and the allegations of complicity—between the gangsters and the police. The French, who are by nature hostile to symbols of authority, despite policemen, and are getting much unconcealed glee out of the violent quarrel which the case has provoked between the-then-Chief of the Judicial Police, M. George Valantin, and his superior, M. Pierre Bertaux, at that time head of a sector of the national police force.

M. Valantin accused M. Bertaux of helping the ring-leaders to get away—and Bertaux removed M. Valantin from his job on the grounds of inefficiency.

The inner story about the police and the Marseilles "underworld" will probably never be unravelled. The trial has shown that the police used two parallel methods: first, extremely tough "third degree" interrogation to make the confessed executants reveal the names of their bosses. Secondly, lavish payments offered, and in some cases paid out, to "contact" men who promised to get the jewels back. Through their intermediary, most of the loot was, in fact, tossed back in a little paper parcel over the wall into the courtyard of the Marseilles police station—and the police let the throwers get away.

The British insurance firm, Lloyds, which had insured the jewels and was offering a twenty thousand pound reward for their return, kept its record clean. A police officer disclosed that, at a secret meeting, a Lloyds agent said he would rather the criminals were caught — and Lloyds' other clients spared similar experiences—than have the jewels back in return for suspending the case and leaving the gangsters at large.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN ANY CASE, four of the gansters including their alleged chief Pierre Leca, did get

Amidst general commotion, the judge protested that a gangster could not be honest, but M. Bertaux reminded the judge that he had said "honourable" NOT "honest," and gave the court an unsolicited lecture on "honour among thieves" and on Leca's unquestionable loyalties to his own world.

The Minister of Justice, reading the account of the trial the next morning, declared M. Bertaux's sentiments to be "incompatible with the dignity of a senior administrator" and promptly dismissed him. But his old enemy, M. Valantin, is also suspended from office, and no one believes either of them will let the matter drop.

✧ ✧

WHETHER or not there is honour among thieves, this week has shown an inspiring example of honour among generals.

At a grand ceremony, with bands, flags, parades and speeches, General Matthew Ridgway transferred the supreme command of the Allied Forces in Europe to his successor, General Alfred Gruenther. Everyone had been wondering whether the British Field-Marshal Montgombery (Deputy Supreme Commander) would agree to serve under a man of lower rank, less combat experience and several years younger than himself. It was widely noticed that of all the SHAPE leading personalities, the British Field-Marshal alone was absent from the public ceremony.

But at the very end of the proceedings, after both the outgoing and incoming generals had made their speeches, a junior British officer stepped forward and read aloud a personal message from Montgomery wishing General Ridgway luck and, better still, pledging loyalty to his successor.

An American View: "WHO'S HUNGRY?"

The Men Behind Malenkov

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

MALENKOV and his remaining friends have done nothing to clear up the mystery of Beria's downfall. The Soviet Press, instead of elucidating, has confined itself to vilification and reports of the universal approval expressed in terms of mass meetings, of the government's wisdom and resolution in defeating the machinations of so hideous an enemy of the people. The official reports that Beria is universally execrated throughout the USSR no doubt contain more truth than most reports of this kind. Anybody who has lived in the Soviet Union since Beria became a power in the land could have told the Soviet government for the asking that at any time Beria was the most hated man in the country where hatred is a conspicuous emotion. The fact that he may have been more moderate than some past chiefs of police was neither here nor there; whether with a heavy heart or with total callousness, he had brought ruin to some millions of harmless men and women not only in the Soviet Union but also in the satellites. His men carried out the fearful deportations of whole sections of the population of the countries of Eastern Europe. They took the Katyn Forest massacre in their stride. With complete impartiality they drove countless thousands of their fellow citizens to death in the labour camps of the far north and elsewhere.

The men who actually did these things continue, pegging away under Beria's old number two, Kruglov. The security police—the green caps of the frontier, the blue caps of the interior, the plain clothes men—continue. But although they may have much evil in store, there is nothing to be lost by rejoicing over the fact that their chief is now getting a taste of his own medicine.

The Russians may be trusted to rejoice. Whether they will also congratulate Beria's late colleagues for taking thirty years to discover that he was a bad man is another matter.

At the same time, like us, they will be wondering what the affair is all about and what it portends. They have learnt no more from Malenkov than we have. But it will certainly not have occurred to them to think of this remarkable upheaval in terms of foreign policy. They will see it as part of the inevitable fight for power between the "closest colleagues" of the late J. V. Stalin. And some of them, also like us, will be a little shocked by the fact that the fight has broken out publicly so soon. They will draw their own conclusions about the stability of a regime which has found itself unable to preserve even a semblance of decency and unity for more than four months after the death of the great leader, tyrant and leveller.

Indeed, when one comes to think of it, it is not a very impressive performance. If the Kremlin at any time needed to put on a show of unity that time is now, with the country still shaken by the death of Stalin, with the satellites on the edge of revolt, with a Republican Administration in the United States. But no, the new government has found it impossible to stay even ostensibly united for more than fifteen short weeks. The deduction is that it has been even more shaky than we knew it must be. The Russian people—and the people of the satellites—will make this deduction without any help from us. They will go further. Throughout all the territories of the Soviet empire, but above all in the Soviet Union itself, the burning question this week-end has been "Who next?"

There is nothing at all to show that Beria's removal has strengthened the personal position of Malenkov. Throughout the whole affair the name of the Prime Minister of the USSR has not been mentioned. It has been the Central Committee of the Communist Party which has ordained this and that; and the Central Committee of the Party is still insisting, with increasing passion, on the sacred principle of collective leadership. Somewhere in that leadership is Malenkov. But there are others. And Malenkov could not have got rid of Beria, with over half-a-million picked troops at his disposal, without enlisting the support of extremely powerful forces. Certainly he needed the army: that means Marshal Bulganin. Equally certainly, he needed those Ministers responsible for the industrial might of the Soviet Union.

It is permissible to ask what sort of a price Malenkov's supporters are making him pay for their backing. (OFNS-Copyright.)

Pigs, Corpses Bother Parliament

By FRANCIS OFNER

SIXTY medical students at the Hebrew University, Israel, may become fully-fledged doctors without having dissected a single human body if the ultra-religious political parties succeed in upholding the Talmudic laws vetoing this "desecration."

A Bill granting the Hebrew University Hadassah Medical School the right to dissect unclaimed bodies, introduced last week in the Knesset (Parliament) provoked a storm of criticism from orthodox Deputies,

Rabbi Benyacov, of the same political group, rejected dissection on religious and humanitarian grounds. "No reason could outweigh the Talmudic Law which permits desecration of the human body only to help find a murderer or to safeguard children from hereditary disease," Benyaacov claimed.

The minister of health, Y. Serlin, warned the Knesset that, unless the Dissection Bill is passed, lack of anatomy lessons

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thus saith the Lord of hosts; Consider your ways. Go up to the mountain, and bring wood, and build the house; and I will take pleasure in it, and I will be glorified, saith the Lord. (Hag. 1: 7, 8).

✧ ✧ ✧

In the seventh month, in the one and twentieth day of the month, came the word of the Lord by the prophet Haggai, saying . . . . Who is left among you that saw this house in her first glory? and how do you see it now? is it not in your eyes in comparison of it as nothing?

Yet now be strong, O Zerubbabel, saith the Lord, and be strong, O Joshua, son of Josedech, the high priest; and be strong all ye people of the land, saith the Lord, and work: for I am with you, saith the Lord of hosts: according to the word that I covenanted with you when ye came out of Egypt, so my spirit remaineth among you: fear ye not.

For thus saith the Lord of hosts; Yet once, it is a little while, and I will shake the heavens, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land; and I will shake all nations, and the desire of all nations shall come: and I will fill this house with glory, saith the Lord of hosts . . . The glory of this latter house shall be greater than of the former saith the Lord of hosts: and in this place will I give peace, saith the Lord of hosts. (Hag. 2: 1, 3-7, 9.)

The Musk Ox

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

Time was when the musk ox was plentiful in Canada's northland. However, with the coming of the rifle, the Indians, the Eskimos, explorers and travellers started to shoot them and they became almost extinct.

In recent years the few that are left have been protected. It is illegal to shoot one, and the animal appears to be winning its battle for survival in the Canadian Arctic.

The musk ox is found now only in Alaska or in the Canadian northland. Canada's wildlife service estimated the total musk ox population at 500 a few years ago. Most of them live in the huge game sanctuary northeast of Great Slave Lake.

This year wildlife officials were delighted to find other herds, one of about 92 animals, near Great Bear Lake and others on Ellesmere Island up in the direction of the north pole.

It is believed the musk ox population is now over the 1,000 mark. Government officials are planning a more detailed study of the strange animals which roam the Arctic wastes looking for dwarf plants on which to feed.

Can. Federation Of Blind President Visits City

C. A. Pettapiece of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, national president of the Canadian Federation of the Blind, visited Peterborough Monday on his way to Ottawa where he will investigate employment conditions for the blind.

While here, he visited CNIB clubrooms but explained his group is in no way affiliated with the Canadian National Institute.

Blind himself, the president said the CFB, which has a membership of approximately 1,000, is an advocate of government sponsored blind employment and a number of other measures dedicated to bettering the position of Canada's blind.

ASK FOR BOTH PENSIONS

One of the foremost is the sponsorship of a move to provide both old age and blind pensions to those above the age of 70.

At present when an old age pension is issued to a blind person, the blind pension is cut off.

Through the CFB, members have formed a manufacturing co-operative which markets individual's products, "anything from brushes to houses".

A recent convention in the United States which Mr. Pettapiece attended while journeying from Prince Albert, advocated the establishment of similar co-operatives there. The CFB's is the first such co-op in North America.

THREE WAYS

It serves in a three-point capacity; manufacturing, wholesaling and retailing and last year paid of with dividends of 150 per cent.

While en route, Mr. Pettapiece also acted as chairman of the CFB's annual convention in Toronto July 16, 17 and 18. Thirty delegates attended from 12 branches across Canada.

Princess Enjoys Dancing Party

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret celebrated her return from Rhodesia by dancing until 4 o'clock this morning.

The occasion was a welcome home party given the 22-year-old Princess by the Marchioness of Dufferin and Ava at her tiny Knightsbridge apartment.

Because there was not enough room inside for dancing, the Marchioness "borrowed" the flat roofs of a house and post office next to her apartment. Workmen erected two giant tents for dancing and refreshments.

The Princess, who had apparently shaken off a cold caught while she was in Africa, danced right through the night and outstayed many of the guests.

Though Margaret was over her cold, the Queen mother came down with the sniffles today and remained indoors at Clarence House, their London residence.

Chief Electoral Officer's Job Easier As Federal Election Date Moves Closer

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—It may sound paradoxical, but the man in charge of the complex machinery of the Aug. 10 genera lelection is taking life fairly easy these days.

Nelson Castonguay, the chief electoral officer, can afford some relative relaxation now because for the last four years he's been getting things set for the one big day.

Now, they are pretty well out of his hands and into those of his officials in 263 constituencies. Like an army chief who has committed his forces, about all he can do is tie up loose ends here and there and keep his fingers crossed.

MINOR PROBLEMS

That doesn't mean the work is all done. There is still the inevitable host of minor problems cropping up in one riding or another as election day nears. Constituency officers keep running into problems such as printing difficulties or getting polling places, and maybe 100 a day still wind up on Mr. Castonguary's doorstep.

He has to make the final decision on anything of significance, and that's why his office is open from 8 a.m. until around midnight daily. But, with feet hoisted comfortably on his desk, the 39-year-old former navy skipper will tell you he's just coasting in now—comparatively, at least.

His behind - the - scenes work started right after the election of June, 1949. Some 9,000 mailbags of documents poured into his office then—reports on the election preliminaries, on the ballotting and tons of unused supplies.

VOLUMINOUS REPORT

The first big job was Mr. Castonguay's report to Parliament on the election, a 771-page book giving the whole story in extensive detail.

In between staging occasional by-elections, Mr. Castonguay screened a mass of suggestions on election procedure, from the public, from his officials and from candidates. Many of these he brought before sessions of the Commons elections committee, along with his own ideas. The result was various changes in election machinery during the last four years.

Meanwhile, the election chief started ordering the 350 tons of supplies that his office has had to send out for the voting. There are 164 different forms and a whole raft of instruction booklets for officials. The biggest of these, a general instruction book, has 314 pages. The chief electoral officer and his staff have to bring these up to date for each election.

One item in the paper work is 1,500,000 large sheets of ballot paper. The basic printing job is done here by the Queen's Printer, and later local printers add the names of the constituency candidates and make up books of ballots.

LINES UP WORKERS

While the flood of paper work was going on, Mr. Castonguay was lining up his election officers across the country. There is a heavy turnover in returning officers between elections, and the old as well as the new ones have to be brought up to date on election procedure.

Since the start of this year, Mr. Castonguay has travelled from coast to coast giving short lecture courses to the officials. He held these in 15 key cities, bringing each of the 263 returning officers to convenient points. They were completed by mid-May.

All this meant that by the time Prime Minister St. Laurent announced the election date in June, Mr. Castonguay was ready to trip the switch and start off the ponderous machine he had been putting together for years.

There is one irony to the whole thing. Mr. Castonguay probably knows more about voting than any person in Canada. Yet he doesn't get a chance to exercise the franchise. The chief electoral officer is barred from the polls.

FLOOD IN JAPAN—Residents of the Wakayama Prefecture in Japan feel the desolation that heavy rains and an overflowing Arita River brings. In the foreground, citizens cling to a housetop as debris and possessions flow by. More than 40,000 buildings, affecting 200,000 persons, have been inundated. Meanwhile, U.S. planes and amphibious craft are bringing in relief and supplies.

New State Secretary?

WASHINGTON (CP) — A "faint whisper" that John Foster Dulles may soon be succeeded as secretary of state by Walter Bedell Smith, now undersecretary, was reported Monday. Representative Clarence Brown (Rep. O.), mentioned the rumor in his weekly news letter to constituents.

Find Scouting Growing Across Canada

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—Across Canada, from one-elevator whistlestops on the Prairies to centres of heavy population, scouting is growing.

In 1912 there were only 13,500 Boy Scouts in Canada; now there are more than 150,000.

At the mouth of the Mackenzie river in the Arctic is the little village of Tuktoyaktuk, which has a population of a few Eskimos and one woman missionary. Miss Dorothy Robinson is the Scout leader there and the community's eight children comprise her troop.

At Port Radium in the Northwest Territories there is a Cub pack of three boys and a girl. The girl insisted on joining because she would be left without playmates during Cub meetings. The Boy Scouts' Association gave in and admitted her.

Scouts from every province are gathered here this week for the second Canadian national scout jamboree The 2,500 youths represent nearly every conceivable ethnic and religious group in Canada.

In camp are 655 boys registered as members of the United Church of Canada; 525 Church of England; 244 Roman Catholic; 99 Baptist; 89 Presbyterian; 36 Lutheran; 17 Ukranian and Greek Orthodox; 13 Salvation Army; 12 Hebrew; 10 Christian Science; 10 Latter Day Saints; four Unitarian; four Mennonite; and scores of others of varying denominations.

HAVE MOST SCOUTS

Ontario has more Scouts than any other province—60,000. British Columbia is next with 17,000. Prince Edward Island has the smallest number, 950.

At isolated farms and trading posts in the north are Scouts who may never see a fellow Scout from one year's end to another. These are the "Lone Scouts" who number nearly 800. They can get scouting credits by mail, a sort of correspondence course in the ways of self reliance, gentlemanliness, honor and the lore of the woods.

Scouts come from every financial background. One may spend $60 on a uniform and equipment, but there are many scouts who possess nothing more in the way of a uniform than a kerchief sewn by mother.

"It's not the uniform that makes the man, it's what he develops in his heart," one Scout leader said.

Pulitzer Prizewinner Urges US-Canada Reporter Switch

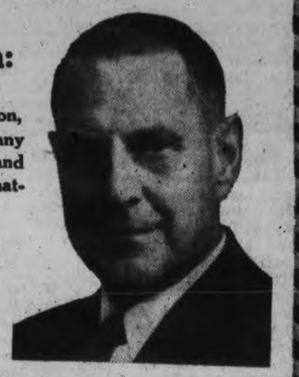
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (CP) — An exchange program between Canadian and U.S. newspaper men, possibly financed by newspapers, has been suggested by Austin C. Wehrwein, Milwaukee Journal reporter who won a Pulitzer prize for a series of articles on Canada.

He proposed the plan in a speech to thee Milwaukee Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity. The chapter is to meet later this month to decide whether and how to present the plan to the national organization.

Mr. Wehrwein said he thought such a project would gain the support of the U.S. and Canadian governments, but added: "Wonder whether this chapter couldn't suggest that the newspapers go it alone.

"If the newspapers, and perhaps, the newsprint companies, wouldn't pick up the cheque maybe the Ford Foundation would."

Mr. Wehrwein said the U.S. needs Americans with an appreciation of Canada "more than they need Canadians who know us."



"They know us pretty well already," he said, "although, naturally, some of them have misconceptions—and serious ones—which a hitch on, say, the Milwaukee Journal would clear up . . . .

"The actual exchange would be a piece of cake, because they turn out newspapers about as we do. A one-for-one switch would be no problem as far as personnel is concerned. The chief stumbling block would be money."

Question:

Mr. Swanston, have you any particular stand on labour matters?

Answer:

Simply that I want both sides to have a square deal. And I think I know what a square deal in labour matters is, because I was a president of Local 248 of the International Typographical Union for five years, and now I am president of Peterborough Printing, Limited; I've seen both sides of the labour question, and I am convinced that friendly negotiation can settle any situation.

Stanton Hurls Floaters Bowmanville Wins 8-1 Over Junior Liflocs

Bowmanville's Johnny Stanton used his "floating power" ball to stem the Peterborough Liflocs' batting Monday night. The result was an 8-1 victory for Bowmanville who bunched together 10 hits off the offerings of Jerry Frizzelle, Roger Lee and Doug Ash. By mutual consent the game was made a four-pointer prior to game-time.

Stanton looped his floaters throughout the game and the Liflocs failed to hit safely more than twice at one time. He worked a curve with a slow drop, mixing in the odd fast ball.

Gary Kearns was the only Lifloc to even taste Stanton's servings more than once. He collected three of Peterborough's four hits, one a triple in the sixth inning.

Kearns, the Lifloc's lead-off batter, twice attempted to form a Lifloc rally, the first time in the first inning when he died on third and later when he was snuffed out by a double play.

But on the third attempt he succeeded in breaking the goose-egg. He cracked a hard three-base grounder down the first-base line, just inside the foul marker. Then Bryan Young looped a lofty fly to centre, giving Kearns plenty of time to score after the catch.

Meanwhile behind so-so fielding, the Lifloc starter, Jerry Frizzelle ran into trouble with the first batter, Bill Dadson, former Petes senior. Dadson walked, followed by hits by Ted Bagnell and Yourth. A fielder's choice and a long fly out helped provide four runs.

Again in the third Frizzelle gave up a couple of hits by Hooper and Gallagher. A putout and a error by first-baseman, Stu Lingard, promptly gave Bowmanville a 7-0 lead.

Roger Lee took over for Frizzelle in the fourth and for a time kept the Roses dazzled with his left-handed pitches. But in the fifth Gallagher and Williams nicked him for two singles. A later putout saw Gallagher with enough time to cross for the eighth run.

Ash pitched the final inning and Williams pounded out his second hit, this time a double. But he was run down by catcher Ken Pammett when he ventured too close to home plate on a fake steal home.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Our representatives in the Provincial Playdowns, in the singles and doubles go to Oshawa on Tuesday July 28th and not Tuesday July 21st as we reported, last night—It was our error.

To-morrow night we have mixed rinks draw from the board 7:30 p.m.

Some of our lady bowlers are taken in the open trebles tournament to-day, in Belleville.

After last-night's games, A. Black's rink still leads the schedule, and right on his heels are F. Martin, W. Jeffries and H. Staunton. Two rinks slipped a little on Monday night, R. Knox lost to G. Coleman and E. Pritchard lost by one shot to W. Saunders. It would appear that from now until the finish each night's games can change the standing quite a bit. It certainly is a real race.

Two Identical Racehorses In U.K. Betting Scandal

By PHILIP CLARKE

LONDON (AP)—Scotland Yard sleuths took the hoof prints of two strangely identical racehorses Monday and ordered a manhunt for suspects in a £400,000 betting scandal.

Detectives want to know: Which horse won the two o'clock race at Bath last Thursday?

Was it really Francasal, a perennial "also ran" who surprisingly won at 10 to 1 backed by a flood of last-minute bets? Or was it a mysterious French horse which looked like Francasal but ran like the wind?

And in the House of Commons Wednesday, the postmaster-general will be asked: Who cut the telephone line linking Bath racecourse with bookie offices all over Britain—just a half hour before the race began?

The line was cut with a blowtorch.

Then, during the half-hour before race time, the bookies were flooded with bets on Francasal. Because the line was cut, they couldn't phone the track to "lay off" their bets with track bookies and bring the odds down.

Nobody, or almost nobody, figured Francasal to win. But Francasal—or a horse answering his description—did win.

Worried bookies figured the payoffs on Francasal run into the tens of thousands of pounds. One estimate placed the total at nearly £400,000.

A few bookies paid off right away. But when the snapped telephone wire was discovered, things began to look fishy.

Scotland Yard was called in and betting associations urged bookies to withhold their payoffs until the investigation is completed.

Francasal and his "twin" were located in a village barn near Reading Sunday.

Weaker Players Fall In Early Rounds

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian tennis championships were expected to warm up today after an opening-day round that wasn't tough enough for the name players to work up a sweat despite the 80-degree heat.

The lesser lights of the men's and women's singles competition went to the sidelines Monday as the big names in the week-long tournament appeared to be in a hurry to get their initial matches over with.

Included in the first-round victory list were Davis Cup netters from Canada, Mexico, Japan and Australia and all the seeded netters in both men's and women's divisions who saw action. The small crowd of about 200 at the Toronto Tennis Club courts had little to cheer about, but they were given an indication of better things to come when the big boys are drawn against each other.

44 MATCHES

Forty-four matches were played Monday and only one—between Bob Bedard, Sherbrooke, Que., and George Czuczka, Toronto—could be described as tough for a seeded player. The 21-year-old Bedard, rated No. 2 in the domestic section, was extended to three sets before he won 7-5, 6-4, 6-2.

The others followed the trend of the opening match when Red Hartwig of Australia, seeded No. 2 in the foreign section, defeated Syd Hermant of Toronto 6-3, 6-1. Love sets and scores of 6-1, 6-2 were the order until the finish.

Mervyn Rose, No. 1 seed and betting favorite to win the singles title, almost blasted Jim Duff of Toronto off the courts with a 6-0, 6-2 triumph. The 23-year-old member of Australia's Davis Cup team got it over with in a hurry—less than 30 minutes.

Lorne Main of Vancouver and Toronto and No. 1 seed in the Canadian section, whipped Hugh Murray of Hamilton 6-1, 6-1, in another fast-moving match.

Today Rose meets Masanobu Kimura, 30-year-old member of Japan's Davis Cup team, who whipped M. Jones of Toronto 6-4, 6-1 in the first round. Main is drawn against Fred Reaume of Hamilton who galloped over Joe Opee, London, Ont., 6-1, 6-1 Monday.

WILL BE TOUGHER

Hartwig's second-round opposition promises to be much tougher. He is scheduled to meet Jiro Yamagishi, 41-year-old captain-manager of the Japanese Davis Cup team who swished through Bob Wilson of Fort William, 6-0, 6-1 Monday.

Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N.J., fourth ranking in the foreign section and called by some experts to take the title Saturday, breezed through the first round, 6-1, 6-2, over Fred Fennell of Halifax.

Possibly the toughest match today will bring together Francisco Contreras of Mexico's Davis Cup team and Tony Vincent, the swarthy netman from New York who won the Canadian title in 1951. Contreras eliminated Peter Bernard of Oakville, Ont., 6-1, 6-2 in the opening round and Vincent posted a similar victory over Ken McLeoughin of Toronto.

INITIAL APPEARANCES

George Worthington, 19-year-old New Zealand star, is scheduled to make his initial appearance here this afternoon against Stan Hurwitz of Toronto in the first round. A couple of hours later the winner of this match meets Rafael Ortega, Mexican Davis Cupper who blasted Fran Murphy of Fort William 6-0, 6-0 Monday.

Defending champion Melita Ramirez of Mexico, a late entry in the tournament, is scheduled to make her debut in the women's singles today. She is seeded No. 1 ahead of Mrs. Thelma Long, Australian champion.

Mrs. Hannah Sladek, formerly of Czechoslovakia, who now makes her home in Toronto, eliminated Irene Borecki of Toronto 6-2, 6-1 in the first round of the women's singles. She is the No. 1 seed in the domestic section.

Dodgers Come To, Blank Cubs In 3-0 Triumph

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Some of the National League's best pitching magic must have rubbed off on cheerful Charlie Dressen at the all-star game. After associating with the likes of Robin Roberts, Warren Spahn and Co., Charlie has come home to Brooklyn and with a wave of the hand—the one he used to wag frantically at the bullpen—he's suddenly converted a staff of throwers into a reasonably-dangerous asortment of pitchers. Russ Meyer and Jim Hughes combined Monday night to pitch the second Dodger shutout in seven games, a five-hit 3-0 effort against Chicago Cubs that stretched the Brooklyn lead over the idle Milwaukee Braves to 3½ games.

The only other action Monday was in Pittsburgh, where the Pirates preserved their lead in a suspended Sunday game to beat St. Louis Cardinals 6-4 and then bowed in a regularly scheduled contest 3-4 as Steve Bilko broke a batting slump with two home runs and a pair of singles.

Meyer and Hughes were lucky to get out of the ninth inning without being scored upon since the first four Cub batters reached first base.

Eddie Miksis started it with a double. Dee Fondy walked. Ralph Kiner singled and Randy Jackson's sinking liner fell in front of right-fielder Don Thompson. By now there were two men out.

Impossible? Not in Brooklyn.

DOUBLE LEGITIMATE

Miksis' double was legitimate. So was Fondy's walk. But Kiner's blow, a screaming knee-high drive toward centre field, struck Miksis on the leg. The base runner was out automatically, the ball was dead and the rules credit Kiner with a single.

With Fondy on second and Kiner on first, Dressen switched from Meyer to Hughes. Jackson looped one over the infield that fell in short right for an apparent hit, but Kiner held too long at first and was forced at second by Thompson's throw.

The victory was the sixth in seven games for Brooklyn since the all-star break.

For the Pirates Paul Lapalme picked up where he left off Sunday and pitched four more scoreless innings to win his fourth game. The Cards had been at bat in the sixth with one out when the Sunday curfew forced a halt.

In the regular game, Pittsburgh jumped off ahead with four runs

But the Cards soon caught up. Bilko homered with the bases empty in the fourth and with manager Eddie Stanky aboard in the ninth Peanuts Lowrey drove in two runs with a triple in the sixth inning. Cliff Chambers, second of four St. Louis pitchers, received credit for his first victory of the season.

Everybody gets back into the act today and tonight.

SCORCHING TOUR

New York Yankees continue their scorching tour through the west with a night game against the sinking Cleveland Indians. Chicago White Sox, stopped cold Sunday by the Yanks whom they now trail by six games, entertain the red-hot Boston Red Sox. Philadelphia visits St. Louis and Washington is in Detroit for a day game.

In the National League Philadelphia plays host to Milwaukee in a twi-night twin bill, St. Louis moves to New York for a night game, Cincinnati is in Pittsburgh at night and Chicago is at Brooklyn for an afternoon contest.

Rome Has Chance For 1960 Games

WIESBADEN (AP) — Dr. Karl Ritter von Halt, president of the National German Olympic Committee, told a press conference here Monday he thinks Rome has a "good chance" to get the 1960 Olympic summer games.

Von Halt, a member of the International Olympic Committee for 25 years, said 80 cities throughout the world have filed applications for the 1960 games with the IOC.

Ontario Junior Golfers Make Exceptional Showing In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Junior golfers from Ontario made an exceptional showing here Monday in combination qualifying rounds for the United States Golf association's junior championship and the Middle Atlantic junior championship.

The eight-man team from Canada, here for the Simpson Cup matches Friday with the district's top juniors, won three of the seven places to the USGA junior tourney which starts next Wednesday in [illegible] Hugh Patters [illegible] Georges fired 78s.

GO TO TULSA

They will go to Tulsa, leaving Washington Saturday night.

The three Ontario youngsters who qualified for the USGA junior also made the championship flight of 16 of the Middle Atlantic junior.

Patterson meets Bruce Kessler, Washington youngster who shot 80 in the first round of match play. today. Lowrey plays Del Berman of Bethesda, who had 79, and Shorer plays Charles Rinker of Fairfax, Va., who had 80.

Bill Bell of Aurora Highlands, top-ranked Canadian player and Ontario junior champion, developed a sore hand but played anyway and shot 84. His hand was x-rayed and showed no broken bones but a severe sprain.

Phil Brownlee, 12-year-old from Toronto Cedar Brae, who was the talk of the club after a practice-round 84, shot a 91. He qualified in the special flight for 13-year-olds and under. He is four-feet nine and weighs only 89 pounds.

Phillies Sell Peterson

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies sold pitcher Kent Peterson outright to their Baltimore farm team in the International League Monday. Peterson, a left hander, pitched 24 innings for the Phillies this season and has an 0-1 record. The 27-year-old hurler came to the Phillies at the tag end of the 1952 season and has been used mostly in relief roles.

Ottawa Tramples Buffalo Sweeps Both Ends Of Bill

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons probably are wondering what hit them Monday night.

Full of confidence in their new role as International Baseball League leaders, the Herd romped into Ottawa for a doubleheader with the seventh-place Athletics, and after it was all over—you guessed it: The As swept both ends of the bill 1-0 and 7-3.

However, the Bisons have one consolation. Their nearest rivals, Montreal Royals, dropped their sixth straight game, this time a 9-8 10-inning decision to the Maple Leafs at Toronto. This kept Buffalo still 1½ games ahead.

Allan (Dutch) Romberger pitched his way to victory in the Ottawa opener, allowing only five hits, the same number as his losing opponent, Ernie Nevel. The only run of the abbreviated contest came in the sixth when Walt Rogers singled, stole second, advanced to third on a fielder's choice and scored on Lou Limmer's single.

Bob Trice got the second win for the Athletics, his 13th of the campaign.

LEAFS TRIP ROYALS

Ed Stevens' three-run homer in the ninth and Lou Morton's circuit clout in the 10th gave the fifth-place Leafs the nod over the Royals. A crowd of 6,073 fans saw the Leafs nibble away at a lead that Montreal held from the third inning until Stevens' homer tied the score 8-8 in the ninth.

Stevens' and Morton's circuit clouts were only two of the game's seven homers, the Leafs getting four of them. Joe Rossi and pinch hitter Frank Coleman also hit the big ones for the Leafs, while Roy Rocky Nelson connected for the Royals.

Pitching had a lot to do in deciding two other scheduled contests.

Lefty Dennis Reeder hurled a three-hitter at Rochester to give the Red Wings a 5-0 shutout victory over Baltimore and snap the Orioles' winning streak at six.

Springfield cubs defeated the Chiefs 4-1 at Syracuse, behind Don Elston's six-hit performance.

Regatta Has Biggest Entry List

CRAIF SWAYZE

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP)—The Royal Canadian Henley regatta opens here Wednesday with the largest entry list in its 71-year history.

More than 800 oarsmen from both sides of the border will compete. They will row as 163 individual entries in the 34 final events and their accompanying heats which make a total of 64 races in the four-day affair.

The Canadian Henley, world's largest rowing regatta and second oldest such event in North America began in 1880 when the first regatta a one-day affair consisting of six races, was rowed at Toronto.

It returned to Toronto five more times in 22 years of home hunting and during that period was rowed at Hamilton on six occasions, Brockville four, Lachine and Ottawa three times and Barrie once. Then in 1903 Port Dalhousie took over.

Neighboring St. Catharines—then a small town—raised $7,000 to build a wooden grandstand that year and even formed a rowing club so it would be represented in the classic. The place was jammed as trains and steamers brought thousands of fans from the United States and Canada.

The Henley had found its home on the 1½-mile sheltered course of the Old Welland Canal.

INTERNATIONAL AWARD—Martin Nicholson, 14-year-old North Vancouver boy, has been voted the 1953 national humane act award by the American Veterinary Medical Association meeting in Toronto. Martin rescued this dog, owned by Art Clark, of Vancouver, from a foot-wide ledge just above the boiling rapids at the bottom of a canyon in British Columbia. The dog had been stranded on the ledge four days after being swept downstream. The award is made annually for the year's outstanding act of kindness to animals by a boy or girl.

Canada Has Warned U.S. About New Oats Restrictions

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has warned the United States of possible "serious implications" if the U.S. imposes import restrictions against Canadian oats and ground-fish fillets.

An official Canadian government note of protest and appeal against American trade proposals was handed to the U.S. state department Monday by the Canadian embassy in Washington.

The new note followed by just three weeks a previous note of protest against new American dairy-import curbs. Officials here said the previous protest received nothing more than a routine reply.

GOVERNMENT CONCERNED

The Canadian government now has become concerned over the possibility that the U.S. may slash imports of Canadian oats and ground-fish fillets. The American tariff commission has held hearings on a U.S. agriculture department proposal to cut imports of Canadian oats to about 23,000,000 bushels a year from 75,000,000 bushels in 1952.

Canada exports between 40,000,000 and 50,000,00 pounds of ground-fish fillets to the United States annually.

Ground fish are bottom-feeding fish such as cod, haddock and rosefish.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A subpoena served on Harry S. Truman calling on him to explain why the United States entered the Korean conflict was quashed Monday in district court. The subpoena, served by Fyke Farmer, Nashville, Tenn., lawyer, and leader of a world peace movement, had directed the former president to produce certain records of his administration. But Judge Albert A. Ridge held that Truman had submitetd an affidavit to the court saying he was not now in possession of these documents.

Wheat Surplus Stored In Cargo Ships

By JACK TAIT.

NEW YORK — The makings of more than a billion loaves of bread are being stored in 75 immobilized cargo ships in the Hudson River about 30 miles north of New York City. The floating bins are part of the government's efforts to find room for America's overwhelming deluge of wheat.

The United States this summer has wheat to burn—a surplus of 700 million bushels is expected from this year's crops. But instead of destroying the excess, the government is trying to store it all against emergencies, either here or in other parts of the world.

Such an emergency was acted on last month when Congress, at President Eisenhower's request, voted to send a million tons to famine-stricken Pakistan. In that country, considered a staunch ally in the cold war, a swarm of locusts this spring laid waste to large agricultural areas. Within a few days of the bill's passage, loaded ships were on their way to Pakistan from the United States east coast.

30 MILLION BUSHELS

Pakistan's million tons represents about 30 million bushels, but a small fraction of what is on hand in the nation's bins, still bulging with the 1952 crop—1,291,000,000 bushels, the third largest in history.

This month the winter wheat harvest is pouring yet more millions of bushels of new grain into the granaries. Room has to be found for this rich flood from Kansas, Nebraska, and the Ohio River country.

FLEET PUT TO WORK

So the Hudson's reserve fleet of liberty ships—ships which earned their salt during the war but since have been idling and growing old on the gentle rise and fall of the river tide—has been put to work. The contribution of this fleet in providing storage space is comparatively small. But it is important.

One by one the liberties—the Elihu Root, the John E. Ward, the John Fiske, the Samuel Ashe, and the others—have submitted to a tow down to the docks of New York harbor, being loaded with 225,000 bushels of wheat apiece and hauled back to their tranquil resting place.

In all, 16,875,000 bushels of wheat are to be stored in the ships free of charge to the Department of Agriculture's commodity credit corporation, which has acquired this overflow through its price support program.

The support program works this way: after the government support price for wheat is fixed by Congress, the farmer can take out a federal loan on his wheat at the government rate. The grain is then put into storage. If the grain grower has 10,000 bushels of wheat on his hands and the support price is two dollars a bushel, the loan will be $20,000. At the time the loan is due, if the market price of wheat has not risen above the support price the farmer cheerfully turns over the grain to Uncle Sam. The terms of the loan are fulfilled.

So far, the support price for wheat has stayed well above the market price, so the Department of Agriculture has become practically buried in its own wheat.

1,956 SHIPS IN ALL

Many ships of the seven other reserve fleets of the Maritime Administration are also being pressed into the storage business. These fleets—1,956 ships in all—are stalked out in rivers and harbors all along the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific coastlines. For instance, 50 vessels in the James River at Norfolk, Va., are being filled with wheat.

Baking authorities estimate that about 15.2 ounces of wheat goes into the average loaf of bread. And there are 960 ounces to a bushel of wheat. And each ship takes 225,000 bushels—total: nearly 15 million loaves.

Canadian National Railway Finishes Staff Course

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's publicly-owned railway system, in a move to develop young executive officers, has completed a unique experiment in staff training.

A group of 47 promising young employees from various parts of Canada were put through a six-week course devised by officials of the Canadian National Railways in consultation with business education experts at the University of Western Ontario.

Results of the course, first of its kind ever sponsored by the railway, will be watched closely. If results warrant the move, a permanent Canadian National staff college will be established.

The CNR, with 128,000 employees from coast to coast, has 1,100 supervisory officers. Many of them will retire within the next 15 years.

TO PROVIDE REPLACEMENTS

The course was designed to provide suitable replacements.

Divided into three parts, the course took student executives to Montreal, Western University at London, Ont., and Bishop's University at Lenoxville, Que.

The first part of the course, given in Montreal, consisted of lectures and discussions on company history, competitive problems, labor relations, personnel methods, legal problems and company policies.

The second phase at University of Western Ontario dealt with the principles of administration, accounting, production, marketing, public relations and financial management.

The third stage, at Bishop's University, covered actual problems encountered in railway management.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY

Donald Gordon, president of the CNR, described the course as one that gave promising employees an opportunity to gain wider perspective; to study the science and practise the arts of management under laboratory conditions.

No formal examinations were taken to test the results of the course. Mr. Gordon said the results would show in the work of the men when they returned to their posts.

Close Supervision Of Herds Can Beat Cattle Disease

TORONTO (CP)—A group of doctors said Monday that brucellosis, a costly cattle disease, can be beaten if there is close supervision of herds and an extensive educational campaign to make dairymen more aware of the dangers to their animals.

The doctors, a special research committee for the American Veterinary Medical Association, told of their plan to eradicate the disease at the Association's annual meeting.

Calves should be vaccinated and all reactors eliminated to protect other cattle in the herd.

NEED VITAMINS

Research workers from the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph reported that prenatal deaths and abnormal offspring can result if pregnant animals aren't fed enough growth-producing vitamins. Tests showed rats, fed a ribolfavin deficient diet, had reproductive troubles and smaller litters.

Dr. W. C. Reid of Fort Erie, Ont., said that although antibiotics are one of the greatest aids in combatting disease, they are not the final answer to animal-disease control. It should not be forgotten, he said, that supportive treatment is necessary in assisting the new drugs.

RCAF In Airlift

OTTAWA (CP) — Three RCAF transport planes airlifted more than 1,000,000 pounds of freight in five days for the Iron Ore Company of Canada at Knob Lake, Que., Defence Minister Claxton said Monday. He said use of the RCAF planes "was necessitated by reason of the fact that civilian transports could not be obtained to do this work of national importance during the short summer season."

Lawson To Conduct Inquiry Into Death

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost announced Monday night that Smirle Lawson, Ontario's chief coroner, will conduct the inquiry into the death of Pte. Frederick Joseph Burke of Regina at Petawawa military camp last week.

Burke died after going through an obstacle course as part of his punishment for being a week late returning from leave. Relatives said Burke was delayed because of illness and was still ill when he returned to camp.

Date of the inquest has not yet been set.

A DISTANT ENQUIRY

Mayor Hugh Waddell had a letter today from the Mayor of Birmingham, Mich., asking for diagram, pictures and other information about Peterborough's down town parking lot.

TURTLE REGULATIONS

An Ohio visitor was inquiring recently as to the regulations governing the transportation of snapping turtles across the border. He had a 13-pound prize all ready for the soup bowl. To his relief, he learned there were no restrictions.

NUMBER DOWN

Over the weekend, 236 tourists made inquiries at the Jaycee information booth on Charlotte St. This number is reported to be slightly down from the number a year ago. However, in the month that the booth has been open, and for two weeks of that time, only in the afternoon, the number of inquiries has exceeded 1,700. Next weekend is expected to be the heaviest of the year.

FIRE INSPECTOR ARRIVES

Inspector Harry Jordan of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office, Toronto, arrived in Peterborough today to help Fire Chief Ralph Leonard find out the cause of the mysterious explosion that Monday afternoon ripped open a steel box car on a railway siding near the CPR freight shed. The box car contained 400 gallons of perchloric acid and gave off a large quantity of smoke and flames before city firemen extinguished the blaze. Inspector Jordan is a chemical engineer.

61-Bed Hospital Opens Aug. 30 At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Campbellford's Memorial Hospital, an institution which cost $380,000, will open officially on August 30, according to an announcement made this week by W. F. Scott, president of the board of directors.

The new institution will be the most modern in the province. Although the first sod was turned more than six years ago, the board has kept up with new developments in the hospital equipment field, and when the doors officially open to receive the first patient, the equipment in the building will be the most modern and up-to-date than can be obtained.

Superintendent of the new hospital is Mrs. M. Daniels, RN, who hails from Wellington. She was the former superintendent of the Prince Edward County Hospital in Picton, and came to Campbellford Memorial well recommended.

The staff of the hospital has been engaged, and all members are well qualified to look after the 61 patients the institution will be capable of accommodating.

COST KEPT DOWN

Cost of the hospital has been kept at a minimum, largely through the efforts of the board, who adopted a pay-as-you-go policy from the start. The cost per bed of the new hospital will amount to about $6,340, which is reported to be considerably lower than for most other hospitals built in the province during the past few years. The 61 beds will accommodate 38 maternity and active treatment cases and 23 chronic patients.

With the exception of an elevator and a dumb-waiter, all equipment will be operating when the building opens on August 30.

The Campbellford Branch of the Canadian Legion will place a bronze plaque in the lobby of the hospital, containing the names of all who paid the supreme sacrifice from this area.

The hospital will serve an area of about 15 miles around Campbell[illegible] having a pop[illegible] about

Woman Burned

A Lockport, N. Y. woman is undergoing treatment at Civic Hospital today for burns suffered Monday afternoon when the burning oil stove she was carrying exploded at her cottage on Chandos Lake near Apsley.

Mrs. Gerald Wylie, 39, suffered burns to her face, legs and arms in the accident. According to Dr. Hugh Gastle of Lakefield who treated her, her condition is satisfactory.

The fire started in the coal oil stove at the family's cottage Mrs. Wylie evidently carried the stove outside to prevent the flames from spreading when it exploded throwing burning coal oil over her.

Taken to Dr. Gastle for treatment, she was later brought to Civic Hospital in Peterborough.

E. McWilliam Develops Variety Of Oats

Ernest McWilliam of Dewart Milling Co. was the producer of the new Simcoe variety of oats, Prof. George E. Jones of the field husbandry department of OAC told the 265 Durham and Peterborough farmers who made a twilight tour of the grain fields and tests plots on Robert Armstrong's farm in Cavan Monday evening.

"We think we have in Simcoe something better than Beaver," Prof. Jones commented in his incidental remark that "Ernie McWilliam made the cross from which we got Simcoe."

Mr. McWilliam was present in the large company of farmers who were standing in a stubbled swath along the edge of the farm's top exhibit, a field of Dawbul wheat.

The personal reference was so matter-of-fact that it seemed ordinarily inclusive in the brief story of Simcoe.

OUTYIELDS BEAVER

"It is a good deal like Beaver, in some respects," Prof. Jones said, "but it is firmer and in our tests it has outyielded Beaver. In our opinion any variety that outyields Beaver, outyields everything."

Of the elite registered seed, Mr. Armstrong got two bushels from the 1952 crop, and Mr. McWilliam got two.

All the available seed is registered, and Simcoe will not be in quantity for perhaps another two years.

As a student in field husbandry at Ontario Agricultural College, Mr. McWilliam engaged in a great deal of hybridizing. Simcoe was born of a crossing of Erban and Ajax, and has already received official attention in the extent of receiving a name, replacing the tentative number of untested new varieties.

In addition to the field of Simcoe oats at Robert Armstrong's place, there were also Clinton, Abegweit, Beaver, and so on, and in the test plots of oats there was a numbered variety, a half-brother of Simcoe, also begotten by Mr. McWilliam. However, it has not yet assumed sufficient cereal importance and promise to be regarded as meriting a name.

ATTRACTS 270

That was the main personal note in the fine meeting in the cool of the Cavan evening. Prof. Jones was introduced as a nephew of the former premier of Prince Edward Island. The meeting was suggested by Frank Paterson and Ed Summers, one afternoon last week, and even on that short notice it attracted an attendance of about 270 farmers from across country, Belmont Township in Peterborough to Darlington in West Durham. Ken Fallis of the weeds and seeds branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture emphasized the advantage in getting rid of barberry and buckthorn, with a baleful reference to weeds. Mr. Paterson showed several dozen pictures in color of the Peterborough crop improvement outing early in June to Ohio.

Mr. Armstrong was roundly congratulated on the health and vigorous condition of his wheat, oats and barley. There was also rhizoma alfalfa for the visitors to see. He was tha[illegible]ed for his hospitality.

benches were temporarily [illegible] ed of planks and baled hay. [illegible] elders noticed were Thomas [illegible] Indoo of Cavan and G. A. Gillespie, friends for half a century.

Lightning Kills Constable

Seeking Shelter Police Officer Struck In Field

TRENTON (ENS)— Constable Allan Ormshaw of Trenton police force was killed outright by lightning during a fierce electrical storm late Monday afternoon.

Ormshaw, off duty at the time, had been working on a house he was building on the road to Wooller, three miles north of Trenton. When the storm broke, he stopped work to seek shelter at the home of his father-in-law, who lives nearby.

He was crossing a field, and was only 50 yards from his father-in-law's home, when the bolt of lightning struck him, severely burning his head and ripping the clothes from his body.

WENT SEARCHING

Worried when he did not turn up, relatives went out to look for him and found him dead. It is believed he died instantly. Police were called and brought an inhalator which they used without success.

Ormshaw, 23, had been a member of the force for two years. He was married, with a son just over a year old.

The Ormshaws expected to move into their new home sometime next month. They have been living in Trenton.

Report Girl 2½ Polio Victim First In 1953

A two-and-a-half-year-old girl is reported to be the first polio victim of the season by MOH Dr. J. P. Wells. She is in the isolation wing of the Civic Hopital.

In 1952, there were 12 cases of the disease in the city and district. One of the victims was a tourist visiting from Ohio. In 1951, a peak year, there were 63 cases registered at the Civic Hospital and two more of the district treated elsewhere. Many of the Civic Hospital patients were sent on to Toronto for further treatment.

Dr. J. P. Wells, Medical Officer of Health, has this advice to give concerning the disease:

"With the occurrence of our first case of poliomyelitis this season, the Department of Health urges that everyone do his part in taking measures which may have a bearing on the control and the further spread of the disease.

"Insofar as the average citizen is concerned, this means avoiding or preventing the creation of conditions which make for bad fly control, since flies are the only insect which we are at all certain are carriers and spreaders of disease. The most obvious measures include proper packaging and covering of garbage, refraining from indiscriminate dumping of household wastes, screening of homes, removal or covering of accumulations in which flies breed, and all general sanitary precautions."

The Medical Officer of Health feels that any citizen who, through indifference or laziness, neglects to protect the children of this city from poliomyelitis by simple measures such as these, apart from being a poor citizen, lacks ordinary humane principles.

"Insofar as the parents are concerned, the congregation of children in large numbers, as well as permitting them to become tired by over-exertion, should be avoided, and plenty of rest should be encouraged.

"When parents note that a child is not well, the child should be segregated, kept quiet, watched for signs of fever, and the family doctor called."

BACK TO WORK—That's not what the document says but that's what it means. The Examiner photographer here snapped company and union officials of the Quaker Oats Co. looking over the final draft of their new contract that ends the 13-week-old strike and gives the go-ahead for 435 Peterborough production workers to return to their jobs. The hard feelings of the strike behind them this smiling trio lean over General Manager James G. Wharry's shoulder Monday afternoon as he inks the contract: left to right—Fred G. Ash, general operating manager; William Triggs, president of Local 293, UPWA; and William Beggs, UPWA representative and, incidentally, a Peterborough alderman.

Some Workers Punch In To End 3-Month Strike At Quaker Oats Plant

Most Departments Expected Open Thursday Will Call Employees Back Gradually To Resume Production

A handful of employees holding key jobs punched into the Quaker Oats Co. plant at midnight, officially ending the three-months-long strike that tied up production in Peterborough and Saskatoon. The contract between the company and Local 293, United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL), was signed late Monday afternoon.

It was the back-to-work signal for 435 production workers at the Peterborough plant. Similarly, in Saskatoon, the contract with Local 418, UPWA, was signed Monday and that plant is reported in operation today. Another 115 production workers were on strike there.

Ending the strike, however, is not the same thing as getting back to work. The plant has to be cleaned up and got ready for production after the long layoff.

First employees back are watchmen, powerhouse workers, and workers for the shipping room floor. Others are being called back on a department-wide seniority basis.

OPEN THURSDAY

Most of the departments should be opened up by Thursday, James G. Wharry, company general manager, said today. He would not estimate when full production and employment would be restored.

"We are getting back into operation as soon as we can," Mr. Wharry said. "Employees are being called back gradually—and as business permits."

Lewis H. Ingram, vice president in charge of personnel, is expected back in Peterborough later today. It was Mr. Ingram who flew by plane to Saskatoon last Tuesday night to negotiate a settlement with the Saskatoon workers.

The membership of Local 418, UPWA, accepted the company offer at a membership meeting Sunday. Word was then flashed back to Peterborough and it was just a matter of signing the contract from then on. Local 293 in Peterborough had previously accepted a company offer but refused to go back to work until a settlement was reached with their fellow unionists in Saskatoon.

Property Owners Oppose Mains

LINDSAY (ENS) —At a special meeting of council Monday afternoon Mayor Charles Lamb strongly voiced his opinion that when seven out of ten property owners signed a petition asking for a water main, the majority should rule. "These people want water and are entitled to it," said Mayor Lamb. "Just because there are three owners of large tracts of land along the street, including the Canadian National Railways, who do not want the main is no reason why they should block the improvement wanted by the majority." Residents along Angeline St., the southwestern boundary, petitioned for some 1805 feet of water main. The cost to the property owners will be $44 a foot. The entire project will cost $18,478.75 spread over twenty years. The CNR objected to the installation and two large property owners.

Deputy Reeve A. E. Hick: "These property owners should sell some lots for building purposes and perhaps the CNR will be inspired to do something with their vacant lots."

HUCKLEBERRY PIE

In the culinary cycle which keeps pace with the solar influence huckleberry pie has returned to domestic tables and to the fare bills of the public eating places. With one of those miniature dabs of ice cream, still larger than a coffee spoon, a gusset of h.b.q. contributes a seasonal flavor to midsummer meals.

Has Flock 13,000 Barred Rocks

Stabilized Egg Market Desire Of Poultry Producer

The average housewife might be dubious about this, but Fred McIndoo of Cavan township told the Examiner today that he sincerely wishes the egg market would halt its recent advances. "We don't like these price peaks," Mr. McIndoo said, speaking as owner of a flock of 13,000 Barred Rocks. "What we like to see is a steady, stabilized market at levels that appeal to the consumer. At high peaks, the housewife might begin reducing her purchases of eggs, and it is the usual experience that it is not easy to get her back to regular consumption. That is the producer's view."

Mr. McIndoo averages around 5,000 laying hens. His speciality is in producing eggs for hatching. About 60 to 70% of his eggs flow into that branch of the poultry industry. They are selects, destined eventually for the broiler trade. The rest move into the consumer's market.

Two-thirds of the Plymouth Rock eggs from the McIndoo flock are sold through the Peel Poultry Farm at Port Perry with extensive outlets in both Ontario and Quebec. The attitude he expressed about peak prices is not merely his own. It was expressed by the prominent poultry and hatchery men at the June conference at O.A.C.

GOAL OF ALL FARMERS

Stabilized markets are the hope and the goal of all farmers. If they could be certain of demand, especially avoiding surpluses and shortages with their upsetting consequences, they would be far happier than in the experience of recurring peaks.

Mr. McIndoo said that the number of poultry farms in On[illegible] people became victims, about 50 of whom died.

Building Trades Committee Being Planned

Formation of an AFL-TLC building trades committee is being planned for Peterborough. It is estimated that there are 500 workers here in these building trades, half of them unorganized.

In the next couple of weeks a mass meeting of these workers will be held with top trade unionists in the Toronto Building Trades Council in attendance. Among those expected are William Jenoves, president of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council and the Building Trades Council; William Hardy, business manager of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Cy Burr, IBEW district representative; Jack Kellythorne, Trades and Labor Congress representative; and Henry Nokes, of the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council.

At present the organized trades in Peterborough are carpenters, bricklayers, electricians and plumbers. Laborers, painters, plasterers, and concrete men are being urged to join by members of the steering committee of the embryo building trades council.

"The wages in the construction trades in Peterborough are very inadequate and it is felt that this industry has been neglected in recent years," Cameron Wasson, secretary of the steering com[illegible] said today. "T[illegible] trends" it may be for the benefit of the industry as a whole. The borderline fellows are not a continuing asset in the poultry business. Some of them are in-and-outers. Because they are not established or aiming at establishment, they are inclined to be careless. But, the poultry farmer with a substantial investment is concerned about quality and the problems of maintaining it, because it is his business."

It used to be, and not so long ago, as most people probably know, that the hatchery department of the poultry industry was a bustling period from January to June.

Today, it is geared to year round production and demand, and is becoming more definitely set in that improved pattern.

It is likely that Mr. McIndoo has no welcome mat out for visitors at his poultry quarters. That is a precaution which the owners of large flocks have learned to take against infection which people may carry even on their boots. Costly lessons have taught large scale poultry producers not to take any chances against a common practice nowadays of quarantining the public as potential carriers of germs that can cause a great deal of trouble and loss. . .

Mr. Wasson said the local builders' exchange had refused to recognize the carpenters' local and wouldn't sign an agreement with the bricklayers' local. He also said that the electrical contractors were refusing to honor signed agreements.

Car Rams Pole Total Wreck Driver Bruised

Hurtling across the intersection of Aylmer and Westcott, a car smashed into a hydro pole, crushed a fire alarm box, broke the pole and flipped onto its side early this morning. The driver, David C. Grant of 634 Hawley, stepped out with bruises.

Grant was driving south on Aylmer and neared the Westcott intersection when his vehicle hit the northwest curb.

It bounced diagonally across the intersection more than 250 feet before striking the pole. It was totally wrecked. City Police Constable Sherman Keliele investigated.

In a hit and run accident Monday morning, a car backed out of a Homewood Ave. driveway, into the rear fender of a parked car owned by Dail Leonard, 29, of 506 McDonnel. It sped away after damaging the Leonard car to the extent of $25.

Pulling west out of a laneway on King St. Monday, a vehicle driven by Stanley Cowan, 21, of 502 Bonaccord collided with an eastbound car's rear fender just after the second car crossed the Jackson Park Creek bridge.

Cowan's car was damaged to the extent of $40 while the second vehicle, driven by Spencer Rousell, 37, of 86 Locust Rd., Burlington, was damaged to the extent of $45.

PC Wilfred Perry investigated.

Farmers Paid More For Services In April

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian farmers paid more for commodities and services in April than they did in January, the bureau of statistics said today.

The all-Canada retail price index of commodities and services used by farmers rose from 220.1 in January to 226.1 in April, an increase of 2.7 per cent. The bureau said the increase was due mainly to usual seasonal advances in farm wage rates, notably in Western Canada. The April index, however, was 2.1 per cent below the April, 1952, figure of 230.9.

The bureau said farm family living costs rose 0.4 per cent between January and April, but were 3.0 per cent below the April, 1952, level.

It's A Naughty Word Now

Don't Say It's Just The Humidity

By JIM ENGLISH

Weather, the best topic of conversation in the world fit for mixed company, has got the old gentleman down in the dumps. Literally.

That's just where he was sitting when I drove that way the other day. The moths have lacerated his christie and his blue serge vest has more spots than a spaghetti joint tablecloth, but his attitude is sill reasonably cheerful.

"Hi, buster," he said. "Hot, ain't it?"

"It's not the heat," I answered, "it's the . . ."

At that point he threw a banana peel and advised me to get to a warmer spot than the city dump. We shook hands however, and he told me the tale of his disappearance from society.

CONVERSATION OPENER

"I been talking too much. Nothin' I'd rather do, but the best way you can edge into a conversation is with some foolishness about the weather. Now I ain't much for comin' into town in the winter. I likes the summer best.

"But soon as I get talkin' to a feller about the weather, I tells him how hot it is. He tells me right off it ain't the heat, it's the humidity."

He drew fiercely on the smouldering stump of cigar in his teeth.

"I got told so blasted much about humidity that I told myself that was the end. No more summer visits to the city. Got so mad at the last feller who talked about humidity that I like to popped him one with my bottle.

"You see how hard I was drove.

"So, I come home here—nice, cosy little spot it is, too—and I thought about it. That took pretty near all winter. And I come up with an answer.

SCIENTIFIC EXPLANATION

"This here's what I thought up. Now you take this humidity business. That's the water in the air. Now when there's a lot of water in the air, the humidity is high. When there ain't, it's low.

"This here's the point. When the temperature is high and the humidity is high, you can be awful hot and awful uncomfortable. But when the temperature is high and the humidity is low, you can still be hot and to heck with the humidity.

"If humidity is back of it all, a feller ought to be hot on a cold day when the humidity is high. Here, have a snort."

I thanked him and said no. He went on.

"So, tonight, I'm goin' into town with my fish killer. First feller comes up to me and says it ain't the heat, it's the humidity, I'm goin' to wallop him one right between the ears. I may not last long, but I'm goin' to be happy."

I wished him luck.

Chisholm Leaves WHO Post

By ADELAIDE KERR

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The doctor with the biggest practice in the world, two billion people, is going to retire.

Tuesday Dr. Brock Chisholm steps down as director-general of the UN's world health organization, ending a five-year stint of guiding man's first round-the-world battle against disease. It's a job that brought him the unofficial title: "First doctor to the human race."

Dr. Chisholm's work has affected millions, many of whom never heard his name. In fact, he would be even more of an unknown were it not for a couple of speeches he once made. He had the temerity in one to take a poke at Santa Claus. In the other, he swung on the whole human race, declaring that a cause of wars is society's morality, its concept of right and wrong.

Both were delivered while he was Canadian deputy minister of health and brought a flood of headlines and protests. Then he stepped in as the first director of the world health organization. His accomplishments there have been deeds, more than words.

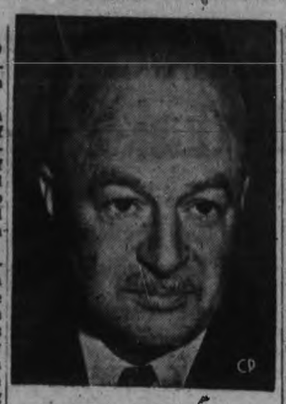
HEADED 1,000 WORKERS

From headquarters in the old home of the League of Nations in Geneva, Dr. Chisholm headed more than 1,000 workers operating under a program laid down by the world health assembly, representing 73 member nations. Experts travelled through member countries, consulted with government officials and trained local workers.

They reduced malaria in many regions with a DDT spray attack on mosquitos. They battled tuberculosis by testing and vaccinating millions of children. They fought venereal disease with penicillin.

They helped establish a network of laboratories in 44 countries to combat influenza. They girdled the earth with a daily shortwave warning service, broadcasting epidemic alerts to ships, planes and quarantine officers. They launched a sanitation program cleaning up crowded Middle East refugee camps.

They established public health services, and a program of fellowships so doctors and health workers could study in more advanced countries.



Says the mild, one-time Canadian country doctor who directed all this:

HELPED GOVERNMENT

"The outstanding accomplishment of WHO to date has been .... (this): Many governments now are developing sound, well-integrated plans for the growth of their health services."

His role brought Dr. Chisholm international fame and, last year, one of the annual Lasker awards of the American Public Health Association.

But he still is remembered by thousands of Canadians for his Santa Claus speech. Dr. Chisholm isn't against Santa Claus. For years he hung up his stocking each Christmas, along with his two children, a son and a daughter, now teen-aged.

BETTER KNOWN for his acid remarks on belief in Santa Claus and on human morality than for his work with the UN, Dr. Brock Chisholm retires today as director general of WHO, the UN's health organization.

CHILD BELIEF

What he did was chide parents for teaching children to believe in the old gent. His argument was that Santa Claus should be taught as a myth, that children should be reared to regard him as part of a pleasant holiday game, lest they confuse fantasy and reality. It made headlines round the world.

So did his speech on morality. He called the necessity to fight wars a "psychiatric symptom as is .... the anti-social behavior of a criminal." He said the whole human race had failed to reach emotional maturity. He described a force which "prevents the rational use of intelligence" and said:

"The only sychological force capable of producing these perversions is morality, the concept of right and wrong. ...

"We have swallowed all manner of poisonous certainties fed us by our parents, our Sunday and day school teachers, our politicians... our newspapers and other with a vested interest in controlling us. 'Thou shalt become as gods, knowing good and evil,' good and evil with which to keep children under control, with which to prevent free thinking. ...."

He voiced conclusions formed during years as a psychiatrist in Toronto.

SELF-CONTROL FAMOUS

The fire with which he attacked the subject of human behavior is in sharp contrast with the quiet way he handled the global problems of WHO. In the office, his self-control is famous. He works with such efficiency that within 15 minutes after he reaches his desk at 8:30, his in-basket is empty, keeps his desk clear with the same brisk delegation of authority through the day.

For fun he gathers friends at his house for a sing fest, pumping away himself at a portable organ and leading rousing hymns.

Recognition of human dignity is one of his basic creeds. In the tropics, he and other officials were once taken out in a fleet of cars to see some tribesmen. Rain had fallen steadily for several days and the natives, lined up along the road, were spattered with mud from the passing cars.

"This can't be very comfortable for the people out there," remarked Dr. Chisholm to a minister of the government.

"Oh, they don't mind," said the minister.

"Perhaps not," said Dr. Chisholm. "But I do."

BORN IN OAKVILLE

Brock Chisholm was born 57 years ago in Oakville, Ont., the son of a coal dealer. From the time he was a youngster, he dreamed of being a doctor and practised on his sisters' dolls, dosing them with syrup and water.

He won his M.D. at the University of Toronto in 1924, married Grace Ryrie of Toronto and went back to his home town to practise.

A few years convinced him many of his patients were suffering emotional troubles. He went to England for further study and later practised psychological medicine in Toronto.

During the Second World War he served Canada as director-general of medical services and, later, as deputy minister of health. He became WHO's director - general July 21, 1948.

Dr. Chisholm starts his retirement with a leisurely boat trip to British Columbia, where he expects to build a house. After that he plans a long period of rest and fishing which he may interrupt occasionally later with some lecturing and writing.

He will be succeeded by Dr. Marcolino Candau of Brazil.

REDISTRIBUTE COMMONS SEATS—This map shows the redistribution of seats, based on the 1951 census, which boosts membership in the Commons to 265 from 262. The redistribution gives 84 more seats than the first house after Confederation, which had 181 members. Representation is based on population. The Yukon and Northwest Territories are given special treatment. Previously the vast northern area was represented by one member. In the new Commons the Yukon will have one member and the Territories one member.

Fishing Trip May Cost $1,000 A Day

ST. THOMAS (CP)—The electrical workers who "went fishing"—with fishing poles—for a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase Monday were still fishing while management had taken the first step to upset the boat.

Papers are reported filed with the department of labor by the contractors calling the "fishing" an illegal strike. If this position is upheld by the department he "fishing trip" expenses are liable to run a little high—a possible $1,000 fine a day.

Union officials reported that 18 electricians went fishing because Wilson and Somerville Limited refused to sign a contract they agreed to sign last week.

The union is asking for no increase this year, but a 10-cent increase after Jan. 1, 1954. The present wage rate, established last year by the contractors, is $1.65 an hour.

Trade School Needed For Delinquents

What the city of Peterborough lacks is a trade school for delinquent youths and the ideal spot for it would be the old Isolation Hospital of Hilliard St., vacant for the past three years, said Lt./Col. Wallace Bunton of the Salvation Army and a member of the Ontario Parole Board Monday to members of the Rotary Club.

Lt./Col. Bunton went on to describe his 43 years of service with the Salvation Army, dealing with prison life in the various jails he had worked in, here in Canada and the United States.

He explained that you can't reform a criminal in the penitentiary, or the penitentiary has never reformed anyone. The only ones that have been reformed are the ones that have left penal institutions with the desire to lead an honest life.

"There is nothing wrong with the Federal, Provincial or city jails and the age of beatings and the ball and chain treatment is over."

FOOD GOOD

All the institutions serve excellent food and the work is not hard and the men are given the opportunity to learn a trade or to continue on with their education if they please.

Lt./Col. Wallace attributes the cause of youths turning out to be criminals to parental neglect.

"For a home it a city within a city, a country within a country and a world within a home". If the parents fail to build character in the home, you cannot build it in prisons, or on the streets or in pool rooms.

"The greatest building in the world is the building of character" and if parents fail to build character, we have on our hands a weakling."

Cat Causes Blackout

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—A stray cat Sunday night blacked out this city of 30,000 people for half an hour. It chased a mouse on the roof of the power station and stepped on a high-tension wire. The resulting short circuit blast doused the lights and killed the cat.

Pilots, Planes Preparing For 12,000-Mile Race

By J. C. GRAHAM

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. (CP)—Men and machines in six countries are tuning up for the longest air race ever held.

The race begins in England and ends at the opposite side of the world in New Zealand, a distance of about 12,000 miles. It is due to start Oct. 8, but already preparations for the event are intense.

There are two sections in the contest. The speed section, an outright test of speed, has 12 entries. The transport section, to be decided on handicaps calculated by a complicated formula, may prove even more significant in giving new ideas of long-distance passenger flying schedules.

Great Britain, the United States, Holland, Denmark, Australia and New Zealand have entries, but favorites in the speed section are official entries of the Royal Air Force and the Royal Danish Air Force.

TOP CONTENDER

Barring mishaps, Britain's still-secret Vickers Valient four - jet bomber will be the leading contender. Performance of the big swept-wing plane has not been revealed, but it is believed to have a speed well in excess of 600 m.p.h.

It will be up against five Canberra two-jet bombers—three entered by the RAF and two by the Australian Air Force.

The British entries are the photo-reconnaissance version of the Canberra, stripped of armor and carrying less weight. One of the Australian entries is the first Australian-made Canberra.

The only modern United States military plane to try out with these six British jets is a Republic F84G Thunderjet entered by the Danish Air Force. It has not the range of the six bombers, but it can refuel in the air.

The other five entries in the speed section come from private competitors flying propeller-type planes, but most of them have introduced modifications of their own to give their planes greater range and speed. One pilot plans to freeze his plane's gasoline with dry ice to increase carrying capacity. Another plane has small ram-jet engines fitted to the wing-tips to increase acceleration.

TRANSPORT SECTION

British European Airways will be competing in the transport section with its new Vickers Viscount 701 turbo-prop airliner.

One of the most publicized entries is an almost all-woman crew entered by Mrs. Gertrude McKenzie of Melbourne, Australia. The only man aboard the Douglas DC4 will be Capt. J. R. Kemp, a senior Australian National Airways pilot.

Mrs. McKenzie will act as first officer, and two co-pilots will be Mrs. Evelyn Koren of Australia and Miss Betty Haas of New York. Flight engineer will be Miss Constance Jordan, Australia's woman aeronautical engineer. Korea's sister, Miss Gunnesen, a painter and farmer, has signed on as cook and "general roustabout."

New Zealand is pinning its hopes on a Hastings four-engine military transport entered by the Royal New Zealand Air Force. Two full crews are in rigorous training under the watchful eye of a doctor who will fly as a crew member, and the plane has already made a return flight over the course to check every detail of the route, refuelling technique and equipment.

ROUTE OPTIONAL

No fixed check points exist for the race, so that competitors will be free to choose any route they wish on the easterly course round the world to New Zealand. The only requirement is that log books be stamped by authorities at one refuelling point on the easterly route.

Many competitors have not announced their route. Secret examination is going on of the weather, altitude and wind currents to choose a channel most suited to the time of year and type of machine.

The planes will leave London at two-minute intervals. The first is expected here early Oct. 10, New Zealand time.

Prize money totals $90,000, divided into four prizes in each section.

U.S. Government Goes To Court To Void Contract

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government went to court Monday in an effort to void a contract for Aluminum Company of America to buy 1,200,000,000 pounds of aluminum from Aluminium Ltd. of Canada during a six-year period.

The contract "perpetuates" the complete dissociation" of Aluminium and Alcoa, the justice department said in a suit filed in U.S. District Court in New York.

This dissociation, the petition contended, was a prime objective of a 1951 court judgment against Alcoa and owners of controlling shares of Alcoa and Aluminium directing them to sell their shares in the Canadian firm.

The petition asked the court to terminate the judgment. It provided for three trustees to exercise voting rights while the shares were being sold during a 10-year period.

The U.S. government petition said:

"Unless the contract between Alcoa and Limited is promptly cancelled, it will impair further the competitive conditions now prevailing in the domestic industry which do not conform with the anti-trust laws, and prevent the creation of requisite conditions.

"Unless the contract is cancelled it will deter, delay and prevent the efforts of the government to promote competitive conditions in harmony with the law."

In New York, a spokesman for Alcoa said the company could not give a formal reply to the government's suit until its lawyers have had a chance to study the documents.

In Montreal, officials of Aluminum Company of Canada, Aluminium subsidiary, had no immediate comment on the U.S. action.

Railways Ready

MONTREAL (CP)—J. A. Argo, assistant vice-president in charge of traffic for Canadian National Railways, said Monday the railways are "ready to handle" additional freight deferred to them as a result of a trucking strike in western Ontario.

"Pools of equipment have been assembled at strategic points," he said.

Bomb Boy's Brain To Destroy Tumor

DETROIT (AP)—Canadian doctors bombed a young boy's brain with the radioactive isotope cobalt 60 32 times in the last six months to destroy a tumor that threatened his life.

His father said Monday the boy will start school in the fall.

Doctors from Victoria Hospital in London, Ont., told Theodore Kildal of suburban Berkley that his six-year-old son, Danny, is "perfectly normal" after the bombings.

They said that the bombings had completely destroyed the part of the tumor that surgery had failed to reach. They put off his next check-up until October and said that the boy is ready for school.

Plan International Tribunal To Deal With Damages

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Proposed establishment of an unprecedented international tribunal to rule on millions of dollars in high-water damage claims against Canada was disclosed here Monday.

Tentative plans for the tribunal were agreed upon at an Ottawa meeting June 10, and have been sent to the Canadian cabinet for approval.

The tribunal, proposed by the Lake Ontario Land Development and Beach Protection Association, would be made up of one Canadian judge from a province bordering Lake Ontario and one U.S. federal judge.

The two would hear claims that the Canadian-built Gut Dam, in the St. Lawrence river, caused record high lake water, which reached an all-time peak last year and resulted in millions of dollars of damage to shore-front properties.

NO MOVE MADE

Although Norman Atterby of Rochester Association president, said he was assured at the Ottawa meeting that the Canadians would act on the plan within 10 days, no move has been made on it.

Under the Association proposal:

Should the judges decide the dam caused the high water the Canadian government would put a sum into escron which would meet U.S. claims.

Should they decide the dam did not cause the high water, the Association would agree to drop all further claims filed under a 1902 U.S.-Canadian treaty which—according to the Association—permits American property owners to sue Canada in U.S. courts for damage resulting from the dam.

The proposal counters one offered by Canada, which calls for a body composed of a Canadian, an American and a representative of a foreign power.

Warplane Tested

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force announced the first successful flight of the B-57 night intruder bomber Monday. It is the American version of the British Canberra jet, modified by its American producers to serve as a night-attack bomber.

Trudeau Reunion Held At Havelock

HAVELOCK (ENS)—Descendants of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Trudeau of Tweed and formerly of Havelock held a family reunion Sunday at the adjoining homes of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Voyer and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Trudeau.

The event was arranged in honor of the Rev. F. E. Trudeau of Calgary, Alberta who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Trudeau and who is spending a holiday among boy-hood scenes. Father Trudeau was born in Havelock. His parents came here from Tweed and returned to that town about 40 years ago.

Father Troudeau celebrated early mass Sunday morning in Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church for relatives and friends. A dinner party was held on the lawn of the Trudeau home. A feature of the event was the presentation to Father Trudeau of a set of military brushes and comb. The presentation was made by his brother, Charles Trudeau of Peterborough on behalf of the family.

Those from out of town who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Trudeau and children, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trudeau, Mr. and Mrs. William Condon and children, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Voyer and children of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Hara and children, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lennox of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Meraw of Tweed.

Three Occupants Hurt As Car Rams Pole

CAVAN (ENS)—Two Toronto men and a 15-year-old boy were taken to Civic Hospital early Sunday morning when the car they were riding in ran into a telephone pole on Highway 7A at the west end of Cavan.

They were, William Gailer, 42, of 485 Glenholme Ave., Toronto; his son Allan, and Kenneth Charles, 46, same adress, Gailer's brother-in-law. Gailer was the driver of the vehicle.

The trio was going fishing at Buckhorn when the accident occurred. The small English model car was demolished.

Dr. Longfield, of Bethany, took them to Civic Hospital where they were treated for lacerations and bruises.

Pickets Allowed To State Their Case

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice Rene Danis ruled Monday that pickets at the James R. Kearney Co. plant in Guelph will be allowed to state their case to persons passing through their lines because "there may be some who don't read or write."

Mr. Justice Danis allowed a modified form of injunction restraining the two-man picket line from intimidating or using threatening words.

The Guelph plant is not strike-bound, but pickets are carrying signs telling of a teamsters' strike at the Kearney plant in St. Louis. The Guelph plant is a fully-owned subsidiary.

Abandon Project

LONDON (CP) — Britain announced Monday the abandonment of the Brabazon aircraft project as uneconomical. About £12,000,000 had been spent on construction of the Brabazon I—126-ton airliner built to carry 72 passengers 3,000 miles. Work on the Brabazon II was halted in 1952. Supply Minister Duncan Sandys told the Commons the project was outdated by development of the jet comet and turbo-prop planes.

DOROTHY DIX:

Wife Sees Old Friends Mate Jealous

DEAD MISS DIX: During the seventeen years of our married life; we have had no serious trouble—just the usual tiffs and disagreements of domesticity. We loved each other, and were proud of each other. My wife's only criticism of me was that I was undemonstrative. Last summer we became acquainted with newcomers to our town, and as a foursome we went out quite a bit. My mother-in-law thoroughly disapproved of this couple, but I saw nothing wrong with them, my wife always stoutly defended them against her mother. They left town towards the end of the year, and shortly after I received a letter from the wife enclosing some very endearing letters from my wife to the man. My efforts to get an explanation from my wife have been very discouraging. She is evasive, claims she has forgotten why she wrote certain things, and insists she did nothing actually wrong. Frankly, I don't believe her! My faith is shaken and I can't dismiss the episode from my mind. What can I do?

GENE H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Whenever I suggest that a wife forgive an erring husband for one, or two mistakes, I am taken sharply to task by well-meaning readers who say that my attitude encourages philandering. So, my appeal that a misled wife be forgiven will doubtless bring even stronger protests, since it is generally—and justly —considered that a woman's purity in thought, word and deed should be more unassailable than a man's. Why this is so would involve a discourse of much more space than I have at my disposal here.

A FEW SILLY LETTERS

Your wife certainly acted foolishly in her disloyalty, but can you honestly say that in seventeen years your thoughts, at least, have never strayed to another woman? Your mate certainly couldn't have been overtly indiscreet, or you would have noticed it. The fact that a few silly letters form the entire basis for your present disturbed emotions indicates, I should think, that nothing occurred beyond a sentimental interlude. You can be quite sure that the wife who was so anxious to pass the incriminating correspondence to you would have been quick on the trigger to report more serious offenses. Don't throw away seventeen happy years for one unwise fall from grace.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a boy of 22, graduated from college and now ready for military service. I'm in love with a girl of 17 who says she loves me, too. We get along fine, except that she likes very much to dance, and I don't. She knows I'll do anything for her, so she insists on going to what I call cheap dance halls. I get so embarrased in these places I can't dance well.

HANK

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since you are so much older than the girl, it's up to you to raise her standards, not let her pull you down to hers. If you feel she will never change to suit you, it would be much better for you to break off before you go into service. With her present attitude toward a good time, you wouldn't have much faith in her while you were away. By setting a good example and pointing out the weaknesses in her kind of fun, you are quite likely to win her over to your point of view.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been going with a very nice boy, whom I like as a friend but not a sweetheart. He has been telling people we're going steady. When they ask me about it, what should I say?

G. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since the boy hasn't asked you to go steady, you can only deny it. Perhaps he thinks that by making other people believe you are sweethearts, you'll eventually succumb to his charms.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Cool, Sweet Dishes For Summer

What with fruit season crowding me and young people swarming over our house and me having extra assignments to write I'm not doing my duty by the girls who are calmly keeping house properly.

For it is ice cream weather and they want recipes for it. Their letters politely tell me so.

So—I have to curb my natural impulse to chat with you and produce instead. You asked for these:

RASPBERRY SHERBET

(2 Methods—Cream or Milk)

Mix together in a bowl and let stand for 2 hours ¾ cup crushed raspberries (or peach or apricot pulp) and ½ cup lemon juice and ¾ cup sugar. Soak 1 teaspoon gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water for 5 minutes. Then stir that into ¼ cup boiling water until dissolved. Stir this into the fruit mixture which has stood for 2 hours. (NOTE: If you are using milk stir 1 cup in now.) Pour into freezing tray and freeze until it forms a firm mush. Whip until stiff ½ cup whipping cream. Beat until light 1 egg yolk. Fold these last two ingredients in. (NOTE: If milk is used leave out the cream and egg yolk). Fold in 1 stiffly beaten egg white. When mixture is smooth return to tray and freeze firm. Now is that clear? If you use milk leave out the cream and the egg yolk.

COFFEE PARFAIT

Boil gently together for 3 minutes ½ cup sugar and ¼ cup double-strength coffee. Beat 2 egg yolks until very light and very slowly pour the coffee syrup into them while beating. Cook this over boiling water, stirring until thick. This takes about 15 minutes. Cool. When cold fold into it 1 cup whipping cream beaten until stiff and 2 egg whites beaten until stiff. Pour into freezing tray and freeze firm. This requires no stirring.

NOTE: Three-quarter cup boiling hot maple syrup may be used instead of the coffee syrup to make Maple Parfait, which is delicious.

CHOCOLATE MOUSSE

In top of double boiler heat together until blended 2 squares unsweetened chocolate with ½ cup sugar and ¾ cup hot water. Whip until stiff 2 cups whipping cream, then beat into it ½ cup icing sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt. Soak 1 teaspoon gelatin in 1 tablespoon water, then dissolve it by stirring over hot water. Stir it into the blended chocolate syrup. Cool. Fold in the sweetened whipped cream mixture. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until firm without stirring.

NESSELRODE PUDDING

This is a rich ice cream made with a French type vanilla ice cream base. It is used in some areas in the South as a traditional Christmas dinner dessert. Scald 1 cup rich milk. Stir together ½ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 3 beaten egg yolks. When milk is hot gradually stir it into the yolk-sugar mixture. Return to double boiler and cook over low heat, stirring until it coats back of spoon. Remove from heat at once, cool, and pour into freezing tray and freeze for ½ hour. Whip until barely stiff 1 cup heavy cream. Add 1 tablespoon vanilla. Turn the partially frozen mixture into a cold bowl, beat with electric or rotary beater until smooth. Fold in the whipped cream and ½ cup cut-up seeded raisins, ¼ cup chopped toasted blanched almonds. (NOTE: If desired 2 tablespoons cocoa may be added to the sugar mixture.) Pour into frezing tray and freeze until firm, stirring often during first hour of freezing to prevent fruit and nuts settling.

NOTE: If nuts and raisins and cocoa are left out of Nesselrode Pudding you will have French type vanilla ice cream which is rich and smooth.

NOTE NO. 2: If you make French type vanilla ice cream and would like a variation you can do it quite simply by adding 1 cup crushed peanut brittle when you will have peanut brittle cream.

UK Government Hopes Armistice Signed Soon

LONDON (AP)—Acting Prime Minister Richard Butler said today the British government has every reason to hope a Korean armistice agreement can be signed without further delay.

Butler, opening a two-day foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons, said a Korean armistice "would be a step forward in the cause of peace everywhere."

"Hostilities in Korea have for three years acted as an absolute bar to any improvement in the general situation in the Far East," he declared.

Police Push On Tickets To Get Bonus

ROME—Rome's urbane, courteous, sun-helmeted traffic policemen—who as human semaphores perform intricate gymnastics atop their black and white-striped podiums—began a strange form of "strike" for a double "weather bonus" the other day.

They handed out tickets, left, right and centre for the smallest infractions of the traffic code and made things so uncomfortable for Rome's traditionally carefree drivers and jaywalkers that it was predicted that the "weather bonus" would soon be raised from 60 lira (10 cents) to 120 lira a day.

The bonus is paid because in Rome rain or shine the traffic police stand duty between six and eight hours a day. They often are bi-lingual or tri-lingual.

On Jan. 6, the day of the Epiphany, their stands are by tradition piled high with bottles of wine, hams, sausages and other delicacies from grateful drivers.

Some time ago, the Rome City Council doubled the weather bonus and made it retroactive to January 1. The Ministry of the Interior overruled the city council recently and the police decided to enforce the law in what they described as "a superlative way."

A downtown policeman, who said he had been looking forward to a little "freedom from want" for himself, his wife and two children, stopped issuing summonses long enough to report that his monthly pay is 40,000 lira ($64) plus a small percentage on the amount of each ticket he hands out. Because of the higher cost of everything, including policemen's pencils and laundry for their white duck summer uniforms, traffic fines were increased recently to an average of 1,000 lira ($1.60) each.

Lift Controls Over Nickel

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has decided to lift some of its controls over nickel, the defence production department said today.

Buyers of primary nickel, electrical resistance alloys and nickel anodes from distributors will no longer be required to get departmental approval of their orders.

However, the department still will maintain control over shipments from nickel producers.

The relaxation, effective immediately, will eliminate a "lot of paper work," an official said. Previously all purchases, whether from distributors or producers, had to be approved by the defence production department.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the applicants who previously were required to submit their orders to Ottawa for authorization now are free to purchase their materials through normal trade channels, the department said.

Run Over By Truck Man Dies In Hospital

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—James St. Onge, 39, of Welland died in hospital here Monday, shortly after he was run over by a huge dump truck at the Ontario hydro-electric power commission's Sir Adam Beck No. 1 generating station, under construction at nearby Queenston.

St. Onge was walking through the gates on his way to report for work on the evening shift when struck. It is believed he did not notice the truck because of all the noise at the work site.

St. Onge moved to Ontario recently from Campbellton, N.B. He is survived by his widow and three children.

The funeral will be held at Campbellton.

Raise Mayor's Pay

LONDON (CP)—City aldermen, by narrow majority, Monday night turned thumbs down on a $300 salary increase for themselves, but gave Mayor Rush a wage boost of a like amount. Councillors refused to entertain a motion by Mayor Rush, following rejection of their own raise, that council reverse its action and take away his $300 increase.

Hidden Taxes Up

TORONTO—This year the average Canadian family will pay $30 more in hidden taxes than was paid in 1952, R. H. McGregor, MP for York East told electors at an East York rally Monday night. Under the present Liberal administration, the Progressive Conservative member charged the average Canadian working a five-day week, is using whole day's earnings to pay federal taxes.

Man Convicted Of Permitting Drunkenness

Pleading guilty to a charge of permitting drunkeness at his residence, 87 Leahy's Lane, Bazel Reid, 38, was fined $15 and $2.50 costs in magistrate's court today. In addition, his home was declared a public place for one year.

The charge was laid July 18.

Also pleading guilty to liquor charges was Michael Hynes, 49, of Toronto. He was convicted on two second offence drunk charges and sentenced to two months in jail. The two charges were laid May 1 and July 18 while the first offence was alleged to have taken place April 21.

ADMITS ASSAULT

Menzies McLaren, pleading guilty to a charge of assault, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs. The 29 year-old resident of 200 Antrim St. was defendant in a charge pressed by Joseph M. O'Brien.

Convicted on a charge of failing to carry a driver's licence or motor vehicle permit while driving on a highway was Weldon Finn, 25, of 494 Park St. Finn pleaded guilty to the charge laid June 25.

Two Russians Killed In Raid

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — The English language China News said today two Russians were killed in last week's big Nationalist guerrilla raid on Tungshan Island off the China coast.

A defence ministry spokesman said, "I am not denying the report, but so far we have not seen any mention of the Russians in our dispatches."

The China News said the Russians presumably were technicians connected with a radar station which is reported to have been operating on Tungshan. The island is just off the mainland coast opposite Formosa.

The newspaper gave no source for its information.

It also reported that 890 prisoners were captured by the guerrillas in their biggest raid since Nationalist troops evacuated the mainland in 1949.

Informed sources said about 300 guerrillas wounded in the raid have been flown here for treatment.

The attack began last Thursday and the raiders withdrew the following day. The raid involved the first use of paratroopers against a Red-held island.

John Christie's Cat Executed In Britain

LONDON (AP)—A cat belonging to John Christie, convicted strangler who was hanged last Wednesday, was executed today.

The reason given by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was that Christie's cat was too mean to live with anyone.

After the arrest of Christie, who said he killed seven women and was convicted for the murder of his wife, the cat roamed near Christie's dingy flat. The society finally caught it, but concluded today that the cat had turned savage and was beyond rehabilitation.

BACK FROM SUMMER CAMP—Peterborough's 28th Technical Squadron returned this week from a week of summer camp training at Barriefield, near Kingston. There the reserve unit soldiers went through all the phases of recovery, repair and restoring army vehicles, just as though they were on a battlefield. Major-General H. D. Graham (right, top) chats with Craftsman H. Hallick and Sgt.-Major V. G. Thraves (left and centre) about a recovery problem. Staff-Sgt. J. H. Hewitt and Craftsman G. F. Beria's Ouster Leaves Kremlin Policy Unchanged

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP) — Experienced Western observers in the Soviet capital view the resumption of diplomatic relations by Israel and the Soviet Union as additional evidence that the ouster of Lavrenty P. Beria has not changed the Kremlin's recent foreign policy.

These observers see the re-establishment of relations with Israel as another step by Premier Georgi Malenkov's government to reduce strains in the Soviet Union's relations with the non-Communist world.

The government announced Monday night that relations with Israel would be resumed and that the Soviets have accepted Israel's apology for the February bombing by unknown terrorists of the Soviet legation in Tel Aviv. Russia severed relations three days after the bombing.

Observers here noted that negotiations between the Soviet and Israel were completed July 15, five days after the announcement that Beria had been dismissed from his posts of deputy premier and minister of internal affairs.

EXPECTED POLICY CHANGE

The firing of Beria had aroused considerable speculation in the West that a change in Soviet foreign policy might follow.

Westerners here viewed the action toward Israel as evidence of a new Kremlin policy of trying to maintain full diplomatic relations with all countries. In this connection, they cited the recent agreement to again exchange ambassadors with Yugoslavia.

These observers also anticipated that the Soviet government would take a similar attitude toward overtures for re-establishment of diplomatic relations with Brazil and Chile, if such overtures are forthcoming.

The two South American countries severed relations with the Soviet in 1947.

Ottawa Gold Policy Slow Death For Mines

TIMMINS (CP)—Rodney Adamson, Progressive Conservative candidate for York West, Monday night said that if a strike of any duration is called by miners of major gold companies in the Porcupine camp there would not be a gold mine operating in Timmins until the price of gold was increased.

Speaking at a political rally, Mr. Adamson said the present federal cost-aid program, administered under the Emergency Gold Mines Assistance Act, is "a slow death" for gold mines. He said the profits of many mines have been so small that more than half of Canada's gold mines have closed since the end of the war.

The Progressive Conservative policy was to work for a return to a free market for gold and for convertability with sterling areas, he said.

Begin Work Again

For the present, he will be seen and heard from his farm near Leesburg, Va., with other members of his cast performing in New York.

Havelock Children Attend Bible School

HAVELOCK (ENS). — A very successful Vacation Bible School was held last week in North School under the auspices of the Fellowship Baptist Church, Havelock, and conducted by the Rev. L. V. Bigelow and Mrs. Bigelow.

The school was in session five days with a daily program of Bible stories, Bible sword drills, memory work, quizzes, handwork in plaster of paris plaques, painted by the children.

Parents' night was held on Friday with a good attendance. Mr. Bigelow acted as chairman and Mrs. Bigelow led the singing of the choruses. Held City Job 45 Years Under Assumed Name

NEW YORK — A 74-year-old laborer, dismissed from his city job because he had held it for 45 years under an assumed name, has petitioned the New York State Supreme Court to order his reinstatement.

Nicholas Lana, who had worked in the department of water supply, gas and electricity from 1908 until last March 16 as "Joseph Porgie," explained that the late Gov. Alfred E. Smith gave him his second name. He said that he had applied to Tammany Hall for aid in securing employment when he lost his job in a candy factory and that Gov. Smith, then a State Assemblyman, gave him a card with the name "Porgie" on it and told him to apply for a city job.

When Lana was accepted for the job, the supervisor put him o nthe payroll as "Porgie." Considering the employment temporary, Lana never made a point of the fact that he was working under an assumed name. He said that he liked the work and stayed on. He went by his real name when not on the job.

Last March, he was called before the Municipal Service Commission to which, he believes, a disgruntled relative had written an anonymous letter. He explained his assumed name but was dismissed for having made a false statement at the time of employment.

"I didn't want to commit any fraud," Mr. Lana said in his petition. "I have been an upright citizen throughout my entire life. I have rendered faithful and good service to the city. Neither the city nor any of its taxpayers have in any way been prejudiced by the fact that I was employed as Joseph Porgie."

Strike Conference

WALLACEBURG (CP)—Norman Rich, president of the local United Auto Workers and, Arthur Last, Sarnia, international representative and several other union officials left Monday night for Eau Claire, Wis., where they hope to have a talk with officials of the National Pressure Company. The pressure-cooker company has been closed since the latter part of March as a result of a strike.

AN EXCHANGE of sharp words between Eliza Doolittle Margaret Braidwood) and Henry Higgins (Robert Gill), while Colonel Pickering (David Powell) attempts to part them and Mrs. Pearce (Peggy McCombe) looks on in dismay. The play is Bernard Shaw's brilliant comedy, "Pygmalion," which the Summer Theatre presented to a delighted audience on Monday.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Summer Theatre Company Presents Shaw's Pygmalion

'Pygmalion' is a wonderful play. Shaw wrote it 41 years ago, but it remains as bright as the film version in which Leslie Howard played Professor Higgins, and as fresh as Monday night's staging of it at the Queen Mary auditorium, with director Robert Gill in the major role. It is so good that the passing of time, Shaw's penchant for preaching, and a summer stock company production cannot diminish Shaw the playwright. Shaw, Mr. Gill & Co. were all received with delighted enthusiasm by the packed house. Deservedly so. There should be big houses all week.

Robert Gill's Higgins was good and true. He looked and sounded as intelligent as Higgins was; he acted with the authority which a dominant role requires. But one felt that he was not quite as inhumanly brainy and eary (phonetically) as he might have been; not strong enough in his professional ranting and disregard for human relationships. In other words, too mild and decent, too sensitive.

DELICIOUS ELIZA

Eliza is the guinea-pig for Professor Higgins and Colonel Pickering, the other phrenetic phonologist, who was played with marked competence by David Powell. Mr. Powell's ability gives the stage assurance. The critical and human role of Eliza Doolittle was taken by Margaret Braidwood, making her first appearance with the Summer Theatre. Miss Braidwood handles her howls, her costumes and her accents deliciously, and she is a vision of grace and beauty at the beginning of Act II, taking the breath away as she comes on stage, on the return from Higgins' (and her) triumph in scoiety. Voice fascinating.

One is tempted to wonder if the Shavian nuances of Eliza's cultivated accent and gutter grammar and vocabularly in Scene 3 (first act) are fully appreciated-yet the audience roared with laughter. Shaw can be downright repetitive and blatant in his preaching (in this play, his moralizing on middle class morality) as if his audience were numbskulls, and at the next turn he can be so nimble of wit that his audience has to be sensitive and sharp-minded to catch it.

BORING PREACHING

The difference has a bearing on this production, for some of the preaching became dull, heavy and boring, causing the play to sag. This may be partly the fault of the chief preacher in the play-Mr. Doolittle, played by Harry Geldard. In scene 2, act 1, the Doolittle disquisition on the undeserving poor and middle class morality was pretty thick. The trouble may have been that Mr. Geldard was difficult to hear and tended to paraphrase Shaw, rather than to give the straight goods. But on the whole, and particularly in the second act, Doolittle emerged to delight the audience.

Brenda Davies, as Mrs. Higgins, mother of the professor, sensitively played the part of humane intermediary between flesh and brain (her son)—or man and god. It is an important part, for without a good Mrs. Higgins the play would be quite inhuman. The other womanly part, that of the housekeeper Mrs. Pearce, while more of a stock character, is also essential to keep Pygmalion on earth. Peggy McCombe gave the role a pleasant and humorous reality.

The central figures were ably supported by Barbara Cummings, Charlotte Schrager, Sylvia Cherney, Robert Barclay (light-headed, wide-eyed young Freddie), Ronald Bailey and Douglas Henderson.

The medley of accents in the first scene was gruelish.

The set for Mrs. Higgins' drawing-room was effectively handsome. —T.J.A.

Abbott Claims Speech Misunderstood

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott, in a statement Monday, said he apparently was misunderstood in a speech Sunday night at Cap St. Ignace, Que., in which he referred to the future of his parliamentary assistant, Jean Lesage.

He was reported as predicting Mr. Lesage would be the next minister of finance.

"It seems that my compliment to Mr. Lesage has been misunderstood," he said in the statement. "I was speaking in French without a text and apparently did not make my point clear.

"The previous speaker had observed that Mr. Lesage might be the next solicitor general. I expressed the view that Mr. Lesage might go farther than that, that he might some day become the first French-speaking minister of finance.

"I have a very high regard for Mr. Lesage's capacity and this was my way of saying so, and it was a prediction that he would go far. Obviously I cannot say who will be appointed minister of finance. That is the responsibility of the prime minister."

Lose Fortune

WEST LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Andrea Leeds and her wealthy husband asked police for help Monday in locating $71,450 in jewelry which they said disappeared from its hiding place in a portable radio. Police said that among the missing items are a 360,000 platinum and diamond engagement ring, a $3,500 diamond pin, a $2,000 pearl necklace and two pairs of diamond and pearl ear rings valued at $5,800.

Devaluation Panic Swept Moscow

Editor's Note: For 11 years Eddy Gilmore was AP correspondent in Moscow. He married a Russian dancer in 1943, at a time of wartime amity, and found out late in the 40s that the Soviet government would not allow her to leave that country with their two children. Only recently was this rule relaxed, and Gilmore was able to bring his family out. While they are en route to the United States Gilmore is writing a series of stories about Russia and his experiences there. This is the first of four articles to appear this week.

By EDDY GILMORE

PARIS (AP)—For the first time in years the Kremlin seems to be showing some concern for Ivan Ivanovich, the average Russian.

It's too early to say if this is because the party and the government sincerely want to do something for the people; or because they are afraid of the people, or for both reasons.

But things are happening. And if Georgi Malenkov and the others can hold the galloping Russian Troika in the road, and resist going for one another's throats, things are going to continue to happen . . . I mean things that will make life far easier for the Russian people.

Malenkov is pledged to raise the standard of living. The Russian people have heard that one before, but this time the party and the government are behaving as if it matters somewhat how the people feel about things.

CENSOR ACTIVE

Take the recent city wide panic in Moscow. I do not believe this story has been reported to the outside world, for the censor was very active with his big Red pencil when I left Moscow.

Here it is:

Toward the last days of June the rumor got out of Moscow that the money was going to be changed again.

We heard it everywhere we went. Moscow had had one devaluation since the war. Czechoslovakia had just had one. It was at the half year, a logical time.

I'd seen devaluation, or reform as they called it, happen before in Moscow. The symptoms were the same. The people knew about it several days in advance.

The subways and the buses and the street cars had no metal money. During the last devaluation metal money was not changed. The people were clinging to it.

HEATED ARGUMENTS

Heated arguments took place on the subway. The conductors demanded metal money, or refused to give change. The people offered paper rubles, or three and five ruble pieces. They'd get a ride and some metal money back in change. But the conductors weren't having any.

The commission stores (state pawn shops) were packed and buying was brisk. Everywhere the people were saying: "Have you heard about it? Do you think it's going to happen?"

The last devaluation hurt Ivan Ivanovich plenty. Never a banker at heart, he kept his precious rubles at home. When the government devalued, Ivan got one ruble for 10, a poor batting average in any league.

I looked at two banks. Long lines of depositors before the savings account windows. At the last devaluation, the folks who had their rubles in the bank got the new money at one new ruble for one old ruble.

PANIC ALL RIGHT

It was a panic, all right, and finally the ministry of finance had to come out with a communique in all papers denying all idea of devaluation, or a change in the money.

That was a rare step. Under Joseph Stalin it would not have happened. The people would have been left to panic. But the Malenkov government assured them. Did it have to? Was it having to answer to a public opinion for the first time since Stalin got his steely grip on the nation? Or was it behaving as any normal government would under the circumstances of a city-wide panic?

You guess. I don't know.

Wednesday: The Stalin funeral, uncensored.

Massey To Spend 2 Days At Festival

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vincent Massey left here by train Monday night for a two-day visit to the Shakespeare Festival at Stratford.

Mr. Massey will inspect the Festival facilities, meet the artists and attend a performance of "All's Well That Ends Well" tonight and "Richard III" the following evening.

TOURISTS TO PETERBOROUGH will have some difficulty attempting to identify Charlotte St. these days, especially if they're at the corner of George and Charlotte Streets. For nearly a week now, the Charlotte St. sign has been resting on a store ledge, very close to the sidewalk. On Saturday, the street sign was still on the ledge, hidden from view by the crowds of shoppers which passed along the street.

Farm Unions Want To See Submissions

WINNIPEG (CP)—Western Canada farm unions Monday said Prairie farmers should have an opportunity to study grain company submissions to the board of grain commissioners regarding operating charges.

A brief to this effect, submitted by the Interprovincial Farm Union Council, representing Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta farm unions, was presented at the board's public hearing by J. L. Phelps of Saskatoon, council chairman and president of the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union.

The brief recommends that "submissions being made to this board should be made available to any interested parties not less than 30 days prior to a public hearing" so that a rebuttal may be drawn up.

Under the Canada Grain Act, licencees are only required to present submissions regarding changes in the maximum tariffs of charges six days before a hearing, and these are not made public, the brief said.

Although the farm unions have not learned of any pending increases in operating charges, they "feel that any move to increase (them) at this time would be difficult to justify," as "it appears that they (the grain companies) are in a very favorable operating position" according to their annual reports.

The brief said the grain handling companies have made "considerable profits" from selling large quantities of screenings, "including some of a very inferior quality," in Eastern Canada.

"Sold in competition to grain marketed on behalf of the farmer in these same areas, this practice could have the effect of impairing the confidence of Eastern feeders in the quality of Western grain, and should not be permitted to go any further."

The council also will ask that the present schedule of lake shipping rates be reviewed by the board with a view to obtaining adjustments and reduction. During certain periods, it said, the Lake Shipping Association has been eliminating any competition by having regulations applied prohibiting boats from other countries loading and unloading at lake ports.

"The result of this type of restriction is . . . simply another of the many barriers to freer trade in agricultural commodities by making it more difficult for some of these countries to build up dollar credits.

"It will not only adversely affect the operating position of the grain companies, but the farmers as well, and will certainly have a bearing on the question of grain handling charges generally."

10 Officers Selected For Course

OTTAWA (CP)—Ten senior navy, army and air force officers have been selected to attend the seventh course of the National Defence College at Kingston beginning Sept. 1, defence headquarters announced Monday.

Navy representatives are Capt. A. G. Boulton, 41 of Toronto, now chief of staff to commanding officer of naval divisions, and Capt. R. L. Henessy, 34, of Ottawa, executive officer of HMCS Quebec.

Elwood, 47, London, Ont., and Montreal, commandant of 25 central ordnance depot; Col. J. M. Houghton, 36, Brockville, Canadian military attache in Germany: Col. W. J. Moogk, 42 of London, Ont., officer in charge of administration at headquarters Canadian base units, Far East.

AIR FORCE CANDIDATES

Air force candidates are Air Commodore Henry M. Carscallen, 44 of Hamilton, chief of air operations at headquarters; Group Capt. Robert J. Gray, 38, of Amherst, N.S., commanding officer of the RCAF station at Goose Bay, Labrador; Group Capt. William C. Van Camp, 35, of Marwayne, Alta.; senior air staff officer at Maritime group headquarters; and Group Capt. Richard W. Desbarats, 47, of Ottawa, former staff officer accounts and finance at headquarters here.

The 10-month Kingston course is conducted annually for approximately 25 candidates including officers from the United States and United Kingdom, senior civil servants, civilians from leading industrial firms as well as the officers from the three armed services. It is designed to give advanced study in war and security problems, in relation to other aspects of national policy.

Sees Potential Market For Alberta Natural Gas

CALGARY (CP)—There is a potential market for Alberta natural gas in southwestern Ontario if it can be delivered at a competitive price, United Gas co. Ltd., of Chatham, Ont., said Monday in a voluntary brief to the gas-export hearing of the provincial and natural-gas conservation board.

The board now is hearing applications from pipeline companies who seek permits to export the province's natural gas.

Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., would build an all-Canadian gas line from southern Alberta to Montreal and Western Pipe Line from southern Alberta across Saskatchewan to Winnipeg, then swing south to enter the U.S. market.

If the applications were granted, some of the gas would be distributed commercially in the area served by the Ontario company.

The United Gas brief was presented by Thomas Weir, vice-president and general manager. he said southwestern Ontario is a potential market for an additional 5,000,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas a year, provided it can be delivered to the company's system at a price which will enable it to compete readily with other fuels.

The Union Gas brief dealt only with the company's present territory. The company, serving some 81,000 customers in four Ontario counties, obtains supplies from its own wells, purchases from other Ontario companies, and from the United States.

Mr. Weir said various public statements had left the impression that Alberta gas would provide "everyone in the eastern provinces" with a "large supply of cheap gas."

He did not agree "with unqualified statements that such gas will be cheap fuel. Natural gas now being distributed by Union Gas costs substantially less than any estimated price we have seen for gas delivered in the east from Alberta."

Attempt on Peak

NEW DELHI (CP) — A seven-man French mountaineering team is making plans to climb the 23,000-foot Himalayan peak of Nun Kun. Two unsuccessful attempts on the peak were made by British teams before the Second World War.

A NATURALIST working in the jungles of Africa uses a portable aluminum elevator to get to the top of 150-foot trees to secure samples of plant and animal life. He simply shoots a line from a rifle over a sturdy limb, attaches it to the elevator cage and hauls himself up by working a hand winch fixed to the cage's floor.

His one-man elevator is almost certainly made of Canadian aluminum. For by putting untamed "white water" to work creating electrical power, Canada has made itself the largest exporter of aluminum in the world. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan)

St. Laurent Tours Dozen Towns In Busiest Day

JOLIETTE, Que. (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent Tuesday completed the most strenuous day of his national election campaign, shaking hands with thousands of men, women and children in more than a dozen Quebec towns and villages and delivering a half-dozen speeches.

Travelling in motor cars at high speeds from village to village, the 71-year-old prime minister drew thousands of cheering citizens into the streets and addressed them from gaily decorated platforms.

The prime minister's arrival at the large shipbuilding centre of Sorel was turned into a parade complete with a band. The town, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence, was decorated and thousands lined the streets.

At the pier, where Mr. St. Laurent's party boarded a ferry for Berthierville, the prime minister delivered a speech from the ferry boat's deck.

He told the voters what he told most of his Quebec audience today, "vote for the party of your choice but vote. The right to vote is one of the citizen's most important rights."

AGAINST COMMUNISM

He also told his Quebec listeners that the government stood together with othe North Atlantic countries against Communist aggression. His government was doing all possible to discourage aggression by speeding up defence measures.

Proposed Tax Reductions Would Endanger Canada's Finances: Pearson

Canada's "strong financial position" could be damaged if Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew carried out his promise and reduced federal taxes by $500,000,000, External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson warned a Peterborough audience Tuesday night. If a policy of deficit financing were adopted then the heavy flow of foreign capital for investment in Canada would slow down. "We don't want deficit financing in this country," said Mr. Pearson who spoke in the PCVS auditorium in support of Max Swanston, Liberal candidate.

"Last year the deficit in the United States was $8,000,000,000. Nearly every year we have had surpluses and applied them toward reducing the national debt. That's why we are in the strong financial position we are today and it's one reason why the Canadian dollar is higher than the United States dollar.

"With deficit financing the flow of dollars from the United States would slow down," said Mr. Pearson. "The Bethlehem Steel Co. wouldn't have invested $12,000,000 near Peterborough (the Marmora iron mines) if they hadn't believed in the government's sound financing."

The affable Minister for External Affairs joined a motor parade of Peterborough riding Liberals at Young's Point early Tuesday night. He stopped in Lakefield for a short off-the-cuff address, and then continued on by car to Peterborough.

Mr. Pearson made a rapid tour through the city streets in a convertible car, accompanied by Mr. Swanston. The two are boyhood friends and used to play baseball and that occupied as much of their conversation as the subject at hand—Federal politics.

TIE AS USUAL

The 10-car motorcade pulled up in front of PCVS at 8:20 p.m. and the minister — wearing a wine-colored bow tie, striped shirt and light brown summer-tweed suit—got out of the car and for five minutes genially shook hands with well-wishers grouped around the entrance to the building.

Inside the auditorium the heat was stifling; the coolest place, at the front of the hall where a cross-breeze was detected, registered 84 degrees. But despite the heat 300 people came to hear the former Peterborough schoolboy, who is now president of the United Nations General Assembly.

Speaking from notes only, Mr. Pearson ranged from the situation in Peterborough riding to Canada's role in preserving world peace.

Army Officers Face Charges Over Contracts

TORONTO (CP) — The RCMP confirmed here Tuesday that two Army officers have been charged in connection with irregularities in civilian trucking contracts at the Hagersville Army depot near Hamilton. Inspector J. S. Cruickshank, said Capt. Charles Harris, 40, of Ottawa, and WO Edward Parton, 33, of London, Ont., both stationed at the depot, were charged after a six-months' investigation by the RCMP.

Harris was charged on four counts and Parton on one. They will appear in court Thursday at Cayuga, near Hagersville.

Harris, who joined the Army in 1931 and was commissioned 10 years later, was charged with accepting money from trucking firms in return for contracts, as well as demanding payments from truckers for contracts.

CLAIM $850 ACCEPTED

Parton is charged with accepting $300 from Hugh McLelland. Total amount involved is $850, police said.

In Cayuga, Crown Attorney K. Bain Munro said he believes the case is an "isolated one" and that no other arrests are being considered.

In Ottawa, the Army issued a statement saying the defence department asked the RCMP Jan. 26 to investigate alleged irregularities in trucking and trucking contracts at Hagersville "which came to light from complaints by truckers in the area Jan. 15, who stated that government trucking contracts were not available to them."

Regency Act Amendment Introduced

Expect Permission From Queen For Couple To Wed

LONDON (AP) — The government indicated today that the Queen has given or is about to give permission to her sister, Princess Margaret, to marry a divorced man.

He is RAF Group Capt. Peter Townsend, air attache at the embassy in Brussels. He is 38 and the Princess 22.

The acting prime Minister, Richard A. Butler, told the House of Commons that the government proposes to introduce legislation to amend the Regency Act of 1937. A change in the act would make it easier for Margaret to follow her heart's desire if she wants to marry the divorced air hero.

AGREEABLE TO QUEEN

Opposition leader Clement Attlee asked if the contents of the proposed bill were agreeable to all members of the Royal Family.

Butler replied in the affirmative and said the personal feelings of all concerned should be respected by everybody and "the present deplorable speculation and gossip brought to an end."

Under the present act, Princess Margaret would become regent if the Queen died or became incapacitated before Prince Charles, 4, was able to take the throne.

Townsend brought a divorce action against his wife, on grounds of misconduct. The Church of England frowns on remarriage of divorced persons.

Any change in the Regency Act would require each of the Commonwealth countries except India to make similar changes. India is a republic and recognizes the sovereign only as head of the Commonwealth.

Commonwealth prime ministers meeting shortly after the Coronation in June discussed the proposal to change the Regency Act. The whole subject has been under discussion among the Commonwealth countries periodically since 1950, but today's announcement of the proposed change took on new meaning in the light of stories on Margaret's romance with Townsend.

To Call Assembly If Truce Signed

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson, president of the United Nations general assembly, will fly to New York Thursday night for discussions on reconvening the assembly.

The external affairs department said Mr. Pearson will consult with Dag Hammarskjold, secretary-general, "regarding the reconvening of the general assembly if discussions in Korea result, as they hope they will, in an armistice."

Mr. Pearson will leave Toronto Thursday night and meet with Mr. Hammarskjold Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The general assembly passed a resolution April 18 providing that the president "shall reconvene the assembly on the signing of an armistice in Korea or when, in the view of a majority of members, other developments in Korea require consideration of the question."

He Walked Away

NORTH BAY —(CP)— A CF-100 jet fighter crashed and burned while taking off from North Bay RCAF station Tuesday night and the pilot walked away from the wreckage with only an injured ankle. The big, twin-engined jet bellied into a bog 400 yards off the end of the runway and burst into flames. FO William A. Walker, 24, of London, Ont., crawled from the cockpit and made his way through a swamp to a nearby road.

Report Bullets Hit Truck As Blockade Ends

HAMILTON (CP)—A report that two bullets were fired at a transport truck was investigated by police today, third day of a strike for higher wages by 1,500 truck drivers in southwestern Ontario.

Provincial police at Dundas near Hamilton said the driver of a MacDonald Transport told them he heard two sounds like backfires and saw marks like bullet marks on the windshield in front of his head.

He said the glass wasn't penetrated. The trucker was from Harrow, Ont., but police did not release his name.

The incident occurred at Clappison's Corners, five miles northeast of here during the night.

CALL OFF SQUADS

It came after striking members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL-TLC) called off a threatened blockade of Hamilton and removed from the highways flying squads of strikers which carried orders to interfere with vehicles.

The flying squads were removed after Premier Frost said the Criminal Code will be enforced to halt such tactics. More than 100 union pickets had been prepared to set up roadblocks at the seven main gateways to Hamilton to seal off transport traffic.

Today drivers adopted new tactics, sending "reception committees" of strikers to meet transport drivers at their normal coffee stops through southwestern Ontario.

PICKET TERMINALS

The action at the coffee stops was supplemented by picketing at truck terminals and branches.

No incidents were reported at Chatham, where about 260 truckers are involved.

James Groat, president of the truckers' Hamilton local, said it would take exception to "any manhandling" by provincial police. He said the atmosphere at the coffee stops "is peaceful and it will continue peaceful."

The union cancelled plans for putting pickets on streets throughout the 15 cities affected by the strike.

The Hamilton local is insisting on a 20-cent increase for drivers and 30 cents for mechanics and Windsor on a 52-cent general increase.

A driver on long hauls makes about $90 a week. Those on short trips earn about $60.

Search Mediterranean For Missing U.K. Plane

VALLETTA, Malta (Reuters)—British and United States planes today searched the Mediterranean for a missing plane believed to be a British transport command Hastings with 21 aboard.

The search is being conducted along the coast of Libya. An American mail plane overheard distress signals while flying here from Naples.

Charge U.S. Breaks Agreement; Follow Own Course

SEOUL (CP)—South Korea declared today her understanding with the United States over a truce with the Communists has been broken and she "will not observe any implementation of the armistice." The statement was issued by Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai shortly after President Syngman Rhee had announced South Korea felt free to "follow our own course of action," if a post-armistice political conference failed to "persuade the Chinese Red aggressors" to withdraw from North Korea within 90 days.

Just before Pyun made his statement, another South Korean cabinet minister, who refused to be named, declared Walter Robertson, President Eisenhower's special envoy, had promised Rhee the U.S. would "walk out" of the conference if it failed to reach agreement in 90 days.

WENT BACK ON WORD

He said the U.S. now seems to have "mysteriously" gone back on this promise.

The South Korean rebellion came tonight after United Nations and Communist officers met twice in a favorable atmosphere amid hopeful indications from both sides that a truce was imminent.

Pyun earlier warned that South Korea would act independently unless the U.S. repudiates some assurances given the Communists which the Reds announced at Panmunjom last Sunday. The assurances opened the way for a quick armistice.

Rhee's sudden statement came as the U. S. state department sent a secret note to Rhee. It presumably dealt with South Korea's role in the armistice. Pyun said the note contained "nothing new."

How the Reds will react to Rhee's ultimatum was the big question as staff officers continued work at Panmunjom on final details of a truce. There has been speculation that an armistice would be signed within the week.

Pyun, considered Rhee's closest adviser, declared "the United Nations is now trying to illegalize any action on our part to achieve our unification."

Queen Reviews Thames Pageant

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh today reviewed a three-mile historical river pageant of 200 tugs, barges and other small craft sailing up the Thames through London.

Brooding clouds, hanging low over the river, provided the backdrop for the showiest Coronation river procession the waterway has borne in more than 400 years.

Thousands of office workers and school children lined both sides of the river bank. The ships of all kinds, were not bustling and tooting in their usual business-like way, but floated ceremoniously, restooned with flags and flowers, their crews in uniforms of other centuries.

The procession, which started seven miles downstream, was led by the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Rupert [illegible] Pere in [illegible] named Everest. He sported [illegible] block and gold [illegible] of office.

Besides the historical pageants, depicting Anne Boleyn, one of Henry VIII's six wives, on her own river procession to her coronation 400 years ago; the signing of Magna Carta; the Viking attack on London bridge in 1013; There were boats representing every phase of Thames activity.

Drew Sees Grits Wrecking Federal System

RIMOUSKI, Que. (CP)—George Drew continued his election campaign in Quebec province Tuesday night by hammering away at the Liberals for a second straight night on the subject of federal-provincial relations.

Speaking to a crowd of some 500 people packing the council room of Rimouski city hall and listening through loudspeakers spaced outside the building, the Progressive Conservative leader said the Liberals, if elected, would regard their victory as a clear mandate to demolish completely the federal system "as we know it."

Mr. Drew arrived here by car after a 180-mile drive along the south shore of the St. Lawrence river from Quebec. He stopped briefly at Levis, across the river from Quebec City and at Riviere du Loup to talk to supporters.

Today he swings southwest into the Eastern Townships for scheduled visits to St. Johns, Farnham, Cowansville, Granby, Magog and Sherbrooke.

RIGHTS TAKEN

Mr. Drew said that Prime Minister St. Laurent had introduced constitutional changes in 1949 to stop the provinces getting back rights they had voluntarily surrendered in time of war.

The prime minister had refused to agree to the principle of a federal-provincial conference and had argued that the Confederation agreement of 1867 was merely a law that the federal Parliament could change without consulting the provinces.

"If the present course is followed, provincial legislatures will be reduced to the level of mere branch offices of the central government at Ottawa."

The attitude adopted by the Liberal administration in 1949 indicated that the Liberals if elected Aug. 10 would maintain, and "rightly so", that they had been given "a clear mandate to completely demolish the federal system as we know it."

"You know what that would mean to the province of Quebec and to all other provinces," Mr. Drew added.

Churchill's Progress Good, Reports Say

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill, who has been resting from overwork at his home outside London since the end of June, is continuing to make good progress, it was stated today in London.

The prime minister is active and follows current events closely at his country home, Chartwell, reports said.

R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer and acting prime minister, side-stepped blunt questions by Socialist leader Clement Attlee in the House of Commons Tuesday night on the possible date of Churchill's return to duty.

Latest Weird Twist

Bloody Clothing, Hair Found In Search For Two Hunters

GASPE, Que. (CP)—A few tattered pieces of blood-stained underwear, some tufts of hair and a solitary 12-inch bone provided police Tuesday with the latest "weird" twist in their investigation of the mysterious disappearance of three American bear hunters in wild bush country six weeks ago.

Provincial police emerged from the rugged country of the Gaspe Peninsula without finding any evidence that would clearly establish what happened to the trio. But they brought with them ragged strips of underwear splattered with dried blood, and tufts of hair of two colors, brown and black.

They found these together with a single bone near the same campsite, where parts of a human skeleton were discovered several days ago. The skeleton had no skull. The bones appeared to have been gnawed.

From the earlier discoveries it is believed one of the three hunters from Hollidaysburg, Pa., had been accounted for. The remains are believed to be those of 17-year-old Richard Lindsey. What happened to his father, Eugene Lindsey, 45, and to Fred Claar, 20, remained a mystery.

Some of the bones were sent to Montreal for analysis by Dr. Jean-Marie Roussel, Quebec provincial medico-legal expert, but so far results of the examination have not been made known.

Dr. Roussel, however, said Tuesday night he had found traces of blood-stained brown hair on the sights of a rifle that was picked up from the camp-site at the time.

Both the hair and bone found Tuesday are believed to be human, although police last night would not comment on the discoveries. An authoritative source said it is possible that the two types of hair might have come from the same person, one type from the body, the other from the head.

The small bits of hair were found in the five-acre area directly in front of the camp-site.

The whole area was covered with fresh bear tracks, and informants said the hairs reported found on the sight of the rifle being examined by Dr. Roussel, might have stuck to it if bears pushed or dragged a body and the rifle along the ground.

Sgt. Henri Doyon, who heads the 15-man team of searchers, said the bone unearthed Tuesday was apparently part of a leg bone between the knee and ankle. It appeared to belong to the remains found earlier.

Russia Protests But Ships Dock

ISTANBUL (Reuters)—Ten ships of the U. S. Navy tied up in port here today on a six-day visit, despite Russian protests to Turkey against a Western "military demonstration" in Black Sea waters.

The visiting fleet is commanded by Vice Admiral John J. Cassady, aboard the heavy cruiser Salem.

When it leaves July 27, it is expected to pass an incoming British party of 22 naval vessels under Admiral Earl Mountbatten, British Mediterranean NATO commander. For a few hours, there will be 45 foreign ships altogether in Turkish waters around the Bosphorus and Black Sea.

Russia complained in a diplomatic note Monday these two main concentrations of Western shipping constituted a "form of military demonstration" in the Black Sea, waters she has traditionally eyed jealously. The protest followed close on her declaration that Russia had relinquished all claims on Turkish territorial waters.

Turkey has control of the Black Sea strait under the international Montreux Convention of 1936. Russia's previous claims to a share in this control were counter to the convention.

Turkish press and political circles were unanimous today in considering the Soviet protest as a contradiction of last month's Russian memorandum offering to establish "good neighbor" relations. No comment was available from official Turkish sources.

Committee Clears Methodist Bishop

WASHINGTON (AP). — The House of Representatives Committee on Un-American Activities voted Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam a clean bill of health today so far as any record of Communist party affiliation is concerned.

But a grueling, sometimes short-tempered hearing that dragged on after midnight brought charges by some members that the Methodist clergyman's zeal for social reform, plus what one congressman called "muddled thinking," had led him into suspicious company.

And Chairman Harold Velde, Rep., Ill., said it was "impossible to make any definite conclusions" until the bishop has submitted further information he promised.

The marathon affair left in doubt the question the bishop asked it to settle: Would the committee alter its files on him or, better yet, halt the practice of giving out unverified and unevaluated information on anyone.

Send Million Free Packages

Free Western Food Throws East German Rulers Into Frenzy; Term Plan Plot To Enlist Crooks

BERLIN (AP)—A million packages of free Western food threw East Germany's Communist rulers into a frenzy today.

Soviet High Commissioner Vladimir Semyenov, in a bristling diplomatic note, called the mammoth relief program a U. S. plot to "enlist Fascist hirelings and criminal elements" for a new anti-Red revolt in the Russian zone.

He demanded that U. S. High Commissioner James B. Conant immediately stop food gifts to hungry East Germans because these were "illegal and incompatible with the elementary demands of maintaining public order."

But in West Berlin, thousands of workers were set to wrapping the 1,000,000 packages of foodstuffs for delivery on the Iron Curtain border here beginning next Monday.

The supplies came from a West German government reserve maintained in this isolated city since 1948 to protect it against a new Russian blockade. The reserve will be replenished by donations from the United States, where President Eisenhower offered $15,000,000 worth of free food to hungry East Germany on July 10 and stuck by it after Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov denounced the offer as "a clumsy propaganda manoeuvre."

A high American official said the Russian protest would be rejected flatly. Other U. S. officials termed it "too absurd to comment on except it implies that Russia will go to extreme lengths to cut off outside aid to the Germans they are oppressing."

West Berlin welfare workers who pushed 3,900 free food parcels through the Iron Curtain Tuesday expressed fear the note meant Russian tanks and troops soon might seal off East Germany so that no Western relief at all could enter.

Semyenov's note was his second to the United States in five days. He charged Saturday that U. S. planes had dropped "enemy" leaflets on two Russian military air bases in East Germany. There has been no formal reply but U. S. officials described that story as nonsense.

Semyenov's wrath today centred on the relief market set up last week in West Berlin's Kreuzberg borough by Mayor Willy Kressman. It dispensed milk potatoes, and fruits to 25,000 Soviet sector residents at one-fifth the normal cost. It was replaced this week by larger similar projects operating in seven West Berlin boroughs.

Semyenov contended the Kreuzberg low-cost market was staffed by "Fascist agents in the disguise of food vendors and was shut down because of the mass protests of West Berlin unemployed and the populace of East Berlin."

The note charged that the food centres were set up to woo East Germans while millions of West Germans "g) hungry" Semyenov said West Germany had more than 1,500,000 unemployed "while in the German Democratic Republic and East Berlin unemployment does not exist."

The violent Russian reaction to the Western aid emphasized these developments:

The eastern workers revolt still smoldered fiercely in continued scattered strikes and slowdowns. The Communists were known to fear a sudden, zone-wide outbreak in the near future. The latest walkout was reported in Soviet-exploited uranium mines.

Chinese Strike RoK Posts, Attack Repulsed

By FORREST EDWARDS

SEOUL (AP)—Some 1,000 Chinese Communists, attacking along a one-mile front, today hit five South Korean positions in the Kumsong bulge sector of central Korea, scene of last week's big Red assault.

In the air, U.S. Sabre jets shot down three Communist MiG jets in sky battles just before dark, the U.S. 5th air force announced.

The U.S. 8th army said three prongs of the ground attack were beaten back before dawn. But at two other points the Chinese drove RoK infantry off hill positions, then pulled back in the face of fierce South Korean counter-attacks

Elsewhere along the rain-soaked battlefront three dozen or more small-scale fights flared briefly in the pre-dawn darkness.

Allied fighter - bombers flew through heavy clouds and drizzling rain and dropped almost 500,000 pounds of high explosives on Red frontline positions in the Kumsong bulge area, the U. S. 5th Air Force said.

Radar - equipped B26 bombers maintained their 'round-the-clock pounding of Red battlefront positions with night and daylight attacks, the air force said.

Communist night fighters made six non-firing passes at 18 U. S. B29 Superforts which attacked a Red airfield at Uiju in northwest Korea for the second consecutive night.

The Reds struck with small probing jabs at outposts near Luke the Gook's Castle on the eastern front, Sniper ridge on the central front, northwest of Chorwon and at other points on the east-central front.

All were beaten back in brief rifle and machine gun battles, the 8th army said.

The U. S. cruiser Manchester and the destroyer Radford bombarded Communist coastal defence guns near Wonsan on Korea's east coast, navy headquarters reported.

In the Yellow, sea, British pilots from the aircraft carrier Ocean attacked targets near the western end of the battle line.

Drew Sees Grits

He said that it was "complete deception" for the Liberals to argue that the war-time federal-provincial tax agreements required to be continued in case of emergency.

Mr. St Laurent had failed to follow in the footsteps of the man he succeeded in the cabinet at Ottawa. The late Hon. Ernest Lapointe had been one of the constant defenders of the Constitution. His policy had been that constitutional changes could not be made without provincial agreement.

Mr. Drew said he was "forced to believe" that Mr. St. Laurent's ideas on provincial autonomy were strictly nominal, since all his actions proved he favored centralization.

St. Laurent

In agricultural centres, Mr. St. Laurent talked about government farm-support prices. He said they had helped maintain good prices for farm products. Government subsidies on the transport of feeds had saved money for Quebec farmers.

"It was true taxes were high, but they were designed to share better the wealth produced throughout the country by all the people."

Another point the prime minister made repeatedly was that the Liberal government aimed to make all Canadians feel at home in any part of the country. That was the best road to national unity, he said.

As the ferry boat pulled away for Berthierville and his Sorel audience cheered, private motorboats followed the ferry across the St. Lawrence tooting whistles while a band aboard the ferry tried to compete with the uproar.

During the day, Mr. St. Laurent paid a visit to two Quebec Roman Catholic bishops, Msgr. Albertus Martin of Nicolet and Msgr. Arthur Papineau of Joliette.

Mr. St. Laurent Tuesday night addressed the citizens of this tobacco-growing centre and then he motored to the industrial centre of Shawinigan Falls, where he told his audience that choosing a Parliament is much different from buying a suit or a hat, the latter is often done just for the pleasure.

Speaking in French from notes, he added:

MUST CHOOSE BEST

"But in this election we know we should choose the best persons to administer our public affairs if we want to maintain our advantageous position and if we want to avoid the dangers of unemployment, of economic crisis, which could seriously affect all of us."

The prime minister then turned to Hon. George Drew and the Progressive Conservative party.

Mr. Drew, said Mr. St. Laurent, had said the Liberals blamed the Conservatives for the depression in 1930.

"That depression was world wide," the prime minister said. "But we do believe the Conservatives erred in the course they chose in trying to lighten the terrible consequences to the population."

PC's SERIOUS?

"Mr. Drew promised to cut taxes, but then promised to do things that would involve expenditure of great sums of money. Could the Conservatives be serious?

"Mr. Drew said an election was not a popularity contest. Had the government tried to be popular when it allocated billions to defence measures? But the government believed the move was in the best interests of the nation.

"Do you really think it is time for a change, a change to a Parliament of regional groups, a handful of Social Crediters from British Columbia and Alberta, a few socialists from the Prairies, a certain number of Conservatives from Ontario and the Maritimes, a few pseudo-independents from the province of Quebec?"

Mr. St. Laurent said a government which would not have support of a united majority party, representative of the whole nation, would not have the necessary cohesion to administer the country.

As 3,000 spectators cheered loudly, Mr. St. Laurent left for the Lake St. John area, which he was scheduled to tour today.

Dust-Collecting Violin May Be Stradivarius

SUDBURY (CP)—A violin that collected dust for 20 years in the home of Robert J. Swain has been put in a downtown Sudbury vault for safekeeping.

After seeing a news item about a rare Stradivarius violin, Mr. Swain took a look at the old one on the shelf. Inside he found the inscription: "Antonius Stradivarius cremonensis faciebat annon 1716," followed by the famed "Strad" trademark, an encircled "A.S." divided by a cross.

Mr. Swain says he knows there are more spurious "Strads" than originals but is taking no chances until he can obtain expert opinion. The violin was bought by his father from a British immigrant 58 years ago.

Proposed Tax

At the outset he endorsed Mr. Swanston enthusiastically, dubbing in a few reminiscences of his boyhood days in Peterborough.

"It's time Peterborough had a representative on the benches to the right of the Speaker," he said. "I guess the PC candidate here—after 13 years in office—isn't saying very much about 'Time for a Change,' and the same applies in the neighboring riding of Hastings-Frontenac where Clute Foster is the Liberal candidate."

NOT DIFFICULT CUT

On a budget of $4,400,000,000 it wouldn't be difficult to lop off $500,000,000 providing defence expenditures or essential services were cut, or the government began a policy of deficit financing, Mr. Pearson said.

Dealing first with defence he said that the PCs now claim to be able to cut $300,000,000 off that department of government alone. And the prestige and military reputation of Major-General G. R. Pearkes, VC, the PC's military critic, has been brought in to back this up.

However, Major - General Pearkes was quoted as saying, just before the election campaign began, that "it would be unwise to reduce defence expenditures at this time."

Taxes are high, Mr. Pearson conceded, but so are incomes and national production.

"We are one of the few countries who have cut taxes and at the same time reduced our national debt . . . But we won't promise to reduce taxes at the price of national security."

The minister said he was willing to take Mr. Drew's word for it when he said he wouldn't cut essential services to effect his $500,000,000 tax reduction. That left deficit financing and he warned against such a policy.

PC PROPOSALS COSTLY

On the other hand, said Mr. Pearson, Mr. Drew's proposals as outlined in his 16-point program drawn up at Guelph would cost up to $2,000,000,000 more if put into effect. Some items listed by the opposition leader may be desirable and some may be introduced in the future, but they can't be introduced and at the same time cut taxes, he said.

Among Mr. Drew's points that will involve higher expenditures, said Mr. Pearson, are "some form of co-operative health insurance," federal aid to education, Saskatchewan River project, extension of unemployment insurance benefits and higher pay for civil servants.

"To propose all this and at the same time say he will reduce taxes by $500,000,000 is an insult to the intelligence of the Canadian people . . . We must put Mr. Drew's 16-point platform against 15 promises and see who is fooling who . . . This election won't be won by 'pie in the sky a la mode'."

LEADERSHIP ISSUE

Leadership is also an issue in this election, said Mr. Pearson.

"Who's the best man to be prime minister of Canada and leader of the party? I think we're exceedingly fortunate in this country to have Mr. St. Laurent, a successor to Mackenzie King and Sir Wilfred Laurier."

Mr. Pearson also said it was important to have a government that would properly handle Canada's foreign policy.

He said that Canada has played "an important and responsible part in the struggle of the Free World against Communist aggression." "We have learned we must do things we don't like to do in times of peace to avoid doing other, worse things, in time of war."

Canada is a member of the UN and co-operation within that body must be the mainspring of our foreign policy, he said.

KOREA CLOSE

"Korea is just down Main St.," he said. "It was the first international police action ever taken against an aggressor. I wish we could have done that in 1936, 1937 and 1938 against the Fascist aggressors. Perhaps we wouldn't have had the war in 1939."

"There may be an armistice signed in Korea within a few days but that doesn't end our relationship with Asiatic Communism. It just ends one chapter....If an armistice is signed that ends the fighting, but that's not peace; we know now, by bitter experience, that peace is more than the absence of fighting."

Mr. Pearson said the Canadian people couldn't relax and once more think only of domestic matters — building post offices and highways. There must be a policy on the Far East.

MUST CHOOSE POLICY

"Is it to be a policy of strength —opposing Communist expansion in Asia on all fronts—or should we allow them to choose Communism if they want it, but teach them to meet us and get along?"

Canada has played a useful part in UN negotiations, Mr. Pearson said. Canadian delegates have frequently found themselves half way between the opposing opinions of, for example, the United States and India on the subject of Communism. But they put forward their own policy.

The minister was introduced by Alex Elliott, QC, and thanked by John A. Dewart. Thomas J. Carley was chairman.

The Liberal candidate, Mr. Swanston, said there is one local issue: "Is Peterborough going to have a representative at Ottawa able to do something constructive for this riding? It must be plain to everybody that a representative on the government side of the House of Commons is able to do more to further their interests . . . This riding has come dangerously near to stagnation because it has had no new voice in Ottawa."

Golds, Oils Down As Prices Mixed

TORONTO (CP)—Prices held to a mixed to lower pattern in listless afternoon trading today.

Industrials held firm. Golds and western oils tended lower while base metals mixed.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals were down, led by New Larder U, Sudbury Contact, Graham Bousquet, Goldfields and Ankeno.

Industrials showed improvement on advances in papers, steels, agriculture and foods. Dominion Bridge, Loblaw A and Hinde and Dauch gained. Liquors and manufacturing companies were weaker spots.

Golds slipped as seniors mixed and juniors and holding companies traded lower. Kirkland Lake, Prospectors Airways and Kerr Addison lost.

Sherritt-Gordon, Steep Rock and Waite Amulet gained in base metals. Dominion Asbestos, United Asbestos and Hudson Bay posted losses.

Western oils faded as key issues like Pacific Petroleum, Peruvian and Central Explorers dropped.

He said Rhee made "actually no" pledges in his talks with assistant U. S. Secretary of State Walter Robertson. They were aimed at soothing South Korean resistance to the truce.

WITHDRAWAL PROBLEM

Rhee said the major problem blocking "real peace" was the withdrawal of Chinese Communist troops from North Korea after a cease-fire.

A political conference is to open 90 days after an armistice is signed, and Rhee said South Korea will wait another 90 days for the Chinese Reds to agree to leave North Korea. If they don't agree by that deadline, he said, South Korea will follow its "own course of action."

"I must say that we have asked the United States either to jointly resume with us military operations to accomplish our common objectives, or to promise to give us moral and material support in our efforts to carry on our fight unilaterally," Rhee said.

The South Korean president said he was awaiting approval from Washington of agreements made with Robertson in the secret talks earlier this month.

TRYING TO CO-OPERATE

South Korea "is trying to co-operate all we can," Rhee said, but "if the United Nations does not consider our desire for survival, we cannot regard the understanding as binding."

Rhee said he promised neither to sign nor to refrain from obstructing a truce if Washington approves his understanding with Robertson.

In the agreement, Rhee said he would abide by the terms of the armistice for an unstated period.

In return, the united States agreed to negotiate a mutual defence pact with South Korea. It was reported that the United States also agreed to walk out of the political conference and to confer further with South Korea after 90 days if no progress had been made toward unifying Korea or if the Reds appeared to be using the conference for their own ends.

Rhee said in his statement, "I am informed that some (U. S.) senators have declared the United States could not agree" to a mutual security pact. He said it also appeared probable the Senate will adjourn its present session before it could act on such a treaty.

NO SECURITY PACT

State Secretary John Foster Dulles said in Washington Tuesday that it appeared a mutual security pact would not be sent to the Senate at this session. This would delay at least until January Senate confirmation of an agreement.

"The more we try to co-operate," Rhee declared bitterly, "the more confused we are getting to be. However, we are still trying to co-operate all we can."

Rhee said, in written answers to reporters' questions, that the reasons behind the recent heavy Red attacks on RoK forces were two-fold:

"First, they want to push ahead as far as they can into territory that is more advantageous to them, so they will be in a good position to renew their aggression at any time they choose. . . .

"Second . . . the attacks have been launched for psychological effect. They want the world to know it is not they who are tired of this war and want to end it . . . The appearance of victory can be as important as victory itself . . . ."

Rhee asked:

HOW MUCH MORE?

"If the Communists can make such attacks upon us without in any way disturbing the arrangement for a truce, how much aggression will we have to endure after the truce is signed? . . .

"We have done our part to show our willingness to co-operate with the United States and postponed our determination to get the Chinese Red troops out of Korea before the signing of an armistice.

"We have done our part to show our willingness to co-operate with the United States and postponed our determination to get the Chinese Red troops out of Korea before the signing of an armistice.

"But this was a conditional agreement. If the United Nations does not consider our desire for survival, we cannot regard the understanding as binding on us."

Before Rhee made his statement, the Communist Peiping radio said the South Korean president was contemplating statements that would nullify Allied assurances there would be no time limit on the armistice

CONTINUE MEETINGS

Meanwhile, at Panmunjom, Allied and Communist staff officers continued their meetings aimed at clearing away remaining truce details.

Communist labor troops worked to complete the strawsided building in which the historic document will be signed.

Peiping radio said an armistice liaison officers meeting—concluded Tuesday—was designed "to work out the last administrative details."

North Korea's Pyongyang radio listed what it said were the last four minor matters to be settled:

1. Final translations of the truce documents into Korean, Chinese and English.

2. Revision of the truce line.

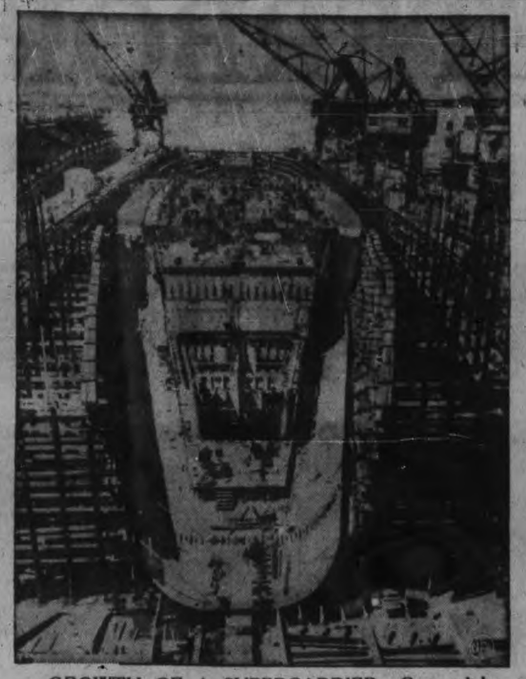
3. Minute details about the truce itself.

4. Assurances from the UN about the security of Indian troops who will guard Red prisoners who refuse repatriation to their Communist homelands."

MUST SETTLE POINT

The Communists have said that the question of Indian troops entering Korea to guard prisoners must be settled before a truce is signed.

Under terms of the truce draft, Indian troops would take over guarding 14,900 Chinese and 8,000 North Korean PoWs who refuse repatriation.



South Korean government leaders have threatened bloodshed if Indian troops land in South Korea. Rhee maintains India is pro-Communist.

A compromise proposal, reported to be already submitted to the Communists, would provide for the transfer of the unwilling captives from prison camps in South Korea to a buffer zone. The Indian guards would land in North Korea near Kaesong and proceed to the buffer zone without setting foot on South Korean soil.

3 Hamilton Women Jailed By U.S. Police

CLEVELAND (AP)—Police in suburban Willoughby seized three Canadian women hitch-hiking from Buffalo today and turned them over to immigration agents for illegal entry.

Police said Charmaine Foote, 24, Grace Young, 24, and Gloria Little, 21, all of Hamilton, admitted arrests in Canada for vagrancy. The women, who had a total of $5 in Canadian currency with them, said they had planned to work their way through Cleveland and Toledo to Detroit.

Regency Act

GIVES NO DETAILS

Butler did not go into details but presumably Margaret's responsibilities as regent would be transferred to the Duke of Edinburgh.

Butler said the government's bill would be introduced before the Queen leaves on her Commonwealth tour later this year. Butler made the announcement on behalf of Prime Minister Churchill, now recuperating at his Chartwell home from the rigors of office.

The House of Commons is scheduled to recess July 31.

Presumably the regency amendment bill will not be brought in until the House reconvenes in the fall.

It is expected to have the support of the official Labor Opposition, and if all goes according to plan the measure will become law before the Queen leaves for Australia Nov. 24.

The Commonwealth prime ministers are understood to have agreed to the change.

SEE DUKE REGENT

The lobby correspondent of the Press Association said the bill probably will transfer Margaret's regency responsibilities to the Duke of Edinburgh and will make the Queen Mother a member of the council of state which functions when the sovereign is out of the country.

Princess Margaret needs only the sovereign's permission to marry, and that only until she is 25. She stands third in line to the throne. As the regency law now stands, she would become regent if the Queen died or became incapable of carrying out her duties before Prince Charles reached 18.

Townsend was a "Battle of Britain" pilot in the Second World War. In 1944 he was appointed equerry to the late King George VI under a scheme for obtaining "equerries of honor" from the ranks of war heroes.

In July, 1941 he married Rosemary Pawle. There were two children, Giles and Hugo. Last fall the handsome flier divorced his wife on grounds of misconduct.

SEEN OFTEN TOGETHER

During recent months the RAF officer has been seen frequently with the Princess. They rode together in Windsor Park, went to theatres and dined out with friends.

Earlier this month while Princess Margaret and Queen Mother Elizabeth were touring Southern Rhodesia, Townsend's connections with the court were severed.

He was posted as air attache to the Brussels embassy, and left to take up his duties 48 hours before Princess Margaret arrived back in London. Some London newspapers said he was being exiled.

Following the death of King George VI, Townsend had continued in his post as royal equerry. Until his transfer abroad he had been generally expected to be appointed comptroller of the Queen Mother's household at Clarence House, which also is the residence of Princess Margaret.

Executive Order Could Assent Act Amendment

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada doesn't need to wait until the next session of Parliament to assent to any changes made by the British House of Commons to the Regency Act of 1937, constitutional authorities said today.

Acting Prime Minister Richard A. Butler said in London that his government will propose amendments to the act soon. Reports from London said the proposed changes would make it easier for Princess Margaret to marry a divorced commoner, Group Capt. Peter Townsend, air attache at the British embassy in Brussels.

Well-informed sources in the capital said they believe Canada would assent to the changes, discussed by Commonwealth countries since 1950.

PROVIDES FOR ASSENT

Constitutional officials said Canada does not have a Regency Act. However, they said the Statute of Westminster provides for Canadian assent to any British legislation dealing with the succession to the throne or the royal title.

These officials said Canada could assent to British changes to the Regency Act by order-in-council and later pass special legislation at the next session of Parliament.

In 1937, the officials said, Canada passed an order-in-council assenting to the abdication of King Edward VIII. Parliament met later and passed "an act respecting alterations in the law touching the succession to the throne."

They said any changes to the Regency Act would be approved by Canada by legislation "touching on alterations in the law respecting the Regency Act."

Mine Executive Dies In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Alexander M. Bilsky, 77, former mining executive and member of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, died in hospital Tuesday. He had only recently retired from active business.

In the early days of the Cobalt and Porcupine mining development he was instrumental in bringing American capital into Canada.

Born in Ottawa, Mr. Bilsky was associated with Sir Mortimer Davis and Andrew A. Allen at the height of their business careers. He was a pioneer in opening up Northern Ontario to mining development and, next to the Nipissing Company, had the largest payroll in the early Cobalt camp. The fire-proof "Bilsky block," built in 1910, was a monument to his civic enterprise in the town of Cobalt.

Backed by Hollinger interests, Mr. Bilsky organized Porcupine Power Company, the first hydro-electric power company in the Porcupine district. This company later was taken over by the Northern Ontario Power Co., and now is a component of the Ontario provincial system.

Coldwell Renews Attack On Lack Of Health Plan

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, campaigning Tuesday night in Windsor, part of which is in the constituency of Health Minister Martin, renewed his attack on the government for not having introduced a national health plan.

Speaking to an audience of about 270 in a college hall, he said countries with smaller resources than Canada's already have such a plan. Norway, Sweden, Denmark and New Zealand all have a lower rate of maternal deaths at childbirth than this country, he said.

The cost of a plan should be borne by those who could best afford it.

"It is time that those who live on the backs of those who work should be made to pay a pretty fair share of the shot," Mr. Coldwell said.

He replied to an attack by columnist R. M. Harrison in Tuesday's Windsor Daily Star which contrasted the CCF's program for public ownership of basic resources and the steel industry with the CCF Saskatchewan government's promise not to socialize the mining or petroleum industry in the province.

There were safeguards there, said Mr. Coldwell, to ensure that the developments were made to the public interest. There was no such safeguard in the steel industry which was a law unto itself.

Earlier Mr. Coldwell was driven over to Detroit to see the new headquarters of the United Automobile Workers (CIO). He travelled by overnight train to Toronto where he is to speak tonight.

Mr. Swanston, your opponents suggest that you stress your own opinions very much in these advertisements. Any comment?

Answer:

Of course I do. I don't expect people to vote for me simply because I parrot party publicity handouts. They have every right to know what I think. They're electing a representative, not a chair-warmer. If my opponents want to be modest, I won't complain. They've got plenty of cause for modesty, considering their record.

St. Laurent, Drew Continue Campaigning In Rural Quebec

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prime Minister St. Laurent and George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, carry their election campaigning into rural Quebec today for the third straight day. CCF leader M. J. Coldwell will continue to concentrate on industrial Ontario.. Premier Manning of Alberta got into the scrap last night on the side of Social Credit. At Rimouski yesterday, Mr. Drew pursued the subject of provincial autonomy while Mr. St. Laurent spent a homey day shaking hands with hundreds of persons in towns and villages on both sides of the St. Lawrence river. Mr. Drew, speaking to an overflow audience in a city hall council room, contended that the Liberals would regard an election victory Aug. 10 as a clear mandate to demolish the federal system.

"If the present course is followed provincial legislatures will be reduced to the level of mere branch offices of the central government at Ottawa," he said.

Canada's constitution was more threatened than ever before and the Liberal administration was centralizing legislative and taxing powers.

PM WON'T AGREE

The prime minister had refused to agree to the principle of a federal-provincial conference to define tax fields. The government was trying to make permanent the temporary tax rental agreement begun in 1943 with seven provinces so that it could invade at will any provincial taxation fields.

Mr. St. Laurent went through the toughest day of his campaign so far. He spoke half-a-dozen times from flag-bedecked platforms. Crowds gathered wherever he went by car and in some places forced it to stop.

At Sorel, the prime minister's arrival signalled a big parade and Mr. St. Laurent spoke to the crowds from the deck of a ferry before crossing the St. Lawrence to Berthierville. He urged everyone to vote and talked about the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The prime minister repeated at various stops that the Liberal government aims at making all Canadians feel at home in any part of the country. That was the best road to national unity.

PC CHANCES SLIGHT

During an evening meeting in the market place at Joliette, Mr. St. Laurent claimed that election chances of the Progressive Conservatives are slight. Even in New Brunswick, where the provincial government was Conservative, there was little indication of a change federally.

Later, at Shawinigan Falls, Mr. St. Laurent said the Progressive Conservatives are "in full rout" as a national party.

At Windsor, Ont., Mr. Coldwell said countries with fewer resources than Canada already have national health plans.

"The number of maternal deaths at childbirth is a reflection on this country," he said. "Small countries like Norway, Sweden, Denmark and New Zealand all stand ahead of us in that index of health and care." The CCF is advocating a national health-insurance scheme.

SPREAD COST

Cost of such a plan should be borne by those who could afford it.

"On the man with high unearned income I would inflict the biggest tax he could pay until he did something useful," Mr. Coldwell said. "It is time that those who live on the backs of those who work should be made to pay a pretty fair share of the shot in the finance of this country."

Mr. Manning, in a five-minute radio broadcast from Edmonton, said Albertans would no more think of going back to a Liberal or Conservative provincial government than they would of going back to oxcarts or buggies.

Albertans had shown the same "spirit of independence" in the federal field by returning Social Credit members. Each year a strong group of Social Crediters, who were not "tied to the cart wheels of political orthodoxy," was sent to Ottawa. About the only argument Liberals and Progressive Conservatives could advance for electors not sending Social Credit members to Parliament was that the party's 80 candidates if elected couldn't form a government.

SO-CRED CHANCE

"This does not mean that Social Credit would sacrifice its principles to be party to any form of coalition government. But if neither old-line party has an over-all majority, a strong group of Social Crediters may well have the controlling voice in the next federal parliament."

Five cabinet ministers were campaigning in Ontario Tuesday night.

At Erin, Immigration Minister Harris said increased immigration and investment in Canada "are due directly to the reaction of the outside world to Canadian competence."

At Galt, Health Minister Martin said Canada needs the experience of Mr. St. Laurent and L. B. Pearson, external affairs minister, in her international relations.

At Peterborough, Mr. Pearson said a Korean truce will not solve the problem of the free world's relations with Communist Asia. The next four years would be "years of destiny" in which the most important problem would be peace in the Far East.

At Burlington, Trade Minister Howe contended that the Liberals have proved their ability to govern by dealing successfully with every major crisis of the last 18 years.

BEST MARKETS

At Bradford, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said there is no point in Canadian farmers trying to increase sales to Britain if they would receive less for their produce than on the domestic market. The American and Canadian markets now were the best agricultural markets in the world for Canadian farmers.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative Member of the last Commons for Peel, said at Strathroy, Ont.: "Government appointments across the country, outside the civil service, are being given only to Liberals. Non-government supporters have thus become second-class Canadians. The present government is out of joint and lop-sided. It has become careless and indifferent and throws its weight around. It is fat with power. It doesn't feel that it is accountable to anyone."

Today, Mr. St. Laurent campaigns in Quebec's Saguenay valley and Mr. Drew in that province's Eastern Townships. Mr. Coldwell will be at Toronto.

CCF LEADERS—M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the CCF party, and Mme. Therese Casgrain, Quebec provincial CCF leader, discuss federal election campaign strategy during Mr. Coldwell's visit to Montreal.

Liberals Not Promisers Martin Tells Women

INGERSOLL (CP)—The Liberal party is making no promises and does not propose to offer "bait" to Canadian electors, Health Minister Martin said Tuesday.

Speaking to more than 200 Oxford county women, Mr. Martin said he has seen "unmistakable evidence elsewhere that the people of the country prefer that sort of campaign to the promises of Opposition leader George Drew."

In another speech at Galt, Mr. Martin said Canada needs the experience of Prime Minister St. Laurent and External Affairs Minister Pearson in her international relations.

Domestic Market Best: Gardiner

BRADFORD (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Tuesday night there is no point in Canadian farmers trying to increase sales to Britain if they would receive less for their produce than on the domestic market.

The United States and Canadian markets now are the best agricultural markets in the world for Canadian farmers, he said in an election campaign address to a predominantly farm audience of about 100 persons. He spoke in support of Richard McCullogh, Liberal candidate for Dufferin-Simcoe.

With reference to a Progressive Conservative statement that the Liberal administration has lost British markets for Canadian farm produce, Mr. Gardiner said:

"We sold 140,000 head of cattle to Britain in 1952—which is more than the Tories have ever sold to Britain."

Drew's Tax Promises "Crazy Arithmetic"

TRURO, N.S. (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton said Tuesday at a Liberal rally that if Progressive Conservative leader George Drew's election promises were carried out Canada's "safe and sound financial position" would soon disappear.

He said Mr. Drew's promise to cut taxes by eliminating $300,000,000 surpluses was a sample of "crazy arithmetic." The fact was the last annual surplus was only $24,000,000.

PCs Would Give Better Deal -Diefenbaker

VANCOUVER (CP)—John Diefenbaker said Tuesday night Canada's farmers and fishermen would get a better deal under a Progressive Conservative government.

Mr. Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member for Lake Centre in the last Parliament and contesting Prince Albert in the Aug. 10 federal election, said the party, if elected, would call a special session in October.

"At this session," he told a party rally, "we will bring in floor prices so the farmer and fisherman will know what he will get before he starts the season.

"We'll fight to regain those overseas markets which the Liberals have been losing since the war.

"If Canada doesn't get them back, we'll be ruined by U.S. tariff walls and 'fire sales' and 'gifts' of American surpluses to other countries."

The Saskatchewan Progressive Conservative said: "If the government had spent less time knocking the Dominion out of the Dominion of Canada and more on these matters, the fisherman, lumberman and worker wouldn't be in the fix he is in today."

Canadian Boom Due To Competence: Harris

ERIN (CP)—Immigration Minister Harris said Tuesday night that increased immigration and investment in Canada "are due directly to the reaction of the outside world to Canadian competence."

In an address in support of Henry Hosking, member of the last Parliament for Wellington South, Mr. Harris said net immigration and natural increase are adding 400,000 persons a year to Canada's population.

Gordon Graydon Sees "Liberal Monopoly"

STRATHROY (CP)—The Liberal government is building up a "giant political family monopoly," Gordon Graydon, member for Peel in the last House, charged Tuesday night.

Following the Progressive Conservative theme of "it's time for a change," Mr. Graydon said one of the worst situations in Canada today is "too many government people."

Speaking to a meeting of Progressive Conservative campaign workers in West Middlesex, Mr. Graydon said appointments to government positions across Canada are being made from one political party.

Candidate Total 16 Short Of 1949 Figure

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The record number of candidates for a Canadian general election was set in 1945 with 954. The hot-weather campaign of 1953 likely will not produce that many aspirants for a seat in the House of Commons, but 1949's total is almost certain to be exceeded.

Up to Tuesday, five days before the official close of nominations next Monday, the number of candidates reached 832, an unofficial compilation by The Canadian Press shows. This was only 16 short of the 1949 total of 848, but 122 under that of 1945.

In 1949, 262 seats were filled; in 1945, there were 245. This year, because of redistribution, 265 are at stake. There are two two-member ridings, Queens in Prince Edward Island and Halifax.

The Liberals have nominated 262 candidates, the Progressive Conservatives 234, the CCF 154 and Social Credit 63. The Labor-Progressive (Communist) party has 98 in the field, compared with only 19 in 1949 and 68 in 1945. There are 21 others, including two Independent Progressive Conservatives in Quebec constituencies.

Forty-two women are candidates: 20 Labor-Progressives, 10 CCF, eight Progressive Conservatives, three Liberals and one Social Crediter.

The greatest concentration of candidates in any one riding is in Manitoba's Springfield where seven are running.

Following is the line-up of candidates to date (bracketed number after each province indicates number of seats in House):

Political Hatred

A few newspapers have commented upon the quietness of the present political campaign; indeed, we may have mentioned or implied something of the kind in these columns. But, quiet as it is, a note of political hatred has been heard in certain parts of the country, and we are glad that some of the party leaders have been quick to express their strong disapproval of it.

* * *

We understand that Mr. Drew has been attacked in some parts of Quebec as anti-Catholic and anti-French. We know for a fact that the tale has been spread that Mr. St. Laurent takes orders from the Pope on matters relating to Canadian immigration. We are convinced that both of these stories are lies, and we cannot imagine any politician of ordinary common sense and decency making use of them. But there are people in politics who will use any means, however dirty, to gain a momentary advantage. Such stories, however, go beyond politics; they strike at the unity of Canada, and if they gained wide belief they could split the country on religious or racial lines.

* * *

We understand also that Mr. Drew has been attacked as a Freemason. Apparently this is still a fearful accusation to many people who have lived side by side with Masons all their lives without ever being conscious of it. As well mark a man as a Knight of Columbus, or an Orangeman. All of these brotherhoods have their special opinions, but we cannot think of a case in the last twenty-five years in which these opinions have been translated into political action.

* * *

Elections are not kid-glove affairs. Hard knocks are given and taken in all such contests. But we think that a majority of Canadians are convinced that Mr. St. Laurent, Mr. Drew, Mr. Coldwell and Mr. Low are men of honour, discretion and patriotism; they are not plotting to throw Canada into the arms of Rome, or to purge it of Catholics, or to do anything ridiculous of the kind. They want to govern the country, as far as possible, for the benefit of everybody.

* * *

Criticism of a man's record is legitimate politics. Attacks on his personal character and beliefs—provided that there is nothing scandalous in any of these—is dirty politics. And the trouble with dirty politics is that it stains not only the people who are directly connected with it, but it spreads its dirt everywhere, like a drop of ink in a glass of water.

The Hon. L. B. Pearson has said: "It should be possible to criticize individuals and policies with dignity and without vindictiveness." It is perfectly possible to do so, and the speaker who does otherwise does greater harm than he understands.

No Bermuda

The British had set great store on a Bermuda conference, but now the capital ship designated to take Churchill to the island, and the tons of special radio and television equipment ready for air transport to it will not go, for there will be no Bermuda conference. That was the clearest fact which emerged from the Washington meeting of the British and French Foreign Ministers with the American Secretary of State Mr. Dulles.

The meeting, which ended last week, also established a patina of cordiality and the decision to propose to Soviet Russia that a four-Power meeting of Foreign Ministers be held in early autumn. But there will be no meeting of heads of state, which was dear to Churchill's heart.

Churchill, it is said, wishes to create conditions of world peace before he retires from the political scene; he seems to have hoped to secure them dramatically and even at once through a meeting with Malenkov, the American President, and himself, with possibly, also, the French Premier. This dream has been deflated by the Washington conference. The decision to ask for a meeting of foreign ministers is a compromise between the Eisenhower and the Churchill positions, but weighted on the side of the Americans. The suggested meeting with Mr. Molotov (Soviet Foreign Minister) will not, if the American State Department can help it, deal with more than the reunification of Germany and the holding of elections to establish a free all-German government. It will not deal with all questions of international tension.

The Washington conference was to be a prelude to the Bermuda conference, which it was hoped, would be forerunner of a four-Power conference of heads of State. Now there will be no Bermuda conference, and the proposed Vienna meeting with its suggested limited agenda is by no means the high-powered, highest-grade conference which Churchill hoped might take place and lead to peace beyond his time.

It was a dramatic hope, but Churchill's techniques may not be—and in official diplomatic circles are said not to be—right at the present juncture of East-West affairs and at the moment of Communist crises in Europe.

The Carter Cracked A Sudden Whip

An important traveller in Canada remarked many years ago that Canada had two seasons: winter and July. Canadians are inclined to believe it, because both are so strong in their effects that they erase the memory of any other seasons. So we have Canada the land of perpetual snow ("Our lady of the snows," Kipling called it) and Canada of July heat, of damnably hot days like this. Our two seasons speak well for Canadian hardihood. We are damned by cold winters, we are damned by hot weather in summer, and, damme, we don't seem to be damned at all. At least others seem to think we are favoured above most nations, and we ourselves do not think ill of our fortunes and future.

Our extreme weather is recognized in our poetry; not all of it has to do with first snows and winter lakes; there are lines about summer heat and air which can only sway and beat. At a time like this it is cooling to read, however, about the solid frost coming down with might and main to set the rivers under bolt and bar. Our favourite hot-weather poem, a favourite from school days, is Wilfrid Wilson Gibson's Ice-Cart

Perched on my city office-stool
I watched with envy, while a cool
And lucky carter handled ice . . .
And I was wandering in a trice,
Far from the gray and grimy heat
Of that intolerable street,
Beneath the still, cold ruby glow
Of everlasting Polar night . . .

And so the poet's revery on delicious cool and polar scenes continues, through packs of seals, ice-floes, drifts of snow:

Till I was buried fathoms deep
Beneath that cold, white drifting sleep—
Sleep drifting deep,
Deep drifting sleep . . .

The carter cracked a sudden whip:
I clutched my stool with startled grip,
Awakening to the grimy heat
Of that intolerable street.

And so with Mr. Gibson, who, for an English writer, had a pretty accurate notion of Canadian swelter, we awake to the heat of the intolerable day and hope that by the time these lines reach our readers, the humidity has lessened as the evening comes on.

To fit our longest season, winter, Canadians have the homely welcome: "Come on in and put your feet in the oven." Our other extreme season, July, should have an equally hospitable and fitting greeting: "Come on in and put your head in the fridge."

A Wise Choice

The decision of Simpsons-Sears Limited to build their first department store in Eastern Canada in Peterborough is a striking example of the rapid development of this city of ours.

Visitors to the United States have often commented on the Sears-Roebuck stores which are built on the outskirts of cities in order to provide ample parking space for customers. Peterborough is more fortunate than most other cities of its size in the amount of parking space in the city, but the advantages of being able to make all one's purchases under the same roof, with a free parking lot adjacent to the store, appeal to many busy housewives. In these days when nearly every family possesses a car, such a development is made possible.

We appreciate the compliment in being chosen as the first testing-ground for this idea in Eastern Canada. We also applaud the discernment of the company in selecting Peterborough, with its sound administration, diversified industry and growing population. It will not have escaped the attention of the company that this city serves as a shopping centre for a wide rural area. They have made a wise choice.

EIGHTH WONDER OF WALES:

Friendly Music At Eisteddfod

By CYRIL DUNN

ALMOST as soon as I set foot in Llangollen a native of the place fell into step beside me and said: "Have you seen it yet? It's an absolute marvel."

He meant the fabulous tent in which the Llangollen International Musical Eisteddfod was being held and he was not exaggerating. The tent is built on the lines of an abbey church, with a vast nave and swept-back transepts, with room inside for eight or nine thousand people. As a marvel it certainly outshines the town's fourteenth century bridge, once regarded as one of the seven wonders of Wales.

It may be that to those who are not dazzled by the sheer epic bulk of the place the tent has revealed in the last day or two certain minor deviations from the ideal as the setting for a musical festival. A strong wind has been blowing down from the majestic hills that encompass Llangollen. Periodically the canvas roof has given a billowing sort of lurch. A pole transfixing the stage on which the performers appear rises with a prolonged groan from its socket and falls abruptly back again. These sounds as of a great sailing ship labouring at sea have obscured for us such refinements as the extreme pianissimo favoured by some of the Spanish and Italian singers.

✧ ✧ ✧

EVEN SO, the tent on the high hillside above the River Dee is a charming and splendid marvel. What beats it hollow as an example of the marvellous is the festival itself. Llangollen is a little unpretentious Welsh town with three thousand inhabitants. The townspeople themselves, folk whose organising ambitions might reasonably be confined to an occasional local pageant, run this international festival and have done so with mounting success for seven years. The leading light in the whole thing is a local schoolmaster. The man in charge of publicity is the town's rating officer. The director of music is a local musician with a small publishing business. They now control an event attended daily by vast international crowds. It deals in many thousands of pounds; it has this year attracted so many entries from so many nations that some have had to be refused; and the Queen herself has agreed to visit it.

✧ ✧ ✧

SO FAR AS a visitor may judge, the townspeople are quite unspoiled by their growing fame. Nobody seems to be exploiting the festival or making anything excessive out of it. The musical compositions are entirely amateur and so, it seems, are most of the organisers. All sorts of people work for the festival for nothing, among them the local women who go to the tent at seven each morning to renew the flowers.

There are singers and dancers here this year from more than twenty nations. Few of them have much money of their own and getting from their homes to Wales costs a great deal. A group from Burgundy in France, for instance, spent 450,000 francs (approximately $1,300) on the journey; they raised every sou of it themselves. Some nationals, notably the Austrians, have had State help, but for lots of the performers it has meant months of frugal saving-up. From the moment they reach the British Isles they have come under the beneficent rule of the Llangollen organisation. Llangollen bus drivers, normally confined to the dramatic valleys of their own district, have been driving through the night to all the remoter English seaports to bring the visitors back to Wales free of charge. Here in the Dee valley the foreigners are billeted on the people, most of them in small working-class houses. This is done deliberately, to mix the nationalities as much as possible. Many of the Welsh are almost as passionately devoted to the ideal of world brotherhood as they are to music, and to this ideal—without labouring a point which in Wales can be taken for granted—the festival is primarily devoted. And although the local people are entitled to a small sum from the festival's coffers for the hospitality they give, many of them make no claim for payment.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE WELSH are a small nation, a mere handful of people, though with singularly strong national feelings. For a town scarcely bigger than some English villages to undertake an international festival on the largest scale is bound to seem less remarkable in Wales than almost anywhere else, because the Welsh are used to starting everything from small beginnings.

One has to be in Llangollen to appreciate how unaffected and how vigorous this Eisteddfod is. At professional festivals the performers husband their resources between appearances. It is very much otherwise in Llangollen; the Eisteddfod is by no means confined to the tent. One is constantly getting caught up in groups of Bretons playing bagpipes in the street or becoming involved with a column from the Netherlands singing some traditional marching song on their way to the Post Office. Everywhere one gets the most exotic expressions of sartorial nationalism. The effect in Llangollen is rather more fantastic than it would be elsewhere, the architecture of the town being somewhat prim and severe after the fashion of the Welsh, who tend to be perceptive of beauty only with their ears.

THE LOCAL TAVERNS ring nightly with singing of the highest quality and the most erudite kind. The Ukrainians—huge passionate men whose chests begin to bulge majestically at the waistline—seem to find it quite impossible to sit down anywhere without bursting into a seventeenth century Cossack song, full of violence and shouts of "Heh!" And as soon as they do, the local Welsh crowd in, well-nigh beside themselves with emotional excitement, to initiate nightlong and richly illustrated discussions on the Celic and Slavonic preference for the minor mode.

The Eisteddfod is not perhaps quite so strictly world-ranging as it seems to be on paper. On the second day, devoted to folk music, there were Indonesian and Javanese dancers in the programme; but they came to Llangollen from the universities of Holland. Indeed, the musicians for the Javanese dancers, though competent up to the highest native standards, were unmistakeably Dutch. The Ukrainians, a group which insists more than most on its national origin, are now all iron-foundry workers in Manchester. The Czechs came here from London, the Latvians from Leeds, and the Poles from somewhere in the Midlands. But the feeling these refugees put into their music was not less moving because they are exiles; on the contrary.

✧ ✧ ✧

AND THERE were many who came straight to Llangollen from their native homes—the French, the Italians, the brilliant Yugoslavs (they always seem to win), the Spanish (one lot came from Madrid in their own bus), the yodelling Swiss, the Austrians and Germans, and above all the Norwegians. There were 119 people from Norway alone, most of them young students, and the nicest-looking folk you could hope to meet. And there were also, of course, the English. In case it should be thought that these singers and dancers are not foreigners in Wales, is should be noted that the master of ceremonies first made his announcements in Welsh and then said "And now, for the benefit of our foreign visitors . . ." and repeated the whole thing in English.

The folk-singing contest was won by Yugoslavia, with a choir from Madrid second and one from the Austrian Tyrol third. In the folk dancing, the joint group of English dancers from Loftus in North Yorkshire and Manley in Cheshire won, with France second and Java third.

It Can Become A Dreadfully Cold, Unfriendly World

Protestantism and Charges of Communism

(CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR)

HAVE the Protestant clergy in the United States provided over the past 20 years or so, a particularly large number of recruits to the cause of communism?

If they have, then the Protestant churches ought to be even more alert than they already are to expose and expunge the poison from its midst.

If they have not, then nothing could be more urgent than to protect Protestantism from such attack, since around the whole free world it is Protestantism and its adherence to spiritual individualism which stand as the strongest bulwark against the inroads, in both the minds and governments of men, of fascism, communism, and tyranny.

✧ ✧ ✧

I would assume that anyone who would answer in the affirmative the question whether American Protestant clergy have produced many supporters of communism would first take a long, careful, thorough look at the evidence.

J. B. Matthews, writing in the July issue of the American Mercury on "Reds and Our Churches," has taken a look at some of the evidence, at least, and comes out with such a sweeping indictment of the Protestant record that he either must be confident his facts are beyond dispute or have little interest in the repute of the religious faith with which most Americans are affiliated.

Mr. Matthews' article takes on significance beyond that of one man's opinion contributed to a magizine because of the fact that he has just been made executive director of the Senate investigating subcommittee headed by Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R) of Wisconsin.

He brings against American Protestantism this gravest of charges:

"The largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States is today composed of Protestant clergymen."

He rests this charge, which those who want to see Protestantism besmirched and undermined will welcome, on the assertion that "during the last 17 years the Communist Party has enlisted the support of at least 7,000 Protestant clergymen (as) party members, fellow travellers, espionage agents, party-line adherents, and unwitting dupes."

✧ ✧ ✧

If there are 7,000 ordained pro-Communist Protestant ministers, that is 7,001 too many, and I believe that the leaders and members of the Protestant denominations would think so, too.

It is regrettable, therefore, that Mr. Matthews does not provide the evidence on which his readers can determine whether they think his conclusion is substantial.

He does cite the association of some Protestant clergymen with some established Communist-front organizations, and he does cite some fellow-travelling activities of some other Protestant ministers.

But they do not add up to 7,000—far from it.

He cites the signing of a press release by 528 clergymen from the National Committee to Repeal the McCarran Act. Mr. Matthews lumps these 528 into his overall figure by listing the committee as a "Communist-front organization," although the Attorney General has not ruled it a Comumnist-front organization. Since President Eisenhower and such conservative Republican senators as Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Ferguson of Michigan, Watkins of Utah, and Dirksen of Illinois favor substantial changes in the McCarran Act, criticism of this legislation can hardly be considered proof of communism.

✧ ✧ ✧

Again, among five whom Mr. Matthews names as "top pro-Soviet propagandists" is the name of the Rev. Jack R. McMichael and an agency called "the Methodist Federation for Social Action." His Methodist colleagues got on to the Rev. Mr. McMichael and reorganized him out of his job.

Individuals who try to use the Protestant church as a haven and a facade within which to destroy everything which democracy and Protestantism stand for deserve no support and should be exposed. "Preachers are people," says Mr. Matthews, and he is right. Subversives are individuals, and individual subversives ought to be brought from under cover.

But to say that any Protestant clergymen are supporting communism as a "group" is not attacking just the individual subversive but is attacking Protestantism itself and, wittingly or not, is attacking for some reason the most powerful single force arrayed against tyranny of the mind and tyranny of the state, including communism.

✧ ✧ ✧

It is pertinent to recall that last March 11, before any question of a congregational investigation of the churches arose, the general board of The National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. affirmed that "conspirators in any area of life"—whether clergymen or not—"should be discovered, tried in American tribunals, and, where found guilty, punished."

But let us not put Protestantism on trial in America.

Protestant leaders have declared:

"No body of citizens is more alert to the threat of Communist thought and conspiracy both to the Christian faith and to freedom than the Christian churches. Free ministers in free pulpits, preaching to free people the liberating truth of Christ, are a chief bulwark of American freedom and the best guarantee of its future."

And the record has proved them right.

For the record is that wherever in the world Protestantism has been strongest, resistance to communism has been outstandingly successful, and in some Western European countries today where Protestantism has not yet gained root, there communism is making its most dangerous headway.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Jesus going up to Jerusalem took the twelve disciples apart in the way, and said unto them, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem; and the Son of man shall be betrayed unto the chief priests and unto the scribes, and they shall condemn him to death, and shall deliver him to the Gentiles to mock, and to scourge, and to crucify him: and the third day he shall rise again. (Matt. 20: 17-19.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, casting lots upon them, what every man should take. (Mark 15: 24.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre. And they entered in, and found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, behold, two men stood by them in shining garments: and as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here, but is risen: remember how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee, saying, The Son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again. (Luke 24: 2-7.)

Churchill Is Not Pleased With Proposed Conference

BY JOSEPH NEWMAN

LONDON, JULY 00 Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill had good reason to fume over the decision in Washington to invite Russia to a four power conference on the foreign ministers level at the end of September.

That is entirely different from a big-four conference on the Presidential- Prime Ministerial level which he had been agitating for.

Sir Winston wanted a top level meeting with Russian Premier Georgi Malenkov at which the big four leaders would discuss informally and without an agenda anything and everything which occured to them.

Sir Winston, in effect, was advocating a "lets get to know each other" meting with Malenkov in the belief that such exploratory talks might succeed in discovering some basis for agreement.

Instead, Sir Winston, who is resting at his nearby country home on the advice of his doctors, finds the big three Western powers, including his own government, making arrangments for a meeting of foreign ministers with Russian Foreign Minister Viacheslav Molotov. And the agenda is fixed firmly arrangments for free eletions in East and West Germany.

From the point of view of Sir Winston and those who support him, the announcement by the three foreign ministers in Washington was a negative one. To them, it carried the situation back to the Western note to Russia of Sept. 23, inviting Russia to discuss free elections in Germany, and not ahead to samething more promising.

Britain stands solidly by the Sept. 23rd note and Sir Winston in a message to West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer reiterated his adherence to it.

At the same time, responsible British officials do not expect Russia to accept Western demands for the Soviet surrender of Eastern Germany and its incorporation into a reunited Germany which would be free to join the European Army, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization or any other element of the Western Defense Alliance.

On the contrary, there is good reason to suspect that Mr. Molotov, if he accepts a meeting with his opposite number, will adhere to the previous Soviet offer to reunite the two divided parts of Germany on the condition that the future single coutry remains neutral and independent of both East and West.

CONTINUED DEADLOCK

With the position on both sides frozen — one insisting that a united Germany remain neutral and the other that it belong to the Western Alliance — the proposed conference of foreign ministers offers the prospect of continued deadlock.

That's the very thing Sir Winston wanted to avoid and that is why he suggested a top-level meeting which would not necessarily be foredoomed to failure by an agenda which held both sides prisoner.

Instead of charging into the subject of Germany—as the Western foreign ministers have just done —Sir Winston would have sounded Mr. Malenkov out on other matters and would have felt his way warily toward the heart of the East-West struggle in Europe.

The procedure adopted in Washington—namely, to revert to the September offer by the Western powers—is recognized as a victory for the position taken by President Eisenhower and a defeat for that advocated by Sir Winston.

A foreign office spokesman suggested that a four-power meeting of foreign ministers does not necessarily exclude the possibility of a later meeting by the heads of the four governments as originally proposed by Sir Winston. The defensive nature of such observations reflects the setback which is felt here.

ANOTHER WIN—Ira Dundas' juvenile Petes chalked up their second victory in OMLA juvenile play Tuesday night when they defeated Orillia 8 to 7. This chat prior to game-time between goalie Gary Feltham and Al Foote (back row) and Ray Ward and Jack Hobart (front) paid off. Hobart sparked the Petes with three goals while Feltham came through with several spectacular stops on close-in Orillia drives. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

UEW Blank Revoy Motors Behind Dalton's Pitching Seabrooke's Edge TPT Petes

Howie Dalton hurled shutout ball for UEW Tuesday night to blank Revoy's 4-0 in the nightcap of the city softball doubleheader. Meanwhile in the opening game Seabrooke Motors tripped up the TPT Petes 5-3. The UEW victory forced a two-way tie for second place in the final standing since the regular schedule ended with Tuesday night's games. Play-offs will begin after the factory holidays.

Dalton opposed speedy Dick West who pitched his usual fair game only to taste another defeat due to the inability of his team to rally sufficiently behind him. Dalton, however, was in superb form aided by near-perfect support afield. He was touched for but four hits, one a double by Cam Wasson, fanned four and passed none. West was nicked for 11 hits, three by the ever-dangerous Jack White, a homer and two doubles, struck out six and walked three.

UE scored one in each of the fourth, sixth, eighth and ninth innings with Conlin, Taylor, Dalton and White each driving in a run. White's homer in the eighth was a terrific liner over the fence in left centre field .Dalton and Bill Wood each had two safeties; while for the hapless losers, Dick McCracken hit safely twice.

Fielding features in the nightcap were supplied by Neil Wasson, Gord Henry and Red Wasson in the Revoy infield; while in the outer gardens, White and Bob Smith pulled off amazing catches to electrify a fine turnout of fans.

Jimmy Driscoll took the mound for Bill Sullivan's band and twirled steady ball to edge out a victory over Bob Hart and Ken Guilfoyle in a fine even struggle. The pint-sized hurler limited the Bennett boys to seven hits, struck out five in seven innings and walked three; his rivals gave up but six bingles, fanned nine and passed three, with the veteran Guilfoyle getting credit for seven whiffs and giving but three hits.

Hart, a newcomer, started for Transports and had some difficulty in the first inning as timely smashes by Jensen and Bill Sullivan (whose well-placed double to right centre drove in two runs) accounted for three markers. Seabrooke's added a single in the second as Spencer tripled and scored on Currie's double. Each team tallied in the third, and TP's made a strong bid in the fifth as successive bingles by Castle, Mackness and Bigford and Leonard's fielders' choice netted two. But the rally fell short and neither Guilfoyle or Driscoll weakened in the latter stages of a fine duel. Spencer and Bill Sullivan with two safeties, led Seabrooke's offensively; while for Transports, Don Bigford and Mackness each hit safely twice and drove in a run. Leonard fielded well, drove in a run; and Hermie Castle played his usual inspirational game for TPT's.

Juveniles Defeat Orillia To Chalk Up Second Win

Ira Dundas' juvenile Petes recorded their second victory in Ontario Minor lacrosse play Tuesday night when they turned back a last-quarter drive by Orillia to eke out an 8-7 victory at Miller Bowl. In their five games the juvenile Petes have won two, lost two and the fifth will be decided by an OMLA board.

In their first meeting with the Orillia club, the Petes suffered an overdose of penalties, finally dropping an 8-6 decision. Tuesday night the Dundas-coached boys romped to an early 5-0 lead in the first half, but again penalties nearly ruined that lead. But along with good back checking and goaltending by Gary Feltham, the Petes staved off the Orillia attack in the late stages of the fourth.

Jack Hobart with his rush-rush "Ross Powless" play sparked the Petes to win. His close-checking, particularly in the first half, his roaming for loose balls and his first half hat-trick more than helped the Petes to the victory.

A loose ball early in the first quarter gave Hobart his first tally. Later in the period another loose ball picked up by Ward put the Petes ahead 2-0.

Hobart began to roll again in the second quarter and in the first six minutes notched two more to put the Petes up 4-0 Before the half ended Tiny Hunt rifled in the fifth counter for a 5-0 score at the half.

Orillia's long-legged Kehoe who was the only effective out-of-towner in the first half hit his scoring stride in the third period. From close-in he scored Orillia's first goal. Drury for the Petes followed up with the sixth counter before Kehoe drifted in twice more for a 6-3 score at three-quarter time.

Hunt, on the hunt for openings throughout the game, sent the Petes ahead in the fourth 7-3. Orillia's Rogers came back minutes later to make it 7-4, and then a penalty to the Petes resulted in Scarlett breaking in for the fifth tally.

Hunt for a second time in the period put the Petes another up with a blazing long shot. But then penalties again hit the Petes. Surgenor brought the Orillia club one closer at the 13-minute mark, followed a minute later by Rogers' second goal.

Feltham kicked out several close-in drives in the last minute to preserve the victory.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

As we predicted in this column Tuesday, one night's results could change the standing of the rinks—it happened Tuesday night. When Don Anderson's rink doubled the score on A. Black, it left four rinks tied for first place — H. Staunton, A. Black, W. Jeffries, and F. Martin. We wonder who'll be leading the parade after Thursday's games?

Tonight: Mixed rinks. Draw from the board.

It's the half-holiday again, and our bowlers are taking in tournaments at Cannington, Lindsay, and Port Hope.

Men bowlers: Don't forget, on Thursday night you are asked to play the postponed games of Tuesday, June 2.

Top Intercounty Teams Lose To Lowly Ones

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two top contenders in the Intercounty Baseball League reflected sadly today that there's a world of difference between a night off and an off night.

Front-running Kitchener Panthers and third-place Waterloo Tigers, locked in a tight four-team race for league leadership, figured to have an easy time last night against second-division opposition.

But Panthers were on the short end of a 7-5 count against seventh-place Guelph Maple Leafs and the Tigers were edged 9-8 as last-place St Thomas Elgins pushed over three runs in the ninth inning.

Panthers stranded 14 base-runners as southpaw Walt Jeffries won his second straight victory on the mound. Guelph had a 6-0 lead at the end of two innings before the league-leaders knew what hit them. Kenny Yount drove in three of the tallies with a double and a single.

Jeffries needed help from right-hander Johnny Clark in the seventh inning and Clark ran into trouble in the ninth, but got the side out with the bases loaded and one run in.

At St. Thomas, Elgins, victors in only 10 of their 38 starts, spotted Waterloo a 5-1 lead at the end of three innings, took a 6-5 lead in the fifth, blew it in the sixth and finally staged their photo-finish.

An error on Jimmy Trew set the stage for the winning rally. Ray Reitnour's double and Don Butler's triple tied the score and Butler eventually came home on a long fly by Jimmy Caffrey.

Augie Herchenratter paced Waterloo's attack with successive homers in the second and third innings.

The results narrowed Kitchener's lead over the idle Brantford Red Sox to five percentage points while Waterloo sank into a virtual third-place tie with London Majors, a game behind the leaders.

The Red Sox entertain fifth-place Oshawa Merchants tonight while Kitchener plays at London and Guelph visits St. Thomas.

Lindsay Lawn Bowler In District Finals

LINDSAY (ENS) — Lindsay Community Lawn Bowling Club is represented in Provincial District 14 playdowns by Lloyd Davis, who succeeded in winning his first game against Cannington and is playing in the second round at Cannington today.

Davis had to drag the jack with his last bowl to win at Lindsay.

In the doubles, Leo Rogers and O. Culbert of Lindsay lost by 5 points. In the rink games, Lindsay lost on the last end to Skip W. Livingstone of Cannington.

The local rink comprises Harold Dickey, Bert Everson, Percy Skitch and S. Elsden, skip.

Trailermen Defeat Fergus In Rugged Game Keep Pace With Athletics

Bob Thorpe's Peterborough Trailermen extended their winning streak to seven games in Fergus Tuesday night when they worked their way through close, rugged play for a 9-8 victory. Although it was rough and close throughout the way, referees Joe Murphy and Lou Vipond handed out only six penalties. Tonight at Miller Bowl the Trailermen will have the opportunity to climb even with the St. Catharines Athletics with a win over Hamilton.

Meanwhile the league-leading Athletics ran into unexpectedly expert defence from the last-place Mimico Mounties. They just managed to eke out a low-scoring 11-5 victory.

Dom Smith scored three goals to pace the St. Catharines' marksmen while Bill Nelson, Al Frick and Johnny Dewar all found the range twice. Rookie Larry Ruse, up from the junior ranks, potted two for the Mounties.

Coach Thorpe and chunky Harry Kazarian, former Owen Sound Crescent star, clashed and were promptly given 10-minute penalties for their fight. This was one of the game highlights.

After Fergus got the first two goals of the game, Peterborough came back to tie it up and go ahead 3 to 2 by the end of the first quarter. In the second period they again outscored the Thistles and were leading 6 to 4 at the half.

In the third frame each team scored two to make it 8 to 6 for the Petes at the start of the fourth period. This was the only quarter that Fergus outscored Peterborough but only by one goal. The two goals' deficit was too much to make up.

The Peterborough attack was led by Roger Smith and Nit O'Hearn with two goals each. Singles were scored by Jack Mason, Ross Powless, Bob Thorpe, Don Ashbee and Rock Batley. Former Fergus Bob Dobbie and Ron Landoni scored three and Elmer Harris got two.

Lineups:

Peterborough: Goal, Wootton; defence, Fitzgerald, Slater; centre, Mason; wings, Powless, Smith; alternates, O'Hearn, Thorpe, Ashbee, Vitarelli, Robinson, Magee, Batley.

Bisons Hold Lead Over Royals, Split Twin Bill

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons held on to their 1½-game lead over Montreal in the International Baseball League Tuesday night, splitting a twin-bill with Ottawa Athletics, while the Royals did the same with Toronto Maple Leafs.

But the most important game of the night turned out to be the Baltimore-Rochester affair. The Orioles defeated the Red Wings 3-1 to jump back into third place, within two games of the league leaders and a half-game behind Montreal.

Veteran Lefty Ken Heintzelman got the Baltimore victory. He needed help in the ninth, after blanking the Wings for eight innings.

LEAFS BEAT ROYALS

At Montreal, the fifth-place Leafs took the abbreviated contest 8-3, getting an early jump on the Royals. In the second game, Tom Lasorda's strong left arm and the homers of Ken Wood, Dick Whitman and Charlie Thompson, gave Montreal a 7-1 victory and broke the club's longest losing streak since 1930—seven games.

Sandy Amoros, the Royals' No. 1 man with the bat, walloped his 15th circuit clout of the season in the opener.

Lasorda's second-game win was his 11th of the campaign.

In the Canadian capital, the seventh-place Athletics won the nightcap 7-4, after Buffalo took the abbreviated opener 4-3.

TAKE ADVANTAGE

The Bisons took advantage of Bill Harrington's wildness in the opener scoring three runs in the first inning and the clinching run in the third. The As scored one run in the sixth on Taft Wright's homer and two more in a seventh-inning rally.

The big blow of the second game came in the bottom of the sixth, when Joe Taylor hammered a two-out, bases-loaded double to break a 4-4 tie.

In another game, Syracuse Chiefs outlasted Springfield Cubs for a 10-7 victory. The game was marred by nine errors, the Chiefs winning with five unearned runs in the fifth.

Senior A Votes Out Oshawa Application

STRATFORD (CP)—Representatives of the eight clubs in the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A division recommended to the OHA Tuesday night that it refuse applications from Windsor and Oshawa to join the group.

The senior clubs voted down the applications by a 5-3 margin because of travelling expenses and difficulty of players obtaining sufficient time off for the longer trips.

Bill Butcher of Windsor told the meeting the Windsor arena will be converted into a storage building if the city's entry is refused. Last year's Windsor Junior A franchise has been transferred to Hamilton.

Big Tennis Guns To Face Each Other

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Ranking players are due to join the unknowns along the sidelines today at the half-way mark of the week-long Canadian Tennis Championships.

The draw has the big names in both men's and women's singles tangling on the clay courts of the Toronto Tennis Club in what promises to be the most keenly-fought matches of the tournament to date. At least eight matches between seeded players are on the schedule.

Nudging each other for prominence are matches between Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., seeded No. 3 among Canadian players and seventh-seeded Tony Vincent of New York, one of the best baseline players in the business; and Lorne Main of Vancouver and Toronto, No. 1 in the domestic section, and Mario Llames of the Mexican Davis Cup team.

Others on tap: Australia's Mervyn Rose, outstanding favorite to pick up the Canadian men's championship, and Don Platt of Toronto one of Ontario's most promising young players and No. 7 seed.

Paul Willey of Vancouver, seeded behind Main and Bedard, meets Kosei Kamo of the Japanese Davis Cup team in another ranking match.

Among the women, first-seeded Mrs. Hanna Sladek of Montreal is pitted against fourth-ranking Mrs. Mary Lou Kunnan of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Kay Malcolm of Chicago, seeded No. 6, meets Pat Macken of Montreal, third on the domestic list.

Tuesday's play was dominated by the showing of Canadian and Australian Davis Cup players who made a clean sweep of their second-round matches in easy style.

Main took just 25 minutes to dispose of Fred Reaume of Hamilton in two love sets. Bedard made it 6-1, 6-2 over Toronto's John Irvine and Willey got past Clint Nettleton of Austin, Tex., 6-1, 7-5. The Vancouver player carried Nettleton throughout most of the second set in an effort to make it a game for the small crowd of about 150.

The Australian Davis Cup players—Rose and Rex Hartwig—took care of two Japanese cuppers. Rose knocked over Masanobu Kimura 6-1, 6-2 and Hartwig, second seed in the foreign section defeated Jiro Yamagishi, 7-5, 6-0. George Worthington, also of Australia and seeded No. 3, completed the sweep of down-under stars with a 6-3, 6-0 second-round decision over Rafael Ortega of the Mexican Davis Cup team.

In the women's singles, Mrs. Sladek defeated Marjorie Forrester of Edmonton, 6-1, 6-0 and Miss Malcolm won over Teresa Helie, Montreal, 6-0, 6-4. Mrs. Kunnan, the Florida beauty, eliminated Jean McLeod of Toronto 6-1, 6-2. Montreal's Pat Macken took Mary Nunns of Toronto 6-2, 6-3.

Detroit Yawl Wins Class A Cruising Race

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) The Detroit yawl Escapade was awarded the Mackinac Cup Tuesday for the best corrected time in the class, A cruising division of the Port Huron-to-Mackinac race.

The Escapade also was the first boat to finish the race. All but two of the fleet of 66 now are across the finish line. A few dropped out along the way.

The Canadian Yacht Rangoon, owned by J. Blunt, finished far behind the pace set by the Escapade with a corrected time of 55:25.26.

The Escapade, which finished Monday, had a corrected time of 45 hours, 42 minutes and 39 seconds, easily the best for the class A cruising division. She is owned by Detroit industrialist Wendell Anderson.

Oarsmen Wait Start Of Canadian Henley

By CRAIG SWAYZE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP)—Sweat-suited oarsmen ran off extra weight and boatmen made feverish last-minute checks of their shells today as they awaited the start of the first race of the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta down the Old Welland Canal course at 5 p.m. EDT.

The four-day regatta, boasting the largest list of entries in its 71-year history, will see a total of 64 races between today and Saturday night, 30 of them elimination heats for the 34 scheduled finals. All of the races have more than one crew entered, meaning that for the first time in more than 25 years there will be no row-overs for Canadian championships.

The host, St. Catharines Rowing Club has 27 entries in this year's Henley, seven more than Buffalo West Sides, 1952 regatta champions. The Canadian club is making a strong bid to return the Maple Leafs trophy, emblematic of the Henley championship, to Canada.

Detroit Boat Club will contest 18 events. Hamilton Leanders has entered 13 crews and scullers. Detroit Rowing Club will make 10 appearances and Toronto Argonauts nine.

Buffalo, which finished third to Philadelphia Vespers and the Detroit Boat Club in last week-end's United States National Regatta at Philadelphia, arrived here Tuesday. They were followed by 11 men from the New York Athletic Club.

West Sides will concentrate on the heavy eight event sand try to retain the Ned Hanlan Memorial Trophy for senior eights for the seventh year in succession. The New Yorkers will be headed by 37-year-old Joe Angyal who will scull the championship singles, the open dash, the 145-pound dash and stroke the NYAC 145-pound doubles.

Vespers were scheduled to arrive today with Coach Jack Kelly, Jr. ready to repeat his iron man role of last week-end when he won the championship singles, the open dash, stroked Vesper's winning senior doubles and their victorious senior eight. The former Diamond Sculls winner will scull in the championship singles here as well as the doubes and eight.

All shells this year are required to cary a rubber ball over their prow to guard against injuries in case of collision. There have been several instances in the past of oarsmen and scullers being impaled on the steel-tipped bow of a moving boat.

Lawn Mower May Be Reason Phillies To Miss Pennant

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

The team that wins the National League pennant this year should give its members little lawn mowers to remind them of why Philadelphia Phillies didn't win. The Phillies might still pull the big surprise, but it gets more unlikely by the day, particularly the days when Curt Simmons pitches and loses.

This looked like a great year for Simmons. During the first month of the season he and Robin Roberts formed the most-feared left-right pitching combination in the majors.

But one sunny day in early June Curt decided to cut some grass and he ran his power mower over his left foot. Part of his big toe had to be amputated.

WINS ONE OF FOUR

Simmons was sidelined a full month. He's been back in action 2½ weeks now, but not with anything like his early success. In four starts he has won just once.

Last night the Phillies threw Roberts and Simmons at the Milwaukee Braves. Roberts won his 16th game with ease 10-0 but Simmons didn't make it, giving up five runs and eight hits in six innings. The final score was 7-3.

So, instead of gaining ground, the Phils still are seven games out of first place and three behind the Braves.

Both Phils and Braves lost half-a-game to pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers who trampled Chicago 15-4. St. Louis whipped New York 10-6 and climbed back into first division at the expense of the Giants. Cincinnati defeated Pittsburgh 7-2.

INDIANS BEAT YANKS

Cleveland Indians finally defeated New York Yankees in Cleveland 8-3 with Bob Lemon winning his 13th game. Detroit shaded Washington 8-7 in 10 innings. Rain washed out night games in Chicago between the White Sox and Boston and in St. Louis between the Browns and Philadelphia.

Cleveland's victory, a 13-hit assault on three New York pitchers, cut the Yankees' lead over Chicago to 5½ games and moved the Indians back into third place, 10 games back.

Al Rosen, who makes a specialty of first-inning home runs, put the Indians in front with a two-run blast off Johnny Sain. Bob Kuzava came in when Cleveland poured across three runs in the fifth and Ray Scarborough finished up. The success was Cleveland's first at home against the world champions this season.

TIGERS COME BACK

Washington appeared to have its game won against Detroit at least twice only to have the Tigers come back, first to tie, and then to win on Don Lund's two-run double in the 10th. Mickey Vernon put the Senators ahead with a three-run homer in the ninth but Matt Batts evened things for Detroit with a ninth-inning homer. Then Washington scored one run in the 10th.

The Cubs used six pitchers in a futile attempt to silence the Dodger bats but only ancient Dutch Leonard met with any success. He pitched three scoreless innings. Against the other five, the Dodgers piled up 15 runs. The loss was the 14th for Warren Hacker, tops in both leagues.

The Cardinals scored four runs off Sal Maglie in the first inning at New York, biggest opening frame they've had in a month. Two of the tallies came on a home run by Stan Musial. Rip Repulski contributed a three-run homer in the fourth. Gerry Staley got credit for his 13th victory.

Crafty Ken Raffensberger gave the Piratzs 10 hits but only one of them — Frank Thomas' two-run homer—was damaging. The Cincinnati lefthander more than balanced Thomas' blow with a three-run home run of his own.

Campaign Costs Near $7,000,000 For Federal Voting

OTTAWA (CP) — It's going to cost a record amount to run the election and the current campaign —perhaps around $7,000,000.

Of this, some $5,500,000 will come out of the public treasury. The political parties and their supporters will spend $1,500,000 or more.

By far the biggest amount will be the official cost of the election and the preliminary work, which will be up from the $4,250,000 figure of the 1949 voting. This is because there are additional constituences and unit charges for almost every kind of electoral work are up.

On the political side, party spending is hard to pin down, but indications are that both big parties will be putting out more than $500,000 apiece with the CCF and Social Credit spending considerably less.

Rough and unauthoritative guesses are that the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives will spend around $600,000 apiece or more—the Liberals quite a bit more—and the CCF between $200,000 and $250,000. The Canadian Congress of Labor probably will throw about $20,000 into the CCF pot. The Social Credit group will spend a relatively modest sum, amount unknown.

Spokesmen for all groups say it is impossible to determine now how much each will spend. Apart from national budgets—in some cases the smallest part of the spending—there are expenditures by provincial and local organizations and by the individual candidates.

Aside from the political spending, costs are up in the normal government job of running an election. The expense of enumerating each elector is up, and the number of electors also is higher to an expected record of some 8,500,000.

An additional expenditure not counted up in the 1953 election cost is that of the office of the chief electoral officer—Nelson Castonguay—which will be about $320,000. He works between elections but at election time expands his staff to about 60, where it stands now.

AT EASE AFTER RETREAT—Tired and dirty from war, these ROK Capitol Division soldiers, who took the full force of a Red attack, assemble in a rear area awaiting orders to re-form and move up to new positions. The ROKs retreated only after their positions became untenable. Reports indicate that the retreat was orderly and that the men came out with all their gear in good order.

WORKER DROWNS

FORT ERIE (CP) — Richard (Jock) Nicholson, 34-year-old Fort Erie aircraft worker, was drowned Tuesday in the Niagara River while swimming.

Fewer Fishermen Head For Banks

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Fewer Newfoundlanders are fishing.

That, to a province once the fish pier of North America, is an economic revolution.

The number of men going to the Grand Banks last year was down from the previous season. And the Newfoundland Federation of Labor says there will be still fewer this year.

At the peak of the 1952 season, about 10,000 men were employed. The estimate for this year is 6,000.

The Labrador fishing fleet has dwindled to less than a dozen schooners and only one of the province's three whaling factories operated last year.

The future of the $35,000,000 yearly business isn't bright, but on the other hand there are no hard times ahead either.

The fact is that the men aren't going fishing because they are finding steadier work and, in most instances, better pay in forestry and heavy construction at Goose Bay and Seven Islands.

The newfoundland government also has put up part of the money to finance construction of a $1,000,000 processing plant at Grand Bank. Local capital is providing the rest of the money.

And with fewer men fishing and less fish being landed, prices are generally good although an unsettled market keeps the industry wondering.

Caribbean and European markets take the bulk of the export trade and the price level this year is expected to be at least as good as that of 1952.

Oppose Proposal For Defence HQ

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa board of control Tuesday opposed a proposal to build a huge national defence headquarters on a federal motor-vehicle proving ground on the Montreal road six miles east of the centre of the city.

Mayor Charlotte Whitton said the headquarters building would be a "Canadian pentagon" and would be beyond contemplated limits for expansion of municipal services.

Mayor Whitton and the board objected to the Montreal road site after discussing a letter to Maj.-Gen. Howard Kennedy, chairman of the fedcral district commission, from the deputy defence minister, C. M. Drury.

Mr. Drury's letter said provision of a new headquarters building for the defence department is becoming "more and more urgent." Offices of the department now are located in 36 different buildings in Ottawa.

Undue Emphasis

TORONTO (CP)—Delegates from a group of independent unions complained to Premier Frost Tuesday that the Ontario labor relations board places undue emphasis on technicalities in dealing with applications for certification. The Amalgamated Union of Canada urged that applicants inexperienced in details of the board's procedure be given another hearing when technical defects were remedied.

Manning Sees No End To Socreds In Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier E. C. Manning said Tuesday night Albertans would no more think of going back to a Liberal or Conservative provincial government "than they would think of going back to oxcarts or Bennett buggies."

In a five-minute address over radio station CJCA, the premier said Albertans have shown the same "spirit of independence" in the federal field.

He spoke in support of Social Credit candidates in the federal election.

Germans Over-Confident

KITCHENER (CP)—New Canadians of German extraction are getting into far too many accidents, Magistrate J. R. H. Fitzpatrick said in court Tuesday.

"These German drivers have all the confidence in the world but too little ability," he said. His warning was addressed to Robert Bock, Hamilton, an immigrant from Germany in Canada 20 months, who was charged with careless driving.

Summonsed At Races

AYLMER (CP)—Police quietly handed out 26 summonses Tuesday night as a crowd of 2,500 watched the season's first stock car race. The town and township recently banned stock car races.

FIRE IN MACHINERY

About $75 damage was caused today when fire flashed through the machinery making asphalt at the city barns. A hose, carrying oil, slipped loose, throwing the oil about the machine. Firemen had the blaze under control and out in a few minutes. Production of the asphalt will likely be stopped for several days.

AN IRISHMAN

On the way to Lakehurst to attend a Progressive Conservative campaign meeting Tuesday night, Hon. Harold Scott drew abreast of the Liberal welcoming committee for Lester Pearson, complete with police and band, out on the Lakefield Highway. As he passed he leaned out the window of his car and shouted to the kilted pipers: "Don't you know he's an Irishman?"

LAY PRIMING OIL

Some of the main roads that were brought into the city when the 1,200 acres of Smith township were annexed Jan. 1 are being maintained by the city. Priming oil has been laid on Barnardo Ave. and a section of Welsley St., taken over from the Suburban Area Roads Commission has been similarly treated. More priming oil is being laid on the continuation of Fairbairn St. and a section of Parkhill Road west has been fixed.

WEATHER VANES IDLE

Down in the bowl of Peterborough even the breezes appear to be on vacation. Just when a is needed to stir up something livelier than occasional zephyrs, the local atmosphere is temporarily overcome with lassitude, and has no ambition to go places. Fans are working overtime, but their stationary limitation is not much help after you get a couple of feet away from their commotion. The weather vane at the City Hall was drowsing in the heat this afternoon.

WATER SAMPLING SURVEY of Jackson Park Creek is being conducted by the City's Department of Health from the mouth at Little Lake to the northwest city limits. In the above photo sanitary inspector Ken Spencer (right) is shown with inspector-in-training Stan Conway in the creek underpass at Sherbrooke St. They are taking bottled samples opposite all conduits and sewers, etc., as well as every 100 yards. Tests will be made at the Provincial Laboratory at the city hall.

Contracts Let To Lay Dual-Lane Highway

The new dual-lane highway between Trenton and Belleville has been contracted to two companies. This decision was announced Saturday by Mr. Elmer Sandercock, MLA.

Hon. George Doucett, Ontario Minister of Highways, advised Mr. Sandercock that the Scott-Jackson Construction Co., Toronto, was contracted to build the stretch extending from the Trent River to Lots 18-19 Sidney township, and that the H. J. McFarland Construction Co., Picton, would build from Lots 18-19 to Highway No. 14.

City Accidents Do $800 Damage To Six Vehicles

In three accidents on Peterborough streets in the last 24 hours, property damage totalled close to $800. No one was injured in the crashes, each involving two cars.

A 1938 model car spun around and slid 50 feet after a collision at the corner of King and Aylmer Sts. Tuesday. The vehicle, driven by Robert Bolton, 17, of 198 Edinburgh St., had been southbound on Aylmer when it crashed into a car driven by Osborne Taylor, 47, of RR 1 Dunsford, which had been driving west on King.

Taylor said he had stopped at the through street and was proceeding across the intersection when the accident occurred. Damage was estimated at $275 to the Taylor vehicle and $75 to Bolton's car.

PC Wilfred Perry investigated.

CAR, TRUCK COLLIDE

An accident on Wolfe St. Tuesday afternoon resulted in damage estimated at $140 to two vehicles, a car driven by Fred White, 31, of 711 New Chamberlain, and a truck driven by Williard Le Clair, 32, of 254 Caddy St.

Both westbound on Wolfe St., White pulled left prior to making a right turn. Le Clair, thinking White was turning left, started to pass on the inside.

They collided with damage of $105 resulting to White's car and damage of $35 to Le Claire's truck. PC Perry also investigated this accident.

Seeing a stopped car on the west side of Water facing north, early this morning, Muriel Martin, 23, of 23 Bethune, became confused with the position of its headlights.

Her vehicle went off the west shoulder, struck a mail box and then collided with the other vehicle, parked on the shoulder. The car was owned by Geoffrey Feeley, 37, of 1035 Western.

Damage was estimated at $180 to the Martin car and $100 to Feeley's vehicle. PC Ted Stephen investigated.

Sherbrooke St. Frontage Made Industrial For Building

Labelling "residential" the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. frontage on Romaine St. was somebody's error in the first place, T. T. McMillan emphasized to the city council in committee of the whole last night. The company bought the corner property two years before the Faludi city plan was prepared. It was low lying land, suggesting that at one time it may have been a sandpit. A creek ran through it from a crossing under the CPR at Monaghan Road and Romaine St. It was a weedy reserve so low that nobody had ever been interested in it for building purposes.

Then it was an ash dump. Gradually it was filled in and created into a parking lot by Johnson Motors. This corner property fronts on both Monaghan Road and Romaine St. For the purpose of the company it is related to the one street as directly as to the other. But, listed on Romaine St. it was marked residential in city planning.

BEGAN CONSTRUCTION

Outboard Marine have begun building on their property, and have asked the council to switch the designation to industrial.

Bruce Payne said the owner of the adjoining house to the east on Romaine St. had no objection to the new building, and was willing to write the council making that declaration. He said "We try to keep good relations with the people in our neighborhood."

A detail of the plans is a service ramp near the northeast corner of the building. It is 20 feet from the Romaine St. house, and projects a foot and a half toward the street beyond the verandah edge. Particulars of the design were explained. The larger entrances are elsewhere from Romaine St. and Monaghan Road.

NO LARGE TRUCKS

"It is only for express pick up," Mr. McMillan told the committee. "It doesn't involve big trucks and trailers at all."

Council in special session agreed to changing the use label of the Outboard Marine property to industrial, from residential. The motion asks for the approval of the Minister of Planning and Development.

Coldwell Scores Present Trend To Circus Tactics

TORONTO (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, at a press conference here today deplored "the trend towards circus tactics" in Canadian election campaigns.

"They detract," he said, "from the proper discussion of the affairs of the country. Their use reflects the political hysteria in the U.S. at election times."

He said, however, that he didn't mind songs at election meetings.

Mr. Coldwell agreed with Prime Minister St. Laurent that there is general apathy over the Aug. 10 federal election among the electorate. "It does not indicate satisfaction with the government," he said, "but resentment at the election being held at this time of the year."

HEALTH PLAN ISSUE

He said the outstanding issue was whether or not there should be a national health plan. The statements, ambiguous though they were, by Mr. St. Laurent and Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, showed the extent to which they had been compelled to recognize public support for such a plan.

On new factors in the campaign, he said there was not the personal feeling against Mr. Drew evident in the last federal election.

"But," he said, "there is distrust of the Conservative party largely on the ground that they have gone all over the place looking for ways and means of getting into power, anything to win votes. It has undermined confidence in them."

The Liberal party, he said, was only another Conservative party, and there was no room for two.

"Fortunately Social Credit with its totalitarian tendencies is a minor issue in this campaign."

He said a world trend towards realignment in politics, making a division into conservative elements and democratic socialist movements was evident in Canada.

Dies of Polio

COLLINGWOOD (CP)—The first polio death in this district for 1953 occurred Tuesday when eight-year-old Penny French died en route to Toronto by ambulance. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry French of Collingwood, 70 miles north of Toronto, the little girl became ill last Tuesday.

Police, Rebels Clash

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian police killed two persons, wounded 50 and took 276 prisoners in a clash with "rebels" in West Nepal, according to unofficial reports reaching here today. The "rebel" gang is the group of about 700 who attacked police stations and took control of the Nepal town of Billauri two weeks ago.

Council Asks CPR To Take New Survey

Investigation Made Of Train Noise, Smoke During Strike

"A very unsatisfactory answer," was the comment of Ald. A. B. Burrows on a CPR letter replying to complaints of Engleburn residents, Ashburnham, alleging noise and smoke reaching across the river from the railway yard on the west side.

Investigation was made by the company during the strike inactivity at Quaker Oats. One of the statements was to the effect that shunting business did not warrant use of diesel engines on local work. "Steps have been taken to reduce smoke and noise from shunting movements in the yards."

Board of works recommended that the council request the CPR to make a new survey since the Quaker has resumed production.

NOT ALL FROM TRAINS

The company's letter included a communication to the Examiner from a resident of Burnham's Point complaining of the smoke from Canada Packers chimney, with the suggestion that evidently all the smoke crossing the river was not from the shunting operations. That reference raised a question as to progress with a proposed smoke control bylaw. No definite information was offered as to when it might come before the council, although Ald. Syd Black said it had been discussed in committee several times, but was not cleared for report to council.

Board of works sustained the action of Superintendent McKibbon in transferring a truck driver to another job in the department without reduction in pay. The recommendation proposed that Mr. McKibbon could consider this employee when another driving appointment was to be made.

The transfer followed a minor accident on Caddy St. Civic employees union requested that the case be reconsidered.

Anti-Pollution Group Meets With Phillips

BRANTFORD (CP) — A delegation of representatives of the Grand river anti-pollution committee today will meet Health Minister Phillips at Toronto.

The sending of a delegation follows a meeting at Dunnville about two weeks ago when the committee passed a resolution demanding enforcement of laws prohibiting the pollution of the province's waterways and lakes.

Petawawa Horses

Two horses—improperly dressed as the military say—were on hand Tuesday night to give the horse laugh to External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson when he appeared at the Lakefield Town Hall for an election speech. The team were wearing soldiers' hats and carried Progressive Conservative-inspired placards that greeted Mr. Pearson with the inscriptions "Plug for you from UNO", and "We are on the payroll at Petawawa", and, over their tails, "We are in retreat". This election gag-dubbed by PCs as the best of the campaign so far—all but stole the show. However Mr. Pearson was equal to the ocasion. With ironic courtesy he said: "How fortunate that they provided an alternative method of transportation in case our car breaks down."

Drowns At Cornwall

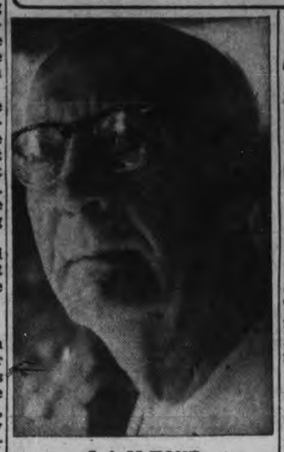
CORNWALL (CP) — John Leo Tucker, 22, of St. John's, Nfld., was drowned in the Williamsburg canal early today while swimming with three companions. The body was recovered by police in 20 feet of water. Tucker was an Ontario Hydro employee stationed at Winchester, Ont.

Touring Exhibition

STOCKHOLM (CP)—A large exhibition of modern Scandinavian industrial art known as "Design in Scandinavia" will begin a two-year tour of Canada and the United States next January. The exhibition will be shown in more than 20 museums from coast to coast.

Had Dignity To Strut But Not Run, Cobourg Mayor's Friend Accident Victim

COBOURG (ENS)—A close friend of Mayor Jack Burnett was killed recently in a traffic accident.



The victim's name was "Tom" and his intelligence was highly regarded by the Mayor.

Tom was a cat of rather ancient vintage. He came to the mayor's grocery store about four years ago, having previously been attached to the premises of a bookstore up the street.

Tom used to curl up in the window of the store whenever he was in the mood to permit the public to gaze on him. Other times he would perch on the end of the counter and woe to anyone who happened to pat him when he was not in the mood to be caressed, as he had a wicked left.

"I think Tom knew everything that you said to him but he just wouldn't bother to acknowledge it. He was a very smart animal," said the Mayor regretfully.

Tom came to his end because he possessed a dignity that permitted him to strut but never to run. He failed to dodge an oncoming car.

J. A. McKONE

John A. McKone Leaving Business College

Head of the Peterborough Business College for 38 years and a teacher for more than nine years before that, J. A. McKone is retiring.

His connection with the college will not be altogether severed, however. He will be on hand as a supply teacher and will continue to look after the school's financial books.

Widely varied hobbies of penmanship, bird - watching and woodworking still claim a part of his attention, although his eyesight has failed somewhat. In this area he was recognized in courts as an expert on disputed handwriting and gave expert evidence in many criminal cases.

Born in Lambton county in western Ontario, Mr. McKone was educated in Parkhill public and high schools. He took his training in teaching at Strathroy Model School—the former name for normal schools.

For two years he taught in Strathroy district schools then took a course at Westervelt Business College in London.

CAME IN 1908

At Wingham he taught business college for two years, and from there he went to Orangeville, where he opened a business college for another man. In 1908 he first came to Peterborough to take over the business school run by William Pringle, who died shortly before Mr. McKone's arrival.

For three years he taught here, then went to be principal of one of Shaws' business schools in Toronto. He returned to Peterborough in 1915 and has remained here since.

Until the normal school stopped teaching penmanship in 1938 Mr. McKone was the penmanship teacher.

He estimates that in his more than 50 years in teaching he has been in contact with 5,000 business college pupils and another 5,000 normal school students.

For 19 years, Mr. McKone was superintendent of St. Andrew's United Church Sunday School. He was a charter member of the Peterborough Kiwanis club and in 1923 was its president. He was the club's secretary for about 12 years.

For 11 years he was a member of the board of education here, spending two years as chairman of the board. In the early days of scouting in Peterborough, Mr. McKone was connected with the association and spent one year as its president.

Still a keen follower of sports via the radio channels, Mr. McKone played field lacrosse in his youth in Western Ontario. "I've still got the marks to prove it, too," he smiled.

There are three children: Jack, accountant in a bank at Blenheim, Jean, married and living in Port Hope, and Barclay, head of an Indian hospital at Moose Factory on James Bay.

Annexed Area Has New Names Given To Streets

"It looks as if we got down to the bottom of the wood pile," was the joking comment of Ald. H. T. Rehill Monday night on a committee's list of street names. The three members of that committee were Mayor Waddell, Ald. Anglesey and City Eengineer Chalmers.

They were led by Mr. Chalmers to a series of short streets in the annexed section of Smith township. They didn't rate any straining of imagination or alternative designation with names of citizens who helped in the community's welfare.

First in the group was Lee St., duplicated elsewhere, which drew the improving Hillside St.

There are two Williams in the city now, one of them off Bolivar St., and the other in the new area of Peterborough. This rural road becomes Poplar; Nicholl St. is Hemlock; Hall St., formerly in the township, will be known as Willow St.; and Gordon St. was tagged Ash.

That is when the committee turned its risibilities on the chairman, Ald. Anglesey. Almost as a chorus they balked at Ash, and such phrases as the woods reduced to ashes, and figures of the woodbox and the woodpile were heard.

Finally that northern Gordon St. was christened Birch.

Elm St. was changed to Hopkins Ave., and Second St. to Maryland. An east end Erskine St. is to be known as Trent St., avoiding confusion with the Erskine that extends south from Lansdowne St. River Road North will be officially an extension of Armour Road, if Douro township is agreeable.

Stewart St. will extend north of Wolsley St. and Water St. north of Langton.

States, Canada Approve IJC's Proposals

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian and United States governments have approved proposals of the international joint commission for preserving and enhancing the scenic beauty of Niagara Falls and river, the external affairs department announced today.

The estimated $17,500,000 cost of the work will be divided equally by the two countries, the announcement said, with the Canadian share of the cost borne by the Ontario hydro-electric power commission.

Under a 1950 agreement between Ontario and the federal government, the hydro commission is to develop the Canadian portion of increased power available at Niagara under a 1950 Canada-U.S. treaty.

The work recommended by the international joint commission consist of a control structure extending 1,550 feet from the Canadian bank of the river about a mile above the falls and excavation and fill on both flanks of the Horseshoe Falls.

The IJC's recommendations were submitted to the two governments last May 12 in response to a reference submitted to the commission in 1950 under the treaty of that year.

The two governments notified the IJC Tuesday of their acceptance and asked the commission to supervise construction of the remedial works. These are to be completed within four years, under the treaty terms.

Gas Increase May Bring Price War

Some Garages Raise Price 1½c Others Hold Line

The first faint rumblings of a possible gasoline price war were heard in the city today, following Tuesday's announcement by Imperial Oil Company of an increase in the wholesale price of gasoline.

The company announced that the price had been boosted 1.4 cents a gallon in all the provinces except British Columbia, where the increase is half a cent. At the same time, the company said retail prices would go up "within a few days." Officials of other companies said they would probably follow suit.

Meanwhile, one local garage operator said that his company had said it was going to "hold the line" on prices and so far there had been no increase in his case. But, while most service stations had not raised their prices this morning, some prices were up 1½ cents and at least one service station had raised prices two cents a gallon.

George Ball, vice-president of the Peterborough Garage Operators Association, has arranged a meeting of the organization at Club Aragon at 3:00 p.m. today to discuss the situation and find out what various members planned to do.

ONE CENT ONLY

William Dorrington, operator of a British-American service station at Charlotte and Stewart Sts., felt the price shouldn't go up more than one cent.

"Two cents is a little too rough," he told The Examiner today. "At any rate, I hope they get this cleared up before too long."

A survey of a dozen service stations by The Examiner today showed that nine had not raised their prices today but were waiting to see what other operators planned to do; one had raised prices 1½ cents; one had raised prices two cents and one did not intend to raise prices.

Harold Davis, operator of the Sunoco service station on Charlotte St., said his prices had not gone up from 43 cents a gallon and the company intended to "hold the line."

At Condon's Shell service station on Park St., prices went up 1½ cents today to 43½ and 45½ cents. At the East Port service station on Lansdowne St. E., proprietor Garnet Johnston raised his prices two cents today to 45 cents and 46 cents for White Rose gasoline.

WAIT FOR MEETING

Most other operators questioned said that, although the wholesale price had gone up today by 1.4 cents, they did not intend to change their retail prices until after today's meeting. One operator said he had his tanks filled Tuesday at the old price and so didn't know whether the wholesale price would rise or not.

In any case, gasoline vendors throughout the city were expecting a rush of customers tonight to fill their tanks before the price goes up in most cases Thursday.

Hunter Catches Turtle On Thumb Returns With Thumb, Without Turtle

Neither the wisdom of Confucius nor the power of the guillotine, can deter the mind of a snapping turtle once it is set.

Bob Ellis, a Belleville man, is convinced of this after his recent encounter with the 'plodding racer'.

Ellis, with his young daughter, went turtle hunting last week, and on the brink of a muddy swamp noticed something bobbing on the surface of the water. Sticking his hand in to examine the cause he felt a sharp pain in his finger. He withdrew the hand heavily weighted by a good-sized 'snapper'. The harder he tugged, pulled and screamed, the tighter closed the stubborn jaws.

In the midst of this (by now bloody scene), a truck pulled up and an exuberant looking Chinese jumped out.

"What's all the trouble", he enquired.

"Can you get this blasted thing off me", said our wounded hunter.

"Yes, sure, if you will give him to me."

"You can have him—if my finger isn't off first," cried Ellis.

The Chinese calmly removed a knife from his pocket and decapitated the turtle, took the remains, and drove off in his truck.

Ellis stood there, dumfounded. The turtle was gone, but the head was still there, grimly hanging on.

"Well if he takes the finger off, he certainly won't swallow it", thought Ellis.

After a painful trip home and some desperate manipulating of his pliers, the finger was finally set free.

They say there's nothing like turtle soup!

Finds Blue-Eyed Tribe In Brazil

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (Reuters)—Rev. Thomas Ricardo has found a primitive tribe of blue-eyed, rosy-cheeked, naked Indians in the snake-infested Brazilian jungle, it was learned here Tuesday night.

The Roman Catholic priest found the tribe, the Pausiani, in the Rio Mucajai region where the American explorer Dr. William Holden twice sought them in vain in 1937 and 1950

Father Ricardo reported that the tribe, who have chiselled features and straight noses, closely resemble the people of Northern India and Germany.

He said it had been hard to persuade the Pausiani to let him take pictures of them, but they finally agreed.

Australian Army Offensive Failed Against The Emu

BY MASSEY STANLEY

CANBERRA, The ostrich-like Emu, peculiar to Australia, is in the paradoxical position of being honored as part of the Australian National Emblem but at the same time being hunted down as an even more dangerous pest than the rabbit.

The Emu, though less numerous than the imported, rapidly multiplying rabbit, has cost sheep and grain producers millions of dollars every year. The Emus' depredations have made them the target of an official scale army offensive, and they are now again in the news wih the announcement by the government of Western Australia, largest of the six Australian states, that it is gambling $125,000 on the idea that a strong fence across the wheat plains will keep out this feathered scourge of the wheat plains.

This is a desperate attempt. The Emuus have for generations defied traps, poisoning and even machine-gunning.

The decision to subject them to machine gun squads was taken just before World War 11 after a number of grain men who had not already been driven from their holdings threatened to abandon them if nothing could be done about the hordes of these tough birds which sheared off the ripening crops wih their voracious beaks and trampled them with their great webbed feet. But it didn't work.

The Emus eluded death and kept on eating and trampling.

RENEW THREATS

Now the farmers are repeating their threats to let their near desert properties degenerate into sand bowls as the big wingless birds largest in the island-continent and denser in the West than anywhere else, advanced hungrily from the semi-arid fastnesses north and east in the same way as the rabbit—but unhindered as the rabbit is, by pest proof fences, and in greater numbers than ever before.

The new project to beat the Emu is to raise a specially-built fence which will be joined to the fence which now streches along most of the eastern border of the state as a protection against rabbit hordes. It may prove better than the guerrilla tactics of poisoning and trapping by Aborigines, who are paid 50 cents for each Emu beak and 10 cents for each egg. But the authorities are still pessimistic, in view of the failure of operation Emu.

Operation Emu was the military offensive, undertaken by the 7th Heavy Battery Royal Australian Artillery. This remains a black episode in the history of the 7th and the engagement is not one of those inscribed on its banners.

A small armed party was detailed under Major R. A. Meredith to make the attack. It set out with Lewis machine guns and 10,000 rounds of ammunition for one of the infested areas.

SPEED OF MANEUVER

They encountered small flocks of the birds, but the first dismaying discovery was that the "enemy" had a speed of maneuver and retreat which made open warfare useless. Deciding on a more careful strategy, Major Meredith distributed his force in tactical positions covering a dam toward which a flock of more than 1,000 birds was reported to have been moving overnight.

In the first light of dawn, the expedition saw a great sea of waving heads. At 100 yards they fired simultaneously—but after several bursts, fewer than a dozen Emus had fallen. The rest had disappeared from sight before the soldiers could reload their guns.

The bitterness of the failure was deepened by newspaper comments on the incident, which caused much public amusement and a lot of sympathy for the Emus.

One Army man said the birds quickly developed a tactical move of their own: Each pack had a leader, a black-plumed creature six feet tall which kept watch and warned its buddies of any hostile move against them.

Another went on record with the claim that there was only one way to kill an Emu—shoot him through the back of the head when his mouth was closed or through the front when it was opened.

Launch Tiny Sub

KINGSTON (CP)—A blunt-nosed underwater craft designed and built at Royal Military College was launched Tuesday for testing. The 20-foot exploration craft was originally intended for salvage work on ancient war vessels scuttled in Dead Man's Bay near here. However, it may be used with other craft of its type by the Royal Canadian Navy, its builders say.

Liberal Ability Proved-Howe

BURLINGTON (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Tuesday night the Liberal party has proved its ability to govern by dealing successfully with every major crisis of the last 18 years.

In an election campaign address in support of Hamilton area Liberal candidates, Mr. Howe, a cabinet minister for those 18 years, said some people are saying the time has come for a change.

He said he could conceive of it being time for a change only when one of two things occurred: the government was unable to fulfill its duty to the people or the government adopted an arrogant attitude and lost touch with the people.

Neither of those things had taken place. The government still was fulfilling its duty and Prime Minister St. Laurent was as close to the people as any leader.

'Wonder' Drugs Have Limits In Animal Ills

TORONTO (CP)—The antibiotic wonder drugs have their limitations in treatment of animal diseases, the American Veterinary Medical Association was told today.

Dr. J. D. Nadeau of St. Hyacinthe, Que., told the Association's annual convention antibiotics are not the answer to nutritional problems of poultry. They were drugs and could not be expected to replace vitamins in rations.

Dr. Nadeau said antibiotics also may interfere with chickens' natural immunity to infectious diseases. He recommended that the use of antibiotics be limited to the rations of starting poultry and preferably confined to chickens showing disease symptoms.

The AVMA's public health committee warned that the milk of cows treated with antibiotics can create an antibiotic sensitivity in persons consuming it. Milk from such cows should be withheld from the market for at least three days after treatment.

DISCUSS POULTRY

After concerning itself largely with hog-breeding problems in Tuesday's sessions, the convention devoted most of its discussion to poultry today.

Dr. J. F. Crawley, head of the veterinary section of the University of Toronto's Connaught laboratories, described a spray vaccine that controls the outbreak of infectious bronchitis in chickens.

Drs. S. B. Hitchner and G. Reising of the Massachusetts agricultural experiment station said dried vaccine can be used as effectively as frozen vaccine in a spray to protect poultry from Newcastle disease with greater economy and fewer distribution problems.

Dr. E. E. Ballantyne, veterinary services director for the Alberta agriculture department, recommended a stepped-up research program to control salmonellosis, a poultry disease which causes food poisoning in humans.

Limited success in immunizing turkeys against erysipelas was reported by a group of research veterinarians at Washington State College, headed by Dr. E. M. Dickinsom.

Miss Jean Noble and a representative of the Department of Agriculture, Peterborough, have visited this district and judged the gardens of the club members but the results have not been received yet.

Canadians Reach Semi-Final Of Junior Golf Tournament

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jack Lowrey of St. Catharines, 17-year-old high school senior, shot his way to the semi-finals of the Middle-Atlantic Junior Golf Championship at Columbia Country Club Tuesday.

Another Canadian youngster reached the semi-finals in the 14 to 15-year flight and a third advanced to the same stage in the flight for 13-year-olds and under.

Lowrey and the other juniors from Ontario are here for the Simpson Cup matches Friday between the junior golfers of Canada and the District of Columbia.

Shooting one-over-par golf, he reached the semi-finals with a 6-and-5 victory over George Shorer of Hamilton, a teammate. Both are star players for the visitors and the match was expected to be closer. But Lowrey got the jump and stayed on top with some of the best golf of the day.

THIRD CANADIAN

In the first round, he won over Del Beman of Bethesda, Md., 2 and 1. Shorer defeated Charles Rinker of Fairfax, Va., 2 and 1. The third Canadian in the title flight, Hugh Paterson of Toronto, lost to Bruce Kesseler of Bethesda, 4 and 3, in the first round.

In today's semi-finals, Lowrey meets Jerry McFerren, 16-year-old high school senior from Silver Spring, Md., and Beane Beman, medallist with a 67, plays Franny Poore, 17-year-old Philadelphian.

In the 15- to 16-year-old flight, Garry Cowan of Kitchener is the Canadian survivor. He defeated Floyd Parks, Chevy Chase, Md., 3 and 2, and then won 4 and 3 over Chick Cullinane of Bethesda.

Today, Cowan gets a chance to avenge the defeat of two of his teammates when he plays Frank Bogle of Fairfax. In the first round, Bogle beat Dave Drury of Toronto, 2 and 1, and in the second round he beat Bill Stager of Galt, 1 up in 19 holes. Stager previously had defeated Dan Myers of Arlington, Va., 5 and 4.

TORONTO LAD WINS

Phil Brownlee of Toronto, 12, youngest Canadian in the group, remained the darling of the 13-and-under flight as he whipped John Stock of Rockville, Md., 9 and 7. The confident youngster meets Basil Parks, Chevy Chase, Md., today.

After today's semi-final and finals matches the Simpson Cup team members will meet President Eisenhower Thursday and will be conducted through the Federal Bureau of Investigation by director J. Edgar Hoover. They will also attend luncheons and dinners in their honor.

To Close Street For Erection Of Oil Tanks

COBOURG (ENS)—Council has passed a bylaw closing Nunn St., from Hibernia east to the CNR right-of-way.

The land has been purchased by Canadian Oil Companies Ltd. and will be part of a property on which the company will erect storage tanks.

Council also passed a bylaw declaring the town would not enter into any agreement for use or interchange of any sewers or sewage system nor authorize any sewer connections or acquire land for such purpose in Hamilton township.

Dr. H. C. Moorhouse, superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, wrote to suggest the present stop sign on College at University be changed so that traffic would halt on University Ave. at the College St. intersection. The matter was referred to the police committee.

A letter from Colonel Gordon King advised that he was resigning from the arena board because of the pressure of his new duties as principal of the collegiate.

ISSUE DEBENTURES

In reply to a request from the public school board, council passed a resolution that a bylaw be introduced to issue $16,000 in debentures to install a new lighting system and to change to kindergarten classrooms. Mayor Burnet commented that the board was anxious to get started as soon as possible.

Council turned down a request from the Liberal organization to erect a banner across main street. Councillor L. Caine said it would mean three banners if the privilege was extended to all parties. Already two other banners were being erected, one for the plowing match and one for the Kiwanis Club.

In regard to Dave Carr's petition for utilities services to a housing subdivision on Division St., the clerk said it was not sufficiently signed. If CGE and the golf club signed it, there would be enough signatures. The matter was tabled in order to see what CGE would do about it.

Councillor C. Johnson said CGE should not hold it up as the town certainly had done enough for CGE.

Enlarging on some of his observations of a trip through western Ontario last week in his comments at the twilight meeting Monday night at Robert Armstrong's farm in Cavan, Stewart Lockington of Quaker Oats said today that fall wheat has been averaging 55 bushels to the acre and better in Essex county.

"In some instances farmers have been definitely getting 60 bus. an acre," Mr. Lockington remarked to the Examiner.

That return is also mentioned from Kent. Weight tests have been 60 pounds to the bushel and even better than that.

"The harvest in several of the western Ontario counties was about half completed Monday. good or better; moisture 13 to Quality tests have been No. 2, 14.2%; indicating good dry seed, and there is no discoloration reported there."

"Depending on the harvest weather, we are expecting deliveries from the Peterborough area by the beginning of next week.

That is the outlook for the beginning of the combining of the fall wheat fields in this section.

"We are expecting that deliveries will likely be heavy," Mr. Lockington said.

The local price continues at $1.50 a bus., which is three cents more than the quotations in western sections of Ontario.

"Decision to store or sell rests with the farmers themselves. We wouldn't dare to advise them what to do, but we can give them the information we have."

Know Law, Rights Witnesses Told At Assembly

NEW YORK (AP) — Jehovah's Witnesses were told Tuesday they should "know the law and know their rights."

The movement, the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, which is holding its week-long world assembly at Yankee Stadium, has often been beset by legal difficulties.

Some 125,000 Witnesses in and around the stadium and at a camping ground in New Market, N.J., heard the society's general counsel Hayden C. Covington, in person or by special leased wire.

"Jehovah is our God, a lawyer and a law-giver," Covington said. "His servants should know the law and know their rights . . and also how to use them, when to insist on them and when to tread lightly."

Like Abraham, he said, Witnesses may be strangers and aliens, and in lands not of their birth they are double aliens. In such places, he warned, they do not have the same rights as citizens and should leave any fighting to local "brothers" who are.

"I don't mean you should crawl into a hole and do nothing," he said. "But be tactful. Know what you can do . . . insist on your rights. We'll be as cautious as serpents yet as innocent as doves."

The sect holds to a fundamentalist doctrine based on a belief in the literal truth of the Bible.

Weather, Legs, Light Against Detroit Man

DETROIT (AP)—The hot muggy weather, his wife's shapely legs and a red light were all against Robert Wright jr. of Dearborn.

Police, whose attention was drawn to Wright's car because of the attractive limbs dangling from the window, forced Wright over to the curb, but not before he had run through a red light.

As Wright explained, there was nothing really wrong. His wife was lying in the front seat, her head in his lap and her legs out the window.

Said the judge: "It might be one way to beat the heat, but its also reckless driving—$50."

Mrs. Dayman received the original slip from Mrs. George Jackson, also of Fenelon Falls. The plant is on view in the window of the Dayman store.

Clocked At 45 MPH Driver Fined $10

Found guilty to a charge of speeding, Stewart Tyndall, 63 Leahy's Lane, was fined $10, and $2.50 costs, in Magistrate's Court today as a result of a charge dating back to June 22.

PC Harold Andrew testified clocking the accused on Lansdowne Street on that date at 45 miles per hour. Tyndall's defence consisted of testimony that the company truck he was driving was governed to 40 miles per hour.

Magistrate W. R. Philp held, however, the charge was for exceeding 30 miles per hour, not reaching 45, and found the accused guilty.

Eisenhower Still Hopeful Of Truce

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he still is hopeful and reasonably confident a Korean truce will be signed soon.

The president's statement at his press conference came against a background of deep concern here over new South Korean threats to the conclusion of a truce.

Eisenhower declined to discuss specifically President Syngman Rhee's declaration that the United Nations will have only 90 days to persuade the Chinese Reds to withdraw from Korea after the signing of an armistice.

Rhee said that if they did not withdraw after 90 days his country would feel free to "follow our own course of action."

Eisenhower said misunderstandings continue in connection with working out an armistice. But he went on to say that he is still hopeful and reasonably confident that a reasonable armistice will be signed soon.

He said he was unable to predict exactly when the signing would come.

Not Even Cabinet Ministers Deny Extravagance—Fraser

LAKEHURST (Staff) — Charging the Liberal government with extravagance not even cabinet ministers dare deny, Gordon K. Fraser, told a packed community hall "we've paid through the nose long enough."

Right off the bat, however, Mr. Fraser answered his Liberal opponent, Max Swanston, who has stated the Conservative candidate doesn't live in the riding.

"I have 20 acres in Harvey Township and my road runs right through Harvey," he declared. While on that subject, Mr. Fraser also pointed out that the Hon. Lester Pearson "never at any time lived in his riding" and the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King never lived in his riding, either.

MUD SLINGING

Liberal candidates, the speaker said, are carrying on a personal campaign against their opponents across the country; that is, a mud-slinging campaign. "I don't like to do this and I won't do it, either."

Speaking on the national picture, Mr. Fraser promised his audience of 90 that George Drew's 16 points can be carried out.

The Liberals say it can't be done, just as Attlee said Churchill couldn't cut taxes, and Truman said Eisenhower couldn't slash U.S. defence estimates. Yet both Churchill and Eisenhower succeeded.

Everything we buy, he pointed out, except certain foods, are taxed. "We've paid through the nose long enough," Mr. Fraser maintained. Again on Drew's 16 points, "we pledged we will carry them out, we can carry them out and we will carry them out."

Speaking on the local scene, he said "there's no one can say I haven't looked after Peterborough." Mr. Fraser said he has worked for old age pensions, mothers' allowances and on veterans' affairs in Ottawa.

BROUGHT POST OFFICE

"I got a $1,500,000 post office in Peterborough and no one can deny that."

Commenting the Liberals said they would stand on their record, Mr. Fraser told the audience "It's a pretty well worn out record. There's definitely a rather peculiar odor arising from that old record; a smell of waste, extravagance and mismanagement."

He cited cases of extravagance brought out by his own questioning in the House. "I'm not afraid to ask questions," Mr. Fraser said and concluded: "I've tried to do my best; if you elect me, I'll do my best again."

Frank Foster, QC, of Peterborough, spoke to the group on agriculture, dropping markets, and dropping farm income. He said farmers are in a "critical" position and estimated farm income down 20 per cent in one year "due to the policies of the present government."

LOSING MARKETS

All the United Kingdom and Commonwealth markets have been lost while the United States is importing farm products here in face of our own surpluses. "If we don't open overseas markets, the farmers will suffer," Mr. Foster said, claiming "the present Liberal government has no regard for the farmer."

One example, he pointed out, was a trip to Latin America by Trade Minister Howe to encourage trade. Since that time, trade with those countries has steadily dropped.

For the farmers, a Conservative government would carry out a two-point program; it would organize and establish legislation to regain world markets, and it would bring in legislation, not haphazardly as the Liberals, for floor prices.

He promised farmers would be able to look forward to a fixed income for years to come.

The Honourable Harold Scott, MLA for Peterborough, quoted Liberal claims implying Peterborough should have a member on the government side: "at this time we don't know which is the government side."

Mr. Scott said he would "hate to think our government wouldn't give a certain electoral district their just right because they didn't return a member of the government."

He commented the "weight of the present member for Peterborough must be felt in Ottawa," because eight cabinet ministers have visited here in the past few months.

Mr. Scott said he'd like to know how many thousands of veterans, pensioners and mothers Mr. Fraser had helped gain their allowances from Ottawa. "I'm willing to bet he never asked their political faith before he helped them."

Chairman of the meeting was Gail Elliott. Ted Bradshaw of Peterborough entertained with magic.

Exchanged PoWs To Fly Home After Truce Signed

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP) — Canadian prisoners of war exchanged by the Communists after an armistice will be flown home, The Canadian Press has learned.

United States authorities, preparing to handle an estimated 5,000 "returnees" but hoping for 8,000 (their total listed as "missing") already have announced their intention to repatriate theirs by ship from Inchon.

Similarly, British authorities, whose estimated total number of prisoners is 1,200, have announced theirs will sail back to Britain from Japan.

But the number of Canadians is so small, expected to be about 30, that a Canadian airlift for them is a possibility.

Canada, therefore should be the first among the United Nation countries represented in the fighting here to have her returned prisoners repatriated.

The only point still undecided concerning the Canadian prisoners is whether they will be sent home in batches of two or three, or bulked to go home as a group.

Brig. J. V. Allard, senior Canadian commander in the Far East, says he will be guided by circumstances.

If the exchange of Canadians appears to be a matter of days the men will be held in Korea for return as a group.

But if the exchange looks to be a protracted affair they will be repatriated after an interval in a Canadian medical unit.

The Canadian "stream" will begin at Britannia camp, the enlarged Canadian field dressing station at Tokchong, 25 miles north of Seoul, where all Commonwealth prisoners will get merely a preliminary medical check there—to determine their ability to travel to Kure, Japan, where their main medical formalities will be completed, the Canadians will get the full treatment at Tokchong. All x-ray and clinical tests will be done there.

Col. J. S. McCannell of Victoria and Toronto, while director of medical services within the Commonwealth division, also is senior Canadian medical officer in the theatre.

He says: "Canada maintains this expensive establishment here and we might as well get the use out of it for our own chaps, especially if it will help speed them on their way home."

Using the FDS enables the healthy Canadians to by-pass Kure. Weaker ones may be kept at the FDS and build up, but the really ill soldiers would go to the Commonwealth general hospital at Kure for treatment.

From the FDS healthy Canadians will go to the 38th Canadian field ambulance in the brigade area. It will become a sort of holding and adjustment centre for them.

After three or four days in the Canadian brigade area, perhaps longer if it is decided to send them back as a group, the men will motor to Seoul, whence they will fly to Tokyo to board a Canadian Pacific Air Lines DC-6 for Canada.

Under ideal conditions the men would be flown home from Tokyo as a group in a CPAL "prisoners' special." This would be a regular airlift-chartered flight diverted for the purpose. An RCAF North Star would meet the "special" at Vancouver and drop the prisoners off across the country at air bases as near to their homes as possible.

Groom's Brother Officiates

The wedding was selomnized Saturday in St. Alphonsus Roman Catholic Church of Marie Joanne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Doris of Peterborough and James Martin Fitzpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzpatrick of Hastings.

The nuptial mass was said by the Rev. Francis M. Fitpatrick, brother of the groom, who also performed the double ring ceremony.

White mums and gladioli, banked with ferns, decorated the altar. Traditional music was played by Mrs. Lionel Neary and Miss Margaret Chretien was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a floor length gown of white nylon net over satin. It had a very bouffant skirt with insertions of delicate lace and three underskirts of net. The snug-fitting, shirred bodice, buttoned at the back to the waist, and featured the jewell neckline which was adorned with tiny pearls. Long lily point sleeves were snug at the wrists. Her finger-tip veil of misty sheer net had scalloped edges and was held by a crown set with sparkling rhinestones and pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. William McTeague as matron of honor and Miss Agnes Doris as bridesmaid attended their sister in identical gowns of lilac net over pink. Two deep pointed pockets of net on either side of the very full skirts hied imitation rose buds. Each wore a single strand of pearls which offset the deep shirred neckline. A tiny band of velvet was worn 'round the waist. They wore matching mittens and shirred poke bonnets and carried bouquets of pink rose buds and sweet peas.

Theresa Driscoll, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl, dressed in yellow taffeta. The frock featured a very full skirt and had fluffy puffed sleeves and Peter Pan collar, with a band of lilac velvet around the waist. She wore a band of yellow 'mums as headdress and carried a nosegay of yellow rose buds and sweet peas.

The groomsman was Mr. Joseph Sexsmith and ushers were Richard Doris, and Joseph Fitzpatrick, brothers of the bride and groom.

A wedding dinner was served at Club Aragon where the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a dress of shirred, turquoise nylon. She chose white accessories and wore a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother, also receiving, wore a sheer navy blue silk dress with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was white 'mums and tiny rose buds.

When leaving on a motor trip to Quebec City and Montreal the bride donned a coral, linen dress with wide draped pockets and slim skirt. Its scooped-out neckline was trimmed with brilliant beads. She was wearing white accessories and a corsage of rose buds and babies' breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick will live in their new home at 155 Montgomery Street when they return.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Danish Goulash Offered On Special-Purpose Menu

A MAN'S MEAL

Danish Goulash
Max's Mashed Potatoes
Salad Greens with French Dressing
Fresh Cherry Pie
Coffee (and plenty of it)

DIRECTIONS

As I type this the temperature is at 70 deg. Fahr. It is early morning and I'm thinking about what we will have for dinner in the Moore household tonight. I hope it is just such a clear cool day when you read this, for it is a hot meal for hungry folk—especially big he-men just home from a hard day's work.

To make this meal a success—and different as it is supposed to be—you have to add some little extras, so read the recipe and see that you have all of the ingredients on your spice shelf. Bay leaves and garlic and celery seeds and paprika will last a long time, so don't hesitate to provide yourself with them. It is a great comfort to know they are on hand when you want to give your cooking some exotic flavor.

Your men will not only enjoy eating this dinner, but there are some masculine readers in this audience who would enjoy making it.

DANISH GOULASH
(serves 6 generously)

Two lbs. top round steak cut ¼-inch thick, ¼ cup butter (4 tablespoons), ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2½ teaspoons salt, 4 medium onions, 3 cups cold water, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 4 bay leaves, 4 tablespoons flour, 6 tablespoons cold water. Cut the thin steak into very small ¼-inch cubes. Melt the butter in your large frying pan, add the meat and season with the pepper and 2 teaspoons of the salt. Cover and sear quickly, to seal the juices into the meat cubes. Meanwhile peel and slice the onions wafer thin. (The onions are not evident when this dish is finished so they must be sliced very thin. They are only present for flavor.) Add them to the seared meat and continue browning until onions are limp and golden. Then add the 3 cups cold water, the sugar, the remaining ½ teaspoon salt and the bay leaves. Cover and simmer for 1 hour. Stir the flour into the 6 tablespoons cold water, and stir this paste into the meat until thick. Remove the bay leaves. When done this is poured over a mound of mashed potatoes in centre of hot platter. Make a depression in the potatoes so that most of the meat is held in this well. Garnish with parsley generously.

MAX'S MASHED POTATOES

Nine medium-sized potatoes, ½ small bud garlic grated, 1 teaspoon olive oil (or salad oil or butter), 2 tablespoons butter, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, ¼ teaspoon celery seed, ½ cup light cream or top milk. Pare and cook whole potatoes in salted boiling water until tender. Drain, then shake over low heat to dry them. Mash until all lumps are gone. Saute the grated garlic in the olive oil and butter in a deep saucepan until transparent, then add the paprika, salt, pepper celery seed and mashed potatoes. Beat over very low heat with a spoon gradually adding the cream until the potatoes are light as fluff. Pile lightly on a hot platter and pour Goulash over as described above.

FRESH CHERRY PIE

Line deep pie plate with rich pastry. Wash, stem and pit enough sour cherries to make 4 cups, well packed. Mix together 3 tablespoons either flour or cornstarch, 2/3 to 1 cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt and if desired ¼ teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon. When this is mixed stir it into the cherries and pour into lined pie plate. Dot with 1 tablespoon butter. Cover with well-gashed top crush and seal edges carefully. Brush top with mixture of 1 tablespoon each sugar and milk. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. about 40 minutes. Do not cut this pie while it is hot. If you must use it soon after it is baked increase flour to 3½ tablespoons.

Coveralls Get Designer Touch

Working girls with man-sized jobs in industry need not abandon fashion during their hours at work. One of the newest branches of fashion is "fashions for industry." Its purpose is to dress Canadian women on industrial jobs in clothes that are both good looking and practical.

There are clothes available for every kind of job from the precision tool bench in an airplane plant to cake decorating in a bakery. Fabrics include cotton twills and ticking, stitched and striped denim and handsome striped seersuckers. All of them take well to soap and water.

Styling for these fashions is by designer Tina Leser, who works on the principle that such clothes must meet safety regulations of industrial plants and still have the smart lines and attractive colors of high fashion sportswear.

Further, this designer has created clothes that can go to work and play, with many of them for interchangeable use.

We show (left) a denim smock with collar in contrasting color. Front and back fullness fall from shoulder yoke. Bloused sleeves can be worn pushed up or down.

One-piece, sleeveless coverall (right) in cotton seersucker has front zipper closing concealed under flat fly-tab. Collar and elasticized belt are in cotton twill in contrasting color. Peaked cap covers hair, comes in seersucker or twill. Neatly-tailored work gloves also come in the twill.

DOROTHY DIX:

Lothario Weds One Lass Other Gets Honeyed Words

DEAR MISS DIX: Is it possible for a man to be deeply in love with two women at the same time? My heart has been broken by a man who claimed he loved me and also another woman. He made love to me, but married the other girl. He had been engaged to her when I met him, then as our friendship progressed he told of his love for me, and everyone who saw us together said he loved me. It has almost wrecked my health to give him up. Was I wrong to fall in love with an engaged man?

LOUISE R.

✧ ✧ ✧

OTHER GIRL MAY BE VICTIM

ANSWER: Since one cannot always make one's heart behave in an accepted manner, it's impossible to say that you were "wrong" in falling in love with a man who was pledged to someone else. You were, however, most emphatically foolish in disclosing your affection, when you were morally certain the man never could be yours.

Didn't it ever occur to you that if he would be disloyal to one woman, YOU could scarcely expect better treatment? Furthermore, if he could be false to a financee, you may be sure his fidelity will be no truer to a wife. The lady who unfortunately acquired him as a husband will rue the day.

The fact that a man can declare his love charmingly is no indication that he is capable of deep or sincere affection— that is, if they have gullible listeners. The real proofs of love may not be so showy, but at least they can be believed. Loyalty and consideration are far more assuring than a lot of fancy words.

Be more discriminating in choosing your next beau. Louise, and for heaven sake stop mooning over the worthless one you lost. Remember, a little introspection avoids a lot of grief.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My life is very discouraging. Ever since I can remember I have been teased about my big nose. I also have crooked teeth that are very embarassing. How can I coax my mother to have something done to them? I am 13.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I firmly believe that everything possible should be done to improve a child's looks, especially when defects such as you describe might be remedied easily. Plastic surgery could reshape your nose, and a brace would straighten your teeth. The first might be done at an eye, ear, nose and throat hospital and the second in a dental clinic. In both cases, I am sure cost would be commensurate with the family income.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS MIX: I'm a widow in love with a man eight years my junior. He tells our friends he loves me, though he is always flirting with other ladies. He says he does it just to make me jealous, too, though I try not to show it. Six months ago he got into trouble and I paid to get him out of it. He expected this favor to be forgotten by me because he knows I had a little money saved. Whenever I mention marriage to him, he says he can't afford it yet. If he needs money again, should I give it to him?

OLGA A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It's not IF he needs money again, Olga, it's when he needs it! Make no mistake about it, he'll manage to find one excuse or another to get every last nickel you have— and you do hand it over so graciously, don't you? A few honeyed words of love pay off very well for your "gentleman" friend. Your lesson won't be learned until he leaves town, with your money—and probably with another woman.

Britain Slashes Purchases From Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Britain has slashed purchases of Canadian goods narrowing her deficit in Canadian trade to about one-quarter the 1952 size, bureau of statistics figures showed today.

At the same time Canada's purchases in the United States have climbed with Canada's unfavorable balance in American trade rising to the highest level in six years.

The bureau estimated that in the first four months of 1953, Canada's exports to Britain dropped to $170,000,000 from $230,400,000 in the similar 1952 period, while imports from Britain rose to $133,200,000 from $96,600,000.

Thus the Anglo-Canadian trade balance, traditionally in Canada's favor, dropped to $36,700,000 from $133,700,000 last year.

Canada's exports to the U.S. in the four months rose to a high of $767,300,000 from $735,700,000, but imports far outstripped exports, rising to a high of $1,060,300,000 from $939,600,000.

This trade trend boosted Canada's deficit in American trade to $293,000,000 from $203,900,000 last year, the highest deficit since the $294,800,000 unfavorable balance of 1947.

Canada's total exports to all countries in the four months dropped to $1,218,700,000 from the peak of $1,354,100,000 last year, while imports climbed to a high of $1,389,700,000 from $1,240,100,000.

The four-month deficit, $171,100,000, compared to a surplus of $114,000,000 last year.

EAST GERMAN CHANGES—Max Fechner, left, was fired as East German justice minister and "Red Hilde" Benjamin, former judge of the supreme court took over his duties. Fechner was apparently the scapegoat of the recent anti-government riots throughout East Germany. Experts feel that Miss Banjamin's promotion raises the spectre of a new purge in the Soviet zone.

"Be Kind To Sharks" Plea Hysterical Nonsense: Angler

LOOE, England (Reuters)—The poor shark can no longer say, "Nobody loves me."

Britain's National Council for Animals' Welfare said Tuesday that the way people treat sharks is "dreadful" and must be stopped. On behalf of the council its secretary, Madaline Bissacks, filed an appeal with the town council to prevent shark fishermen from being mean to sharks.

"Hysterical nonsense," said Brig. John Caunter, chairman of the Shark Angling Club of Great Britain.

The row started when one of the club members landed a 104-pound shark after a 15-minute struggle. Then, say the shark-lovers, the hook was cut out and the shark spent an hour in death agony.

Said Miss Bissacks: "It seems people cannot imagine that an animal can suffer if it is not one which we keep on our fireside mats."

Said Brig. Caunter: "The sharks I catch are knocked out quicker than any other fish. You can't have a dangerous seven-foot monster thrashing about your boat with safety."

Only Three Pints Consumed, Story Accepted

On a charge of drunk driving laid June 27 in Lakefield against William Crough, 22, of 223 Perry St., Magistrate W. R. Philp today found the accused not guilty following his corroborated evidence he had consumed only three pints of beer in a period of nine hours prior to the time the charge was laid.

Crough was charged following an accident involving Sidney Chapman on Queen St. in Lakefield. Chapman, however, was held responsible for the crash and convicted prior to today on careless driving.

Lakefield Chief Constable Price Morris said the accused staggered in walking, failed to speak plainly and smelled of alcohol. He later revised "staggered" to "unsteady on his feet."

SHOCK

Defence Counsel Edward Fanjoy maintained Crough's seeming intoxicated condition was due to shock as a result of the crash.

Crough said he had consumed a pint of beer at two o'clock in the afternoon, four o'clock and a third before 10. The accident happened at about 11 o'clock.

This testimony was corroborated by Crough's brother, Peter, and a friend, Lyal Gillespie.

NEW NOTE—Piano students will welcome this new device, said to make scale practice easy. When she hits the right note, a light flashes. A wrong one produces a loud buzz. The player can compare the postion of the lights with the notes as a check. The device was shown at the National Association of Music Merchants' exhibit in New York.

PICKETS STOP TRUCKER—A flying squad of pickets stop a truck driver on the highway in southwestern Ontario before Premier Frost forbade such picketing. About 1,500 members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL) are on strike in a wage dispute with three trucking companies. The strike has kept an estimated three-quarters of the highway transport in the district off the road.

Junk And Sampan Transport Along With Modern Firepower

By MARGUERITE HIGGINS

WITH THE CHINESE NATIONALIST GUERRILLAS ON SHANG TA CHEN ISLANDS—Chinese Nationalist guerrillas here are celebrating a kind of double victory. They have triumphed over a crack Chinese Communist regiment recently transferred from Korea and have proved that their own weird mixture of fifth-century junk and sampan transport can be combined with twentieth- century fire-power in a successful amphibious landing.

To this correspondent, 1953 guerrilla warfare in this area is most graphically symbolized by the picture of a hard-muscled Chinese soldier clambering awkwardly over the steep impractical side of the sampan and being handed the latest 3.6 bazooka as he storms ashore. Guerrilla spirit in these remote forbidding islands is reminiscent of the cocky aggressiveness of American Marines. One has to be tough to be here in the first place.

SPIRIT TO FIGHT

It would be misleading and irresponsible to draw any over-all conclusions as to the merit or demerit of the Nationalists from the performance of a single group of men. But so far as Ta Chen is concerned, there is no doubt its guerrillas have the spirit to fight and, considering the circumstances, an amazing amount of discipline.

The pay-off of the latest guerrilla battle is a shed full of captured Soviet and Japanese-made weapons, including anti-tank weapons, artillery pieces, rockets, recoilless guns and a substantial batch of light machine guns and semi-automatic rifles.

But the most interesting quarry are the prisoners now inhabiting the tent city just above us. The Red prisoners are part of the Chinese 20th Army recently transferred to the Chekiang coastline from Korea.

At first the prisoners were sullen and frightened, apparently convinced by the propaganda of their political commissars which said the Nationalists would kill them all. Now that some time has passed without any horrible fate overtaking them, they have become quite talkative.

This morning they eagerly exchanged reminiscences over the Wonsan Harbor area in Korea, where they were most recently stationed and which this correspondent has passed through many times when it was in Allied hands.

The recent amphibious assault exemplified guerrilla operations at its most exciting. The twin deer assault had a limited objective. Approximately one regiment of the Chinese 20th Army had seized the outpost, which because of its distance and isolation had only been lightly manned. The Red seizure was part of exploratory attacks on the guerrilla island.

OBTAIN PRISONERS

With evidence building up that the Reds are planning major aggression against this island chain some 90 miles South of Shanghai, it was important to obtain some Red prisoners for interrogation, probe the skill and strength of the enemy and test his weapons.

The Twin Deer islands—Shau Lu Shan and Da Lu Shan—are located within three miles of the Communist shore and some 36 miles from Shang Ta Chen. The battalion chosen by the local guerrilla general for the assignment was equipped with the most modern weapons forwarded here from Formosa by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Orders were to destroy the military effectiveness of the enemy, produce prisoners and capture weapons, but withdraw before inevitable Communist reinforcements arrived from the mainland. It was deemed impracticable to try to maintain such an isolated outpost in the light of Red ground and especially Naval reinforcements of the last month. The guerrilla mission was accomplished as ordered.

The guerrillas prefer to attack at night and without artillery preparation. That way they will have the advantage of surprise. Part of the small Nationalist navy, including some gunboats, stood by and reinforced when the time came.

CAPTURED OR KILLED

Despite Red numerical superiority the guerrillas secured Twin Deer Islands in twenty hours. Since there was no escape route for the Reds most were captured or killed. The islands were held three days before the guerrillas finally withdrew.

The definition of what a Nationalist guerrilla is varied with the geographical situation. Most of the guerrillas landed on Ta Chen initially out of loyalty to guerrilla leader Gen. Ching.

The guerrillas have the satisfaction of a steadily increasing rate of desertions from the Red mainland. They also report that the civilian population in Chekiang province, only twelve miles distant, have been eager to help and have welcomed them during guerrilla landings.

The guerrillas do their best to exploit this friendly feeling. For instance, on a recent raid they broke into three military rice storage warehouses and distributed the contents to the local population.

NEVER TO SURRENDER

Why do these men stick to this grimly hard life? I put this question scores of times. A typical answer came from the 38-year-old battalion commander who led the assault on Twin Deer Islands.

Although he has known war most of his adult life, he came to the islands as one of those determined never to surrender to the Reds. Hatred was an important motive—hatred for what the Reds had done to his parents, classed as middle farmers. Also, his wife and child are on the mainland.

"No matter how many years it takes," he said, "all I live for is to get back to my home and for revenge against the Communists."

With fortunes on Formosa improving due to American aid, the Nationalists have been able to extend more help recently to the guerrillas. There are even classes in literacy, and things have gotten so civilized that the guerrillas have had time to set up baseball and volleyball courts.

The Nationalists have sent down a group of engaging Chinese WACs to teach the guerrillas singing and dancing and to supervise political education and recreation.

The guerrillas are visibly bound by a kind of camaraderie and pride in their individual toughness. They prefer sticking with their friends and the comparative independence on these rugged islands to what might be a more comfortable but more disciplined life on the mainland.

One week the guerrillas here can be wallowing in the luxury of having just captured 70,000 eggs and the next be down to rice or Chinese-type porridge. But even these ups and downs have their own excitement. The sheer urgency of the struggle for survival works against boredom.

Try Tone Down Jet Scream

LONDON (CP)—Assets brought to the aviation world by the jet engine are as evident as one of the liabilities, the ear-splitting scream most jets produce.

The problem as it affects commercial aviation was underlined recently when the Queen was photographed at London airport holding her ears.

British and United States air technicians are working on the noise problem. Work done to date in this country indicates that ways and means do exist whereby the Lone-rattling, ear-piercing jet shriek can be toned down.

Some newer types of jet engines contain the "by-pass" principle, which reduces the speed of the jet stream slightly, and are less noisy.

Other experiments show that certain types of suppressors can be fitted to the jet stream exit point, lessening the noise without reducing the engine's thrust power or increasing fuel consumption.

Most successful suppressor tested here has been a steel ring with metal teeth distributed around its circumference. The ring is fitted to the engine exit pipe so that the teeth or fingers extend into the jet stream.

Hundreds Attend Singer's Funeral

FORT FRANCES (CP)—Hundreds of persons attended funeral services Tuesday for Florence Forsberg, 25-year-old singer who was stabbed and beaten to death in her New York apartment last Thursday.

Lester Johnson, 25, a Korean war veteran who apparently took his own life, left a note in which he said: "I killed Flo Forsberg because of passion and drink."

Rev. H G. Tolton of Winnipeg, minister of King Memorial United Church, who conducted the funeral service said the "one-sided evidence at the scene of the crime was pounced upon by American journalism, placing the sweetheart of Fort Frances in a light she did not deserve."

The minister said she was the "victim of circumstance."

"Her unblemished character was soiled by a maniac who left only his side of the story."

He said people here know Florence was not what the New York newspapers and wire services said and "they need not think that two notes left by a suicidal maniac will change our opinion of her."

It was the largest funeral ever seen in Fort Frances.

Vets Eye To Eye On Hog Cholera

TORONTO (CP)—Experts from Canada and the United States compared notes Tuesday on methods of fighting hog cholera and agreed that quarantining affected areas and slaughter of infected hogs is more effective than immunization.

Dr. Orlan Hall, assistant veterinary-general of Canada, outlined Canada's four-point program, costing $20,000 a year, at the convention of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

Apart from quarantine and slaughter and indemnification of owners of cholera-stricken hogs, the program calls for the cooking of all garbage fed to hogs and a thorough periodic cleaning and disinfecting program of infected stockyards.

The American program, described by Dr. R. S. Sugg of the school of veterinary medicine at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is based on vaccination but bans the use of live virus for immunization.

Report Important Developments In Gaspe Inquiry

GASPE, Que., (CP)—Important developments in the case of three missing Pennsylvania bear hunters are expected within 24 hours, an official close to the investigation said today. The official in Quebec told The Canadian Press: "Very important developments are expected within the next 24 hours. I cannot say more at the moment."

Meanwhile, Quebec provincial police sent one of their top crime investigators into the bush to seek a solution to the baffling case.

Capt. J. Alphonse Matte, ranked among the best of the provincial crime investigators, arrived from Quebec today and immediately prepared to enter the bush where the remains of one of the hunters were found.

Capt. Matte was accompanied by Capt. Raoul Sirois of the provincial police highway patrol, who also planned to enter the bush.

The remains found in the bush, a skeleton, without a skull, have been identified as those of Eugene Lindsey, 45. No trace has been found of Lindsey's 17-year-old son Richard or of 20-year-old Fred Claar. The three, all from Hollidaysburg, Pa., were last seen in the bush June 12.

CLUBBED WITH RIFLE

Officials connected with the search Wednesday night expressed belief that Eugene Lindsey was clubbed with a rifle found near the skeleton. They said there were minute pieces of skin attached to strands of hair found clinging to the sight of the rifle.

Searchers have been baffled by their failure to find anything that would explain the disappearance of young Lindsey and Claar. They have come on no sign, near the truck or the camp-site of any of the party's camp equipment.

Most of those who have been combing the death scene area for days planned to return here today. Only one or two would be left in the woods to continue spot checks.

Among the things turned up so far have been the remains of one body, the rifle, tattered bits of blood - stained underwear, torn pieces of clothing and a damaged rifle strap.

INTENSIVE SEARCH

Wednesday a 15-man team of bush workers and game wardens began an intensive search of a four-mile stretch of logging road leading to the camp site where the elder Lindsey's body was found. The men scoured the bush for fifty feet on either side of the road.

What was left of Eugene Lindsey, a few bones gnawed clean of flesh by bears and a few pieces of tattered clothing, was found at the end of a bear trail some 60 miles from Gaspe. In the camp-site clearing searchers also found the rifle.

The camp was located in comparatively open country, the bush varying from two to three feet high.

Drew Promises To Enforce Anti-Dumping

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Hon. George Drew Wednesday night promised the Progressive Conservative party would enforce Canada's anti-dumping laws to protect the textile industry against "cut-throat" competition.

He said if the Progressive Conservative party was elected Aug. 10, it would enforce the laws to ensure employment to Canada's textile workers.

Mr. Drew spoke to an outdoor audience of 1,700 from a bandshell in Dufresne Park in this eastern townships textile centre.

He said United States textile companies were dumping their surplus production in Canada and that "neither Canada nor any other country can stand cut-throat competition of that kind."

ENFORCING LAWS

He said there is no question of raising tariffs. It was only a question of enforcing present anti-dumping laws.

Figures for the first three months of this year showed the amount of U.S. textiles "dumped" in Canada were increasing to "a point where they threaten still more the great textile industry of Canada."

At Granby earlier, Mr. Drew repeated charges of government "waste and extravagance."

Acquit Parents Of Negligence

OTTAWA (CP)—A charge of criminal negligence against the parents of two children who died in a fire June 30 were dismissed Wednesday by Magistrate Glenn Strike.

He said there was insufficient evidence to justify so serious a charge against Jean Baptiste Laframboise, 41, and his wife, Florence.

He said the parents left their children in the care of their 13-year-old daughter, Francoise, who, he said, was a capable and intelligent child. The girl rescued her sister, Diane, 18 months, and her brother, Marcel, 4.

The two children who died in the fire were Pauline, 7, and Leo, 8.

Little Downing Street Set Up At Chequers

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill today was reported so much improved in health that he plans to set up a "Little Downing street" within the next week at Chequers, the prime minister's official country residence 25 miles from London.

An aide to Churchill announced the 78-year-old statesman would move from his own country home, Chartwell, to Chequers within the next week.

Ailing Foreign Secretary Eden also has been reported planning to convalesce at Chequers on his return from the United States at the end of the month.

R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer told the House of Commons Wednesday night Churchill is "ever so much better now."

A Churchill aide denied a report in the Paris newspaper Paris-Presse that Churchill is completely paralyzed though retaining his "intellectual lucidity." The newspaper said the report was made by Ambassador Rene Massigli to the French government.

When a reporter asked the aide if Churchill had been struck by paralysis in any way, he replied: "I am not in a position to answer that question." He added, though, that Churchill walked in the garden at Chartwell Wednesday afternoon and saw a movie Wednesday night.

Plan Civic Reception For Marlene Stewart

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto will throw a civic reception for Marlene Stewart Aug. 17, city council decided Wednesday night.

The British Open golf champion from Fonthill, Ont., will team with Bob Gray the following day for a match against Louise Suggs, leading American money-winner this season, and Phil Farley, one of Ontario's top amateurs, at the Scarboro Golf Club of which Gray is the professional.

Brigadier Bogert Decorated By Queen

LONDON (CP)—Brig. M. Patrick Bogert, Toronto-born ex-commander of Canada's 25th infantry brigade in Korea, is to become a commander of the Order of the British Empire at a Buckingham Palace investiture Friday.

The brigadier, here on army business coinciding with the investiture visit, led the West Nova Scotia regiment through Sicily and in Italy during 1943, the 2nd infantry brigade in Italy and Holland and the 8th infantry brigade on occupation duty in Germany during 1945-46.

He is being decorated for his Korea service.

Brig. Bogert commanded the 25th brigade in Korea for a year between 1952 and 1953. He turned over command of the brigade last April to Brig. Jean Allard of Montreal and returned to Canada.

Captain Learned Radar By Trial-Error

TORONTO (CP)—The master of the freighter Scotiadoc, which sank June 20 after colliding with another freighter in a Lake Superior fog, said Wednesday the only thing he knew about radar was picked up by "trial and error."

Capt. George Morriss, 55, of Fort William, told a department of transport commission inquiring into the sinking that neither he nor his crew had any formal training in radar. The Scotiadoc collided with the SS Burlington a few miles from Port Arthur. She went down with the loss of one life.

The inquiry opened Wednesday before Mr. Justice D. C. Wells of the Supreme Court of Ontario. An inquiry is automatic in ship collisions.

The rest of the Scotiadoc's crew was picked up by the Burlington and rescue craft. The stricken vessel carried a $600,000 cargo of wheat to the bottom.

OPERATING 4 YEARS

When questioned by Peter Wright, counsel for the commission, Capt. Morris said he had operated the radar unit since it was installed in the ship four years ago.

"I have been working with radar since then," he said. "I learned to use it from men who serviced the unit and on a trial and error process."

He added that the crew had a chance to operate it. He said that on the day of the collision the radar was in use and that visibility was about 1½ miles.

The captain also told the commission he was not sure to which lifeboat he was assigned at the time the freighter sank.

He said boat drills were infrequent because they were "not always convenient."

Peter Wright, commission counsel submitted regulations to show that fire and boat drills on cargo ships are supposed to be held once a month. Capt. Morriss said he held boat drills on the Scotiadoc March 31 and May 18.

Celebrate Anniversary

Frenzied Egyptians Chant Anti-British Slogans

CAIRO (Reuters) — Frenzied Egyptians chanted anti-British slogans today as the nation celebrated the first anniversary of the bloodless coup which ousted King Farouk.

Crowds jammed Cairo's Liberation Square for a special address by President Mohammed Naguib, interrupting his speech frequently with the shout "Akrugu min biladina" ("Quit our country"). Wild cheering greeted Naguib's denunciation of Britain as an "imperialist" and "usurper."

The great square was the scene of mass religious exercises only a few hours earlier, as dawn prayers opened the four-day thanksgiving festival.

SYMBOLIC GUARD

Meanwhile, token army forces stood guard symbolically at the stations from which military units struck silently and efficiently a year ago to seize control of the capital.

Posters everywhere splashed the "Quit our country" slogan. The motto was adopted by the country today as official theme of the campaign to force the British out of her Suez canal zone bases.

Naguib told the vast crowd in Liberation Square that "the presence of British forces in Egyptian soil is a brand of shame on 22,000,000 Egyptians."

The president asserted that the Egyptian revolution had won the sympathy of other Arab nations, who felt that "a unified objective is a crucial blow to the imperialist who lives on our territory."

Naguib declared that the main achievement of his regime was agrarian reform. This has restored the people's rights and cleansed national life of bribery and selfishness, he declared.

But Britain, he said, is "the big enemy."

Allies, Communists Seen On Threshold Of Truce

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Allies and Communists seemed on the threshold of a Korean armistice today even as Red China's Peiping radio warned that renewed South Korean opposition has placed the cease-fire "in great danger." There were persistent reports here that the document ending three years of fighting could be signed within 72 hours. These reports lacked official confirmation, however.

Authoritative Allied sources in Munsan said one or two major points remain to be ironed out and that one or two more meetings of staff officers might be necessary before the chief Allied and Red negotiators meet to fix a date for the signing.

PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

A source close to the negotiations said staff and liaison officers are progressing rapidly with final details, but the armistice has not yet been "wrapped up."

Staff officers were said to have drawn the cease-fire line across Korea during a 15-hour session ending at 1:45 a.m. Arrangements for exchanging prisoners of war were set up at a meeting later in the day.

Despite a hostile reaction by Communist radio stations to President Syngman Rhee's statement Wednesday that South Korea will follow its own course of action unless the Chinese agree within six months of a truce to leave North Korea, Red workmen continued work on "armistice hall," the building designed for the truce signing ceremony.

Official opinion in Washington was that a truce would be signed soon.

Four Swiss and four Swedish members of the neutral nations armistice commission flew to Seoul from Tokyo and were hustled to the United Nations advance camp at Munsan by helicopter. Their names and positions on the commission were not revealed.

The armistice commission members landed in Korea as Allied and Red liaison officers huddled secretly here, then recessed without scheduling another session.

Earlier in the day staff officers conferred. It was announced that the next meeting would be set by liaison officers.

16 RAF Fliers Rescued In Sea

LONDON (Reuters)—The 16 occupants of an RAF transport aircraft which crashed in the Mediterranean have been rescued, the air ministry announced today.

The 16 men, including senior technical officers from transport command headquarters, were picked up from dinghies by a U.S. amphibian plane and transferred to the British destroyer Barfleur, it added.

The Barfleur is expected to reach Malta tonight.

The U.S. plane was unable to take off because of the extra weight and so waited on the water for the destroyer's arrival.

Among the rescued is Air Commodore V. D. Morshead, senior technical staff officer, transport command. The plane crashed Wednesday off North Africa on its way from Tripoli to Habbaniyah, Iraq.

Strikers Try To Halt Convoy

HAMILTON (CP). — Striking truck drivers tried in vain on Wednesday night to halt transport convoys bound from St. Catharines to Toronto and police took 11 of the pickets into custody for the first time since the wage strike started Monday.

Eleven members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL-TLC) were hustled off to the Dundas detachment headquarters for questioning and possible charges.

Provincial police said five of the men were captured after they tried to stop a 19-transport convoy moving at slow speed across the Burlington Beach strip near Hamilton on the way from St. Catharines to Toronto. They cut off the lead truck by wheeling a car across its path, then uncoupled the trailer load of 15 tons of steel pipes, police said. A police escort scattered the strikers and chased the five on foot for 600 yards.

The five truckers were held in jail overnight. They appeared in court today on charges of intimidation and were remanded on bail to July 28.

The six other men were picked up when 25 hooting and jeering truckers in the Hamilton area moved on to the road as a second convoy passed. They were taken to jail, questioned and released.

The police, enforcing Premier Frost's decree that truck traffic on the highways must not be molested, told the pickets not to crowd onto the roadway. A police cruiser forced the strikers back to the verges and officers jumped out to seize the six pickets.

Another skirmish occurred at Windsor. Police said a Vancouver transport truck bound for London with a cargo of non-perishable goods was stopped by a group of pickets shortly after it left the Windsor city limits. It was forced down a side street where its trailer was disconnected.

Police warned the pickets not to disrupt highway traffic, then escorted the truck back to the highway. It continued on its way to London.

POLICE ESCORT

Earlier, Windsor city police armed with riot sticks escorted a truck through picket lines to pick up a load of salt destined for Chatham.

The strike by the 1,500 drivers affects an area from Hamilton to Windsor and including London, Kitchener, Galt, Brantford, Wood-

The operation went well until someone dropped the gland in a basket.

Expect More Moscow Purges As Other Officials Missing Public Appearances

LONDON (AP)—British government leaders were reported far from convinced today that Premier Georgi M. Malenkov wields total power in the Soviet Union. Qualified informants said Prime Minister Churchill and his colleagues, on the basis of their own information from Moscow, would not be surprised if changes ever more dramatic than the purging of Lavrenty P. Beria take place in the Russian hierarchy, and within the foreseeable future. Government spokesmen did not express these views officially. But the private opinions were given considerable support by Acting Prime Minister R. A. Butler's statements to Parliament Wednesday.

Opening a foreign-affairs debate in the House of Commons, Butler explained that the Western Allies had proposed a Big Four foreign ministers meeting on Germany and Austria even though they "might await further and perhaps even more sensational events behind the iron curtain, and above all wait to see who are likely to remain the real repositories of power in Moscow with whom we will have to negotiate."

SHELVE PROPOSAL

Uncertainties about the Soviets, said Butler, led the British to shelve for the time being Churchill's proposal for a top-level parley between the Russians and the West.

Within the context of this thinking, British officials today pondered the meaning of:

1. The apparent failure of three high leaders of the Red Army to attend an important meeting of Russian military men in Moscow last week.

2. The sudden eight-day postponement of the meeting of the Soviet Union's parliament, the Supreme Soviet, which had been set last week for July 28 and now has been put off to Aug. 5.

The Moscow meeting of the Red Army bosses was called to hear denunciations of Beria, the deposed police chief formerly considered No. 2 man to Malenkov.

British officials noted that the absentees included one of the two deputy ministers of defence, Marshal Alexander M. Vasilevsky (the other deputy, Marshal Georgi Zhukov, spoke at the meeting); Marshal Ivan S. Konev, before Stalin's death commander of Soviet ground forces and an honor guard at Stalin's bier, and veteran Gen. Sergei Shtemenko, a former army chief of staff.

Many officials here believe their absence from the Moscow meeting may mean they are not prepared to identify themselves with the campaign against Beria, and hence may also be in disgrace.

These informants say the postponement of the Russian parliamentary session may mean the Soviet purge launched with Beria's dismissal is not yet complete.

Perhaps, British officials speculate, the Soviet high command is not sure yet just what purges must be approved.

Slays Wife In Ambush, Then Suicides

SEGUIN FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A truck driver shot and killed his wife on a lonely side road Wednesday night and commanded his young daughter and a neighbor to watch him commit suicide.

Police said John Edward Davies rammed a hunting rifle through the window of a car driven by his wife, Ada, 35, and shot her. Then he stepped back a few feet from the car and put a bullet through his head.

Both were from Seguin Falls, 25 miles east of Parry Sound.

WAITED IN AMBUSH

The shooting happened near the Davies home. The husband waited in ambush and used his truck to block off the road.

The neighbor, Mrs. Pearl Nelson, said she was riding in the front seat of the car with the victim and 12-year-old Mary Jane Davies. As the car stopped, a door flew open. Mrs. Nelson and Mary Jane tumbled into a ditch.

From there they heard the shot that killed Mrs. Davies. The husband walked around the car and ordered Mary Jane to watch him.

KILLS HIMSELF

"He told me to look at him," the girl said. "I did. When he knew that I was looking, he put the gun in his mouth and pulled the trigger."

There was no apparent reason for the shooting. However, Mrs. Tom McKinnon, Mrs. Davies' mother, said her son-in-law seemed to object to his wife filling in for her as postmistress of Seguin Falls.

The Davies' other child, Edward Dennis, 15, was at home during the shooting.

Army Captain Held For Theft

WINNIPEG (CP)—A 34-year-old army captain, arrested by RCMP at Regina, will be flown to Winnipeg today to face charges of theft in connection with the disposal of more than 150,000 pounds of brass shell cases, worth about $30,000 as scrap metal, at Camp Shilo, Man.

A one-man RCMP escort left here early today by plane to pick up Capt. Martin F. Smith of Ottawa, who was camp ordnance officer at Shilo in 1952. The charges were laid in Winnipeg as a result of a six-month joint army-RCMP investigation of the disposal of scrap at Shilo.

Smith, who joined the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps in 1937, served overseas during the Second World War, and since his return served with the RCOC at Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Churchill and Shilo.

He is married and was living with his wife and family at Regina, where he now is stationed, when arrested.

Midnight Swimmer Killed By Water Taxi

TORONTO (CP)—Tristans Evede of Sudbury was killed Wednesday night when struck by a water taxi as he took a midnight swim in a Toronto Island lagoon. His body was recovered early today.

Evede, 27, visiting a friend on the island prior to going to work in a tobacco field near Delhi, Ont., left a party and was swimming unnoticed when the accident occurred.

Jack Fordham, driver of the taxi, said:

"I had just let passengers off and was circling the lagoon when I felt a bump. At first I thought it was a log. Then I heard a call for help."

Two passengers dived into the water in a rescue attempt but the body disappeared before they could reach it.

Fresh Reign Of Terror As German Miners Revolt

BERLIN (AP)—New riots in the Soviet-run uranium mines of East Germany were reported today as a fresh wave of arrests by Communist police spread over the rebellious Russian zone.

The U. S. high commission newspaper, Neue Zeitung, said troops of the East German "Peoples Army" have been rushed into the Erz Gebirge uranium mining area along the Czech border to put down the miners' new uprising.

The paper said 200 miners have been arrested this week for "open rioting." They were demanding release of 1,200 comrades arrested in the big anti-Communist revolt of June 17.

MAIN TROUBLE CENTRES

Schwarzenberg and Johanngeorgenstadt, two mining towns between Auc and the Czech border, were named as the main trouble centres. This area produces rich uranium ore used by Russia to make atom bombs.

A new campaign of terror swept through the Communist zone as police and courts combined in a concerted drive to suppress the danger of a new mass revolt.

Refugees fleeing to West Berlin told of night raids by police into hundreds of homes and mass roundups of suspected trouble makers in many cities. They said the wave of arrests began Tuesday.

"Red Hilde" Benjamin, the new justice minister, was busy carrying out her announced program of cracking down on strikers through the court system she heads. hundreds of people acquitted and released after the June 17 revolt were reported rearrested. Others who got off with light sentences have had their cases reopened for an increase of penalties.

Many justice ministry workers were reported fired—and some arrested—for dealing too gently with riot participants.

Police joined civilians in fleeing before the wave of Communist vengeance. Twenty-one members of the Communist "Peoples' Police" and 562 other refugees, including a former state secretary in the East German construction ministry, reported to West Berlin police Wednesday and asked for asylum.

Unconfirmed reports of partisan resistance along the German-Polish border continued to seep through the Iron Curtain.

Commonwealth Good Business St. Laurent Says

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday night Canada is part of the British Commonwealth "because it is good business."

Ending a six-day tour of eastern Quebec by visiting the four ridings of the Saguenay region, Mr St. Laurent said he wished Canada to remain in the Commonwealth.

"After all," he told an audience of about 1,500 persons, "there is nothing wrong with Canada having a few friends in the world."

Throughout the day, Mr. St. Laurent addressed three meetings and visited a half-dozen centres in this industrially booming region.

VATICAN ENVOY

At Chicoutimi he repeated what he had said at Thetford Mines earlier in the week about the question of a Canadian ambassador to the Vatican. He said Canada is not yet ready for the move although he felt a majority would "favor the appointment as a political move to the advantage of the country."

Brief interruptions from a man in the audience marked the prime minister's last meeting in eastern Quebec.

The man shouted intermittently at the beginning of his speech while Mr. St. Laurent said his government had joined the North Atlantic democracies to prevent a third world war.

Later, when the man began shouting obscene words and added 'go, I'm not afraid," Mr St. Laurent said he would resume when the man had stopped A police officer quietly led the man away.

PRAISES HOWE

During the meeting Mr. St. Laurent praised Production Minister Howe and said if he had to give any advice to Canada it was "keep C. D. Howe."

Mr. St. Laurent at that time was talking about the government's efforts to find markets overseas for Canadian products. He said the government was doing all it could in that respect.

Today the prime minister was to fly to Halifax to begin a tour of the Maritimes.

Chinese Seize Four Outposts

SEOUL (AP)—Chinese Reds tonight seized four outposts northwest of Kumhwa, central Korean road hub, after earlier beating back a South Korean attempt to capture a dominating hill in the Kumsong river area.

A Red force of about 750 men won the first outpost just after dark in a 15-minute action. Smaller Red assault groups—about 150—drove South Korean defenders from three other knob outposts in the same area northwest of Kumhwa.

Earlier South Koreans fought with bayonets, knives and rifle butts to the top of Sam Hyon hill overlooking the Kumsong river area but were beaten off in a 5½-hour fight by a reinforced Chinese regiment.

North of Sam Hyon, Allied air and ground observers reported sighting Chinese troops. Allied big guns shelled two separate Red battalions massing north of the battle line, plus a concentration of about 40 Red trucks and six tanks.

Rugged Sam Hyon hill overlooks important territory on the Kumsong bulge line, which the South Koreans established after being forced back last week by the mightiest Red offensive in two years.

On the eastern flank of the Kumsong bulge, U.S. infantry hurled back some 150 Reds who lobbed hand grenades into their trenches during a bloody hour-long fight.

To the west flank, South Koreans tore up a 200-man Red attack in a four-hour seesaw battle for an outpost.

Village Cut Off By Fire In B.C.

VICTORIA, B.C. (CP)—A fire that could be seen 12 miles away today struck the isolated British Columbia logging village of Leechtown, 34 miles west of here.

Communications with the village were apparently cut and RCMP officials said they did not know the extent of the blaze. Only rapid means of reaching the village is by railway.

Pravda Spurns West's Call For Conference

MOSCOW (AP) — In a major statement of Communist policy, Pravda today spurned the West's call for a conference of the Big Four foreign ministers on Germany and Austria. The organ of the Soviet Communist party said the invitation is a behind-the-back "deal" attempting to force the Soviet Union's hand in advance.

The newspaper gave the first Soviet reaction to the July 15 invitation from the British, U.S., and French ministers for foreign minister V. M. Molotov to meet them in talks.

(Observers in London concluded that the Pravda editorial indicated the Kremlin would reject the Western bid to a conference dealing only with Germany and Austria).

The invitation to meet late in September was given following the recent Washington meeting of the three Western foreign ministers.

DOESN'T SLAM DOOR

Pravda did not slam the door on the possibility of some kind of four-power parley. Such a conference, it said, "under specific circumstances would have an important and positive significance."

The newspaper lashed out at "deals" it said the three western foreign ministers made in advance in Washington—"attempts to force upon the USSR both the time and agenda of a four-power meeting adopted without the participation and behind the back of the representatives of one of the four states."

(These statements seemed to indicate the Soviets want the procedure followed in the past, agreements on an agenda at a preliminary conference of deputies of all four countries. The last proposal for a Big Four meeting which reached this stage died in 1951 because the deputies, after 3½ months of negotiations in Paris, were unable to agree.)

Say Churchill Disappointed

LONDON (AP)—A government source close to Sir Winston Churchill said Wednesday night the prime minister is "disappointed" at the results of the Washington conference of the Big Three Western foreign ministers.

Britain was represented by the Marquess of Salisbury, acting foreign minister. The talks, which ended last week, were called after a Bermuda conference among Churchill, President Eisenhower and French premier Joseph Laniel was postponed.

The government informant said Churchill's disappointment flowed from the fact he felt the Washington parley produced almost the exact opposite of what he had been urging in the way of big four talks.

Churchill, the informant said, had hoped that a big-power meeting at the highest level would touch off an "unfreezing" process in the cold war.

Emergency Meeting To Decide Resignation

ROME (Reuters)—Prime Minister Alcide de Gasperi held an emergency meeting with his party today to decide whether to offer immediate resignation of his week-old government.

The new crisis rose suddenly with a decision by the right-wing Monarchist party to vote against De Gasperi in a parliamentary motion of confidence due next Monday or Tuesday.

The decision came at dawn after an all-night conference.

stock, Sarnia and Guelph. The union's Hamilton local seeks 20 cents more for drivers and 30 for mechanics. Windsor wants 52 cents more for both, which would bring the rate to $1.80 an hour.

Pat Delaney of London, business agent for the Hamilton local, last night took issue with reports that truckers average about $90 a week.

"Sure, some drivers make that kind of money, some as much as $100 a week," he said. "But they work as long as 80, 90 and 100 hours a week to do it. We want to work 48 hours and still make a living wage."

REACT VIOLENTLY

Communist radio stations reacted violently to President Syngman Rhee's statement Wednesday.

The Reds said an armistice was endangered, but indicated a truce was still possible. And Communist workmen continued work on a new building for the armistice signing ceremonies.

On a visit to the battle front during the day, Rhee told Associated Press correspondent John Randolph he would not obstruct an armistice "under certain conditions."

"If we can see our way to survive, we can reach agreement," Rhee said. "But if we cannot see our way to survive that is a different thing."

HAS CONFERENCE

The old statesman has said many times his nation cannot survive divided and with Chinese Communist troops in the north.

Before Rhee left Seoul for the front, he talked for 55 minutes with U. S. Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs.

Briggs delivered a message released in Washington by U. S. Secretary of State Dulles. The statement said the United States presumed Rhee would abide by assurances that he would not impede an armistice

A high South Korean source said late today that a U. S. state department note delivered to Rhee Wednesday was "quite unsatisfactory."

The source, who asked not to be identified, said the letter failed to give satisfactory answers to questions raised by South Korea during talks last month between Rhee and Assistant State Secretary Walter Robertson, President Eisenhower's truce envoy.

South Korean Prime Minister Pak Too Chin said the U. S. government is threatening to withhold $1,000,000,000 in military and economic aid unless "the Republic of Korea completely abandons its opposition to American ideas as to an armistice."

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar was at a discount of ⅞ per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Wednesday's noon rate was 99 1-16 cents. Pound sterling $2.79⅛, against $2.79.

Tito Appoints Moscow Envoy

By LAJOS LEDERER
(Special To The Examiner)

LONDON. — The appointment of a new Yugoslav Ambassador to Moscow, now announced in Belgrade, a month after Marshal Tito had accepted the Kremlin's offer to exchange ambassadors again, was awaited with interest in Western political circles.

It was thought that Marshal Tito's choice of ambassador to the Soviet capital might give a clue as to the kind of relations Belgrade wishes to establish with Russia. The man Tito has chosen, Mr. Dobrivoje Vidic, is not a career diplomat. Aged 35, he is Yugoslavia's youngest ambassador and is one of the young men who fought as a partisan from the very first day the Germans attacked Yugoslavia.

It was under his command that the partisans liberated Uzice in southwest Serbia from General Nedic, the Serb quisling premier, in September 1941 and it was here that Marshal Tito first met Vidic. Uzice was Tito's first headquarters from which he organized the partisan movement on a nation-wide scale.

The appointment of Vidic may be an indication that Marshal Tito wishes to have through the person of his envoy in Moscow a permanent reminder to the Kremlin that Yugoslavia liberated herself and does not owe her liberation to the Russians.

Vidic, who joined the Yugoslav Communist party in 1937, has not previously been in Russia. After 1945, he was in control of the important province Vojvodina, the granary of Yugoslavia, as secretary to the provincial People's Committee, a post in which he enhanced his reputation for efficiency. When the Yugoslav Ambassador in London was absent on account of illness in August, 1951, Tito appointed Vidic as charge d'affaires. In this his first diplomatic post, Vidic was popular and made many friends. In the autumn of 1952, he was appointed Ambassador to Burma.

WKONG LIFEBOAT

The captain said he was assigned to the port lifeboat. However, commission members said a list showed he should have gone to the starboard boat.

"If you didn't know where to go, what reason did you have to think the other crew members knew where to go?" Mr. Wright asked.

"At that time (of the sinking), I didn't think which boat to go to," the captain replied.

One of the lifeboats quickly filled with water when it was lowered into the lake and five crew members had to be transferred to the other lifeboat. Wallace McDermid, 37-year-old porter from Sault Ste. Marie, disappeared in the icy waters.

The ships collided in fog near Thunder Cape while they were seeking shelter from a heavy storm.

Capt. Morriss said the Scotiadoc was running at full speed of 10½ knots, depending on radar to spot obstacles He said the radar screen picked up the Burlington when the ships were about six miles apart but he did not reduce speed "because I figured we'd be all clear."

The hearing is continuing with Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court presiding.

Land Reform To Aid Peasant Crying Need Of Philippines

By O. M. GREEN
(Special To The Examiner)

Although the presidential elections in the Philippines are still four months off, the frenzy they have aroused among the Filipinos is as great as if they were due tomorrow.

Nothing else is talked of. The virulence of the campaign promises to exceed even that of the 1949 elections which were undisguisedly dominated by brutalism and bribery, and over one hundred people were killed.

President Quirino heads the Liberals, denounces the Nationalists for "ultra-nationalism, foreign interventionalism" (this in regard to the Americans), "pro-Communism and shameless opportunism."

Mr. Ramon Magsaysay, the Nationalist candidate, who takes the precaution of going about with two bodyguards, thunders against "the graft and corruption of the Liberal crooks and grafters who suck the blood of the taxpayers."

The language of lesser participants in the fight is hardly printable.

This fever is a reflection of the deplorable state of the Filipinos generally. Superficially, a good deal has been done to repair the enormous war-damage of Manila, and fine new buildings have been put up. But behind lurks the squalor of widespread unemployment and under-employment.

COMMON TO ASIA

The structure of society is common enough in Asia. As, for example, in Persia, there is a small ruling minority, immensely rich in land and vested interests; next below them, a horde of political hangers-on, living by whatever they can grab; and then "the hungry sheep" of the Filipino masses.

In 1950, the Philippines were brought to the verge of bankruptcy, mainly through shameless speculation of the millions of dollars that the United States had poured out for their rehabilitation after the ruin of the war.

America intervened with further generosity to set the government on its feet once again, but insisted on a number of reforms Some of these were adopted, rather better financial control was enforced. But the fundamental cure—land reform for the benefit of the landless peasant—has never been attempted. Corruption still flourishes flagrantly. And the Hukbalahap rebellion—which began in 1945 as a purely agrarian rising against the landlords and has since become dominated by the Communists—still goes on, eating up a third of the government's revenues.

The most interesting figure on the political platform is that of Ramon Magsaysay. Indeed it is his undoubted quality that has made the fight so bitter.

A vigorous, magnetic personality, he was appointed minister of defence by President Quirino in 1950 and quickly won popularity by his honesty and sincerity. Having reorganised the army into a smaller but much improved force, he had, by the beginning of this year, virtually broken the back of the Hukbalahap rebellion.

What was even more remarkable than Magsaysay's military success was the clemency compassion he showed in dealing with the defeated peasants, to counteract the Communists' influence.

But at the end of last February he suddenly resigned from the defence ministry, declaring that it was useless to try to extinguish the rebellion while the Liberal administration continued to foster all the conditions which best favor hte growth of Communism.

Now he stands out as Nationalist candidate for presidency, declaring that "peace and progress can never be realized under Quirino."

MAY BE THIRD CANDIDATE

The popularity and fighting force of Magsaysay, who is backed by one of the most respected men in the country, Senator Jose Laurel (he was defeated in 1949 by President Quirino) have so frightened the Liberals, that there may be a third candidate in the field, General Carlos Romulo.

A man of much personal attraction, a scholar, a dashing guerrilla leader in the resistance movement against Japan, General Romulo made his mark as the Philippines' ambassador in Washington and representative on the United Nations.

He, too, however, resigned office on May 14 to seek nomination as Liberal candidate. It is said that the Liberal party fetched him back to Manila as the only man likely to win the elections for them against Mr. Magsaysay.

If so, they blundered and badly misjudged Quirino's astuteness and grip on the party machine. Within ten days of General Romulo's resigning, Quirino called a meeting of the Liberal leaders and got himself unanimously adopted as the party's candidate.

Since then, General Romulo has been organizing a "New Democratic Party," but the strength that it will muster in the autumn is doubtful.

On the general nature of the reforms so urgently required, everyone is at least vocally agreed. The conflict is one of men more than measures, of leaders more than law.

And in this respect President Quirino has great advantages. Mr. Magsaysay has all the arguments, but Quirino has experience, astuteness and complete command of the administrative machine. The question is whether the Filipinos are sufficiently weary of Liberal rule to feat such a combination of power.

Truly the Philippines have everything in their favor—natural wealth, preferential treatment for their exports to America, assured protection by America, who has lavished untold wealth on them, not only for their importance in her Pacific defences, but because for over half a century the Filipinos have been her peculiar proteges. Is it possible, perhaps, that the Philippines have had too much done for them since they regained their independence? Might they not if they had been thrown more upon their own resources in 1945, be now in better health, both politically and economically? — (OFNS-Copyright).

Speaking in the afternoon from a hotel balcony to about 300 persons gathered in the street below, he referred to a news report telling of conditions at the Canadian air base at Gros Tenquin, France.

The report, by Ross Munro of the Southam Newspapers, told of poor condition of runways at the airfield which made it "extremely difficult" for the RCAF to use the field, Mr. Drew said.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE

This was another example of the waste and inefficiency reported last year in the Currie report on the army works services.

"That is the kind of thing that has been adding to the taxes you have to pay."

The Progressive Conservative leader spoke mainly in French at Granby and four other brief stops on a motor trip from Montreal.

He disagreed with the idea that voters were apathetic to the election campaign.

"While they're not doing a lot of talking, they're doing a lot of thinking."

Vatican Backs Cardinal's Speech

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says in a dispatch today from Rome the Vatican has described as "unexceptionable" an address by Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani supporting the Spanish bishops' position favoring restriction of Protestant minorities in Roman Catholic countries.

The cardinal's speech in support of the Spanish stand in face of criticism by some French and United States Roman Catholics was made last March 2. The New York Times said the Vatican's statement was elicited by a request from the newspaper for an authoritative clarification of the speech in view of apparently conflicting interpretations given to it in Spain and the U.S.

The Times said a controversy has raged in Catholic circles for many months over the Spanish bishops' position. Some prelates in the U.S. were said to have sent protests to Rome.

Cardinal Ottaviani was described as a well-known Catholic jurist and expert on ecclesiastical law. His speech was carried by L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper.

Under Hood Of Automobile Too Crowded

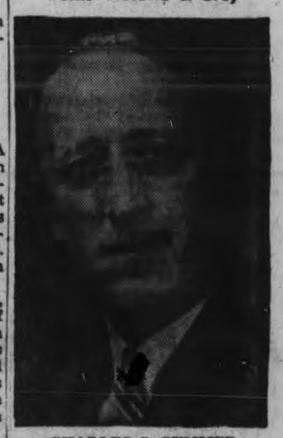
DETROIT (AP) — Everything that goes under the hood of today's autos is getting close scrutiny from the industry's engineers.

They say the place is getting too crowded. With the "plumbing" for air conditioning units, power steering and other devices drawing power from the engine, the situation is becoming serious, these experts say.

Any motorist who has attempted to make his own repairs to a distributor, oil and water pump or manifold will agree the power plant area of the car is overcrowded.

Because they can't eliminate anything or move it to a different part of the car the engineers are concentrating on a esarch for smaller units.

Different engineers have different views as to how under-the-hood congestion will be relieved but few talk about moving the power plant to the rear.



Most of them appear to believe present-day engines can be reduced in size without affecting their efficiency. So smaller but more powerful engines may be a not-too-distant development.

WITH THE CANDIDATES ON HUSTINGS

Housing, Health Discussed By Political Leaders

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

The three Hs of the election campaign—housing, health and haphazard defence expenditures—boomed from the hustings of three political leaders Wednesday. CCF leader M. J. Coldwell talked at Toronto about housing; Prime Minister St. Laurent spoke on health of Roverval, Que.; and George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, again went after government "waste and extravagance." Mr. Drew got campaign help from five women who took to the radio in a team broadcast recorded for a CBC network.

Mr. Coldwell, speaking in Toronto's Greenwood Park to an audience of 550, contended the government is willing to let private lenders make what they can out of Canada's housing shortage.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, a Crown company, was operating on behalf of the lending institutions and not, as was intended, to help people build their own homes.

PLAN SPECIAL FUND

Mr. Coldwell said a CCF government would set up a special fund from which individual home-builders could borrow at two-per-cent interest and pay back over 30 years instead of 20. The initial deposit would be reduced from 20 to 10 per cent.

Such a plan would make it possible for a Canadian to acquire a $10,000 home by monthly payments of $33.20, including both capital and interest. For those who could not afford this outlay, the CCF would introduce rental subsidy funds to be made available to public housing authorities. This would mean a sharp drop in current high rents.

Mr. St. Laurent said in a Roberval theatre that Canada would probably get a national health insurance plan when defence expenditures could be cut. The provinces would administer such a scheme.

"Health insurance would be a good thing, but it will be impossible until some cut in defence expenditures can be made. There is no other way because, after all, I think the people feel taxes are high enough as they are."

The prime minister spent another hand-shaking day in his native province as he visited Saguenay valley towns.

TALKS ABOUT UNITY

He talked a good deal about Canadian unity and the country's two cultures: "It is necessary that we remain firmly attached to our language and religion. That is better than if we tried to be a second-hand imitation of another culture. The same applies to English-language citizens. It is better for them to remain attached to their traditions than to try to be second-hand imitators of the other Canadian culture. . . .

"There are not many things for which I admire George Drew, but I must say I have the strongest admiration for him for the tremendous effort he has made to talk to a whole segment of the population in its own tongue. There are others who are doing the same and when such a precedent has been set it becomes tradition."

Mr. Drew, addressing a street audience of some 300 persons from a Granby, Que., hotel balcony referred to a newspaper report by Ross Munro of the Southam Newspapers concerning the bedraggled condition of the RCAF airfield at Gros Tenquin, France.

This, said Mr. Drew, is "another example" of the waste and inefficiency dealt with by the Currie report on the army works services.

"That is the kind of thing that has been adding to the taxes you have to pay," the Progressive Conservative leader said.

THINKING A LOT

Mr. Drew spoke mainly in French at his six stops in Quebec's eastern townships during the day. He denied that the electors are apathetic: "While they're not doing a lot of talking, they're doing a lot of thinking."

At Sherbrooke, a textile centre, Mr. Drew called for enforcement of Canada's anti-dumping laws to protect textile mills against "cut-throat" competition from the United States.

A Progressive Conservative government would strictly enforce anti-dumping laws and ensure employment for Canada's textile workers.

ABANDON PROMISES

At Niagara Falls, Trade Minister Howe said the Progressive Conservative government in New Brunswick reneged on election promises to abolish the sales tax and reduce government expenditures.

At Toronto, C. H. Millard, CCF candidate in York West and Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), said Canada has a moral obligation to match the U.S. contribution of food for hungry East Germans. The Liberal government hadn't offered as much as a five-cent piece.

Mr. St. Laurent flies to Halifax today for a two-day tour of Nova Scotia. He speaks tonight at Halifax. Mr. Drew continues his Quebec campaigning at Victoriaville, Nicolet and Trois-Rivieres. Mr. Coldwell will be at Fort William, Ont.

Ask Parties Investigate Voting Lists

TORONTO (CP)—John A. Kinsella, returning officer for Toronto Spadina, said Wednesday he has asked the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties in the riding to investigate whether names on the ridings' voting lists for the election should be there.

His order following a complaint Tuesday night by Alfred Skinner, chairman of the riding's Progressive Conservative association, that lists had been papped and that of the 739 listed electors in three subdivisions, 248 were ineligible to vote.

Voters' lists are made up by two enumerators, one appointed by the winning party in the last election, and the other by the second party. The two visit all homes in the riding and both must be satisfied conditions for voting eligibility are met.

NEW CANADIANS

Mr. Skinner said most of the ineligibles on the lists are new Canadians who are not citizens. One person listed was dead and 39 others lived outside the subdivision.

He said seven persons, including Tim Buck, national director of the Labor - Progressive party, were listed as living at the party's national headquarters on midtown Bloor street.

Mr. Kinsella said he will take no action until the two parties have examined the lists.

Charges Liberals Think They Rul eBy Divine Grace

OTTAWA (CP)—Margaret Aitken, Progressive Conservative candidate in Ontario's York-Humber riding, said Wednesday night the Liberal government should be turned out because its ministers have come to believe "they rule by divine appointment." The commentator and columnist was a member of a five-woman panel of Progressive Conservative candidates participating in a political team broadcast recorded for the CBC's trans-Canada network.

"Do you realize," she said, "that not one of today's cabinet ministers have ever sat in the opposition? It is time for a change because there is an aura of dictatorship about the government that believes it is irreplaceable, the indispensable men."

OTHERS TAKING PART

Others taking part were Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, defending her seat in Hamilton West; Miss Winnifred Stokes, candidate in Niagara Falls; Miss Lorraine Johnston, candidate in Vancouver South; and Miss Sybil Bennett, president of the Progressive Conservative Women's Associations, seeking a seat in Halton, Ont.

Mrs. Fairclough, ony woman member in the Commons, said the Liberal government has turned a "deaf ear" to the pleas of Canadians for a realistic tax program and elimination of "many inequities."

Miss Johnston said the Liberal government's thriftiness is "very much open to criticism and doubt." It was spending $857 an hour on publicity, films, displays and advertising. The defence department this year planned to spend $6,800 a day for publicity alone.

Miss Stokes said the federal "tax-grab" has excluded municipalities from normal tax sources "to such an extent that all across Canada municipal services are lagging behind even minimum standards of safety, security and adequacy in hospitals, schools and essential property services."

Miss Bennett outlined the party's 16-point platform, including plans to reduce taxes by $500,000,000 a year.

"I know the women of Canada will welcome this program as clear evidence that the Conservative party is determined to serve all the people of this country by reducing the tax burden and still maintain our present defence and social security programs through sensible thrift and economy in administration."

Pearson Blasts 16-Point Plan

EXETER (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson Wednesday night blasted the 16-point program of the Progressive Conservative party as "nothing but charges and promises—a program that would greatly interfere with the economy of Canada."

In an address before some 150 persons, Mr. Pearson claimed the Oppositior has pledged itself to nothing more than promises.

Referring specifically to the promise of Opposition Leader George Drew that a Tory government at Ottawa could by next October reduce the national tax rate by $500,000,000, Mr. Pearson said this was "sheer nonsense."

"We're not criticizing the fact that somebody is suggesting to reduce the tax rate by that amount," he said. "We're only criticizing Mr. Drew's statement that a tax cut of $500,000,000 is possible without interfering with social services or creating a situation of high national debt."

Mr. Pearson spoke in Exeter in support of Andrew Y. McLean, Liberal candidate for Huron in the federal election.

St. Laurent Says Quebec French Best

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Wednesday night took a crack at the legend that "Parisian" French is the "best French."

Speaking about Ross Macdonald, former Commons speaker, who had learned to speak French at Laval University, Mr. St. Laurent said the University of Western Ontario held courses at Trois Pistoles, Que. for 100 English-speaking young men and women.

"They go there not to learn Parisian French, but real French, the kind you and I speak."

Question:

Mr. Swanston, have you read the Conservative booklet "Pocket Politics?"

Answer:

Yes. It is an appeal for economy in government, and in that respect I agree with it. But every business man, farmer and housewife knows that there is good economy and bad economy. That booklet presents a lot of unexplained figures and suggests some bad economies. Nickel-pinching is not economy, and skimping on national defence and national development could put this country on the rocks in four years.

Public Funds Wasted Under Liberals–PC

STRATFORD (CP)—The Canadian people would never have a greater protection than a good business - administration government, Gordon Graydon, member of Parliament for Peel in the last Parliament told a meeting of Perth County Progressive Conservatives here Wednesday night.

Mr. Graydon said the wanton spending of public funds by a Liberal government which has been in power too long will likely mean that the Canadian people may finally be aroused and elect a Progressive Conservative government headed by George Drew Aug. 10.

Any implication on the part of Liberal candidates that the old age pension and other benefits would be reduced as part of the proposed Drew reduced-spending policy was hitting below the political belt, he said.

St. Laurent Day

On August 10th, 1535, Jacques Cartier, then on his second voyage to the New World, entered a bay on the north shore of the present Gulf of St. Lawrence, a bay opposite Anticosti Island. Cartier named it Baye Sainct Laurens, for August 10th is the festival of St. Lawrence. The name gradually was used for the whole Gulf, and for the great river which Cartier himself always called the River of Canada.

* * *

In modern French, Sainct Laurens is St. Laurent.

* * *

On August 10th, 1953, general elections are being held. The date was chosen by Prime Minister St. Laurent. August 10th is Mr. St. Laurent's name-day.

* * *

Nobody has accused Mr. St. Laurent of harbouring any superstitions of the kind alleged against his predecessor Mr. King; but there is more than coincidence in the election date. A happy omen for Mr. St. Laurent? We remember, however, that his patron saint, St. Lawrence, was martyred (in Rome) in 258 A.D. by being burnt alive on a griddle.

An augury of unusual heat on election day?

Calling The Bluff

Bluffing has been a recognized part of international politics since the deluge. It requires judgement and experience on the part of a politician to tell when the other side is in real earnest.

If Mussolini's bluff had been called in 1935 the whole course of events that led up to the war might have been altered. On the other hand Syngman Rhee was not altogether bluffing when he opposed the U.N. truce plans.

It seems that the British Government has calculated correctly in assessing Egypt's threats to turn them out of the Suez Canal area. By showing the Egyptians that they have every intention of remaining there and intensifying their security arrangements the British have been able to ease the tension that existed. Since then the situation has improved to such an extent that special precautions have been able to be relaxed.

General Naguib knows very well that his motley forces would stand very little chance against the well-trained British garrison. The statement of U.S. Ambassador to Egypt Jefferson Caffery that he has delivered to Egypt a message of "high interest" from the United States heightens speculation that America may have revised her intention of abstaining from the plan of sharing in the responsibility of guarding the Canal. If she were to announce her readiness to cooperate in an international scheme the Egyptians would have a ready way of saving face by agreeing to share the defence of the Canal with the Americans.

In view of these possibilities it is permissible to take a somewhat more optimistic view of the Suez question. The Americans have the advantage of starting with a clean sheet, and if they are able to avoid wounding the susceptibilities of the Egyptians their presence should serve to stabilize the situation in this important strategic area.

Scalpel and Pen

The London Daily Express reports that the traditionally illegible handwriting of doctors will be improved if British druggists and the examiners of the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists have their way. The examiners are tired of what they call the doctors' "heiroglyphics" and will in future deduct marks for poor penmanship.

Druggists, too, complained that prescriptions were as a rule so difficult to read that dangerous dispensing mistakes could easily be made. We have in the past heard of deaths being caused in this way, and though other professions are by no means exempt from the reproach of bad handwriting the medical profession, dealing as it does from day to day with matters of life and death, should be particularly careful in such matters.

Doctors freely admit that on the whole their orthography is poor, though there are notable exceptions. They point out, however, that trained druggists are unlikely to make any serious mistake owing to their knowledge of the properties of ingredients which they use. Like other professional men they can trace the degeneration in their handwriting to the necessity for taking down notes verbatim from lectures in their student days. It might be added that since the invention of the typewriter schools have laid less emphasis on good penmanship, and our modern writing tools, the fountain pen, the ball pen, the pencil require less training in their use than the old steel pen. The doctor is always in a hurry, rushing from case to case, and is often obliged to scribble his prescriptions in an atmosphere that is hardly conducive to good handwriting.

We wish the British examiners and druggists good luck in their campaign, though we note that they have not made any constructive suggestions on their own. Could not the number of prepared lectures be drastically cut down? If a series of lectures is good enough it will be published in book form, where it is much more easily studied. The whole technique of lectures at the universities smacks of the methods of the Middle Ages, when books were scarce and dear. If these lectures were considerably reduced there would be a better chance of the student graduating with a legible handwriting.

We Are Polled

Like all newspapers, we pay a certain amount of attention to polls, but until recently we were never polled personally. Perhaps you noticed an article which appeared last week about fluorine in water, in which it was suggested that there is a good deal of fluorine in an ordinary cup of tea? In which it was hinted that healthy children might get their fluorine by drinking tea? We were polled on that matter, and in case you are interested in what happened we append the dialogue which passed between the Examiner's Editor and the Poll Person:

P.P.: You drink tea, Mr. Editor?

Ex.Ed.: By the gallon.

P.P.: Drink it as a child?

Ex.Ed.: From earliest recollection.

P.P.: With milk and sugar?

Ex.Ed.: Of course not. You kill the flavour of the tea that way. Tea with milk and sugar in it is a kind of nourishing soup. It is not the brew Confucius drank.

P.P.: You are a Confucian?

Ex.Ed.: For all practical purposes.

P.P.: From whom did you learn to drink tea?

Ex.Ed.: From my grandmother.

P.P.: She thought it a healthy drink for an infant?

Ex.Ed.: She was one of a family of twenty—sixteen natural and four adopted. They all grew up on tea. They all lived to be over eighty.

P.P: Do you know whether your grandmother regarded tea as a tooth preservative?

Ex.Ed.: She regarded it as a sovereign remedy for everything. She always gave it to teething babies. Said it soothed their gums.

P.P: Did she ever suggest that it contained sodium fluoride?

Ex.Ed.: No, but she used to say it contained "good". She measured "good" by a unit called a "power". "There's a power of good in that" she used to say, as she sipped her tea.

P.P.: Did she make strong tea?

Ex.Ed.: No, she despised strong tea; she said it ought to be hot, the colour of a mulatto's skin, and served in a cup thin enough to see light through.

P.P.: And do you attribute the soundness of your teeth to early tea-drinking?

Ex.Ed.: I do.

P.P: Thank you. That's all I wanted to know.

Him Flightful Blore

Nat Gubbins, columnist for the London (England) Express, diverted his mind from cricket to Korea one day recently, and learning that most of the natives there speak pidgin English and that Syngman Rhee has a houseboy who considers him a "flightful blore", came forth with a divertissement which is far from being a frightful bore. It is good stuff for a summer day, and we pass it along:

Slingman Rhee him flightful blore,
Him wantee muchee muchee war,
But Slingman Rhee he no go there,
Him velly old man with not much hair.

Him blavest man in all Korea,
Him only fireside flusilier;
Him only flight with talkee talk,
When soldiers march, him no can walk.

Old Slingman Rhee him seventy-eight,
Him mighty near big Golden Gate,
But soldiers young, like houseboy Song,
Him muchee wantee livee long.

Old Slingman Rhee him far along,
From big blang blang and whizz blang blong,
Him flight um war flom big arm chair,
But Slingman Rhee he no go there.

Him flight um war like big man top,
Him belly full of chop chop chop,
Him flight um war till war him won,
Him flight um war with slippers on.

Old Slingman Rhee him flull of hate,
Though him so near big Golden Gate,
Him wantee muchee muchee war,
Old Slingman Rhee him flightful blore.

THE AMERICAN SCENE

The U.S. Loves Plain Speaking

By ALASTAIR BUCHAN

AMERICA is an intensely serious country. Anyone who thinks of it in the terms of Hollywood would be grossly deceived. Nowhere in the civilised world is so much time devoted by private citizens to community affairs, to parent-teacher associations, to summer schools and voluntary study groups of all kinds.

Last week I attended one of the most famous of these, the annual session of the Institute of Public Studies at the University of Virginia. This is one of the most beautiful small universities in the world, built in the first quarter of the last century by Thomas Jefferson, in the French classical style adapted to Virginian brick. Here were assembled people from all over the United States—students, housewives, officials, businessmen—to engage in a week of intensive debate upon the affairs of the world. Through mornings and afternoons of boiling heat, foreign diplomats and journalists, government officials and politicians, hammered each other and the hard facts of international affairs before an audience whose attentive silence was broken only by the gentle swishing of ladies' fans.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE PROCEEDINGS were launched by a speech from Sir Roger Makins, the British Ambassador, which was one of the clearest expositions of Britain's position in the modern world that I have heard for a long time. Sir Roger is a professional diplomat and has therefore been trained in that peculiarly irritating form of double talk in which Foreign Offices excel. He is also, like his predecessor, Sir Oliver Franks, a shy man who all his life has shunned the limelight. But he knows the United States very well, and knows that Americans like both plain speaking and clarity. On this occasion he spoke gracefully and forcefully, with an authority which is increased by his enormous height. If his performance—and the response to it—on this occasion is any guide, I should say that Sir Roger is going to be one of Britain's successes in the supremely difficult job of Ambassador to the United States.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE EXTENT to which Americans appreciate plain speaking was shown in a discussion the next morning on the integration of Europe. A man from the State Department explained the American Government's official policy on the European Defence Community and the importance attached by the United States to the unification of Western Europe, a view which was politely echoed by a representative of Congress and others. Then one of my colleagues, George-Henri Martin, the brilliant correspondent of "France Soir" in Washington, delivered a stinging attack on American policy towards Europe, pointing out how the movement for the European integration had degenerated from a moral cause to being one aspect of American strategic convenience — how the shift from American economic to military aid for Europe had destroyed the moral basis of American leadership, and how American domestic affairs, notably McCarthyism, reacted on American prestige abroad. It was a strong speech in which he pulled no punches, and he was given a cheer by the audience three times as strong and as prolonged as that given to any other speaker. When this can happen no one, I believe, need have serious doubts about the vitality of American democracy or its capacity for accepting and acting on friendly criticism.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE NEW YORK theatrical season, after five successive years of financial loss, has closed this year after the worst year on record, and with an overall deficit of nearly three million dollars. Compared to Broadway, London and Paris are heaven for the theatrical producer. Of the fifty-four plays put on during the 1952-53 season, twenty-nine closed with varying degrees of loss, six are still running and may recoup their production cost, and only thirteen have made money.

It is true that most of the flops were indifferent plays—with the exception of "Seagulls Over Sorrento"—but even so they provided sufficiently adequate entertainment to have ensured their survival in London. A play called "Buttrio Square" closed with a two hundred thousand dollar loss and a musical "My Darlin' Aida", with a loss of a quarter of a million dollars. On the other hand a musical "Wish You Were Here" by Rodgers and Hammerstein, the only authors with an absolutely sure sense of what the public wants, has made an equivalent amount. Beatrice Lillie's one-girl (or should it be lady) show has made five times its production cost: Emlyn Williams has made twice his production cost on his reading from Dickens; and plays like "The Love of Four Colonels" and "The Time of the Cuckoo" have done well.

✧ ✧ ✧

BROADWAY'S trouble is entirely production costs. There is just as large an audience for good plays in New York as there is in London, or anywhere else; and since New York is a rich city, and its theatre is largely patronised by visitors from other parts of America with money to spend, they don't mind paying the seven dollars and twenty cents that a good seat costs. The trouble is, however, that costs are now so heavy that unless a production, large or small, plays not just to good audiences, but to absolute capacity from the day it opens, it seems certain to lose money. Consequently it is becoming harder and harder to get capital to produce a play. As one experienced theatre man said recently: "Pretty soon you'll have nothing left but Rodgers and Hammerstein. There won't be any Broadway."

✧ ✧ ✧

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY, out of office for the first time in twenty years, and decisively beaten at the polls last year, is anything but downhearted. The Democratic leaders believe that there is an excellent chance of their regaining control of the House of Representatives at next year's mid-term elections, and to prepare for it they have taken the unorthodox course of going into the popuar magazine business. This week the first issue of a new monthly called "The Democratic Digest" appeared. It is a sprightly political pamphlet full of amusing cracks at the Republicans, such as this one. "The Republican idea of a bipartisan foreign policy is for Eisenhower to take Taft to Bermuda." According to its Editor, Mr. Clayton Fritchey, who is a famous and expert journalist, it has more paid subscriptions in advance of publication than any magazine in the history of American publishing.

✧ ✧ ✧

NEXT MONTH, one of the most beloved and respected figures of the Washington scene, General Omar Bradley, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, goes into retirement. American generals come on the whole from very plain backgrounds, not from the ranks of the rich and highly educated. General Bradley's father was a school teacher in Missouri, and in the General's own mind, the highest compliment being paid to him on his retirement, so one of his close friends tells me, is the naming after him of a small village in West Virginia. Bradley, West Virginia, has only one hundred and forty families; but the General's speech at the dedication this week of its tiny post office was one of the best he has ever made. As long as the leaders of the American forces continue to be drawn from the same, solid, yet humble strain as General Bradley, no one need have any strong fears that America will fall in love with militarism.

"AFTER YOU..."

The Blasphemous Ferry Prisoner

By ROBERT FRANKLIN (IN HONG KONG)

STEPHEN STANLEY RAGAN, who recently made his five hundred and fiftieth compulsory ferry boat crossing between Hong Kong and Macao because no country will have him, is a tough customer—a hard, bitter, blasphemous man with a criminal record.

After listening to him talk, sometimes boastfully, of the way he has lived most of his fifty years—Ragan claims he committed his first crime when only seven—it is not hard to understand why governments are shy of giving refuge to this stateless man.

At the same time, the justice of the treatment he is now receiving would seem open to question.

For close on four months now Ragan (who is better known to newspaper readers as Michael Patrick O'Brien, a name acquired when he bought a seaman's papers in Shanghai in 1931) has been held in what amounts to solitary confinement in the ferryboat's brig, an iron-barred enclosure below, decks.

This small space is furnished with a cot. There is a water tap and an open drain leading off to the scuppers. There are no other toilet facilities.

The English captain of the Chinese-owned ferryboat will allow Ragan no visitors, least of all newspapermen. The Hong Kong police do not like to discuss the case with reporters, either, while other colonial officials have stated that it might be possible to do something for the man if only the newspapers would stop giving Ragan publicity—although he has had scarcely any for some months now.

Ragan first came into the news last September. He has been in China since 1931. The Communists either permitted him to cross their border into Macao, or deported him. He had nothing but the old seaman's papers he had bought for fifty American dollars in Shanghai more than twenty years earlier.

After a week or two, by one means or another, Ragan got aboard the ferry Lee Hong (Prosperous Voyage) that plies between the Portuguese and British colonies.

He was not allowed to land in the British colony, and has been aboard the ferry ever since. Once, when the ship was in dry-dock for eighteen days, he was allowed to go ashore to a nearby restaurant for meals.

✧ ✧ ✧

RAGAN at first had claimed to be an American citizen. But it was soon established that he arrived in the state of Washington with his Hungarian parents at the age of two, and had never become a citizen. In 1924, at the age of twenty-two, Ragan was convicted of armed robbery in Portland, Oregon, and given a twenty years' sentence.

In 1931 he was paroled and put aboard a freighter bound for Shanghai—or so he says. When he arrived there he "went over the side," and soon afterwards assumed the name of O'Brien. It was not long (he boasts) before this O'Brien was known as the King of Blood Alley, a notorious honkytonk street in Shanghai.

For six months, Ragan, a slim, dark saturnine man, heavily tattooed, lived in the ship's saloon, an object of curiosity for the tourists who came aboard each afternoon in Hong Kong for the trip to Macao. He was willing enough to talk to anyone who would buy him drinks, and if there were enough of them, he would tell the story of his life. ("There's nothing new in what's happening to me now. All I ever got was a bum deal.") Society had always been against him, he would say, and after a time it became apparent that much of this bitterness was being concentrated upon the person of the ship's skipper.

Then in mid-March, Ragan attempted to assault the captain. He was thrown in the brig, and has remained there since. The captain will not discuss him, but crew members say Ragan has become violent.

Meanwhile, attempts are being made to obtain Ragan a visa for Brazil. Once any country accepts him, he will be transported there without delay.

After that, it may be assumed, he won't go to sea again for some time.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Knew ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ was baptized into his death?

Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life.

For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection . . .

Now if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him: knowing that Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him. For in that he died, he died unto sin once: but in that he liveth, he liveth unto God. Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord. (Rob. 6: 3-5, 8-11.)

And when the sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, had bought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint him. (Mark 16: 1.)

Shorter Speeches

(Chatham News)

The Canadian vogue for short speeches came in with Laurier, who had a gift of saying a few things pleasantly. In contrast, his opponent in 1896, Sir Charles Tupper, famous for his long speeches in the House of Commons, on the hustings exhausted his subject—and his hearers.

It may be significant that Tupper was Prime Minister for two short months and Laurier held the post for 15 consecutive years.

There may be a lesson in that for campaigners of this present era; and if, spurred by the hot weather, they take it to heart, so much the better for their audiences.

Tray, Tiny, Flos

(A.R.F. in London Free Press)

In the Muskoka district are three townships with the curious name of Tray, Tiny and Flos. We have often wondered from whence these townships gathered such strange names. Browsing through an old volume of Canadiana in our library the other day, we discovered that these were the names of the three lap dogs of Lady Sarah Maitland, wife of the lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada in the twenties of the last century. Apparently running out of suitable names for the country then being surveyed, some wag decided to thus immortalize Lady Maitland's lap dogs.

Liberals Policies Said Aid To Immigration

OSHAWA — Liberal governments of the last 10 years have provided the greatest opportunity in Canadian history for immigration from Europe, Health Minister Martin said here Wednesday.

"And no party has ever claimed greater support from New Canadians than the Liberal Party," he said.

New Canadians, the health minister said, assess Canadian history in terms of the various flows of immigration. The great tides of immigration have washed to Canada's shores, first under Laurier, then King and finally St. Laurent, Mr. Martin said.

As he has before in this campaign, Mr. Martin recalled the spectre of depression. "No one," the health minister said, "who lives in an automobile city can ever forget the last Conservative regime in Ottawa. Men were out on the streets. No autos were being made. There was no work, no pay cheques. In the four years that government was in power, the auto industry operated for only 18 months.

Aiming his remarks at union members of his audience, Mr. Martin said it was a Liberal administration which gave the first great impetus to collective bargaining in Canada.

The health minister candidly admitted that the election date favored the Liberals when he said "No election was ever conducted, from the point of view of the government, at a more favorable time."

He spoke to about 200 persons in Lakeview Park on behalf of John Lay, Liberal candidate in Ontario riding.

WHAT IS IT?—This strange animal was born to a shorthorn heifer on Tom Fulton's farm in Mankato, Kans. Now four weeks old, the "calf-deer" is marked like a fawn, runs deer-like, with head up, and has deer-shaped hoofs. Prof. A. M. Guhl, of the Zoology Department at Kansas State College, said it was possible, though extremely unlikely, that a buck deer would cross-breed with a cow. Whatever she is, the young animal seems to be enjoying the interest she has created.

T. C. Douglas Sees Economic Collapse Soon

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan told an election rally here Tuesday night the Liberal government's strong majority in the Commons has made it "fat, indolent, inept and arrogant."

Addressing an audience of 1,000 here, Mr. Douglas said signs of an economic collapse in Canada are multiplying.

Mounting surpluses of wheat, salmon, pork and other products, along with "almost complete" loss of the British market, were cited to support the contention that another depression is near.

Touring in support of CCF candidates, Mr. Douglas said there are 100,000,000 pounds of unsold pork, millions of pounds of cheese and bacon, and 500,000,000 bushels of grain in Canada.

He blamed tariffs and anti-dumping duties on British imports for the loss of Canada's markets in the United Kingdom and predicted the Dominion soon will lose the wheat market in Britain, possibly to Russia.

4,640 Witnesses Baptized, Mass Ceremony

NEW YORK (AP). — One by one, 4,640 men, women and children filed into a Broadway swimming pool Wednesday and were baptized by ministers. It was the biggest mass baptismal service of modern times.

The ritual, which attracted hundreds of spectators who peered from windows and lined the rooftops of adjacent buildings, was part of the International Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Candidates were brought from the assembly grounds at Yankee Stadium in a fleet of 12 buses which shuttled back and forth with loads of new converts. They queued up for blocks.

In the public pool taken over for the affair, a dozen ministers waist deep in water welcomed each convert.

Quickly, a minister grasped the convert and submerged him, back downward, into the water, then raised him up, symbolizing death and rebirth into dedication to Jehovah.

The baptisms occurred at the rate of about one every three seconds.

Throughout the five-hour service, a serious, reverential atmosphere prevailed generally among the long line. But ice-cream vendors and soft drink stands did a rushing business in the vicinity.

Before being brought to the pool converts sat in a special section of Yankee Stadium where the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society was in the fourth day of its eight-day world assembly.

After a prayer of thanksgiving, they began moving to the chartered buses.

At the pool, the candidates wore a variety of swimming suits, ranging from old-fashioned mother hubbards to dazzling satin.

Each baptized person becomes not only a member of the society, but also a minister charged to publish the gospel.

Peterboro' Brothers Place 2nd In Tourney

LINDSAY (ENS)—The Lindsay Community Lawn Bowling Club had a very successful men's doubles tournament Wednesday with 42 rinks from Peterborough, Havelock, Bowmanville, Oshawa, Port Perry, Cannington, Toronto Victoria, Whitby, Toronto Runneymede, Toronto Weston and Lindsay.

The greens being over-crowded, ten rinks were transported to the greens at Cannington. First prize of silver trays and the Hiram Walker Trophy was won by A. J. Brennan and Herb Williams of Lindsay for three wins with 54 plus six points. Second, Walter and William Jones of Peterborough, three wins, 51 plus five. Third, W. Livingstone and G. Pilgrim of Cannington, three wins with 51 plus three. Fourth, W. Highfield of Port Perry, three wins and 50 plus two. Fifth, F. Doughty of Peterborough, with three wins and 47 points. Sixth, H. Freeman and W. Jones, Peterborough, two wins and 52 plus 11 points. Seventh, F. Creeber and B. Sproule, Cannington, two wins with 52 plus 10 points. Eighth, W. Kay and W. Cullen, Peterborough, for one win, 45 plus one point.

Trailermen Climb Atop Senior OLA Standing Defeat Hamilton 16-6

A mixture of junior Pats and senior Trailermen were blended together Wednesday night under the senior club name of Trailermen. As far as the fans were concerned that mixture was quite tasty for the Trailermen romped to an easy 16-6 victory over Hamilton to climb atop the senior OLA standing with the idle St. Catharines Athletics. From the start the hapless, shorthanded players were no match for the Trailermen even though they were forced to rely upon junior players to fill empty gaps caused by honeymoons, injuries and factory holidays.

The Trailermen's victory gave them a 19-win and four-loss record for 38 points in the standing. At the same time St. Catharines has also 38 points, but they have six losses. With the two games in hand the Trailermen can easily take a lengthy lead in first place.

The first noticeable replacement in the Trailermen's lineup was the goalie, Joe Hickson subbing in for Lloyd "Moon" Wootton who is out with a torn muscle. Hickson kept the Trailermen's goals against down to Moon's level as he stopped Hamilton stars, Jack Bionda, Butch Guthro and Bill Rankin time after time.

The other replacements, Bob Allen, Bob Curtis and Willy Logan, all from Lou Vitarelli's junior Pats, pleased the so-so crowd with their fast-breaking play. Playing their first game in senior company the juniors came through with senior calibre play, each scoring a goal.

Hamilton's poor showing, bringing only 10 players, ruined any chance of a close game which was expected of them after two recent victories over the league-leading Athletics. Stars Jack Dorney, Bill McLean, Don Smith, Bud Smith and others failed to make an appearance.

To make matters worse Hamilton started the game with only six players, a seventh entering the game midway through the first quarter, but only after he borrowed some equipment. Coach Arnold Smith and players Al Doyle, Lefty Jordon and Doug Davidson arrived late in the second quarter.

Even then the Trailermen had troubles; they just couldn't put the ball past Hamilton's goalie, Dodds, playing his first game for the Ambitious City. Dodds throughout the game was kept busy as the Trailermen kept pouring in, but he kept the score down with stellar netminding.

Just the same, the Trailermen went ahead 4-2 in the first quarter, 9-4 at the half and 13-4 at the three-quarter mark, finishing off with a seven-goal spread.

Lineups:
Trailermen: Goal, Hickson; defence, O'Hearn, Batley; centre, Thorpe; wings, Ashbee, Robinson; alternates, Slater, Fitzgerald, Smith, Powless, Logan Curtis, Allen Magee.
Hamilton: Goal, Dodds; defence, Simpson, Guthro; centre, Rankin; wings, Bionda, Sibbald; alternates, Caupla, Doyle, Jordon and Davidson.

FUN FOR ALL—Bob Thorpe's Trailermen take their lacrosse quite seriously during their senior OLA games but in the dressingroom they take time out for some fun. Usually they joke with one another about various plays. Whenever a visitor enters the dressingroom after a win they are usually treated like kings. Joseph McGuire, well-known popcorn salesman, was jostled by Jerry Fitzgerald, Ike Hildebrand and Don Ashbee. Joe's ears are always good for a laugh; he doesn't mind the fun at all. The three Trailermen show just how far Joe's ears will stretch.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Four Trailermen Among Leaders In Scoring Race

Peterborough Trailermen have four players among the top 10 scorers in the official list released by the OLA up to July 19.

Ike Hildebrand with 70 points is fourth; Jack Mason with 65 points is seventh; Ross Powless is crowding him with 64 points and Gerry Fitzgerald is tied for the last spot with two others with 61 points.

The league's leading scorer is Doug Smith of St. Catharines with 98 points, 12 ahead of his nearest rival, Ken Croft. Smith gathered most of his points with assists. His goals have counted him 32 and his assists 66. Gerry Fitzgerald is the only other leading scorer whose assitss overbalance his goals—45 as against 16. Ross Powless balances his scoring efforts exactly, 32 each.

Here is a complete list with their scoring points: Doug Smith (St. Catharines) 98; Ken Croft (Orillia) 86; Leo Teatro (Orillia) 75; Ike Hildebrand (Peterborough 70; Don Campbell (Fergus) 69; Derry Davies (St. Catharines) 68; Jack Mason (Peterborough) 65; Ross Powless (Peterborough) 64; Tony D'Amico (Orillia) 62; Bob Dobbie (Fergus) 61; Jim McNulty (Orillia) 61 and Gerry Fitzgerald (Peterborough) 61.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

Why won't baseball and lacrosse fans turn out to see the junior teams play?

For several years the young lads have either been playing to their few close friends and relatives or to empty stands. Either situation is unpleasant and does little to encourage the boys.

This season the baseball Liflocs and the lacrosse Pats are just playing to handfuls of fans, the loyalist supporters of both sports. They are not discouraged, yet, but they're beginning to show signs.

NO SENIOR TEAM TO STEAL THE LIMELIGHT

There's no reason why baseball enthusiasts shouldn't turn out for the Liflocs games. There's no senior team to take most of the limelight. If they want to see baseball, their only opportunity is to see the juniors.

This year baseball officials decided to emphasize the junior club in the Lakeshore Intermediate League. They hoped the ball fans would give the same support to the juniors as they did the seniors last year, but that suppert didn't materialize.

If these junior lads become discouraged and quit the game (which is unlikely for they're playing just for the love of it), what will happen to plans for a senior team, composed mostly of homebrew talent? It will mean some sugar daddy will have to pay for imported players or no baseball at all.

Howie Dalton and Shockey Mein have grouped together a colorful junior nine. Although these lads, who are all about 18 years old, haven't fared so well in intermediate company, they will probably do very well in junior playdowns.

Probably the city's best all-round young athlete, Gary Kearns, sparks the club with his lead-off batting and his play around second. He's backed up by Bryan Young, heady left-fielder; Scotty McSporran, centre-fielder; Leo Sullivan, right-fielder, and supported by Stu Lingard at first, Garth Douglas at short, and Murray Byrne at third.

Jerry Frizzelle, a right-hander tops the Liflocs' pitching staff, but he's being pressed for starts by lefties, Roger Lee and Doug Ash. Don Bigford and Ken Pammett will vouch for their teammates' pitching abilities from behind the plate.

DOWN AT MILLER BOWL WITH LACROSSERS

The fan situation is much the same down at Miller Bowl with Lou Vitarelli's lads. The players' only supporters are dads and mothers, and teammates along the bench.

Lou, along with the junior executive and sponsor Frank Patterson, have been attempting to bring an Ontario and Canadian championship (the Minto Cup) to the city for the past four years. During that time they've managed to stay in the black but this season they've dipped into the red.

The main reason for the poor crowds is the fact that the senior Trailermen, the Canadian champs, completely overshadow the kids. The fans would rather, quite naturally, see the senior games; they quite probably never give the juniors a thought, other than look for the result of games.

Admittedly the junior lacrosse isn't as smooth as the senior brand, but this season the competition is much closer than in the senior league. That makes for exciting games, something the seniors have had fewer of this year.

Long Branch, Oakville, Brampton and the Pats are all pretty well grouped now, just prior to the playoffs. They've all had decisions over each other, meaning they're pretty well matched and it's just a toss-up who'll win Ontario honors.

This year the western champions will come east and what is more important is the fact that the Canadian series will be played at the home grounds of the Ontario winner. This will mean, if the Pats win out, the Minto Cup series will be at Miller Bowl.

That'll be quite a plum for the kids if they win. The fans will then find out just what the junior brand is like. I think they'll like what they see.

Lou has banded together a fast-breaking team of home-brew and imported players. The mainstays are three-year men, defencemen, Carl Brioux and Jerry O'Reilly, the stellar goalie, Ray Hill.

He feels the "kid" line of Bob Allen, Bob Curtis, Bob Hobart and Buddie (too bad him name isn't Bob too) McDougal are "definitely coming seniors". His other line is equally as good, including Gary Smith (Rog's brother), Ivan Thomas, Willie Logan and Frank Farley.

Lou depends largely upon reserves, such as Art Galley, Lionel Bloom and Junior Daniels, all future names on the senior roster.

All in all the junior picture in baseball and lacrosse is well worth a look.

Big Eights Take Spotlight For First Time

By CRAIG SWAYZE

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP) — Today is "eights day" at the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta here, the first time the long jobs hit the water in this 71st running of the four-day affair.

After Wednesday's nine fours and doubles heats and two singles finals, the rowing fraternity will get the chance to watch the sleek 60-footers glide down the mile and 550-yard course six times. However only one of the eight races is a final, the rest being heats for Friday's events.

That lone eights final on the 20-race card is a big one though. That's when the high schoolers row for the Calder Cleland Memorial Trophy, rowing's richest prize. The gold and silver cup is reputed to be worth more than $10,000.

St. Catharines Collegiate will defend the trophy against Buffalo Lafayette High School and Detroit St. Anthony's High School. The Buffalo boys are favored.

STOLE SHOW

It was the New York Athletic Club who stole Wednesday's show with three victories on the opening day's 11-race program.

The most important was 15-year-old Bobby Houston's win in the junior 135-pound singles, a new event on the Henley books. The New Rochelle, N.Y., high school student left nine lengths between himself and veteran Don Decastro of Buffalo West Sides to bring the New York club 10 points in the regatta aggregate for the Maple Leaf Trophy, emblematic of regatta supremacy.

Decastro picked up five points while Hal Sing and Bill Wands of Hamilton Leaders grabbed 3½ points by finishing third and fourth.

New York's other wins came when its junior four took the first heat of that event and Doke Stock and Bruce Nicolaysen combined for a victory in the second heat of the junior 145-pound doubles.

Walter Hoover of Detroit Grosse Point High School won the high-school singles, the only other final on Wednesday's card.

The 18-year-old sculler, who stroked the United States doubles entry at last year's Olympics, repeated his 1951 victory with a four-length win over Don Guest of Toronto Etobicoke High School, the defending champion. Guest's doubles mate, Larry Stephan of Etobicoke, was third.

Guest came back to win the first heat of the junior singles, but had a chore on his hands to finish less than half a length in front of Jim MacIntosh of the Detroit Rowing Club. George Ninos of Philadelphia Vesper Boat Club took the other heat of this event with Ed Lynch of New York A.C. second. All will row in today's final.

Outboards Lose 6-5 To Norwood

NORWOOD—Outboard Marine lost a close one to the locals 6-5 Wednesday night when they journeyed here for a regular fastball fixture.

It was a tough one for McKeety to lose as he held the home team to nine hits while Garden, on the mound for Norwood, handed out 16 bingles to Outboards.

The visitors took an early lead, scoring two runs in the second, but Norwood came back in the third with a four-run rally and added another in the fourth.

Outboards added one in the fourth and two more in the eighth, tieing the score at 5-all going into the final inning.

Althouse, leading off for Norwood in the bottom of the ninth, knocked out a triple and Garden, the next batter, won his own game when he brought Althouse home with a single.

Lineups:
Outboard Marine — Dodds 1b; McVeety p; C. Blakely cf; Downer 3b; Corrigan c; Halliday 2b; Morgan ss; R. Blakely lf Doris rf.
Norwood — R. Garden p; Cole 3b; LaBrash 2b; Rusaw lf; Bill Garden ss; Fredericks cf; Wifford c; Cuthbertson 1b; Althouse rf.
Umpires: Montgomery and Puffer.

Althouse's Hits Wins Game 6-5

A home run in the last of the 10th inning provided the margin for Norwood Wednesday night when they edged Marines, 6-5, in Norwood. Rightfielder Althouse, first man up for the home team, made the circuit clout to end the game.

Trailing 5-3 going into the eighth, two runs by Marines forced the game into overtime. They had previously jumped to an early lead, tallying twice in the second frame, but Norwood runners crossed the plate four times in the third to take the lead.

Both teams scored once in the fourth inning.

Marines outhit the winners, 14 to nine, with McVeety, Corrigan and Halliday each collecting three hits.

Police Squad Drop Bells 6-5 In City League Upset

Civic softball activity during the current week has seen a surprise or two as Clair McGillen's stalwart police squad handed Chum Gillespie's highly-rated Bell Telephone gang a 6-5 defeat Monday for the latter's second defeat of the season and the Coppers' third win; and Seabrooke Electrics swept a doubleheader Wednesday night over Sunshine Dairymen and Fairviews.

By virtue of their twin victories, Seabrook's are now tied with Bill's Lunch for second place in the league-standing, each with seven wins in nine starts, while Police won their third game to tie Post Office with three and five and make a strong bid for a place in the playoff sun—if they continue their pace.

EARNED VICTORY

George Louth, Georgetown boy, now a local OPP man, twirled for the men in blue and, aided by good support and strong work with the mace, edged out a well-merited victory.

Clare Conroy worked the first game last night for Ray Harrison's Seabrook's, opposing Jim McGrath, and earned a 13-5 verdict.

Conroy allowed but two hits and walked a pair, fanning seven to earn the win.

The nightcap proved a tight fit at 5-4, as Seabrook's rallied behind Eldon Conroy, who gave up four bingles, struck out eight and walked only one. Glen Fowler hurled well also for Fairview. Harrison, Jerry Black and Hank Russelle shone at bat and afield, and every man looked snappy out there before a goodly holiday turnout.

Next games Tuesday night. Standing:

Brooklyn Clips Cubs In Twin Bill To Increase Lead

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

When the "break up" boys take a look at today's major-league standings they may want to consider switching leagues. Instead of crying "break up the Yankees" as they have for years, they might find it more appropriate to start chanting "break up the Dodgers." Today, for the first time since May 17, the American League has a closer pennant race than the National. Brooklyn's steadily-moving Dodgers lead Milwaukee by 5½ games. New York Yankees own only a 4½-game bulge over Chicago White Sox.

The Dodgers took a big stride forward Wednesday night by defeating Chicago Cubs in a double-header 2-3 and 11-1 as Milwaukee bowed to Philadelphia 6-3.

The Yankees frittered away a full game of their lead by losing to Cleveland 6-4 for the second straight night after the White Sox shaded Boston 1-0.

HUMILIATE CUBS

Brooklyn combined excellent pitching, usually a rarity in Ebbets Field, with its normally heavy hitting to humiliate the hapless Cubs. Johnny Podres, a rookie lefthander, struck out 10 and gave up six hits in his second complete major league game. Veteran Carl Erskine allowed only four hits and also struck out 10 in the nightcap.

The Dodgers combed Chicago pitching for 24 hits including two home runs by Gil Hodges, who drove in seven tallies, and single circuit blasts by Carl Furillo and Duke Snider.

At Philadelphia the Phillies jumped on Warren Spahn for four runs in the first inning and the Braves couldn't catch up. The opening attack featured a two-run homer by Granny Hamner. It was Spahn's fourth loss against 12 victories.

PITCHERS WEAK

The Yankees tried to win it early in Cleveland, but their pitchers didn't have staying power. The Indians trailed by three runs after three innings. Then they got to Whitey Ford for a pair in the fourth on a home run by Joe Tipton and took the lead in the fifth on a homer by Dale Mitchell and doubles by Al Rosen and Larry Doby. After a bad first inning Mike Garcia settled down to check the invaders for his 12th triumph.

At Chicago Virgil Trucks scattered four hits and let only one runner get as far as second. Mel Parnell, ace of the Boston staff, hurled one of his best games too, but one hit, a triple by Chico Carrasquel to open the fifth inning, ruined him. Chico hung on third while Trucks grounded out, but he scampered home when Nellie Fox lofted a long fly to centre field.

Parnell gave up three hits in seven innings before bowing out for a futile pinch hitter. The White Sox got one more safety off Ellis Kinder, who finished up. Trucks has won 12, seven in succession since joining Chicago in mid-June.

WINS FIRST GAME

The only other American League action was in St. Louis where Bob Shantz, last year's most valuable player in the loop, won his first game since May 3, a five-hitter over the Browns 11-1.

In the National League the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals swapped positions again as the Giants rallied for two runs in the ninth to edge the Cards 6-5. The victory moved New York back into fourth place. Al Dark's single with the bases loaded was the payoff punch.

Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati 3-2, Cal Abrams hitting two home runs for the Pirates. Paul Lapalme went all the way for his fifth victory. Pittsburgh had lost 10 in a row to the Redlegs this season.

Canadiana Runs Third In Cleopatra

CHICAGO, (AP)—A long-shot chestnut filly, Arab Actress, turned on stretch speed for a six-length victory today in the $29,075 Cleopatra Handicap for 3-year-old fillies at Arlington Park. Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Home-Made was second, nosing out the favored Canadiana, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, for the place spot.

Arab Actress, piloted by William Cook and owned by Mrs. Henry J. Damn of Indianapolis, turned the mile on a slow track in 1:40 2-9. She returned $17.20, $8.00 and $4.20.

Home-Made, ridden by Native Dancer's regular pilot, Eric Guerin, paid $7.60 and $4.20. Canadiana, champion 2-year-old of Canada last year, paid $2.80.

Owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, Canadiana jumped into an early lead and was pacing the field of 14 going into the home run. Arab Actress, running second into the stretch, caught Canadiana and passed her with a sudden spurt. Canadiana, off a 3-to-2 favorite, also was unable to stave off the stretch challenge of Home - Made. Canadiana simply slackened under her top weight of 120 pounds, compared with 116 for Arab Actress and 115 for Home-Made.

Arab Actress took a $17,500 winner's slice from the purse. She will run in the $40,000 Matron at Arlington next Wednesday.

Bisons Drop Ottawa In 2-1 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

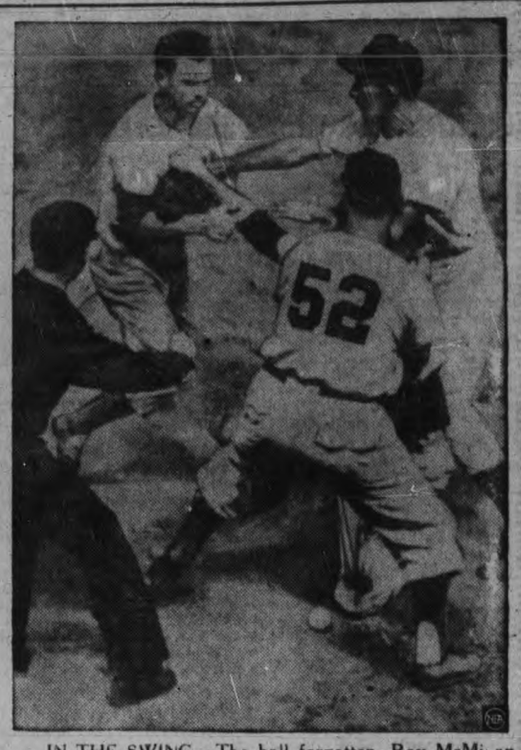
It's a nip-and-tuck battle between Buffalo Bisons and Montreal Royals for the International Baseball League leadership.

And except for a run in the 10th inning, resulting from three walks and a long fly, the Bisons were almost nipped last night. The long fly paid off, however, and sent the winning run scurrying across the plate as the Herd dropped Ottawa Athletics 2-1 in Canada's capital.

The Montrealers—no great believers in doing it the hard way—overwhelmed Toronto Leafs 8-4 at Montreal.

Frank Lary gave up only two hits in registering his ninth victory for Buffalo against seven defeats. Dick Rojek was the loser, his second defeat in as many decisions.

Rojek only allowed five hits and was sailing along smoothly until the sixth when Harvey Zernia smashed a bases-empty homer to put the Bisons ahead 1-0.



The Athletics pulled even in the seventh and continued that way until the 10th. Then Buddy Hicks bobbed Skeeter Kell's grounder to short, Lary tried to pick Kell off first but the first baseman let the pitch get away. Kell scampered to third and came home on Fred Gerken's single.

At Montreal, Bob Ludwick allowed the Leafs only two hits in the five frames he hurled but left in the sixth when he gave up a single and walked three. Hamp Coleman finished.

The Royals put the game away in the sixth after Toronto tallied four in their half. Chico Fernandez singled, stole second and was driven home by a triple by Sandy Amoros. Amoros in turn scored on Rocky Nelson's sizzling single.

At Syracuse, Springfield Cubs defeated the Chiefs 5-2 to take a 2-1 edge in their four-game series.

Walt Derucki, getting three for four, led the Cubs' 11-hit attack off three Chief hurlers. Art Hartley, Syracuse starter, was loser. Relief hurling by Sheldon Jones and Tony Jacobs protected the Springfield victory.

IN THE SWING—The ball forgotten, Roy McMillan, left, Cincinnati shortstop, charged with fury in his eye at Karl Drews, on ground, hotly contending the Phillies' pitcher was none too gentle tagging him after fielding a bunt. Buster Mills, 52, Red's coach, First Basemen Eddie Waitkus and Umpire Bill Engeln broke it up before heads were broken.

Woman Keeps Canada's Chances Alive In Tennis Tournament

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's hopes admittedly slim, of keeping at least one of its national tennis titles at home rested today upon a husky Toronto matron who doubles in pastry making.

Mrs. Hilde Doleschell, the former Austrian champion who started a bakery on her arrival here two years ago, kept Canada's chances alive in the women's singles of the Canadian championships when she whipped Joan Merciadis of Modesta, Calif., 9-11, 7-5, 6-3 Wednesday night. The bitterly-fought four-hour match sent her into the semi-finals and came at the end of a day that saw the country's leading netmen, including three Davis Cup players, bow out of the week-long competition at the half-way mark. Included in the list of home-brew victims were Lorne Main of Vancouver and Toronto, the country's ranking player, and Mrs. Hanah Sladek of Montreal, No. 1 among the Canadians in the women's division.

TOURNAMENT STUNNER

Main's loss to Mario Llamas, Mexican Davis Cup player, in the third round of the men's singles, was the stunner of the tournament.

Fans expected the 23-year-old Main to wipe out Llamas just as he did in the Canada-Mexico Davis Cup round at Montreal last week, but at the end of the hour-long match it was Llamas by scores of 7-5, 1-6, 6-3. The loss extinguished any flicker of hope Canada had in the men's singles.

Earlier in the day, the country's ranking stars were eliminated in quick succession in the tournament that has attracted more than 200 entries from Canada, United States, Australia, Mexico and Japan. The quarter-finals of the men's singles will be played today without a Canadian entry.

Davis Cup players Paul Willey of Vancouver and Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., were eliminated in the third round. Willey went under 6-4, 6-2 to Kosi Kamo of Japan and Bedard was eliminated 10-8, 6-3 by Tony Vincent of New York.

OTHER SCORES

Jim Bentley of Toronto, seeded No. 5 on the domestic list, lost 6-1, 6-2 to Ed Moylan of Trenton, N.J.

Don Platt of Toronto gave top-ranking Mervyn Rose a scare before losing 6-1, 9-7. Platt, not conceded a chance to extend 23-year-old Rose, the world's sixth-ranking player, battled the Australian all the way before being shoved to the sidelines.

Things were black for Canada when Mrs. Sladek lost a tough 9-7, 6-3 thriller to 20-year-old Mrs. Laura Lou Kunnan of St. Petersburg, Fla., in the fourth round of the women's singles, and Dorothy Hurst of Toronto, ranked No. 5, lost two love sets to Thelma Long, Australian champion.

Then Mrs. Doleschell took over. She lost the first set 11-9, and rallied to take the next two. Both women called for a 10-minute recess after the second set and their tremendous volleying left them almost without strength to embrace after the marathon match.

Mrs. Doleschell won after beating the American southpaw's service in the eighth game of the third set.

BEST BET LEFT

Because of her tremendous victory and the fact that she is a former Austrian champion, Mrs. Doleschell is Canada's best bet in the women's singles. The other Canadians' chances are slim indeed.

The winner of today's all-Toronto match between June Merrill and Mrs. Louise Brown has the job of getting past Thelma Long, Australian champion and ranked second behind defending champion Melita Ramirez of Mexico.

Pat Macken of Montreal qualified for the quarter-final against Mrs. Ramirez today with a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Kay Malcolm of Chicago.

AGAINST MOVE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Clark Griffith, president and owner of Washington Senators, said Wednesday night he would oppose moving St. Louis Browns to Kansas City.

The Sporting News, self-styled bible of baseball, reported last week that such a shift was in the works.

"It's not that I have anything against Kansas City," Griffith said. "It's just that they're not in our circuit geographically. I don't want any change that will increase our travelling difficulties."

The Washington baseball veteran said he thought there was nothing to the Sporting News report—that it was just a rumor.

ABANDONS SWIM

DOVER, England (AP)—Ned Barnie, 56-year-old Scots science teacher who has conquered the English Channel three times, failed Wednesday in a bid to make the first non-stop round trip over the choppy waters.

He was pulled from the water after 14 hours and 25 minutes en route from England to France, just seven miles from Calais. He was ordered out because of rough seas and icy water. Barnie was attempting to swim from England to France and back again without resting.

✦ ✦ ✦

OUT TWO WEEKS

NEW YORK (AP)—Red Schoendienst, hit over the left eye with a thrown ball Tuesday night, will be lost to St. Louis Cardinals for 10 days or two weeks, Manager Eddie Stanky said Wednesday.

The 30-year-old second baseman leads both leagues in hitting with an average of .335.

✦ ✦ ✦

GIVEN RELEASE

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Tigers gave lefthander Hal Newhouser his unconditional release Wednesday.

The 32-year-old southpaw—once called the prince of pitchers—said: "This is the end. I'm finished as an active player. My arm just can't stand the strain anymore."

The slim hurler earned approximately $500,000 in his 15-year career with the Tigers.

✦ ✦ ✦

SWIMMING MEET

WINNIPEG (CP)—More than 70 top swimmers and divers from Quebec to British Columbia will compete in the three-day annual Dominion championships opening today at Winnipeg's Sherbrook and Winter Club pools.

The West Coast has the heaviest entry, with about 30 contestants on hand. Other large entries are from Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and Winnipeg.

Fergus, Ont., is sending two swimmers — Doreen Howatt and Joan Campbell.

✦ ✦ ✦

BIG TOURNEY

SUDBURY (CP)—A record entry is assured for the 17th annual Seagram Trophy invitation golf tournament scheduled for the Idylwylde Golf and Country Club Friday and Saturday.

It is expected that 200 golfers, twice the number in any previous tournament, will tee off in the qualifying round Friday.

TRACK RECORD

TORONTO (CP)—Argyle Grattan the superior pacer bred, raised and driven by 53-year-old Dunc Campbell of Ailsa Craig, Ont., set a track record at the Thorncliffe Raceway Wednesday in winning the handicap race specially arranged to test him.

The five-year-old black gelding covered the mile in two minutes 2 2-5 seconds to slice 1 2-5 seconds off the previous mark held jointly by Oro G. Herbert and Prince Adios.

✦ ✦ ✦

DECISIVE VICTORY

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—Newport Star scored a decisive victory in the $10,000 Runnymede three-year-old trot, feature of the Grand Circuit card at Saratoga Raceway Wednesday.

The triumph was regarded as a step toward top-ranking in the $100,000 Hambletonian classic at Goshen next month.

The colt from the Newport Stock Farm, South Plainfield, N.J., made it impressive by winning the deciding heat of an elimination race in 2:04 3-5.

Young Toronto Youth Wins Golf Title

WASHINGTON (AP) — Phil Brownlee of Toronto, steady 12-year-old Canadian golfer, beat a taller and older youth and a rain storm Wednesday to win the title for 13-year-olds and under in the Middle Atlantic Golf Association Junior Championship.

Young Brownlee, whose fellow Canadians bowed out in semi-final matches or sooner, never wavered in winning his championship match with Don Beach of Fairfax, Va., 3 and 2.

Brownlee, who tips the scales at only 89 pounds and stands four feet nine, conceded nine inches and 80 pounds to the Virginian.

They were all even after 11 holes when a 25-minute storm halted play.

The rain left puddles of water on the fairways and greens, and observers figured Beach's weight and height would pay off on the final holes of the soggy course.

But when play was resumed, Brownlee proceeded to win the next three holes. He missed a victory on the 15th hole when a short putt rimmed the cup. But he closed out the match on the 16th with a one-over par four.

The Canadian, youngest member of the Simpson Cup team here to play Washington golfers later this week, beat Basil Parks of Chevy Chase, Md., 7 and 6, in the morning semi-finals.

In 13 matches in Middle Atlantic competition the Canadians have won eight and lost five which indicates the Simpson Cup play should be close.

Jack Lowery of St. Catharines lost to Jerry McFerren of Silver Spring, Md., one up in the championship semi-finals. The match was close all the way with no more than one hole separating the youngsters at any time. McFerren was about four over par 70 when the match ended. His winning margin came on the 16th hole with a par three.

In the 14 and 15 flight, Frank Bogle of Fairfax, Va., defeated Garry Cowan, Kitchener, 2 and 1. Cowan was the third Canadian player to lose to Bogle.

The Canadian boys will take a day off from golf today. They will meet President Eisenhower and attend luncheons and dinners in their honor before the international matches Friday.

How Do Birds Get Right "Feel" For Their Winter Vacation Spots?

By EARL UBELL

NEW YORK—Being bird-brained, a bird doesn't know how to box the compass or handle navigational trigonometry. Yet more unerringly than a trans-oceanic airplane, all kinds of birds journey thousands of miles annually between their southern winter vacation spots and the northern trysting trees of their ancestors.

How do they do it?

Last week Dirk Bak, chief officer of the Holland-America Lines Veendam thought he had the answer: radar. When the liner had been plowing through the English Channel, nine English homing pigeons roosted on the ship. The birds had just crossed the radar beams of the British coastal stations. Therefore, Mr. Bak said, the radar must have destroyed the birds' homing sense.

Scientific literature indicates that it was more likely that the pigeons were smart enough to get a free crossing, courtesy of the Holland-American Line to visit an American pigeon family they hadn't seen since the revolution. The English cousins returned by tourist class.

Theories of homing and of the mysterious direction sense of all bony creatures — particularly of those that may fly or swim—have engaged the imagination of naturalists for centuries.

Migration of birds seems to be triggered by the length of the day. As the days get shorter as winter approaches, changes in the sexual stem systems of the birds take place which drive them south. In the winter the reverse seems to occur.

What special affect light has on the biological chemical system of the bird is unknown, but the gross measurements of the fat deposited, the maturation of sex glands and molting that have been made on captured birds subjected to varying day lengths indicate a real cause—effect relationship.

LEARNED BY SIGHT

Coming first to mind is the idea that birds somehow learn their migratory courses by sight and remember them from year to year when migrating. This is possible for some birds. Experiments in which birds were followed by airplanes show that the birds flew around randomly until they came within sight of familiar landmarks. Then they headed home.

But many birds "home" and migrate at night, when visibility is poor, and some fledglings who have never made the migratory flight take off before their parents, find their way south and home again, unaided. Some other mechanism for the direction sense must be looked for.

Dr. H. I. Yeagley, of Pennsylvania State College, believes that the birds can detect the earth's magnetic field and also the so-called coriolis force. The coriolis force is the force that any moving object experiences because of the rotation of the earth.

According to Dr. Yeagley, the bird somehow "feels" the coriolis force and "feels" the magnetic force. If the lines of equal magnetic force and equal coriolis force are drawn on a map, they form a grid much like a street map. Of course, a bird could not keep this map in mind, but merely might remember the "feel" of the home nesting grounds.

To test this theory, Dr. Yeagley drew a grid map of the United States, and found that every spot had a twin at which the bird should get the same "feel." Two such places were State College, Pennsylvania, where the university was, and Kearney, Nebr.

Dr. Yeagley reasoned that if pigeons were trained to home to State College and then were transported to a point nearer to Kearney, they would home to the twin spot in Kearney. The experiment was carried out, but the results were equivocal.

Magnets attached to the birds' wings to confuse the birds' magnetic sense did not affect the birds' performance either, but the experiments are still going on.

A third theory indicates that the birds find their direction by simply detecting the coriolis force and flying in a special direction. Each direction of flight has associated with it a different force.

Many scientists believe that the birds and other animals detect the coriolis force in their ears, where there are special appendages for doing so.

These appendages in the human being help determine balance—the upright sense of direction.

A bird, therefore, either learns the right "feel" in its ear for the right direction, speed and latitude on migration, or is born with it. Inheritance seems to play a major role because birds hatched out of eggs taken from different regions maintain the same directions of migration of their ancestors, even though it leads them to the wrong spot.

Critics of this theory say that the forces in the ears are too small for the birds to detect, but proponents say that if birds wag their heads from side to side during flight, the strength of the force increases considerably. This accounts for the head-wagging of many birds during flight.

Some scientists contend that birds find their way by watching the sun, and that the slightest patch of blue in the sky is sufficient for the bird to detect the sun's stand above the earth. Scientists are working on a navigational device based on this principle, but this does not explain night homing.

Fish may combine the ear direction sense with the sense of smell to find their original spawning grounds. Rats, running through a maze, get confused when the maze is rotated 90 degrees, indicating an absolute direction sense.

ARRIVING in Halifax Wednesday on board HMCS Haida were these action lookouts and sight setters whose good night vision caused their Canadian destroyer to spot and destroy three North Korean trains in the war against Communist supply lines. Allow Farmers To Shoot Birds To Protect Crops

OTTAWA (CP. — Sweeping regulations to enable farmers to protect their crops from ducks and other migratory birds were announced Wednesday by the Resources and Development Department.

The new regulations, approved by Order-in-Council, will make it possible for farmers immediately to obtain permits to kill birds threatening their crops.

Under the new regulations provincial game officers or the RCMP may issue permits to farmers on areas up to two square miles. Provincial game officers also have the right to authorize all residents in specified districts to use firearms to scare or kill birds.

The department said that many western farmers in recent years have suffered serious losses when the harvest season coincided with the arrival of millions of migrating ducks. Permits to kill the marauding ducks were issued by Federal Migratory Bird officers to farmers and to persons named by them as assistants.

NOT FAST ENOUGH

However, the damage was so widespread in many cases that individual permits could not be issued fast enough and a general permit covering a wide area had to be issued from Ottawa.

The new regulations are designed mainly to enable Prairie farmers to prevent ducks from eating and trampling grain crops. However, the regulations also apply to other migratory birds, including robins damaging orchards and gulls endangering aircraft at airports.

The department said all migratory bird complaints should now be made to provincial game officers or to the nearest RCMP detachment. They should not be made to Federal officials in Ottawa.

Shooting birds to protect crops, the department said, must be confined to crop areas.

"It is forbidden to shoot ducks on stubble from which the crop has been harvested or in marshes on the pretext of protecting crops.

FORCED TO SANCTUARY

This provision benefits both ducks and farmers as it tends to force the ducks from unharvested grain and allows them sanctuary in neighboring marshes and harvested stubble fields where they may feed without molestation."

The new regulations do not authorize any one to shoot birds on any property without the property owner's permission. The number of game birds which any person may possess also is limited by the migratory bird regulations.

Officials of the department explained that a farmer may keep only the number of birds allotted to one individual under local game regulations. He must give any additional birds shot to his neighbors.

Police Injure 18 Reporters

CALCUTTA (Reuters)—Eighteen reporters were injured and 15 arrested when police swept down on a group of journalists watching an illegal meeting.

Two of the newspapermen were seriously injured. Ten of those arrested were released promptly, but the others were held.

Journalists' organizations in Calcutta later telegraphed a protest against the police action to Prime Minister Nehru.

Reporters went to a prohibited meeting organized by a leftist-led committee in protest against increased street car fare, an issue which has led to violence here for the past three weeks.

Plainclothesmen snatched cameras and smashed them.

The West Bengal home minister, Kalipada Mookerjee, said he regretted the incident and that the police commissioner had been advised to conduct an investigation.

Firm Opposition

LONDON (Reuters)—The 8,000,000-member British Trades Union Congress put on record its "firm opposition" to commercial television in Britain. Joining in the controversy raging over the government's proposal to permit sponsored TV, the TUC general council said it is convinced public opinion was "overwhelmingly opposed" to the idea.

Elliott To Contest Hastings S. Riding

BELLEVILLE.—George A. Elliott of Belleville has announced that he will contest the riding of Hastings South in the forthcoming election under the CCF banner. He said he will conduct his campaign on a straight CCF policy. "There will be no radicalism," he said.

Mr. Elliott's announcement means there will be a three-way fight in the riding. Lee Grills, former warden of Hastings County, will be the Conservative candidate, and Frank Follwell will attempt to hold the seat for the Liberals.

TRUCK STRIKE INCIDENT—Feeling ran high and incidents were many when pickets stopped truckers on the highways in southwestern Ontario, before a ruling by Premier Frost forbade such picketing. Here a policeman holds up a hunting knife allegedly taken out by the trucker when stopped by picketer Benjamin Lima (right), on the highway near Hamilton. The driver was permitted to drive on by the police. About 1,400 members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL) are on strike in a wage dispute with three trucking companies.

Ask Eisenhower To Ignore Canada's Protest On Quotas

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Senator Milton Young (Rep.-N.D.) today asked President Eisenhower not to be swayed by Canadian protests against reduced quotas on agricultural imports.

In a letter to the president, Young said it was reported the Canadian government has delivered to the U.S. state department a "note of warning."

This note, Young said, threatened possible trade reprisals against U.S. products unless the government relaxes existing and contemplated restrictions on Canadian oats, dairy products and other foods.

"This protest, it seems to me, is out of line with the past friend y and understanding attitude of Canada and its good people," Young wrote the president.

IGNORES ASSISTANCE

"It seems to ignore the great assistance the U.S. government has given to Canada and its people all through the years, particularly with respect to their farm problems.

"For example, in 1948 our government made available $345,000,000 to England to purchase wheat in Canada. This wheat, at that particular time, could have been purchased at a lower price in the United States. . . ."

Young, a member of the U.S. Senate agriculture committee, said a proposed 23,000,000-bushel quota for Canadian oats imports seems liberal and in line with average Canadian oats imports over the last 10 years.

FAR BELOW PARITY

"American oats prices have been driven far below parity and even well under the government price support levels during the last two years as a direct result of record quantities of oats moving into our markets from Canada," Young said.

Young said U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson and others have stated it is impossible to maintain a workable farm price support system so long as unrestricted imports of competitive farm products are allowed.

Turkey Relaxes Restrictions Civic Liberties

By DON COOK

ANKARA. — Paralleling the amazing rise which Turkey is experiencing in her economic fortunes, the country is undergoing a relaxation of 30-year-old restrictions on civil liberties, which is presenting a curious and complex problem of transition from repression to freedom.

Chief of these has been a new encouragement of the Mohammadan religion, which was actively frowned on during the days of the Ataturk Revolution.

But this government move toward liberalism is producing a rise of reactionary clericism among the Moslems. This had made Turkish political leaders uncertain as to just how far they should carry their liberalism now.

When Kemal Ataturk accomplished the final overthrow of the Sultans in 1922, and drove the occupying Greeks into the sea at Izhir, he set ruthlessly in motion a program to bring Turkey out from the dead hand of its past. Religion, in Attaturk's view, was part of that past.

ONCE HEAD OF CHURCH

The Sultan for many decades has also been head of the church, and the church was reactionary and suppressive. Ataturk moved therefore, to crush the power of the church by nationalizing church property, forbidding the conduct of Moslem services in Arabic, closing church schools, and discouraging attendance at services.

The inheritors of Ataturk's power—President Ismet Inonu and the Republican party—continued this and other restrictions such as press censorship and military law under the justifiable pretext that even though they favored easing up, World War II was no time to experiment in civil liberties in Turkey.

The first relaxations of the Ataturk restrictions, therefore, came in 1948 and 1949. Then in 1950 the Republicans were knocked out of office and the opposition Democratic party put in, winning 408 seats out of a parliament of 487.

The Democratic platform was strong on civil liberties, and relaxation of church restrictions was chief among them. The party moved quickly, therefore, to re-establish church ownership of certain lands, permit the re-opening of church schools, the repair and construction of mosques, and a relaxation of the old rule against Arabic services in the mosques.

ASSASSINATION ATTEMPT

Out of this, curiously, grew an assassination attempt a few months ago against the editor of Turkey's leading liberal newspaper "Batan." The paper supported the Democrats in the 1950 election, but had lately taken a critical line that the government was not going ahead fast enough with its civil liberties program.

The government briefly retaliated by withholding government advertising from the paper. Then a Moslem fanatic aimed five shots at the editor while he was speaking in a provincial Turkish city. The editor survived and the would-be assassin is in jail.

There is no clear explanation of the assassination attempt, but the fact that it was a Moslem fanatic caused a sharp reaction in the government which, for a time, hovered on the verge of reversing its liberalization program.

At this point, however, ex-president Inonu and the opposition met with the Democratic party leaders and urged that in Turkey's future interest, there be broad agreement to keep moving forward.

Fortunately, the Ataturk revolution has accomplished much in providing a new base of education and literacy in Turkey. Both the opposition and government politicians of Turkey today are steady and forward-looking men, who are determined to push their country forward as quickly as it will go.

Haultain Church Holds Garden Party

A very successful bazaar and garden party of Holy Trinity Church, at Haultain was attended by many residents and summer visitors in the Stoney Lake district Saturday afternoon. It was held in the grounds of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Dunford on the shores of Stoney Lake.

The congregation of this small church standing in the woods just off Highway 28, a few miles north of Burliegh Falls, supported the Women's Guild and their president Mrs. Douglas Dunford.

Sales from the booths realized $275. Home baking, sewing, fish pond, a parcel post sale, afternoon tea, soft drinks, raffles for a quilt, cakes and dolls and a white elephant table all did brisk business.

This is the first effort for many years. The Women's Guild, formed this year, is earning the money to put a new roof on their woodland church which celebrated its 60th anniversary this year.

The grounds presented a picturesque sight. The men constructed several large booths with colorful canvas roofs.

HUGE NICKEL MINE in Sudbury produces a big part of the world supply, but can t relieve the pinch now being felt on consumer goods caused mostly by the Korean War.

NEW SOURCE OF NICKEL in Cuba here being surveyed by engineers, is reported to contain 40 million tons of ore.

Nickel Shortage Pinching Consumer Goods

By DOUGLAS LARSEN.

WASHINGTON (NEA). — If you have the uneasy feeling that some of the things you have bought in the last couple of years — cars and home appliances — haven't been quite as good as those you used to buy, the chances are your hunch is right.

What's more, there's not much hope that these items will be improved in quality any time soon. And the situation could last for the next 10 years or even thereafter.

The whole thing boils down to a serious shortage of nickel, caused mostly by the Korean War. But it won't necessarily end with a truce there.

Check your own car for proof of the situation. If it's several years old, the bumper, for instance, is probably still in good rust-free shape. Nickel was fairly plentiful to the auto makers just after World War II and before Korea.

SMALL RUST SPOTS

However, if your car is a late 1952 or a 1953, chances are there are small rust spots already beginning to show. That's due to the lack of nickel.

Unfortunately, nickel in cars and other products is more important in the things you can't see. In parts of engines which are subjected to great heat, nickel is added to help withstand deterioration. When the maker is forced to stint on the amount of nickel, it deteriorates that much faster.

In home construction, a similar situation is true. Nickel is needed in heaters, stoves, flashing, ducts and plumbing fixtures, to name just a few. It's needed in such household appliances as refrigerators, washing machines and vacuum cleaners.

Today, nickel, along with tungsten and columbium, other steel hardening agents, are the only metals which have been kept under full government control.

The pinch on the nickel supply is still so tough, even with recently modified defense needs, that only such key items as food processing and pharmaceutical equipment, sterilizers and textile machinery are permitted to have nickel in them. There are close to 300 categories of consumer goods in which no nickel is permitted.

Military demands cut into the nickel supply in three respects. More weapons naturally demand more nickel. Stockpiling needs are kept high. And more nickel is needed in greater proportion in each new weapon that is developed.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission gets a large slice of the U.S. supply. Jet engines require great quantities of the metal, sometimes more than a ton in one engine.

Total free world production last year was 315,000,000 pounds. United States got about 202,000,000 pounds of that. There are estimates that unlimited consumer demand in the U.S. is about 250,000,000 pounds. That gives some idea as to how much U.S. civilian uses are being stinted.

Won't Destroy Large Butter Stockpile

OTTAWA (CP)—Some charitable institution may get some free butter—mixed slightly and illegally with vegetable oils.

A health department official said Wednesday the government has no intention of destroying the big stockpile of adulterated butter seized in the Montreal area.

"The butter is healthy, except that it contains vegetable oils instead of the full allotment of butterfat," the official said.

About 400,000 pounds of the butter was seized, but not all of it is adulterated. Butter passing the pure food test is being shipped back to the owners. The adulterated is being held.

FACE COURT CHARGES

So far indications are that about 10 Quebec creameries and dairies will face court charges arising out of the seizure, the official said.

There is some concern in government quarters that there may be other adulterated butter in Canada —particularly in the government's own stockpile. As a price-support measure, the government buys butter at 58 cents a pound and stores it for sale next fall and winter. The butter comes from all parts of Canada. Technicians likely will tackle the government's stocks next to determine if any of the vegetable mixture got into the larder.

Earnings High

TORONTO (CP)—Douglas Fletcher, executive secretary of the Ontario Retail Gasoline Association, said Wednesday gasoline prices have been boosted at a time when "oil companies' net earnings are higher than they have ever been."

Imperial Oil raised its gasoline price 1 2-5 cents a gallon Tuesday and other companies are following suit.

Had Indigestion; Nerves On Edge, Couldn't Sleep

Woman Tells of Relief She Got by Taking Syntona. Now Also Free of Dizzy Spells. "Enjoy Meals Once More."

People who suffer from common stomach disorders, constipation, nervous, fatigued, rundown condition and associated aches and pains are often surprised by the good results they get by taking Syntona Herbal Compound. Many letters clearly indicate that they never expected Syntona would do so much to help them.

A PERSONAL EXPERIENCE

Mrs. Hazel Merritt, 48 Mondamin Street, St. Thomas, Ontario, said in a recent statement:

"For a long time I was troubled with indigestion and would have a heavy, bloated feeling after my meals. This condition seemed to upset my nerves so badly that I couldn't sleep well at night. I tried most of the ordinary things, but got no real relief until I began taking Syntona.

"Now I enjoy my meals once more and am not troubled with that awful discomfort in my stomach afterwards. My nerves are calmed down, and I get better sleep and am also free of sick dizzy spells which I had for a long time before."

HOW IT ACTS

Syntona is made from 12 of Nature's Selected Herbs and Roots. It acts on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels and helps to drive excess acids and poison waste from the system. Its stimulating stomachic action promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough by Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

"WHAT DO YOU CALL THIS?" asks Nigel Parkes, 11, of Water St. N., as he displayed an 8-pound, 14-ounce fish at the Examiner office. Everyone accosted had a name for it, most of them wrong, but the angler who took it in the Auburn Reach of the Otonabee River, James Drummond, of 39 Lee St., was sure it was a whitefish. Officials of the Regional Lands and Forests office confirmed this.

Work On Three Projects Begins At Niagara Falls

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost and Hydro chairman Robert Saunders announced Wednesday that work has started on three projects —a reservoir, tunnel and powerhouse extension—at Niagara Falls.

The projects are planned to prevent future power shortages.

Mr. Saunders said they will produce enough power to "supply four Torontos." The projects will produce an extra 1,300,000 horsepower boosting capacity at the Queenston plant to 2,325,000 horsepower.

They will also boost the originally estimated cost of $299,000,000 to $343,000,000.

600-ACRE LAKE

The Hydro chairman said the reservoir will be a 600-acre lake above generating stations below the city of Niagara Falls. The lake, with a capacity of 650,000,000 gallons, will increase capacity of the new Niagara power development by more than 33 per cent.

Premier Frost announced that the Ontario cabinet had given its approval for Hydro to build a 600-acre artificial lake down iver from Niagara Falls. The reservoir, with a capacity of 650,000,000 gallons, will increase the capacity of the new Niagara power development by more than 33 per cent.

It will be pumped full during off-peak hours and the extra water will be available during the high-demand hours. A power pump will fill or empty the reservoir. To accommodate the extra water, four additional generating units are to be constructed at the new power plant.

Strike Over

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — AFL truck drivers Wednesday night ended a four-day strike that had tied up freight shipments in a 50-mile radius. A joint company-union announcement said both agreed to continue negotiations for 10 days and submit the dispute to arbitration if agreement could not be reached in that time.

About 2,200 drivers, loaders and helpers were involved in the strike that started midnight Saturday.

Seek Body

TORONTO (CP)—Harbor police early today started a search for the body of Tristans Fvede, 27, of Sudbury, Latvian immigrant believed drowned in a Toronto Island Lagoon. Fvede left a party at a late hour and said he was going for a swim, police said. Soon afterward, a water taxi operator said he heard shouts for help.

The sisters had been treating some 200 persons a day in their small medical dispensary before expulsion.

Pilot's Courage Got Him Job On Palace Staff

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — Group Capt. Peter Townsend, a central figure in Britain's Royal romance, is front-page news today simply because he happened to be an exceptionally brave young man.

It was his courage as a Battle of Britain fighter pilot which brought him to Buckingham Palace and placed him in close association with members of the Royal Family including pretty young Princess Margaret.

The late King George VI decided his equerries should be drawn from men who had proved themselves in battle. Thus the choice as "war honor" equerry fell on Peter Wooldridge Townsend, DSO, DFC and Bar, one of the first RAF pilots to bring down an enemy bomber in the dark days of 1940.

Townsend was born in Rangoon in 1914, second son of an official in the India civil service. He was educated at Haileybury and was graduated from the RAF college at Crawell. When war came, he was slightly apprehensive, wondering how he would react.

SHOOTS DOWN BOMBER

He need not have worried. He shot down a Heinkel bomber over Whitby, Yorkshire, early in 1940. He rose to command RAF stations at Drem in Scotland and West Malling in Kent. His score of "kills" increased to at least 11.

It was in the tense atmosphere of wartime that Townsend, whiling away off-duty hours, met in the tiny Hertfordshire village of Widford a girl of striking good looks named Rosemary Pawle, a brigadier's daughter. They were married a few months later in the Anglican church at Much Hadham, near Widford. Their first son was born in 1942. The second, born in 1945, had the late King as his godfather.

The Townsends lived at RAF stations and with relatives in Widford. The young equerry made his first official appearance at Court April 6, 1944. He was then 29, and Princess Margaret was just 13. The Townsends later went to live at Adelaide Cottage near Windsor, a "grace and favor" residence granted rent-free by the Royal Family. There they had cocktail parties, attended on occasion by the present Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Margaret.

JOB OF EQUERRY

Townsend, as equerry, went to shows and theatres with members of the Royal Family. He rode horseback with Princess Margaret, went on the South African tour in 1947, escorted the Princess to a ball at Amsterdam in 1948, piloted her planes in the King's Cup Air Races in 1949 and 1950. The King was said to have regarded him as a son.

In 1952, Townsend was granted a divorce because of his wife's misconduct with John Adolphus de Laszlo, company director and export merchant. De Laszlo married the former Mrs. Townsend last February.

Townsend was granted custody of the two children.

Say Attack On Paper Unwarranted

LONDON (Reuters)—Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard Wednesday accused the newly-formed press council of "an entirely unwarranted attack" on the London Daily Mirror. The Mirror conducted a poll on the rumored romance of Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

The council, a voluntary body of editorial and managerial representatives, issued a statement saying "it strongly deprecates" the Daily Mirror poll.

The Evening Standard — WHIC has no affiliation with The Mirror—protested: "It is The Daily Mirror alone which is singled out for attack. Yet there is hardly a newspaper in the land which has not made leader (editorial), column or special article comment. . .

WHERE SINNED?

"Where then has The Daily Mirror sinned?"

The press council was formed to keep a watching brief on newspaper ethics. Many journalists opposed it.

The Daily Mirror announced its poll last week. It asked "if Princess Margaret, now 22, so desires, should she be allowed to marry him?"

Fifteen Merchants Lose Fight To Eliminate Left Turn

TORONTO (CP)—Fifteen Chatham merchants lost a fight Wednesday to get rid of a left-turn ban they say is costing them business.

Mr. Justice R. A. Danis of the Ontario Supreme Court refused to continue a temporary injunction that would cancel a city of Chatham bylaw prohibiting left turns at a main intersection. He said in his ruling that "the welfare of the public comes first."

The group of merchants sought to have the injunction continued until trial. Through their counsel, George Walsh, Jr., they contended that the bylaw discriminates in favor of merchants west of Fifth street.

Mr. Walsh said his clients are suffering because motorists are forced to detour to reach their stores and, in doing so, pass through their competitors' area.

Douglas Kerr, counsel for the city of Chatham, said the bylaw passed June 8 has been approved by the Ontario department of highways.

"Only motor vehicles are interfered with," he said. "The pedestrian traffic does most of the shopping."

Cold War Brought Chill Wind Into Life Of Foreigners Living In Russ Capital

Eddy Gilmore, for 11 years an AP correspondent in Moscow, is back on "the right side of the Iron Curtain," as he expresses it. In this story, third of a series, Gilmore gives a glimpse into Moscow life as foreigners live it.

By EDDY GILMORE

PARIS (AP) — The cold war started, and a frigid wind began to blow from Joseph Stalin's Kremlin.

It would be incorrect to say that Americans in Moscow, even during the greatest moments of wartime co-operation, were ever howlingly popular with the Communist government. But compared to what happened later, we led a charmed life.

I left an official party at 2:20 one morning, arm in arm with a man who now is a marshal in the Soviet army. With other Russians and foreigners from some of the embassies, we journeyed to my apartment.

This high military man, once inside my modest place, sat down at the piano and played until dawn. It all seemed not very unusual then.

Another time I found myself at a big Russian dinner. More than 60 persons at one long table. I seemed to be the only foreigner present.

"Eddy Eddyovich," said my host, "I've found something for you."

He proudly whipped out a bottle of scotch.

A little dark man near me, who looked like a party type, shuddered. He looked around him with what I thought was considerable suspicion, and turned to a major-general in the Soviet army.

"Comrade general," said the party type, "scotch whisky (Shetlandsky viskey was the way he said it in Russian) may be all right for some people, but I prefer our Russian vodka, don't you?"

The general, who had a stout hooker of Shetlandsky viskey in his right hand, gave him a cold eye.

"No," he said. "I'm not that chauvinistic."

You invited Russians to your apartment and some of them came. Some of them invited you to their places. You found yourself at real Russian parties.

You liked the people and they seemed to like you.

I'm not referring to the small group of Russians who had been approved for contact with foreigners. They were always about, polite, often charming, good conversationalists, but nevertheless, people we felt were unduly interested in what we were saying and commenting on. I'm referring to just plain Russians.

And there were the gypsies. The best Russian parties, I believe, must have gypsies.

Then one morning, after a very fine party, there was an incident.

A junior member of the American embassy was taking a gypsy girl home in a taxi, I believe. She reported, and in the public press, that she resented his advances. The paper blamed American boorishness and a lack of respect for women.

The cold wind blew colder. No gypsies at parties. Very few Russians at parties. Then no Russians at all at parties. Then no Russian friends.

Some couldn't stand it. A Norwegian shot himself one night. A young man from the British embassy ran amok in the Metropole hotel's dining room. He broke four chairs over various Russians.

Two embassies found microphones on their premises. We talked in even softer whispers to one another. And people complained bitterly about life in Moscow.

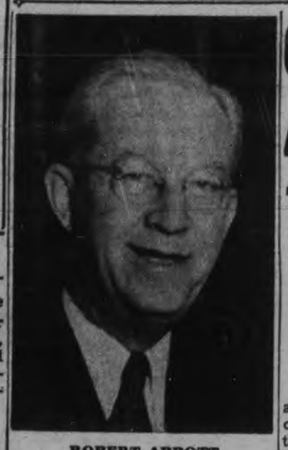
FELL FROM LADDER

Falling from a ladder Wednesday afternoon while working inside a building near Simcoe and Aylmer Sts., James Steadman, 41, of RR 1, Ida, was taken to Civic Hospital for treatment of arm and back injuries. His condition today is satisfactory.

HEAVY DOWNPOUR

Thundershowers were prevalent throughout the Peterborough district over night. They varied from light showers to nearly cloudburst size. Apsley had a very heavy downpour; but the only reported damage was in the Marmora region where a barn was struck by lightining, trees were knocked down and crops flattened. Neither the rural HEPC or Bell Telephone reported wires down as a result of the storm.

OIL ON ROAD



A coating of oil prime has been laid on the 12½-mile Buckhorn Road and workmen will likely begin laying mulch top in a week or two. Mulch paving of the Buckhorn Road will cost $70,000, it is estimated. The Suburban Area Roads Commission, who look after the road but cannot meet the total expense of paving it, contribute $15,000; Peterborough County and the City of Peterborough each contribute $14,000; and the Ontario Department of Highways contribute $28,000.

EXPLOSIVES EXPERT COMING

Cause of the explosion Monday afternoon of 80 carboys containing 400 gallons of perchloric acid on a railway siding near the CPR freight sheds has still not been determined. It is being investigated by Fire Chief Ralph Leonard and Inspector Harry Jordan of the Fire Marshal's Office, Toronto. As yet they haven't been able to solve the mystery. Friday a federal government explosives expert is expected to probe further into the cause of the blast that was strong enough to buckle the steel box car and blow the steel door off.

Hole In One

Jean Castle scored a hole-in-one on the 6th hole of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club course Tuesday night and thus became the first woman, as far as club officials know, to mangge the feat there. A few men have made the perfect score, but they too are rare. Jean had to drive 170 yards and conquer a tricky sloping green to make the shot.

ROBERT ABBOTT

Robert Abbott President Of Raybestos

Robert Abbott, from 1941 executive vice-president of the Canadian Raybestos Co. Ltd., was elected president of the Canadian company at a meeting of the board of directors.

He succeeds the late Sumner Simpson, founder of the company, who died June 13.

Mr. Abbott came to Peterborough in February, 1920, to form the Canadian Raybestos Co. and act as general manager, secretary and treasurer. In 1929 there was a merger of the Raybestos Co. of Bridgeport, Conn., and the Manhattan Rubber Co. of Passaic, N.J., when the Canadian Raybestos Co. Limited became a subsidiary of the Raybestos-Manhattan, Inc., of Passaic, N.J.

In 1937 Mr. Abbott was elected a director of Raybestos-Manhattan, Inc., and in 1941 was elected executive vice-president of the Canadian company.

Mr. Abbott was born in Plainfield, N.J., and attended Yale University, graduating in 1908. He taught mathematics at Westminster School, Simsbury, Conn., in 1909, and was with the Bryant Electric Co., Bridgeport, Conn., from 1910 to 1917. He served overseas with the United States Army 1917 and 1918. He joined the Raybestos Co., Bridgeport, Conn., in 1919, and came to Canada in 1920.

He is immediate past president of the Ontario Golf Association, and presently is a governor of the RCGA.

Reach Agreement But No One Works

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A truck drivers strike for increased pay officially ended Wednesday night but hundreds of union members who congregated around trucking terminals today made no move to go back to work.

A truck company spokesman said as far as he knew, none of the 150 companies affected by the walk-out was operating today.

Officials of Local 375 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL) and the Buffalo Trucking and Common Carriers Association agreed Wednesday night to end the four-day strike of 2,200 drivers, loaders and helpers, but the union membership apparently refused to go along with the decision.

About 200 union members milled around in front of union headquarters and demanded a hearing with union officials.

The crowd broke up after a union leader said a meeting was planned with the employers, and an announcement would follow.

Gas Prices All Jump 1½ Cents

Settle On Increase After Meeting Of Garage Operators

The price of gasoline went up one and a half cents a gallon in the city today, following a meeting of the Peterborough Garage Operators Association Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting followed Tuesday's announcement by the Imperial Oil Co. Ltd. that the wholesale price of gasoline had been boosted 1.4 cents in all the provinces except British Columbia, where the increase is half a cent.

Although some operators were of the opinion that the price should be raised two cents, George Ball, president of the association, said the decision for a 1½-cent increase was unanimous.

EFFECTIVE TODAY

All operators were requested to change the prices on their pumps at closing time Wednesday, in order that the increase might be effective to customers this morning.

Reason for the demand for a two-cent increase was that operators had absorbed a half-cent increase in the wholesale price several months ago when new ingredients were added to most gasolines, Mr. Ball said.

"We felt we couldn't absorb another increase in the wholesale price," he told The Examiner today, "because gasoline is one of our lower-profit items. We're already accepting United States money at par so that our margin of profit is very small as it is."

One operator, who raised his price two cents Wednesday prepared to bring it down a half cent today, in line with the association's decision.

Roy Sills, co-proprietor of the East Port service station on Lansdowne St. E., said that he had heard some association members say Wednesday that prices would be going up two cents and so he had raised his that amount. But he lowered them to 43½ and 45½ cents a gallon after Wednesday's meeting.

NO PRICE WAR

The possibility that the increase might lead to a price war was ruled out as well today as Harold Davis, proprietor of the Sunoco service station on Charlotte St., announced that he was raising his price from 43 to 44½ cents.

On Tuesday, Mr. Davis received a wire from the company saying that they were going to "hold the line" on prices but another telegram came Wednesday night saying that the price would go up 1½ cents.

Four District Soldiers Returning From Korea

Among 300 officers and men returning after a year's service in Korea and Japan are four Peterborough and district men scheduled to arrive by ship at a west coast port Friday.

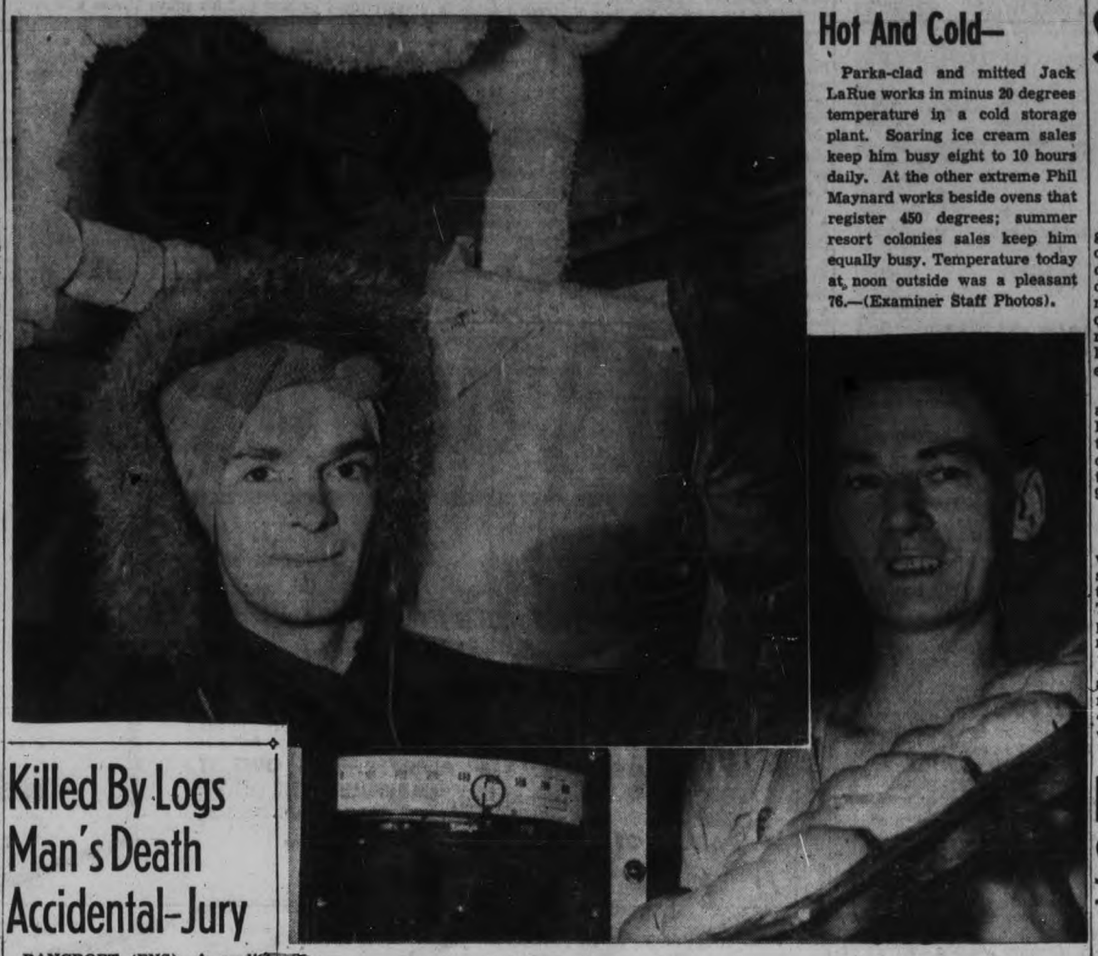
They are: Cpl. W. C. Badour of 59 Lee St., Peterborough, Cpl. A. W. G. E Stoneburg of 490 Gilchrist St,, Peterborough, Pte. W. J. Hall of Bowmanville and Pte. P. D. Vine also of Bowmanville.

Troops heading east toward home will proceed to home stations by way of a special CNR train, which is due to leave Vancouver at 5:30 p.m. July 24.

Simpsons-Sears May Build In Kitchener

KITCHENER— Edgar Burton, president of Simpsons-Sears Ltd., said there are no immediate plans for his firm building a store here.

He admitted, however, that his firm was "studying the possibility of constructing stores in various centres in Western Ontario, including Kitchener."



He agreed Kitchener, with its large urban and rural purchasing power, was a logical location for such a development.

Construction of a large store by Simpsons-Sears in Peterborough was recently announced.

Rental Subdivision Opens In Guelph

GUELPH— Immigration Minister Walter Harris officially opened the first storey-and-a-half brick bungalow in the 70-house Green Acres low-rental sub-division Tuesday.

The houses, which are being constructed by the Guelph Housing Authority under the federal-provincial-municipal housing scheme, are being rented to families with two children or more. The rental charged will be based on the income of the family.

Hot And Cold—

Parka-clad and mitted Jack LaRue works in minus 20 degrees temperature in a cold storage plant. Soaring ice cream sales keep him busy eight to 10 hours daily. At the other extreme Phil Maynard works beside ovens that register 450 degrees; summer resort colonies sales keep him equally busy. Temperature today at noon outside was a pleasant 76.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Killed By Logs Man's Death Accidental-Jury

BANCROFT (ENS)—A verdict of accidental death was brought in by a five-man coroner's jury empanelled Wednesday evening here to enquire into the death last Friday afternoon of 56-year-old John Peplenskie, of Barry's Bay.

Peplenskie was working at Herman, 15 miles east of Bancroft, loading logs on a truck with driver Ivan Hartwick, also of Barry's Bay, when the cable of the loader broke, releasing two of the logs which together with the loader fell on Peplenskie.

He died 15 minutes after the accident. Hartwick and two other drivers. Ewart Wilson, of Boulter, and George Whelan, of Barry's Bay, took the logs off the fatally injured man.

CABLE BROKE

At Wednesday's inquest, Hartwick explained how the accident had occurred. He said he was holding the loader upright with the winch brake when Peplenskie went to hook a safety chain on it. Just then the cable used to haul the loader broke and the loader and two logs fell on Peplenskie.

Murray J. Daley, owner of the truck, stated the cable was of the type recommended by the manufacturer of the loader.

OPP Constable Reg. Rackhan, of Belleville, produced photographs which he had taken at the scene.

The inquest was conducted by Assistant Crown Attorney S. J. Roberts of Belleville. Coroner Dr. O. W. Anderson, of Bancroft, presided.

The jury was composed of Cecil and Frank Wiggins, Murray Fox, Wallace Rutledge and Robert Keller, all of Bancroft.

Growers Plan Testing Scheme

CHATHAM (CP)—A scheme to be developed jointly by the Ontario corn and soybean committees was announced here today by Ken Standing, secretary manager of the local soybean marketing board.

"Among other things, it will provide a more uniform testing program and demonstration program for adopted varieties of corn," he said.

In Toronto Wednesday, Mr. Standing discussed with agricultural officials the present work being done in Ontario to demonstrate the value of corn and soybeans as cash crops.

Variety recommendations for various counties will be made by experimental stations in Ontario and hybrid corn companies. Arrangement for location of tests will be made by county agricultural representatives.

Seed will be supplied by experimental stations. Planting and weed control will be carried out by co-operating growers. Sampling of the crop, moisture and yield determinations will be made by the experimental stations.

Thousands Of People Welcome Marlene

WELLAND (CP)—Thousands of persons lined a five-mile highway route Wednesday night to welcome home two girls who put the little town of Fonthill on the golfing map.

Marlene Stewart, who won the British Open amateur golf title last month, and Anne Sharp, winner of the Ontario ladies open were presented with gifts here before they drove from Welland to Fonthill.

The Fonthill Lions Club, the fire department and the Pelham district high school took part in the big parade.

City Business Holds Steady In Spite Of Holidays

Industrial holidays haven't affected local business concerns to any marked degree. Milk, pop and ale sales have increased considerably as well as ice-cream and related products. The two Brewer's Retail Stores are enjoying rapid sales and are expecting to break last year's record for the holiday period. The retail store on Water St. added another section to their warehouse about a month ago from the old Irwin-Godson Garage, which almost doubled their storing space, but still there is not enough room. Next week a maximum influx of empties is expected as the spending money dwindles, and difficulties as to where to put them will arise.

Local hotel beverage room business is also thriving, many ladling out 15 and more kegs of draught beer a day, plus a high percentage of bottles.

Apparently the only commodity to show a marked decline among city consumers is water. Officials at the PUC's pumping station revealed today that the rate of water pumpage is down slightly more than 11 per cent this week to about seven million gallons a day from last Thursday's all-time record of 8¼ million gallons.

MAKE UP IN RURAL

The dairies have suffered a loss in local retail sales, but have more than made up for it in the district. Many city customers retain their retail service, moving to districts nearby where special rural service is maintained. Ice cream sales were the highest of the year this week and another record smashing week is expected.

Silverwood's Dairy produce ice cream here to supply depots as far as Sault Ste. Marie and Ottawa and their wholesale deliveries cover the district as far north as Bancroft. The Lakehurst, Buckhorn and neighboring area resorts are supplied with products from this dairy and as a result production is at a peak.

One soft drink manufacturer in the city reports that they have increased its output by more than 40,000 bottles a day and still the demand increases.

ICE SCARCE

A scarcity of natural ice in the city has placed a heavy demand on artificial producers, but they say they can meet the demand.

City stores have not noticed any marked slump in business due to heat or holidays. One of the china stores report a fine steady turnover, "if anything, above previous years."

A local baker expressed his surprise at the steady demand, "business is exceptionally good for this time of year." The sale of bread follows much the same pattern as that of milk. The demand falls off in the city and increases in the rural districts, but if anything the sales are up. "The wholesale demand more than covers any deficit temporarily found in the city."

The sale of fishing equipment and summer wear is keeping the hardware, sports and dry goods stores well out of the red.

Car Drops 15 Feet Into Swamp, Driver Unhurt

A Burleigh Falls construction worker crawled unhurt from his car Wednesday midnight after it had gone out of control on Highway 36 and dropped over a 15-foot bank into a swamp.

It was one of two accidents reported Wednesday night to Peterborough provincial police.

Herbert C. Haines, 69, of Burleigh Falls told OPP Constable Harold Armstrong that he was driving his car west on Highway 36 and a mile and a half west of the village he applied his brakes after breaking over the brow of a hill. The 1936-model sedan skidded along the north shoulder of the road for 60 feet and then dropped over the 15-foot bank and into two feet of swamp.

Because of the difficulty of getting the car out of the swamp the full extent of the damage was not known.

Shortly before 6.30 p.m. a two-car collision in front of the Pines Pavilion resulted in no injuries but at least $500 property damage.

The car of Dr. John McNeill, 1319 Monaghan Rd., going toward Peterborough, was in front-end collision at the intersection with a Bridgenorth-bound car, driven by Ronald Graham of 473 Elm St. Extensive damage was caused to the front ends of both vehicles.

OPP Constables Ernest Lunn and Tom Armitage investigated.

To Ban Jaywalking

KITCHENER—A ban on jaywalking is expected to go into effect here in October when the necessary bylaw amendment will probably be passed by council which has already given its approval.

The amount of the fine has not been settled but will probably be 50 cents to $1. In some communities the fine is as much as $2.

Children Start Fire Accidentally Douse It Quickly

Quick thinking by three card-playing children prevented what might have been a serious fire in their home on Wednesday night.

The children—all of elementary school age—were playing cards in a bedroom of their second-storey apartment home at 384½ Water St. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Whalen, were away at the time.

For amusement, three of them—Carl, Doreen, and Joan — were playing cards and using live matches as counters. Somehow the head of one of the matches ignited and fire immediately flared up.

The flames destroyed the curtains on the bedroom window overlooking Water St. and the baseboard was scorched. However, the trio had put the fire out by throwing several basins of water on it before the firemen arrived.

Assistant Fire Chief Virgil Carr first warned the children against using matches so carelessly and then congratulated them on their presence of mind in an emergency.

Goods Made In City Up $60 Million

Wages Nearly Twice Eight Years Ago Survey Reveals

Value of Peterborough made goods in the past eight years increased by more than 60 million dollars and wages have nearly doubled, the Chamber of Commerce reported today in a survey of 50 of the city's major industries. These industries provide a livelihood for 2,000 more employees than in 1945.

In 1945 there were 8,625 men and women employed in the larger plants in the city and a total of $14,254,180 was being paid out in wages and salaries. The total sales for the year were $69,960,755.

1949 RECORD YEAR

1949 was another record year, with sales, wages and employees steadily on the rise. Sales topped the 100 million dollar mark. There were 9,591 employees employed and salaries and wages reached $23,586,512 for the year.

This year's sales, wages and salaries have topped all previous records. Sales so far are $129,788,493. There are 10,495 employees with 904 more than in 1949.

Lightning Bolt Splits Barn Top To Bottom

MARMORA (ENS)—Lightning struck the barn of Earl O'Connor, two miles east of Marmora Wednesday night, splitting one side from top to bottom. The side burned briefly but heavy rain extinguished the flames with a minimum of damage.

O'Connor and his son, Jack, were inside the building when the bolt struck. Neither were injured and 36 loads of hay stored in the barn escaped damage.

CROPS FLATTENED

A nearby elm tree was also struck and O'Connor's oat crop flattened. The crop however, was not thought to be totally lost.

No other buildings in the area were reported hit during the storm which started at 8:30 and lasted approximately one hour, although other trees were reported hit and fields of grain flattened by the lightning and rain.

Believes Stalin Had Natural Death

By EDDY GILMORE

PARIS (AP)—It was early that March morning when the telephone rang, and the Russian voice said:

"Mr. Gilmore, we will have a press release in a short while announcing the serious illness of the chairman of the council of ministers, Comrade Joseph Stalin."

The telephone call was from Tass, the official Soviet news agency. I ran for the telegraph office, and the censor.

Stalin—and the Stalin myth—were dying.

Did death come to Stalin as they said, from a collapse of the heart, with a squad of Russia's best doctors marshalled around his bed in the Kremlin, doing everything they could to save his life?

DOESN'T KNOW

Frankly, I don't know. I know only what I saw.

Rumors and stories flew around Moscow. There were reports that he was murdered. Stories that this wasn't Stalin at all. Reports that he was already dead when the first news of his grave illness was announced.

But from what I saw it seems reasonable that things happened about the way the official story was told.

During the days they said Stalin was dying, I passed the Kremlin many, many times.

There was always a great coming and going of automobiles at the two traffic gates of the Kremlin.

On numerous occasions there ambulances among the cars rushing in and out of the gates. Several times I noticed small first-aid cars carrying what certainly looked to be oxygen tanks.

Then one day I didn't see any of them.

Early the following morning they announced the death of Stalin.

His body was to lie in state, but not for long, in the Hall of Columns.

The United States embassy at that time was located between the Kremlin and the Hall of Columns.

An embassy friend saw me on the street.

"They've carried the body over," he said. "We were amazed. It wasn't any huge and shiny Zis, or any super-plus hearse. Just an ordinary looking closed body truck. It was blue."

"Are you sure?"

"Of course," he said. "It came slowly up past the stables. Past the embassy, backed up to the Hall of Columns and they took out the coffin."

"Who's they?"

"How would I know?" he said. "Seven or eight guys."

Seven or eight guys. An ordinary truck. What was happening?

The yellow corpse in the fawn-colored semi-military jacket. His hands stretched out stiffly, parallel with the length of his body. The rouged cheeks. The enlarged nostrils of the dictator as you looked at him from the position of his feet. Those surprisingly delicate hands and tapered fingertips.

The almost scornful look of this very tough man. A look taken into death.

And hundreds upon hundreds of curious stares from the Russian people who couldn't get near this man when he was alive. Now they could. The great leveller had come by. And they saw for themselves that Joseph Stalin died just as other mortals do. A man's life had ended, and an era had ended.

Horned Cattle Luxury In Commercial Herds

TORONTO (CP)—Horned cattle are a luxury in commercial herds, the American Veterinary Medical Association was told Wednesday.

Dr. L. A. Gaudreau of Sherbrooke, Que., told the association's annual convention the horn-wearing bull or cow is a nuisance to its handlers and to its own kind.

The horned animal can injure others, decreasing their value as food, Dr. Gaudreau said. It also takes up more space at the feed rack and tends to be more ornery with farmhands.

Dr. Max L. Lichter of Detroit said the first responsibility of the veterinarian in the event of atomic attack is to care for human casualties. Veterinarians could set fractures, treat burns or assist in surgery.

Soviet Transfers Defence Supplies

MOSCOW (AP)—More than half the steel, oil and coal production of the Soviet Union has been transferred to strategically safe regions far from the western border, the magazine Planned Economy said Wednesday.

The moves were made because "strengthening the defence capabilities of the Soviet Union means creation in deep areas of the country, and first of all in the eastern regions (Siberia), of a powerful industry equipped with advance techniques," the magazine said.

"The powerful bases of heavy industry created in the eastern areas assure the Soviet army of all types of weapons, ammunition and equipment."

The magazine said the Soviet Union plans a vast hydro-electric development on the Angara River which begins in Lake Baikal, Siberia. It said the industrial complex planned there includes aluminum, chemical and ore-consuming industries. It said the development would be on the scale of the plants planned by Canada and New York State for the St. Lawrence river.

Bank Loot $100,000

DETROIT (AP)—Two gunmen held up the First National Bank in suburban Livonia Wednesday and escaped with loot, variously estimated at from $28,000 to $100,000.

Police said the bandits held eight bank employees and customers at bay while they robbed the tills.

Railway Bridge Over Burnt River

The overthrow of the Chinese Nationalist Government by the Communist benefitted Somerville township last year with the erection of a new railway bridge over the Burnt River by the Canadian National Railway.

The steel structure was originally purchased by the nationalist government, for delivery to Kowloon. But the overthrow of the government by the Communists froze the bridge in Canada and it was purchased by the Somerville township council.

It is interesting to compare this new structure with the decrepit span at Kinmount, says Reeve C. O. Hodgson and the right to request the rebuilding of the Kinmount bridge, which now carries almost as heavy a load of traffic the year round as any bridge in Victoria county.

To Raise Island

TORONTO (CP)—The parks committee of Toronto's City Council is considering a proposal to raise the level of Toronto island with garbage. The island, year-round home for 2,500 Torontonians and summer playground for many more periodically is flooded in its lower-lying areas by Lake Ontario storms.

Scale Down Toll

TOKYO (AP)—National police headquarters Wednesday scaled down from 9,177 to 6,874 the total of dead, injured and missing in the flood last week-end in Wakayama prefecture, 200 miles southwest of Tokyo. The total was reduced as more of the missing returned from the mountains to flooded out homes.

A BROTHER?—Little Fred J. Kueffer, Jr., wanted a baby brother and thought it a simple matter. He took a pair of scissors and gave his sister, three-year-old Deborah, a boyish bob. "Look, Mommy, Debbie's a little boy now," Fred announced proudly. Mrs. Kueffer, who had to strain to control herself, told four-year-old son that Debbie was still his sister, despite the barbering. But Fred didn't stop hoping as he asked: "Do you think they got any more baby brothers left at the hospital?"

PETS ARE LIKE PEOPLE WHEN IT COMES TO NUTRITION!

Unless you are an expert on feeding animals, you can seldom be sure your pet is getting all the essential vitamins and minerals it needs. And no human can know how your pet feels when his food fails to supply enough food value. But you can see what's happening to him! He loses pep and energy, sleeps a lot. His coat grows rough and patchy. Hair falls out. Appetite dwindles, and general health weakens. Your pet becomes nervous, excitable, ill-tempered.

It's Not "Will Petavim Work?" —Petavim Must Work!

PETAVIM is a high potency dietary food supplement for your pet. It combines 5 energy-charged Vitamins and 4 Minerals in a highly concentrated form. PETAVIM'S formula compares favorably with vitamin-mineral supplements for humans! Your pet needs only a small amount of PETAVIM with its regular diet for 20 days to win vigorous health. In fact, it's not a question of will PETAVIM work . . . PETAVIM must work in 20 days, or you pay nothing!

When You Check Off The 10th Day 10 ✓

Even in this short time, you will see a distinct improvement in your pet's condition. His coat gets smoother, shinier, and his eyes sparkle. Appetite becomes keener . . . and his energy increases.

Petavim's potent ingredients are building up your pet's stamina and strength—giving him the appearance of a champion. You're the owner of a happier, healthier pet that's full of pep and high spirits!

Mr. T. N. Thatcher, Clarkson, Ont. writes:
"After taking PETAVIM along with their regular food for only 20 days, our four Scotties, aged 2 to 9 years, all showed marked improvement. Their coats took on a new gloss and their general condition greatly improved. I recommend PETAVIM heartily to other pet owners."

Mr. Ronald Purdy, Schau Belein Kennels, Port Credit, Ont., writes:
"I gave PETAVIM to three Dobermans and a Dachshund along with their regular food. I don't know whether PETAVIM can take all the credit, but after the 30th day treatment, the youngest Doberman won First Prize in the Puppy Group at the Sportsman's Show. The judge said his condition was excellent."

Mr. W. C. Brown, R.R. #1, Oakville, Ont., writes:
"When we started including PETAVIM in our 7 year old Collie's diet, he was in poor condition, no pep or appetite. His hair was falling out and he was very excitable. But within 7 days his appetite perked up and he seemed more peppy. After 14 days, his hair stopped falling out and his coat became sleek. By the 30th day, he was in good shape, eating, sleeping and acting much better."

Mrs. Marjorie J. Snider, Deer Haven Kennels, Oakville, Ont., writes:
"We gave four dogs—a Belgian Shepherd, an English Springer, a Collie, and a Cross Breed—a regular dose of PETAVIM with their food. Within 21 days, all four dogs had better coats and were in excellent spirits. By the 30th day, they were enjoying unusually good health."

John J. Mennell

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Requiem mass was celebrated here on Tuesday for the late John J. Mennell, who died in a Peterborough hospital Sunday, following a lengthy illness. He was 60.

Mr. Mennell was born in Bowmanville, son of the late James Mennell and Anna Mulligan. He farmed for many years in Hastings and came to Campbellford in 1927.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mary Heffernan of Campbellford and a sister, Mrs. Peter Conway (Dora) of Morinville, Alberta; a niece, Anna Mary Williams of Winnipeg, and three nephews, Mike Conway of Edmonton, Jack Conway of Morinville, and the Rev. Thomas Conway, serving with the Canadian Armed Forces as chaplain in Korea. Three of Mr. Mennell's sisters predeceased him.

The Rev. J. C. Moloney of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, of which Mr. Mennell was a devout member, conducted mass.

Pallbearers were James Garvey, Thomas McAvella, William Masterson, Edward Forestell, Robert Belshaw and Harry McFaul. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Lower Living Standard To Pay Drew Defecits

SYDNEY (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton said Wednesday that Canadians will have to lower their standard of living to "pay Drew deficits" if the Progressive Conservatives win the federal election and cut taxes $500,000,000 a year as promised.

"But fortunately," he said, "such will not be the case."

He urged "continued support for the sound and safe way which has made Canada's economy one of the strongest in the world and brought trade to its highest standard in history."

Mr. Claxton referred to a statement by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, that it costs $22,000 a year for every Canadian soldier, compared to $10,000 a year for a United States soldier.

The defence minister said the claim is "fantastic" and he could not figure how Mr. Drew arrived at such a comparison.

The true story, he said, is that "they cost just about the same. . . $2,250 a year for each man in the three services."

Wiser Spending Would Cut Taxes—Jolliffe

TORONTO. — Better organized services, such as a national health plan, would result in tax savings and more value for the tax dollar, E. B. Jolliffee, Ontario leader of the CCF, said last night at a meeting in Greenwood Park. The gathering was jointly sponsored by Broadview, Danforth, Greenwood and East York CCF Associations.

"The CCF believes that public money can be more wisely and carefully spent," the provincial party leader declared. "Our leader (M. J. Coldwell) has been one of the foremost critics of waste and extravagance. But we do not believe in making wild promises such as you are hearing from the Conservatives.

"The costs of government have been going up just like other costs. What is important is whether the money is wisely spent and whether the taxes are fairly distributed. The Liberal leader has been explaining that he couldn't possibly have taxed any less or spent any less. The Conservative leader claims that he can tax less and spend more. Both are wrong.

"Whether you get a new government or a much stronger opposition—and you are going to get one or the other—this question of wise spending and fair taxation must receive more attention.

"The Tory promise to cut taxes by half a billion reminds me of what the Republicans were saying in the States a year ago. The net result is that Eisenhower has spent more money in his first six months that Truman did in his last six months, and taxes are not being cut."

Continue Gains In Employment

OTTAWA (CP)— Employment continued to rise in Canada during June, the federal government reported today.

As seasonal activity picked up, the number of full time workers rose to 4,888,000 in the week ended June 20, compared with 4,720,000 a month earlier.

At the same time, the bureau of statistics estimated, the total of those looking for work dropped to 101,000 from 124,000.

Of those seeking jobs, 90,000 were without employment. This compared with 114,000 a month previously.

The total seeking full time work was 89,000, of whom 80,000 were without jobs.

The bureau and the labor department reporting jointly on employment factors, said expansion of seasonal employment and hirings to replace workers on vacation more than matched the usual addition of students into the labor market.

In Ontario and the prairie provinces, they said, some difficulty in recruiting enough workers was still being experienced by farmers and employers in other seasonal industries.

On the other hand, there were layoffs and short-time work in the farm implement, textile and aircraft industries in Quebec and Ontario.

By July 1, the report said, labor supply and demand were more evenly distributed than at the same time last year. The labor market was regarded as generally in balance in 85 of the 115 main employment areas.

Labor surpluses existed in 22 areas, while shortages prevailed in eight.

Ship-To-Shore Phones Seen Solution To Canal Blocks

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian department of transport officials have put into operation a traffic-control system on Montreal's Lachine Canal which they hope will make lake skippers the envy of harassed motorists.

For though no one has yet found an effective way of stopping week-end traffic jams on the city's road approaches, the transport department believes now it will be able to stop traffic snarl-ups on Montreal's only effective water link with the Great Lakes.

Their solution: use - high - frequency radio telephones between ship and shore.

How well it will work remains to be seen, but one thing everyone agrees on is that something had to be done. The seven-mile canal, which by-passes the stormy Lachine Rapids to connect the port of Montreal with Lake St. Louis to the west, has become one of Canada's most heavily travelled stretches of water.

Congestion has brought traffic complications in its wake, leaving frayed tempers among canal men and lake skippers. At peak periods when heavy grain shipments are moving down the river, and empty ships are moving westwards, there are frequently queues at both ends of the canal as vessels wait, sometimes for hours, to enter the locks.

Officials believe the new phone system—already in operation at Welland and at Cornwall—will ease the position. With three men on duty, each working an eight-hour shift, captains will be able to telephone the canal's traffic controllers as they are coming down the lake to find out how the traffic is moving through the locks.

Said Jean Carcelo, canal superintendent: "We're just working in a temporary set-up now, but soon we'll have everything ready to pass on the information the captains require."

MEMBERS OF THE 79TH FIELD REGIMENT of the Royal Canadian Artillery stationed at Hohne, Germany, have adopted the "Hof Boitzen" orphanage of the German Lutheran Church. The Canadian troops donate $100 every pay day, and many hours of their time go into building playground or improving the orphanage which is located in an old farm house. The children, mostly refugees from the terror of Eastern Germany, are well taken care of by the Lutheran Church and their adoptees, "Des Uncles Canadiens." Yorkshire Authorities Scrap Writing Entrance Examinations

By THOMAS MAPP

BRADFORD, England (Reuters) —Twenty thousand 11 - year - old schoolchildren in the western half of Yorkshire were the envy of every boy and girl in Britain when they started their summer holidays.

For 500,000 other children of the same age the approach to the end of the school year meant weary hours of knowledge - cramming, nervous tension and parental persuasion culminating in the dreaded ordeal of entrance examinations for higher schools.

But the Yorkshire educational authorities had scrapped the examinations which for years have decided the type of higher education for which a boy or girl attending primary school was suited.

SELECTION SYSTEM

In place of the terror of the examination room, west Yorkshire's boys and girls this year are being selected for one of the three types of secondary schools on their all-round academic record, simple classroom tests, intelligence and their potential for hard work.

The new system, which is partly experimental, will be watched by Britain's 145 other local authorities and by ministry of education experts, who say they are non-partisan on the question of examinations, but favor any relief of examination terrors.

The secondary school examinations have been attacked by leading educationists, parents and the children themselves for many years. The main criticisms have been that they are unfair, academically useless and prove too great a strain on the child.

BLAMED ON EXAMINATIONS

Suicides and nervous and emotional breakdowns have been blamed on the fear of examinations in the past, which are said by some doctors to be the least suitable method of determining a child's ability.

The system works like this:

All 11-year-old children attending the free state primary schools are required to sit for the secondary school entrance examinations. How they are placed in the results determines their entrance into (1) grammar school, (2) secondary modern school and (3) technical school.

Grammar schools offer the highest secondary school education and include a classical background of Latin, Greek and higher mathematics.

At 16 a student may sit for the general certificate of education, a hallmark in future life, and at 18 he may enter a university.

ALL-ROUND EDUCATION

Secondary modern schools offer an all-round education, but students there are forced to complete their education at 16 years of age. Many people complain the system is unfair as a large number of children improve their studies at 14 to 16 years of age, but are then prevented from obtaining a school certificate.

A ministry of education official said there was nothing to stop a child from taking the school certificate privately.

Technical schools are open to children of 13 years of age and offer instruction in the trades, such as carpentry, plumbing and machine operating.

Many British educationists believe that a sensitive child never gives of its best under strain and for that reason some children who fail are deprived of a classical education and can rarely hope to attend university.

Canada To Boost Commonwealth Steel

LONDON (CP)—Biggest contribution to an anticipated increase in Commonwealth steel production will probably come from Canada, says the July bulletin of the British Iron and Steel Federation.

Total Commonwealth production of 31,000,000 tons is predicted by 1957-58, contrasting with 21,000,000 tons last year. The bulletin says it expects Canada will be producing 4,400,000 tons annually within five years, an increase of 30 per cent above current figures.

It notes that Canada is the only Commonwealth country which does not take most of its steel imports from the United Kingdom, buying rather from the United States.

Currently, the Commonwealth produces 10 per cent of the world's steel supply and consumes more than 12 per cent. Canada is the largest importer.

Welfare Critic Said In Favor Of Means Test

OMEMEE — The Progressive Conservative spokesman on veterans' affairs and welfare in the House of Commons is in favor of the means test in social security, it was charged here Wednesday night.

The charge was made by David Croll, the Liberal candidate for re-election in Toronto-Spadina, speaking at a party rally in the interest of F. M. Graham, candidate in Victoria-Haliburton.

Mr. Croll said that Alfred Brooks, Progressive Conservative member for Royal, N.B., in the last parliament, endorsed a statement on social security made in London, Ont., by Progressive Conservative leader George Drew.

"You know what that statement of George Drew's was," Mr. Croll said. "He declared in London that a Conservative government would provide the highest possible degree of social security for those who need it. Mark those five words, 'for those who need it.' That is the nefarious means test all over again.

"And now one of Drew's right-hand men, in a recent free-time CBC broadcast, quoted these words with approval. Mr. Brooks is the spokesman of the Conservatives on veterans' affairs and welfare. In the unlikely event the Conservatives form a government, he would be the man who would head health and welfare. And he likes the means test.

PROOF REQUIRED

"Instead of old age security pensions and family allowances being universal, as they now are, Mr. Drew and Mr. Brooks would pay them only when proof of necessity was provided. All the Liberal Party's efforts to remove the stigma of charity from these payments would be wiped out by the introduction of the means test. That is one way Mr. Drew can save a substantial portion of the $500,000,000 he has promised to lop off taxes."

In the 1949 general election campaign, said Mr. Croll, the Conservatives published a newspaper advertisement, which proclaimed in bold type, "The Progressive Conservative Party can and will form the government." Today their advertisements said the party can and will reduce taxes.

"They were wrong in 1949," said Mr. Croll. "And they are going to be wrong in 1953. The advertisement said the election of a socialist government—meaning the Liberals—would be a disaster. If the past four years have been a disaster for the Canadian people, then I can only wish them more of the same sort."

Mrs. Harry Hubble won the prize in euchre for high score and Mr. H. Gerow the second. Mrs. Stanley Miles won the prize for crokinole.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerow were married at the United Church parsonage, Norwood, July 18, 1928, by the Rev. Cleland. Mrs. Gerow was formerly Edith May Hubble of Norwood.

The groomsman of 25 years ago, Earl Gerow, of South Lake, was present. The bridesmaid, now Mrs. Gordon Kindy of Niagara Falls, Ontario, sister of Mrs. Gerow, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Gerow but was unable to remain for the event.

The members of Mr. and Mrs. Gerow's family presented their parents with an aluminum lawn chair and a metal ash stand with a marble base. They were also the recipients of many cards and gifts, including flowers and money.

Large Oil Tank Will Store 40,000 Barrels

COBOURG (ENS)—Work will start immediately on construction of a 40,000-barrel storage tank by the Canadian Oil Company on the former Shell Oil property at this waterfront. The company will add three smaller tanks next year to provide a storage bylaw closing part of Nunn St. in order to give the company additional land and the town will have a right of way strip to the north which will give access to land owned by the town east of the Imperial Oil property. New offices and warehouse will be built by the Canadian Oil Company, work to commence at once.

In addition to this company, the Imperial Oil and Sunoco have tanks at the waterfront, in the same area. Income from harbor dues, and taxes from these oil companies amounts to three mills revenue on the tax rate. In addition to the foregoing items, there is also the spending power of the employees and in the case of Canadian Oil Company it will mean new families coming to town and also employment for local men.

Runs Away To See Mounties, Boy Is Disappointed

DETROIT (AP)—Young Jimmy Butler always got his man in his dreams as a member of the RCMP.

But today, the 13-year-old Pittsburgh lad, is waiting for "the man" to come and get him. In this case "the man" is his father and Jimmy said he is "kinda scared."

Jimmy, who is being held in the juvenile detention home here, has been the object of a Pittsburgh police hunt since Sunday night when he left his part-time job at a filling station and failed to return home.

"I decided all of a sudden that I would go to Canada and talk with some of the Mounties," Jimmy explained.

He said that he bought a bus ticket for Detroit with his pay and arrived here Monday.

After spending two days sightseeing about town Jimmy said that Wednesday he walked across the Ambassador bridge to Windsor, Ont., and then hitch-hiked to nearby Amherstburg, which he said he had once seen on a map and which appeared to be a good place to find Mounties because it was near Lake Erie.

While hunting for the RCMP, the youngster discovered that he had lost his wallet and reported this to Ontario provincial police.

It was then that young Jimmy reached the end of his quest. He was turned over to U.S. immigration authorities and Detroit police but, not before he said he had learned that life in the RCMP was not for him.

"They don't even wear their red and blue uniforms except in parades and stuff," Jimmy explained. "I sure am sorry I ran away. I only hope I can make Dad understand that I won't do it again."

Chinese Communists Begin Probing Fortified Islands

By MARGUERITE HIGGINS
New York Herald Tribune
News Service

WITH CHINESE NATIONALIST GUERRILLAS ON SHANG TA CHEN ISLANDS. — The Chinese Communists, it can now be revealed, have shifted their veteran Korean 20th Army to the Chekiang province coastline only 12 miles distant and have begun exploratory attacks on this island chain.

This has prompted urgent American military recommendations that these islands be officially included in America's defense perimeter on the ground that they are as crucial to the defense of Formosa as, for example Alaska is to the safety of North America.

In light of the ominous Red developments coinciding with a possible truce in Korea, the Joint Chiefs of Staff have been told that the United States can no longer afford to ignore the military reality that these substantially fortified islands form a vital warning screen.

ATTACKS ON FORMOSA

Their loss would hand the Reds a perfect corridor through which to launch surprise attacks against Formosa, which America is pledged to help, it has been reported to Washington.

This particular Guerrilla island complex radiates North from Shang Ta Chen to a point within 90 miles of Shanghai and extends southward some 60 miles.

As the Communists so well know, the islands dominated by Shang Ta Chen are not only among the most effective but among the most strategically placed of the guerrilla bases. They are so near the mainland that from the outpost where I sit I can see the Communist-held city of Hai Menchen and Red ships moving in the harbor of Taichow Wan Bay.

It is the conviction of the key American leadership in the Pacific command that an all-out Red attack can be staved off if the Reds realize that the guerrillas here will be backed by material and moral support from the United States, even if in limited quantities.

The guerrillas here, as distinguished from mainland troops, have had an opportunity to pass the only true test—performance in battle. Their operations, including the recent capture of more than 60 Communist 20th Army soldiers, has impressed foreign observers.

SCOPE OBSCURED

Unfortunately, the scope of these operations has been obscured by secrecy which only now is being lifted. It has belatedly been realized that this secrecy has played into Communist hands in that much of influential America, including Congressional leaders, have little idea of how much would be jeopardized should these islands be subjected to the Red offensive that appears to be building up.

The Communists for their part seem to have decided that this guerrilla area is so unknown that it would be allowed to slip away without too much clamor in America. This, of course, gives obvious encouragement to their aggressive plans.

Current reconnaissance shows that at least 20,000 crack Chinese troops with Korean war experience have been organized into Sampan and motorized junk fleets assembling in inlets stretching from Taichow to Hangchow Bay. The Chinese Communist Navy, which until last month has been concentrated at Shanghai, has been moved South.

In addition to armed junks, the Red navy in this area now has some 10 destroyer-type ships, speedy new Soviet gunboats equipped with 3-inch guns, amphibious tanks and smaller armored ships.

Quite apart from the local implications, these developments assume importance in the entire Far East in that they indicate how the Reds may be planning to take advantage of the haitus in Korea for new military moves, especially if they seem unlikely to provoke counter-action from the United States.

PRISONERS SEIZED

Particularly valuable information has come from the Red prisoners captured in a successful guerrilla battalion-size counter-attack against the "Twin Deer" islands seized by units of the Reds' 20th Army in their opening assault on this island group.

The Red prisoners, whom I interviewed extensively, stated they had been given special amphibious training after their return from Korea. They had been told by their political commissars there would be peace on the Korean peninsula because, in the words of a Red company commander, "the Americans do not have the force to drive us to the Yalu and the people's government does not consider it profitable to extend the military force necessary to push the Americans back to Pusan."

The new mission of the 20th Army, according to the political commissars, was to "liberate areas from the control of the Nationalist bandits."

So far the Red exploratory attacks have given them temporary control of only one fringe island—Chikusan—which was very lightly held. Red possession of Chikusan has put much of this area in easy artillery range, and in the past week Red guns have been booming steadily away.

It is disturbing to foreign observers that the Communists began assembling their assault fleet about the middle of June, just a few days before the Peking radio categorically announced to the world that an armistice in Korea would be signed.

CONVENTION HEAT—This is a view of the first aid room at the Yankee Stadium in New York where sufferers of the near-record heat have been brought for treatment. Meanwhile, outside in the stands, more than 82,000 Jehovah's Witnesses have assembled for lectures, sermons and prayers under the broiling sun. A number of Peterborough people are attending the gathering.

New Potato Dish To Put On Summer Menu

This new potato dish has a mushroom cream sauce and chicken in it. You may use left-over chicken or the canned boned chicken. Serve it, too, with a simple salad and a dessert.

NEW POTATOES A LA KING

1½ pounds new potatoes.
1 10-ounce can condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup milk.
1 cup cubed cooked chicken (left over or 1 7-ounce can boned chicken).
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento.

Cook potatoes, covered, about 30 minutes or until done in 1-inch of unsalted water; drain. In the top of a double boiler, stir soup well; mix with milk, chicken and pimiento. Add potatoes; heat. Makes 6 generous servings.

The menu might be—cocktail vegetable juice, new potatoes a la king, cole slaw, strawberry shortcake, milk and coffee or tea.

HOLIDAY ATTIRE IN PARIS

PARIS—Holiday attire is the preoccupation of the smart Parisian at the moment. From now on the city assumes a new aspect; it becomes the happy hunting ground of holiday-makers from overseas, and French visitors up from the country to savor the delights of town life and to view museums and monuments, which many of them have not seen before.

So holiday wardrobes are at home on Paris streets and there is nothing surprising about parties of merry visitors garbed in simple frocks, hatless and sandal shod. The smartest holiday fashions are, nevertheless, those which will appear at many seaside resorts, Deauville, Le Touquet, Biarritz, and along the shores of the Mediterranean.

EASY TO LAUNDER

NEW YORK—Summer lingerie is designed for minimum care in fabrics that launder easily, dry quickly, and need no ironing. Cotton plisse and nylon tricot lead in popularity just as white stays one jump ahead of the array of rainbow colors which are now available.

Two important trends in nylon tricot are the new, open lacy patterns which make for cooler sleeping, and the numerous gay floral prints and stripes which are seen in most of the lines.

SMART AND NEW—Salmon-toned suit of "Indian corn" tweed (left). Velvet ascot fills in the notched lapel collar. The buttons are jewelled. A fall and winter evening ensemble—a courtier's mantle of black Lyons velvet and white silk satin over a black velvet dress embroidered with jet and mirror jewels on the strapless silk-fringed bodice. The "adventuress dress" (right)—for travel—is of black and white thatch tweed. The neckline is yoked in a curved line and the waist amusingly-girdled with a "hand" belt of luggage brown leather.

Strong But Light Shoes For Housewives

Though no woman would deliberately set out on a seven mile hike in her bedroom slippers, busy housewives who wear slippers all day long are doing just that. They are walking an average of seven miles a day in shoes that were never intended to cover great distances.

Bedroom slippers are necessary accessories and certainly have a place in everyone's life. However, they were never designed to replace shoes.

More and more housewives are appreciating the importance of wearing proper shoes around the house. They are beginning to realize that shoes of a stronger construction are necessary to their general well-being as well as foot health. Soft slippers are being left in the bedroom where they belong and exchanged for a pair of low-heel shoes with firm support.

Some housewives are turning to those California-like casuals that are so popular with teen-agers. They like their informal style and walking ease.

A favorite is a thick-soled, flat-heeled wedgie which comes in a variety of styles and colors. Those who shop for a combination of comfort and appearance at a very moderate price often select them in simulated leathers or an imitation suede.

The former are manufactured by applying vinyl plastic to a strong cotton fabric under scientifically controlled pressure and manufacturers simulate suede by spreading cotton or rayon flock on coated cotton fabric. Each particle of flock has a microscopic "fishhook" at the end which anchors the flock to the coating. Though extremely sturdy and pliable, both materials weigh less than real leathers and so make possible an unusually lightweight shoe.

Threat To Beauty

Cracked, sun-baked lips are one threat to beauty in the summer. A creamy lipstick helps keep them in good condition. But girls with sensitive lips find this isn't protection enough. They need a base beneath the lipstick.

One base you might try is made especially for cases of chapping in the winter, and drying and cracking in the summer. It will sooth if you've already let your lips become damaged and will help prevent such a condition from occurring, claim the makers. Being colorless, you can use it on your children's lips.

With a proper base and lips in good condition, your lipstick shouldn't cake and should last half a day before re-application is necessary.

Trace your outline with a sable or camel's-hair lipstick brush. Fill in with the lipstick, making sure it goes into the tiny crevices of lip skin. If necessary, rub it in with your little finger. Let it set for at least five minutes before you blot it. Don't bite the tissue. Press it against your lips instead.

RED, WHITE AND BLUE FOR HOLIDAY OUTFIT

PARIS — Jean Patou shows some attractive holiday outfits in the well-loved red, white and blue harmony of colors. Wave-striped blue-and-white pique makes a brief, loose smocklike jacket, lined with blue towelling over red pirate pants with a white shirt. Jeanne Lanvin also favors short lengths in slacks and some of designer Castillo's best effects are almost in the tradition of knee breeches.

DID YOU KNOW?

A cookbook cover can be kept clean, in good condition, with a light coat of shellac. This will help keep off food and finger marks. Recipe cards, too, will benefit from a coat of transparent shellac. Greasy marks can be wiped off after use without smearing the ink.

Cooking In The Cold

Dinners come magically from the cool cook's best friend, her refrigerator, if she does her planning with the aid of these recipes, styled for mid-July.

By ISABEL AVICE McGOVERN

Smart cooks play up to their refrigerators in summer! They encourage these benefactors to do the "cooking," keep perishables fresh and full of vitamins and supply those "drinkables" and edibles which revive wilted spirits.

CHILL 'N SERVE COOKING

There are literally hundreds of dishes which can be cooked by chilling. Your menu choice runs from soups to snacks. Some require hot cooking at one stage of the preparation but this can be done in the cool of the day. We are giving recipes for a few of these irresistible hot weather friends. Then, too, there are oven meals which are prepared ahead, refrigerator-stored, cooked later. This is a preparation method which is a refrigerator wonder.

SPACE FOR EVERYTHING

Today's refrigerators have ample space with flexible arrangements and cold-controlled areas for every size and shape of food needed during the week by the average family. However, this space should be budgeted wisely. Many foods don't need refrigeration—catsup and other condiments, peanut butter, coconut and shortening (except butter, margarine, lard) are a few.

Perishables, like meat, milk and opened cans, must be refrigerated carefully. Meat should be wrapped loosely or kept in its original wrapping if of moisture-vapor-proof material. If meat will not be used in 3 days it's best ot freeze it. Milk should go into cold quarters promptly after delivery and covered closely. Opened cans may be stored in the original can but should be chilled and covered at once.

DEFROSTING DATA

The Department of Agriculture recommends the removal of frost on the evaporator when it is ¼ inch thick because thick frost lets the inside of the refrigerator warm up. If your refrigerator does not have automatic defrosting, follow the manufacturer's directions for this process. As a rule the freezer compartments will need defrosting only once or twice a year although it's wise to check and remove the frost when it's about ½ inch thick.

REFRIGERATOR CHEESE TORTE

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
2 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
1 pound cottage cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 pint heavy cream, whipped

Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine well-beaten egg yolks, sugar, salt and milk; cook over hot water until thickened. Add gelatin, stir until dissolved. Cool mixture. Add cheese and vanilla; beat until fairly smooth. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites and cream. Pour into a 9 x 3-inch spring mold (or a 3-quart baking dish) lined with rusk crust. Sprinkle ½ cup of rusk mixture over top. Chill at least 12 hours. Yield: 12 to 16 servings.

Rusk Crust: Mix together 2 cups rusk crumbs (12 rusks), ½ cup melted butter, 1 cup sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Press mixture, reserving ½ cup for topping, in bottom of pan.

COLD CUTS AND FRUIT SALAD

Arrange half slices of old fashioned loaf and bologna slices on a tray. Cut a fresh pineapple in half lengthwise, leaving the green top on. Scoop out the pineapple and cut into bite-sized pieces. Mix the pineapple with any other fresh fruit. (Strawberries, pears, blueberries, cherries, grapes and bananas are in plentiful supply now at reasonable prices.) Refill the pineapple shells with the chilled pineapple chunks and the other fruit. Serve, with a sour cream dressing or a favorite fruit one.

CATALINA CHOWDER

3½ cups chicken broth
1 cup wide egg noodles
1 cup chopped water cress
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon chopped scallions
1 can (7 ounce) solid-pack tuna.
1½ cups milk
Salt and pepper.

Bring broth to a boil and gradually add the noodles while broth boils. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, for five minutes. Add cress, parsley and scallions and cook over low heat 15 minutes. Add tuna, broken into large pieces and milk. Season to taste. Chill and serve cold. Yield: 4 to 6 servings. Note: For a richer soup, use ½ cup cream for ½ cup milk.

Child's Footwear Should Be Carefully Bought

The days when little girls were restricted during the summer to sandals or a pair of white Mary Janes are gone forever. This summer, they can choose among suede pumps with gay embroidery; stripping sandals of glazed kid leather in pastel shades—both multicolored and solid colored; saddle shoes — a style borrowed from older sister; shell pumps in light shades of calf, as well as in black patent and, of course, the ever-reliable white buck for Sunday afternoons and the sturdy classic leather sandal for the playground.

But mother has to be sure that the shoes not only look pretty—but are good for the youngster's feet. Here are a few simple rules to follow when buying your children's shoes:

1. Make certain that they're leather top and bototm—that is, upper and sole. All-leather shoes are particularly important in the summer because the pores in leather allow the entire foot to "breathe". At the same time, the supple firmness of leather provides proper support for young feet, but does not bind them.

2. Never buy shoes for your child without a fitting. Don't trust the size number of the last pair you bought, for the size may have changed in a matter of weeks.

3. Avoid loafer shoes for younger children, except for very occasional wear, since they do not give support through the instep. The muscles of the instep do not develop real strength before the age of 12.

4. Take your time examining shoes when you buy them. A little thought at the time of purchase will save your child much discomfort.

Foot doctors frown on the habit of letting children run around all day in sneakers and other flimsy footgear. Experts point out that such footwear fails to provide the flexible support of instep and heel provided by all-leather shoes, and thus encourages pronation of the feet. In addition, the rubber bottoms frequently irritate tender skin tissue. Sneakers are fine for short play periods on soft-surfaced playgrounds but when the game is over, make sure your pride and joy switches back to sturdy all-leather shoes.

DOROTHY DIX:

Likeness To Former Flame No Obstacle To Affection

DEAR MISS DIX: Four years ago, while taking part in a local minstrel show, I met Rob, at that time a junior in high school, and keeping steady company. After that he was always pleasant to me when we met, and I knew I liked him very much. I went with other boys, but not steady. Last fall Rob's girl entered a convent. Two months later he called me for a date, and since then we've been going dancing every Saturday night.

I still dated with other boys occasionally, though I don't any longer. Now for what bothers me: Someone mentioned recently that I bore a striking resemblance to his former girl friend, and I realize that it's true.

Rob has now gone into service, and asked me to wait until he comes back. I know I love him, but doubt that he loves me as much as I would like him to. I am afraid that what attracted him to me was only my resemblance to the other girl. I am 17, incidentally.

LAURA C.

SHE CAN HOLD HER OWN

ANSWER: Don't let the matter of resemblance worry you. It's possible that your likeness to Rob's former sweetheart was the initial attraction, but probably he isn't even aware of it.

Whatever brought you together in the first place, whether a superficial resemblance or a mutual discovery of similar interests, it is the relationship resulting from the first date that is now the important factor. You have unusual intelligence and common sense for a 17-year-old and, I'm quite sure, a personality to match. There seems no reason to doubt that you can hold Rob with your own appeal, and are not dependent on the fact that you may bring back memories of someone else.

There is, however, one point on which you should be warned. It's quite possible that Rob's former steady may decide after due deliberation that her vocation doesn't lie in religious life. Of course, if this possibility should occur, and you have won Rob's heart by then, you have nothing to worry about, but it's a good idea to be prepared for the eventuality of his return to her.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I would like to take a trip to Europe this fall, and since I live in a small Midwestern town, I have no idea how to go about making plans. I would greatly appreciate any help you could give me on making reservations, and what sort of accommodations I would have on the ship.

MRS. E. W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Put all your problems in the hands of a reliable travel agency, and your troubles are over. If you don't know of an agency, have your local bank recommend one. Your reservations will be made for the entire trip, your itinerary planned, in accordance with your desires, and you will be saved much time, money and annoyance.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What should I do about in-laws who continually tease me? I can take teasing to a certain extent, but it finally becomes annoying. My husband doesn't realize how hurt I am at some of the things his folks say to me. Aside from this difficulty, I am a very happy woman.

BERNICE F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Bear in mind that people usually only tease those they like. Being able to take a certain amount of kidding is a sign of good sportsmanship, but I agree with you, it can be overdone. You are probably overly sensitive anyway, and just don't appreciate the brand of humor of your in-laws. Try to convince your husband how you feel, and see if he won't speak to his folks about it. Of course, the best thing would be for you to learn to accept the joshing, but if it upsets you too much, make an effort to have them tone it down.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Salads Should Be Daily Fare

Salads are synonomous with summer.

On languid and devitalizing days when even the thought of hot meals makes you feel limp a crisp salad rouses your interest both from a nutritional and psychological viewpoint.

But salads should be daily fare. The ingredients for them fairly reach out to claim your attention on the markets in summer. Now is the itme to develop the daily salad habit and keep on cultivating it every day all through the fall and winter.

The much-written-about and-vaunted Tossed Chef's Salad should be mastered by every cook worthy of her (or his) reputation.

To make salads a routine habit you must have a crisper or hydrator full of washed and trimmed salad ingredients all of the time. These include lettuce, cabbage, radishes, cucumbers, tomatoes, parsley and green peppers. With those as a start the salad tosser may make quite a few variations. If you want to make a solid salad reputation add watercress, peppercress, endive and chives. Have a jar of broken salad olives and a can of ripe olives on hand. A tube of anchovy paste is another ingredient that will add character and flavor to your greens.

Your dressings are important too, for any salad connoisseur never smears his salad with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing or French dressing every time.

I hope you will make variations of your own on the salads I have suggested here and that you will try new salad dressings too, to give zip to the salad course every day.

This will intrigue your family into looking forward to them, for they will wonder what Mum has whipped up for them this time.

FRESH VEGETABLE SALAD
(Or Tossed Chef's)

One medium-sized head iceberg lettuce cut into bite-size pieces with silver knife, 2 medium tomatoes cut into eighths (or about 1 inch wide), about ½ to ¾ cup very finely cut celery, ¼ cup wafter thin slices of radish, ½ cup wafer thin slices of unpeeled cucumber, ¼ cup finely chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons finely chopped chives or green onion tops, about ¼ cup fine shreds of green pepper (a few shreds of canned or fresh pimiento or red cabbage are optional). Have these ingredients cold and crisp. Toss them in a wooden bowl which has been rubbed with a cut clove of garlic. Drizzle over them Non-separating French Dressing. To make this attractive carelessly place over the top 3 or 4 slices of tomato, and green pepper and wafer thin slices of Bermuda onion, tucking them into the bulk of the salad endwise.

NON-SEPARATING FRENCH DRESSING

Mix together in a cold bowl 1 whole egg, 1 tablespoon paprika, 1½ teaspoons salt, slice of garlic (or ¼ teaspoon garlic salt), 3 tablespoons sugar, dash of cayenne, beating with rotary beater until these are thick. Now slowly begin to add 1 cup ice cold salad oil, adding only a teaspoon or so at a time and beating until addition is incorporated and then add a little more, beating between additions until all oil is added. The egg and oil emulsify and will not separate. Store in covered jar in refrigerator.

CABBAGE-PINEAPPLE SALAD

Soak in ice water for 20 minutes 3 cups cabbage shredded as finely as possible with your sharpest knife. Drain well and dry. Add 1 cup well-drained canned pineapple cubes, cut up a little and, if desired, 1 cup cut-up unpared red apple. Toss lightly with cooked Salad Dressing.

COOKED SALAD DRESSING

In top of double boiler mix together, ½ cup each sifted flour and white sugar, 2 teaspoons each salt and dry mustard, ⅛ teaspoon paprika. Stir in 1 cup water and ¾ cup milk, vinegar or slightly diluted lemon juice. Stir over boiling water until thick, then cook covered for 5 minutes, stirring once. Remove from heat and beat in 2 beaten eggs (or 4 yolks) and 1 tablespoon butter. Beat until smooth. It needs no more cooking. Store covered in refrigerator.

To vary the French Dressing add crumbled Roquefort or Dutch Blue cheese or grated old cheddar. To vary the Cooked Dressing add 1 tablespoon each well-drained green relish or finely chopped gherkins and canned pimiento, or dilute it with some heavy cream.

Lunitz-Edwards

HASTINGS (ENS) — Trinity United Church was scene of a pretty summer wedding when Joyce Emelene May, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallie E. Edwards was united in marriage to Patrick Paul Lunitz, eldest son of Mrs. Claira Lunitz and the late Paul Lunitz all of Hastings.

The church was decorated with baskets of pink gladioli and wedding bells. The Rev. N. Cole officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Miss Doris Calberry sang "Because" before the ceremony and during the signing of the register sang "O Perfect Love". She was accompanied by Mrs. J. M. Baker.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace over satin, with a lace jacket. Her veil was tulle net, finger tip, with Elizabethan crown, her flowers were red roses. Miss Inga Lunitz of Toronto, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and wore blue net over taffeta and carried pink gladioli. The bridesmaids, cousins of the bride, Mrs. H. Bairage and Miss Melba Richardson of Lang, were dressed in pale green and yellow net over taffeta and carried pink gladioli. Flower girls, twins Darlene and Evaline Keog of Havelock, also cousins of the bride, wore pink taffeta dresses with lace boleros and carried baskets of rose petals, that they scattered as they walked down the aisle. Thei rhats were fashioned from tulle and orange blossoms and were made by the bride's mother.

The groom was attended by Mr. Hilliard Bairage of Lang and ushers were Harold Rylott of Peterborough and Bernard Sullivan of Hastings.

The reception for 150 guests was held in the church parlors where the bride's mother received in a gown of heavenly blue lace, white picture hat and matching accessories and wore a corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother in cream lace with nylon inserts and small hat and matching accessories with a corsage of red roses.

The guests were served by former schoolmates of the bride, Misses Carol Baker, Andree Crate and Barbara Scriver and the bride's cousin Barbara Stevens of Fort Erie.

For her wedding trip to Kentucky the bride wore a red linen dress with matching bolero and white linen accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. They will live in Hastings.

Hospital To Get $361,000 Addition

BRANTFORD — Plans for the Brantford General Hospital's new $361,000 power plant and laundry and for renovation of one pavilion have been completed.

It is expected tenders for construction of the power plant will be called late in August.

Ratepayers approved a bylaw for issuance of $1,800,000 March 16 for renovating and modernizing the hospital. Estimated cost of the complete project is about $3,000,000.

The building operation is being undertaken in two stages in order to keep the hospital functioning without any dislocation of services.

The first stage will be to build the power plant and laundry and to enlarge the maternity wing. The second stage will be the extension of the Queen Elizabeth pavilion and construction of the main structure.

Plans for the maternity wing call for an addition providing space for 20 new beds, making total accommodation for 60 patients.

Give Permission For Labor Day At Nicholls Oval

Request of Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) and Peterborough Trades and Labor Council (AFL) for permission to hold their Labor Day celebration at Nicholls Oval was granted by the finance committee of the city council Tuesday night. The applying letter was from Alf Barber.

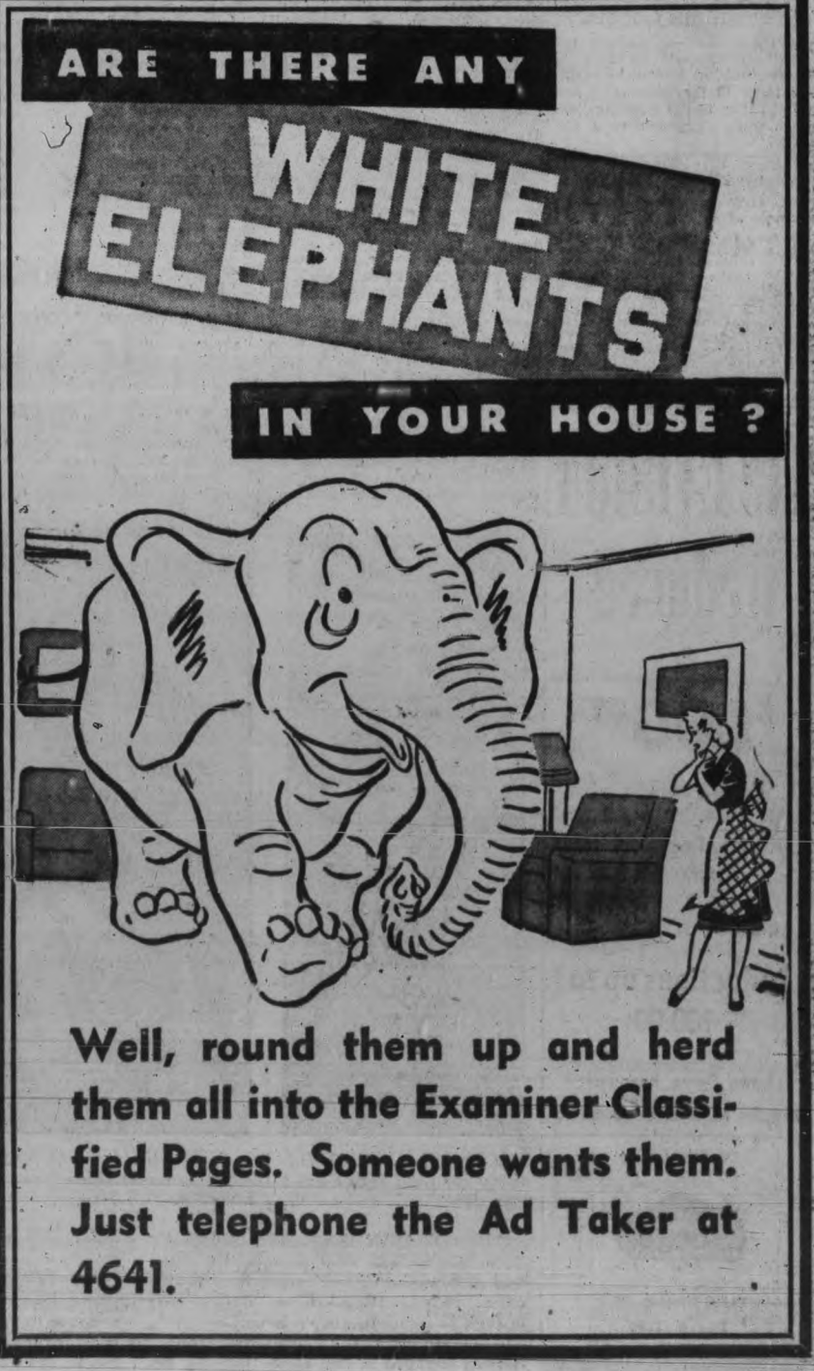
The committee was uncertain whether any other organization had asked for use of the park on the September holiday. For that reason, the granting motion carried the condition that the Oval has not already been allotted.

A second request for permission to hold a street dance in the evening on Aylmer St. between King and Charlotte Streets was also granted to the joint labor groups. There is to be no fixed charge to dancers, but a silver collection will be acceptable, Mr. Barber wrote.

The committee also approved an application from W. C. G. Parrington of Brock St. Gospel Hall to hold meetings at Simcoe and George Sts. after the usual Salvation Army open air services on Saturday evenings.

SIGNS FOR TOURISTS

A motion by Aldermen Rehill and Black recommended to the council that the Junior Chamber of Commerce be permitted to place signs at several street intersections directing tourists to the Jaycees' tourist information office on the CNR property on the south side of Charlotte St. The Chamber reported an average of 500 enquiries a week. In their opinion they could enlarge their service by the directional signs.



Each sign is to be 24 in. by 8 in., advertising the location of their office. They are to be attached to the lower edge of the city's "no parking from here to the corner" notices at Reid and McDonnel Streets, facing north; Park and Charlotte facing west; George and Lansdowne facing both west and east; also Parkhill Road and Water, facing north. The chamber agrees to remove them by Sept. 30.

A letter from R. E. Langley of Weir, Royal Black Preceptory, requesting permission to hold a street parade on Saturday, Aug. 8, Derry Day, was received by the board of works. The Preceptory is to be informed that street parades come within the authority of the Police Commission.

Mr. Langley also asked permission to decorate the streets and use the strings of bunting and flags bought by the city for the Coronation decorations.

Mayor Waddell commented that the decorations were purchased for a civic function. "I wonder how far the council should go in matters of this kind, adding the city's name to decorations of the streets."

The board recommended that the city's bunting was not available.

Well, round them up and herd them all into the Examiner Classified Pages. Someone wants them. Just telephone the Ad Taker at 4641.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey Testifies For Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York pleaded today that his state be permitted to build new power plants at Niagara Falls along with the St. Lawrence river project.

"We ask that Congress not divide these Siamese twins to the death of each," Dewey told the Senate public works committee which is considering legislation on the Niagara plan.

The state already has congressional sanction for the St. Lawrence work, and Dewey contended that the Niagara and the St. Lawrence are in effect a continuing river.

The governor said it is indisputable that Niagara Falls itself is the property of the people of the state of New York.

The House of Representatives has overwhelmingly approved legislation to give five big private New York utilities authority to apply to the power commission for a licence to build the $400,000,000 power installation.

DEVELOPED BY PEOPLE

Dewey said for decades both the Republican and Democratic parties have proclaimed that Niagara and St. Lawrence are assets of the people and should be developed for the people.

The committee is considering three bills for the development of Niagara, including the one passed by the House.

Dewey supports the measure introduced by Senator Irving Ives (Rep. N.Y.) that would give such approval to the power authority of the state of New York.

The third measure is one introduced by Senator Herbert Lehman (Dem. Lib.-N.Y.) and Representative Franklin Roosevelt (Dem. Lib-N.Y.) that would give the federal government authority to undertake the project.

SALE OF BONDS

If New York state develops the Niagara power, Dewey said, the financing will be done through sale of bonds by the power authority, to be liquidated by sales of power, at a low rate, to the people of New England, New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

"We don't ask any money for this," the governor said. "We don't ask any state money, we don't ask any federal money, all we ask is that you please leave us alone."

Also to be heard is John E. Burton, chairman of the power authority of the state of New York.

Should New York emerge as victor in the "Battle of the Falls," the authority Burton heads would construct and administer the project.

Dewey is making his second visit to Washington in as many weeks.

Dewey has already officially advised the Senate public works committee of his opposition to the bill to permit private enterprise to develop the new power facilities at Niagara. This position was stated in letters to each member of the 11-member committee.

Dewey's letters, possibly as much as any factor, induced the Senate group to hear testimony on the state proposal.

NOW YOU SEE IT . . . In 1952, 320-acre Lake Inman, near Inman, Kans., had plenty of water and was a favorite picnicking and vacation spot. There were swimming, boating, motor-boat racing and summer-long fishing. It was the largest natural lake in Kansas.

. . . NOW YOU DON'T—This is Inman Lake today. Most of it is plowed and planted for crops. In this photo, what's left of the lake hardly shows, 'way off in the background. Up to date, it has never gone dry, but it may this summer. In the past several years, silt from surrounding farms has been washed into the lake, making it much more shallow. It also covered the springs which fed the lake, making it more dependent on rainfall. And there has been so little rainfall there this year that Lake Inman may just disappear.

Believe Philip Will Be Named Regent

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — The British press took for granted today that under proposed new legislation the Duke of Edinburgh would replace Princess Margaret as regent if Prince Charles should succeed to the throne while a minor.

It was also widely assumed that amendments to the Regency Act, foreshadowed in the House of Commons Wednesday night, would make Queen Mother Elizabeth a member of the council of state. This is the body which exercises royal authority when the sovereign is outside the United Kingdom.

In announcing the impending legislation, Acting Prime Minister R. A. Butler merely said that a bill to amend the Regency Act would be introduced before the Queen leaves on her Commonwealth tour in November. Parliamentary correspondents anticipate the bill will be presented early in the autumn session of Parliament, which the Queen will open.

Butler did not go into details on the proposed changes in the Regency Act, but nearly every British newspaper carried stories to the effect that the principal provision would be to name the Duke of Edinburgh as regent. As the law stands now, Princess Margaret would become regent if the sovereign were prevented from ruling, through death or incapacity while the heir to the throne, Prince Charles, was under 18. Margaret is the first person of full age in Brussels as air attache.

AVOID MAKING LINK

There was little tendency today, either in official quarters or in newspaper comment, to link the proposed changes in the Regency Act with recent reports of a romance between Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend, British war hero now stationed in Brussels as ai rattache.

The Yorkshire Post said: "Inevitably, the decision to supersede Princess Margaret as the first in line for the regency is being linked with recent rumors about her matrimonial intentions.

"It would appear that if by any chance the regency were considered a bar to Princess Margaret's matrimonial plans, the changes now envisaged could not materially smooth her path. She will remain third in line to the throne and, presumably, she will also remain second in line to the regency."

The Daily Sketch, on the other hand, said that a change in the Regency Act relieving Princess Margaret of any probability of becoming regent "would leave the Princess free to marry whom she wished."

The Daily Mirror said: "Whatever other factors are involved in the decision to change the act, an effect would be to ease the constitutional problems raised should Princess Margaret desire, as has been reported, to marry Group Capt. Townsend.

OTHER APPROVAL NEEDED

"There has been much speculation recently as to whether the present situation in which Princess Margaret would be automatically regent would be fully acceptable in the event of such a marriage."

The regency change will require approval of the other Commonwealth countries.

Sources in Ottawa said they believed Canada would assent to the changes and could do this by order-in-council. Confirming legislation would be submitted to Parliament at the next session.

Another point of discussion in London today was what might happen in the event of some catastrophe affecting both the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

"In that case Princess Margaret would still become regent," noted The Daily Mirror. ". . . It is thought possible that the government may be planning to include the Queen Mother as possible regent after the Duke. But that might give the impression that the government's main object in amending the act is to exclude Princess Margaret.

DEAL WITH ONE MATTER

"For that reason the government may decide merely to name the Duke and leave open the question of who would take his place."

The Yorkshire Post, in similar vein, said that the possible necessity for a regent hinges more on sudden accident than on illness, and "accident might well strike down the Duke of Edinburgh simultaneously with the Queen."

Before Wednesday night's announcement, there had been considerable speculation on possible changes in the Regency Act, some of it linked with the attachment said to exist between Margaret and Group Capt. Townsend. Those who saw such a connection argued that most Britons probably favor Princess Margaret marrying Townsend, even though he is a divorced person. They might feel differently, however, if there were a possibility of Margaret becoming acting monarch.

Captained Schooners On Great Lakes

The funeral will be held on Saturday from St. Michael's Church to St. Michael's cemetery.

Surviving are a son, Jack, of Ottawa; a daughter, Madeleine, Cobourg, and a sister, Mary, of Cobourg. His wife predeceased him some years ago.

Fraud Sale Charge Dismissed By Court

LINDSAY (ENS)—The charge of fraud in connection with the sale of a truck by Harry Goodman, of Peterborough, to Marwood McCarroll of Emily township, was dismissed in magistrate's court Wednesday.

Evidence showed that Goodman had in no way forced McCarroll to sign a "condition of sale" and a "finance acceptance" credit form. Evidence showed that McCarroll admitted signing two documents and that he did not read either one. Goodman, according to the evidence, in no way hurried the sale or was in no way fraudulent.

ACTRESS ADELE MARA shows you can't keep a good man down.

ALTHOUGH 92 YEARS OLD, George Bartlett is an honorary motorcycle officer. Here he gets first-hand advice from Sgt. Rolf Magnell.

"DEAD" MAN IS PRETTY SPRY AT 92—Way back in 1899, George M. Bartlett was pronounced "dead" while in a 28-day coma. However, the "corpse" didn't know enough to stay put, got up from his "death bed" in New York, and moved to California. Bartlett engaged in real estate business, became several times a millionaire, and now owns a food supplement factory in Azusa, Calif. Today, at 92, Bartlett pilots his own plane, rides a motorcycle, and is an honorary member of the Azusa police force. A strong booster for California's climate, Bartlett still has an eye for a pretty girl.

Soviet Gesture To Turkey Not New Move

BY DON COOK

ANKARA, — Recent Soviet "peace gestures" in the direction of Turkey have produced a feeling here of mild satisfaction that firmness and determination is now proving its worth, but a conviction that it is all part of the same long cold war.

For the Turks this sort of thing has been going on since Peter the Great, and relations with the Soviet Union will always be correct, precise, cautious, and rather cold. More than any other North Atlantic Treaty partner the Turks have intimately and directly experienced the ups and downs of Russian imperialism, and the perspective of three centuries of such dealings is a grave and sobering one.

Of the two Soviet moves toward Turkey, one caused more interest inside the country and the other produced more headlines outside. The first was an agreement which was suddenly reached with the Russians on a Caucasian frontier irrigation project.

The Caucasion region of East Turkey, bordering on the Soviet Union, produces much cotton, and with irrigation has an even greater agricultural potential.

TURKS ACCEPTED

At the time of Stalin's death, the Russians unexpectedly proposed to members of the Turkish funeral delegation an arrangement under which Turkey would draw water from Soviet irrigation works along the Aras river, which marks part of the border, against payment of $400,000. The Turks have accepted.

In this there is some concrete economic progress for Turkey which is expanding in all directions for all it is worth, and therefore is of more practical interest to the country than the second of the recent Soviet gestures—a note which abandoned certain territorial claims against Turkey and suggested that the time has come to have a look at the Montreux convention which governs passage through the straights of the Dardanelles.

The convention was agreed to July 30, 1936, at Montreux, Switzerland, by European powers signatory to the treaty of Lausanne and permitted Turkey to fortify the Dardanelles and Bosporus and to close them if threatened by aggression. The agreement also permitted free passage through the straits for merchant vessels in peace or war.

Turkey, in preparing its reply to Russia, is not taking into consideration calling a new Montreux conference," the Turkish foreign minister, Faud Koprulu, told a group of foreign correspondents on a NATO-sponsored tour of the area.

On the timing and form of the reply to Russia he said: "The Turkish government is considering the question but we do not feel that we are confronted with an urgent problem. We are going to give our answer in due course."

The Montreux convention, he pointed out, runs until 1956 and any decision to reopen discussion on control of the straits would be a multilateral matter with the signatories and not any bilateral affair between the Turks and the Russians. The signatories also include Great Britain, France, Greece, Romania and Bulgaria, Mr. Koprulu noted.

"In particular today in view of the world political situation it is very natural that the United States, which is no a signatory power, would be interested in the situation," he added.

He went on to remark somewhat blandly that "in any case there is ample time for considering the Montreaux problem, and there are quite a number of other questions which occupy the Turkish government at present." He said that those familiar with Turkish foreign policy would know the attitude which Turkey would adopt in its eventual reply to the Russians.

In diplomatic circles here, there is a feeling that the conclusion of the joint Turkish-Greek-Yugoslav friendship pact was the turning point for the Russians. The pact is reported to have caused strong reaction in Bulgaria and Romania, and has produced among the three signers military, diplomatic, and political results beyond anything which was expected.

"Three years ago this was about the weakest point on the Soviets' perimeter, and today it is the strongest," one diplomat said. "This is largely due to the Kremlin policy of threats to the Balkans, and that certainly should have caused some rethinking in Moscow."

Heat Wave At Least Provides Hot Topic Of Conversation

There is no more universal topic than the weather. Everyone has something to say about it, and the peculiar thing is that almost everyone is wrong.

"Don't you worry, missus, we'll have a thunderstorm before morning."

How many self-styled forecasters have made this assuring statement to some wilted listener—and how many consoled beings have trundled off to bed secure in the belief that the morrow will dawn fresh and cool?

The morning dawns alright, but the only change is that the thermometer has climbed a few more degrees.

But the amateur forecaster is undismayed by his inaccuracy. He is too busy making his next prediction.

morning," says our friend, and in all probability he'll be right. It will be warmer.

And, of course, the official forecast is always 'poppy-cock.' To be a recognized 'forecaster Dan,' you must always disagree with the 'probs.' Otherwise you're just a parrot. No originality.

AN EXCUSE

But why do people kick about a heat-wave anyway? Isn't that what most of us want—an excuse for taking it easy? When father comes home at night and is greeted by a can of sardines and a bottle of ginger ale for supper, isn't it comforting for the wife to be able to say, "It was much too hot today to cook anything, dear."

And probably the hardest work father did all day was dash back and forth to the water cooler.

One benefit of the heat is that it leaves most people without the energy to complain—except about the weather.

Developing New Wheat To Resist All Types Of Rust

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian and U.S. plant scientists are developing a new hybrid wheat resistant to all known strains of rust, including one strain of 15B which has attacked the newest rust-resistant wheat, CT186.

Dr. R. F. Peterson of the cereal breeding laboratory at Winnipeg said today the development still is in the nursery stage, which means the new variety, if successful, will be at least five years away from general distribution.

Biggest obstacle to date has been the difficulty in achieving satisfactory milling quality in the hybrid.

The experiment centres on the use of a variety of wheat, Kenya 338AC, brought from Africa to Winnipeg in 1949. It was grown at rust research laboratory plots one year and some of the grain was given to the North Dakota State Agriculture College and to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

USED IN CROSSING

The Kenya variety now is being crossed and back-crossed with commercially grown varieties such as Lee, Thatcher and Redman.

Similar work is under way in North Dakota where interest this year is keen because of the serious rust threat to the crop there. It has been estimated that a prospective 200,000,000-bushel wheat crop may be cut nearly in half by rust infection.

More than 10 years of plant research and breeding have given Western Canada CT186, a wheat variety resistant to most strains of strain 15B rust. From 3,000 acres now growing across the prairies, Dr. Peterson said it is hoped sufficient quantities will be harvested to make the variety available for commercial distribution next spring.

21 Men Cross Picket Lines At Timmins

TIMMINS (CP) — Twenty-one workers went through picket lines at the strike-bound Broulan Reef gold mines this morning despite warnings from pickets to stay off the property. They took camp cots and food with them.

The workers drove cars through the mine gates under police escort as the strike of more than 750 hardrock workers in the rich gold-producing Porcupine camp entered its 12th day.

The men apparently plan to restart milling operations. One worker said: "We are taking food and beds with us just in case we have to stay a long time."

Although there was no violence, the 30-odd pickets, members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), threatened the men and told them not to try to leave the property.

WAIT UNTIL TOMORROW

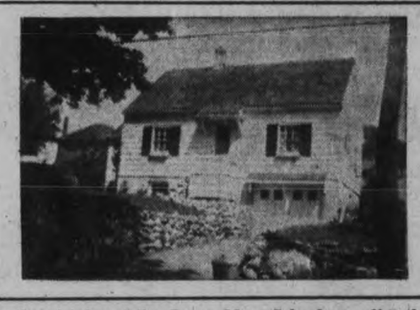
Leo Behie, international representative of the union, commented:

"If that's the way they want it, okay. But wait until any of them try it tomorrow."

Company officials declined to comment on the development.

It was the second such move since about 350 Broulan miners quit July 11 for higher wages. Last week, 40 miners crashed picket lines to get back to work. However, they left that night.

Behie said the fact that only 21 men returned today "indicates that the union's position is getting stronger." He added:



"It was 40 last week and 21 today. In a few days, I doubt if any worker will want to go back until a contract is signed."

Meanwhile, miners continued to picket the three mines hit by the strike—Broulan Reef, Hallnor and Preston East Dome mines.

CAMPING OUT—That legendary little old lady who lived in a shoe had better tend to her laurels. In fact, her little old shoe laces would be taking a whale of a beating if she had to take care of this "real life" brood of Montreal orphans on vacation at Old Orchard Beach. Although the youngster in the foreground looks as though he can't wait another minute, Rev. Armand Landry, left, leads the group in prayer before eating a generous barbecued chicken dinner prepared by the priest. The children, from the Orphanage of the Auxilaire du Foyer, Colonie de Notre Dame du Sourire at Montreal, and their counsellors, are camping out in tents in background. Father Landry, pastor of St. Margaret's Church at Old Orchard, Me., offered to be chef when Maine folks donated chickens to help out the camp's food budget. The kneeling counsellors, both from Montreal, are Miss Reine Lessard and Miss Yvonne Llau.

Clarifies Position

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—An official of the Seafarers' International Union (AFL) said Wednesday the union does not seek to bar foreign vessels from the Great Lakes.

Edward Morin, SIU port agent in Fort William, said the union plans to make representations to the Canadian government to prevent foreign shipping from carrying cargo between two lake ports in competition with Canadian shipping. It did not seek to prevent these ships from plying the Great Lakes with cargo arriving from or destined to foreign ports.

Leduc Revolutionized Oil Industry In Canada In Last Seven Years

EDMONTON (CP)—In 1946 Alberta scarcely produced sufficient oil to supply her own needs. Its refineries were faced with the prospect of importing crude to supplement the dwindling production of Turner Valley, the only significant light crude field.

This dismal picture was substituted by one of an ever-glowing hue the following year when a big oil strike was made at Leduc, 20 miles south of Edmonton. That discovery sparked Canada's greatest oil boom The end is not yet in sight.

Today approximately 96 per cent of Canada's total oil production is provided from Alberta fields, which last year supplied about one-third of the Dominion's needs.

This and other developments in Alberta's oil industry are traced in the provincial government's 1952 oil review, just published.

MET BY ALBERTA

By the middle of 1949 the entire Prairie demand for oil was met by Alberta crude. Exploration and development was so rapid that provision of additional outlets for Alberta's crude became the industry's biggest problem.

In 1951, the 1,129-mile inter-provincial pipeline started operating between Edmonton and Superior, Wis., and Alberta oil entered the big Eastern Canadian market. Scheduled for completion next month is the 711-mile trans-mountain pipeline from Edmonton to Vancouver. Prairie refinery capacity, only 40,000 barrels daily at the time of the Leduc discovery, was boosted to 125,000 barrels daily in 1952.

EXPANDED MARKET

With these expanded market and refining facilities, the government review estimates that in 1954 Western Canadian oil, almost all of it from Alberta, will find markets for 115,000 barrels daily in the Prairie provinces, 120,000 at the Pacific Coast and 100,000 in Eastern Canada.

The review reports that since 1947, Alberta crude reserves have increased 25 times, production potential 15 times, land under production 10 times and exploration expenditures 25 times.

Alberta's production potential, only 20,000 barrels daily in 1946, now is estimated at 300,000 barrels a day or more. Actual output hit an all-time high of 265,465 barrels daily in the second week of July, last period for which a report is available. This record won't last long when the trans-mountain pipeline starts operating.

Textile Industry Shows Recovery

NEW YORK — Because the recovery in the textile industry from the lows of mid-1952 has been orderly, prospects for good business in the rest of 1953 are favorable, W. Ray Bell, president of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York, believes.

Mr. Bell, in the association's 22nd annual survey of the cotton-textile industry, pointed out that the progress had been made without the benefit of inflation. In the first quarter of 1953, production of cotton broad woven goods rayon, acetate, nylon and other fabrics made of synthetics and silk were well above the figures of the first quarter of 1952, he noted.

Turning to the cotton-textile picture, he described the current mill position as to unsold stocks and unfilled orders as one of the most comfortable in history for this time of year.

Aluminum Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices of aluminum-metal ingots and aluminum products made in Canada went up Wednesday following recent boosts by U.S. producers. Aluminum Import Corp., sales subsidiary of Aluminium Ltd., raised the price of ingots a half cent a pound to 20 cents a pound, including U.S. import duty.

Tomatoes Saved

LEAMINGTON (CP) — Several heavy showers and higher evening temperatures during the last few days have saved Essex County's $500,000 tomato crop, Essex County Associated Growers reported Wednesday.

Fate of the crop had been in the balance for some days. The crop of ripe tomatoes is about one week later than usual.

3 U.S. Hunters Murdered Police Hint Early Arrest

50 Angry Strikers Go Into Mine, Beat Up Workers

TIMMINS—(CP)—Fifty angry hardrock miners rushed into the strike-bound Broulan Reef gold mines this morning, attacked 30 workers who had crossed picket lines and forced some of them outside the gates. Three shots were fired by a Broulan security officer as seven strikers sped back to picket lines in a car. At least 40 men were bruised and cut in the fighting. None was seriously hurt. More than 300 strikers, members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), held back police at the company's three gates near here while the miners went in to get the 30 men who entered the mine Thursday.

The half-hour pitched battle broke out shortly after dawn near a storehouse at the main shaft. Ten of the 30 workers in the mine were pummelled and driven outside the gates, where they were dumped on the roadway. The other 20 workers apparently ran into the mine shaft.

The violence came only 10 hours after union representatives agreed to meet with Labor Minister Daley of Ontario in Toronto next week in an effort to settle the wage walkout. The Broulan strike started 13 days ago and spread to two other mines—Hallnor and Preston East Dome. A total of about 750 men are out.

Union and company officials declined to comment on today's incident.

There was no violence at the mine gates, about 10 miles east of Timmins in the rich gold-producing Porcupine camp.

The strikers crowded around the entrances and defied 30 policemen to crash the lines. The attacking strikers could be seen battling the non-striking workers a few hundred feet inside the property.

First reports said two workers were seriously hurt. However, officers said most were just cut and bruised.

HUNDREDS MILL AROUND

The trouble started when hundreds of miners, jeering and shouting, converged on the Broulan property. Police were rushed to the scene and were met by a wall of men in front of the gates.

The 50 strikers drove at least 10 cars up the roadway leading to the main shaft. There they leaped from the vehicles, hauled the 30 workers from the storehouse and pummelled them.

Police tried to talk the strikers into letting them enter the property. The miners refused and warned them to stay clear.

Said one policeman: "There will be a few cracked heads around here if this trouble continues."

One miner spat out this reply: "That's fine. There'll be cracked heads on both sides. We can get all the reinforcements we need."

Signs Of Split In Truckers Union Policy

HAMILTON (CP) — Non union drivers, some with police protection, continued to operate through picket lines and there were signs of an intra-union policy split today as western Ontario's trucking strike went into its fifth day without any perceptible sign of agreement.

The International Union of Teamsters (AFL) scaled down its wage demands from a 52-cent hourly pay boost to a 15-cent increase with an additional seven cents to be added Aug. 1.

The announcement of the union's reduced demands was made Thursday night, shortly after the international office of the teamsters' union announced that it is taking over strike operations.

COMES UNDER FIRE

Meanwhile the union's Hamilton local, in charge of the area thus far, came under fire from William Mills, head of the teamsters' local in Toronto, who called the strike "the most mismanaged strike in the history of Canadian labor."

Mr. Mills was critical of the practice of giving certain transport companies a smooth path through picket lines if they have been cleared as holders of contracts with the teamsters.

Mills threatened to throw a cordon around Toronto unless Hamilton decides to close down all trucking establishments in its area.

The strike itself went on quietly. Apart from scattered rock-throwing there were no reports of violence.

Pearson Sees Truce Shortly

LISTOWEL (CP) — A Korean truce can be expected within a few days, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Thursday.

Mr. Pearson made the statement in an interview after a federal election campaign luncheon address during which he said Canada has no international agreements which have not been approved by Parliament. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, in his election campaign speeches has asked the government to say whether any secret agreements exist.

Many difficulties lie ahead on the international scene, Mr. Pearson said before leaving for New York and a United Nations meeting.

"Negotiations for a peace settlement are likely to be no easier than the truce discussions."

Regarding the apparent change for the better recently in Russian policy toward the West, Mr. Pearson said "these cold - blooded factual people realize they had better review their tactics." He said he believes the policy change is aimed at making the free world believe danger has been removed.

5,000 Chinese Reds Stage Two Attacks

SEOUL (AP)—Up to 5,000 Chinese Reds slammed into Allied lines tonight in two attacks on the Korean western front.

Frontline officers called the new fighting "hot and heavy." It came as truce negotiators were reported to have drawn the Korean cease-fire line in sessions at Panmunjom, a few miles to the south.

A Chinese regiment, about 2,800 soldiers, attacked one Allied hill position and about two battalions hit another.

Sketchy frontline reports said the Chinese swarmed over Allied positions and locked in hand-to-hand combat with UN infantry.

To the east, four Chinese companies in a daring daylight assault smashed to the crest of the rugged hill overlooking the Kumsong river bend after a savage night long battle with South Koreans.

Four People Injured In Truck-Car Crash

HAMILTON (CP)—Four persons were injured, two seriously, in a truck-car accident at the corner of Ferrie and James streets late this morning.

Injured: Ervin Canam Sr., 36; Ervin Canam Jr., 17; Terrance Canam, 5, and Maudie Canam, 12. All are residents of Upper Kent, New Brunswick.

The driver of the panel truck involved in the collision was James Davies, 17, of Hamilton.

Report Truce To Be Signed On Sunday

Clark Gets Authority To Sign Agreement As UN Commander

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Gen. Mark W. Clark has received final authority as United Nations commander in Korea to sign a truce agreement with the Communists ending the Korean war.

The authorization was reported to have been given by President Eisenhower in recent days in order to put Clark in position to act quickly once technical details were cleared away.

Officials expressed confidence today that, barring some last-minute shift by the Reds or some unexpected disruptive move by President Syngman Rhee of South Korea, the truce will be signed sometime this week-end, possibly Sunday night EDT which would be Monday in Korea.

SUNDAY TRUCE

At Seoul, a source close to the armistice talks said the signing probably will come Sunday, Korean time.

It was understood here the day and hour of the signing would be set 24 hours in advance and then would be immediately announced so that the world would have 24 hours notice of the formal conclusion of the agreement that has been two years in negotiations.

The principal threat to the signing arrangements as foreseen here appears to lie in the continuing

Fourth Murder In Quebec Area

NEW RICHMOND, Que. (CP)—Ernest Sirois, provincial police agent in this Gaspe peninsula town, said today he is sure there was no connection between a robbery and murder here Thursday night and the case of three murdered American hunters.

New Richmond is about 160 miles from Gaspe, centre of investigation into the brutal slaying of the three hunters from Hollidaysburg, Pa.

Sirois, working under Capt. J. Alphonse Matte, top-notch investigator for the Quebec provincial police, said that because of information in his possession he is convinced there was no connection between the murder of Edgar Audet and that of the hunters.

Sirois said Audet, 40-year-old manager of a consumers' co-operative, was beaten to death by two men in the presence of his 11-year-old son, Francois.

The men, said Sirois, robbed the co-operative and fled.

Sirois said there was no connection between the murders and the drowning of Herbert Buttle of nearby New Carlisle. Buttle, described by Sirois as a 22-year-old epileptic, fell off a wharf at New Carlisle July 17 and was drowned in Baie des Chaleurs.

His body recovered Tuesday, showed no signs of violence, said Sirois. One eye was damaged but this was believed due to grappling operations.

Churchill Leaves For Chequers Visit

WESTERHAM, England (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill, apparently planning to resume some of the duties of his office, left his country home here today for Chequers, his official residence, 60 miles away. It was the first time he had left Chartwell since he was ordered by his physicians to take a rest nearly a month ago.

The prime minister's official London residence, 10 Downing street, issued this statement:

"The prime minister has benefitted greatly from the month's complete rest which was prescribed by his doctors.

"Sir Winston Churchill has left Chartwell for Chequers where he intends to remain for the next fortnight."

The prime minister walked a few yards from the door of his home, Chartwell, to an automobile and stepped into the car without any apparent effort.

Seagoing Tanker Explodes Seven Men Still Missing

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — A seagoing tanker exploded and then burned alongside a dock Thursday night and seven men are missing, six of them the crew of tugboats that were caught by the blast.

The 9,179-ton tanker Pan Georgia was completing discharge of its 110,000-barrel cargo of fuel oil and high octane gasoline when flames spouted from one of the holds.

A check of the Pan Georgia's crew list showed all but one man, Ray Ott, second assistant engineer, had been accounted for. Ship officers said he apparently drowned after leaping overboard to escape the flames.

In Philadelphia, the Curtis Bay Towing Co. reported that it had been unable to account for six crew members aboard its tugs, the J. H. Deinlein and the Otoco. Both tugs were standing by the Pan Georgia at the time the fire began.

Coast guardsmen and Delaware river harbor patrols were dragging the river near this city's marine terminal in a search for bodies.

The Pan Georgia was damaged extensively.

Of the other crew members, 24 were rescued by coast guard and U. S. Army rescue boats and brought to Red Cross headquarters in Wilmington. Another eight were admitted to Delaware hospital where two of them are in critical condition from burns.

Eight others, including Capt. Morgan A. Maxey, 36, of Port Arthur, Tex., stayed on board to battle the flames.

It was the second accident in little more than a month involving U. S. national bulk carriers vessels. On June 6, the San Massachusetts and the Phenix collided at Port Penn, 15 miles south of here, causing a spectacular fire and taking a toll of three lives.

A member of the ship's mess said he believed the fire started when a spark from a tugboat standing alongside the ship blew into an open hold of the tanker, touching off gasoline fumes.

The flames spread rapidly through the Pan Georgia, lighting her like a torch visible seven miles away.

Prime Minister Invades Enemy Territory

HALIFAX (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today centred his campaigning on territory providing some of the strongest Progressive Conservative threats in Nova Scotia.

On a flying visit to this province, he scheduled speeches in one Conservative-held riding and in another that sent Resources Minister Winters to Parliament in 1949, but since has switched provincially to the Progressive Conservatives.

Two of the prime minister's speeches were aimed at electors of Digby-Annapolis-Kings, a redistributed riding where the old constituency was held by George Nowlan, national president of the Progressive Conservative party.

The third, in the evening, was in Mr. Winters' constituency of Queens-Lunenburg. The two counties in this federal riding sent three Progressive Conservatives to the Nova Scotia legislature in May, reversing a long trend of Liberal successes in them and toppling a provincial cabinet minister.

SECOND VISIT

It was Mr. St. Laurent's second visit to Nova Scotia in the general election campaign. The first time, he just paused briefly for a speech at Sydney in CCF-held Cape Breton South, on the way to Newfoundland.

This time, he is spending the better part of two days in the easternmost mainland province after flying here from several days of campaigning in Quebec. He flies back to Quebec Saturday for a weekend's rest in his summer home at St. Patrick.

The major speech of the prime minister's current Nova Scotia stay was delivered here Thursday night, when he said to an audience of about 1,000 in a high-school auditorium that George Drew "missed the boat" in tax-cut promises.

Report Ship Not Damaged

TOKYO (AP)—The U.S. Navy said today a "single shell, bomb or mine" exploded today near a 3,000-ton British freighter in the Japan Sea but the ship was undamaged.

U.S. warships were manoeuvring in the area, the navy said.

The navy said the freighter the San Eduardo, was heading from Japan to the Red Chinese port of Chinwangtao.

Earlier, the Japanese Coast Guard had reported U.S. ships fired on the freighter and it might have sunk.

The coast guard said the freighter San Eduardo reported by radio that it was "under shell fire" and though they tried for several hours to contact the ship after the message was intercepted they got no reply. They said it was feared the ship had been sunk.

Potato Famine Fanning Anger Of Hungry Germans

BERLIN—(CP)—A potato famine fanned the anger of hungry East Germans against Communist mis-rule today. Failure of promised shipments from Russia and her satellites has forced the reintroduction of strict potato rationing, the West Berlin newspaper, Nacht-Despesche reported.

This was an embarrassing new setback to the puppet East German government's attempt to overcome the passive resistance which continues to spread among its sullen workers.

Communist bosses fought this resistance with a frenzied mixture of new arrests, threats, promises, wage boosts, and propaganda claims of increasing food plenty. But strikes and slowdowns continued. The hungry populace clamored for more food.

All East German newspapers today published appeals by the Communists calling on townspeople to help farmers with the harvest.

The Communist Free German Youth Movement, with 3,000,000 members, today promised "badges of honor" to members who helped farmers.

The East German farm weekly, Der Freie Bauer, said the harvest was threatened with serious losses this year as a result of bad weather and "red tape in the administration."

A U.S.-backed food relief program and Moscow's efforts to block it were obviously increasing the unrest behind the Iron Curtain. Communist propagandists struck back furiously at U.S. High Commissioner James B. Conant's new appeal for the Russians "not to place any obstacles in the way" of distributing free U.S. food.

They branded as "spies and agents" East Germans who accepted Western relief. Despite confessed shortages of several basic foods, they bragged "We don't need American alms."

Cartage Owner Has 12 Trucks Damaged

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The five-day-old truck drivers strike took a serious new twist here today with the charge by cartage owner Jack Flannagan that 12 of his 18 trucks were damaged by strikers during the night.

Flannagan said that 16 tires had been slashed and that sulphur had been planted in gas tanks of all 12 trucks. Damage to the tires alone, he said, would amount to over $1,000.

The trucks were lined up outside the Flannagan Delivery Service Limited warehouse.

Flannagan said there had been a mechanic at the warehouse until midnight. He discovered the damage when he arrived at the building this morning.

According to Flannagan no cartage business in London is unionized. He said that while he had a license to travel outside the city he had confined his business within the municipality.

Charge Youth With Murder

UXBRIDGE (CP)—Roger Corbett, 18, has been charged with murder in the shooting last night of his 26 year-old brother, Ted.

The elder brother died in a bedroom of the little bungalow he and his brother built. A few hours later, Roger, also known as Buck, was taken 10 miles south to Whitby jail and formally charged with the slaying.

Mrs. Dorothy Corbett, the brothers' 52-year-old widowed mother, said an argument over an accident in which Roger drove his recently-purchased automobile into a fence precipitated the shooting.

However, Provincial Constable Clayton Wilton said Ted told Roger shortly before the shooting to leave the house and find other lodgings. He said a grievance had developed between the brothers and the mother over ownership of the house.

Mrs. Corbett said the younger brother, who was "always having bad luck," had been in a mentally-depressed state for several weeks.

City Council To Hold Meeting In Hospital

OWEN SOUND (CP) — City council will hold its midsummer meeting in hospital next week. That's where Mayor Percey England is staying.

The mayor was injured in a car accident July 6. Council members decided to hold the meeting in the mayor's hospital room rather than postpone it.

Discover Remains Of 2 More Bodies On Stream's Bank

GASPE, Que.—(CP)—Grim-faced police early today followed carefully-laid plans for an arrest in a deliberate triple slaying—cunning and cold-blooded killings made even more gruesome by ravenous bears. The shocking end to a bush-country mystery of three weeks came Thursday when the ghastly remains of two young American hunters were found scattered along the bank of a winding little stream. Their fate was the same as that of the oldest of the three, who came to the bear-hunting country from Hollidaysburg, Pa. Human hands brought about their death; the animals they hunted devoured their flesh, gnawed and chewed their bones. Only one skull of the three victims has been found.

Last week the bones of Eugene H. Lindsey, 45, were found at the end of a trail near an unused logging camp. Yesterday, searchers came upon the grisly scene at another camp, four miles away.

FOUND REMAINS

There they found all that remained of Lindsey's 17-year-old son, Richard, and Fred Claar, 20. Parts of skeletons had been dragged and hauled about a 1,000-square-yard area near a tiny branch of the St. Jean river.

Two hip bones were on the far side. Torn and chewed clothing, small personal belongings and a few rifle bullets were mingled with arm bones, leg bones, pieces of spines, ribs and one skull.

Only one piece of clothing appeared practically intact. It was a white sweatshirt, bloodstained and with a neat round hole, as if from a bullet, drilled cleanly through it.

Since the discovery of the elder Lindsey's remains, robbery has been advanced as a motive. He was known to have had about $700 with him when he and the younger men went into the bush six weeks ago. Little more than $1 was found near his remains.

DON'T FIND MONEY

With the odds and ends of personal belongings, searchers yesterday found only 36 cents. But their day-long search turned up what may be a valuable piece of evidence for police. Carefully buried under the roots of a tree was a leather coat.

Reds Got Information Through Spy Ring

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP) The Russians have obtained "valuable information" about secret British military installations along the Iron Curtain border between West Germany and the Soviet one through a lavishly-financed German espionage ring, a British court here was told today.

The alleged spy ring even planted one of its members, a plump brunette, in the service of the British Army as a telephone operator, prosecutor L. L. David declared.

David said the woman, 33-year-old Erika Krueger, became one of the group's main sources of military information.

Miss Kreuger and five alleged accomplices were arrested July 9 in the Brunswick and Lueneburg heath areas, where some of Britain's best troops and weapons are stationed near the Soviet zone frontier. They were brought into court for preliminary hearing and at the start of the proceedings charges were dropped against one of the six.

Personal Attack Deplored By George Drew

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Hon. George Drew took issue Thursday night with "vicious and dishonest personal attacks" he said have been made against him in the present election campaign, and urged that the election be decided on the "great issues before us."

He coupled this with a promise that a Progressive Conservative government, if elected Aug. 10, would bridge the St. Lawrence river at this point, in co-operation with the provincial government.

The Progressive Conservative leader's speech was made to 5,000 persons—the largest audience he has met to date in his campaign. It was also broadcast over a network of provincial radio stations.

Mr. Drew said that in the campaign against him, words were being "torn out" of statements he made years ago as premier of Ontario "in an effort to convey the impression that I am an enemy of the people of this province."

Voters of Quebec province had been told "that you should not vote for me because I am a Protestant."

FANTASTIC SUGGESTION

The "most fantastic suggestion" was that he and Tim Buck, leader of the Labor-Progressive (Communist) party in Canada had some things in common.

"We have only one thing in common. Both of us have been in Moscow. But I was in jail there, and I don't think Tim Buck was."

8,000 Attend Garden Party

LONDON (CP)—The lawns of Buckingham Palace were crowded with more than 8,000 guests Thursday—some 200 Canadians among them—as the Queen held the third and last Royal garden party of the Coronation summer.

Unlike the last one when it poured, the sky was cloudy but there was no rain.

The Queen wore an orchid pink duster coat over a dress of the same shade with matching hat. Princess Margaret was there too, charming in a red print dress with a white straw hat, along with the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester and other royalty.

None of the Canadians was presented to the Queen. Among those attending were prominent Canadian lawyer L. W. Brockington, Canadian-born industrialist Garfield Weston and his wife, Mr. Justice A. J. Lebel of the Ontario Supreme Court and his wife.

Malaya's Terrorists Ordered Leave Guns, Grow Food

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — Malaya's Communist jungle terrorists have received orders temporarily to concentrate on growing food in order to defeat what they call the British 'starve to death" policy.

This was revealed by an instruction to Communist terrorists in Johore state, just across the water from Singapore island.

The document disclosed that in the last 12 months the Communist secretariat had admitted that plans for terrorism against British rubber planters, Malay and Chinese rubber tappers and others, had been shelved because of hunger and starvation.

The starvation plan has been achieved mainly by cutting terrorist liaison with isolated Chinese villages occupied by "squatters" on the jungle fringes. Until the authorities started protecting the squatters, the terrorists had taken all their food requirements from the unhappy villagers at gun-point.

The Communist directive, referring to Johore terrorists, says: "Due to shortage of food and lack of nourishment our work is greatly impeded and some tasks are left in abeyance . . . comrades are urged to make small jungle farms, camouflage them carefully and grow fast crops."

They are urged to purge themselves and their fellows of any but the "proletariat" conception of farm work. "To hold a hoe and hold a gun are equally important and respected," it asserts.

The terrorists were urged to grow millet, pumpkin, fast-growing tapioca, sweet potatoes and beans. They were told to read books on how their "brother revolutionaries" (the Chinese Communists) farmed to meet food shortages. Finally the terrorists are admonished to curb their appetites and mind their table manners.

North Korean Boss Purges Pro-Russians

TOKYO (AP)—Marshal Kim Il Sung, the fat boss of Red North Korea, was reported by Korean sources today to be turning out Korean Communists leaning toward Russia and favoring party members who put Communist China first.

At least three members of Kim's cabinet were reported purged:

Foreign Minister Park Hun Yung; Justice Minister Lee Sung Yup; and Vice-Premier Hu Ka Wee. All are Koreans.

Park Hun Yung was reported in a Communist jail after being purged three months ago. He was formerly head of the Communist party in South Korea until his defection to the north in 1946.

In Seoul, South Korean Home Minister Chun Hun Shik said intelligence reports received there indicated Kim, whose real name is Kim Song Ju, is throwing out Red Koreans favoring Russia and backing Korean Communists favoring Red China.

Dairy Industry Harmed By Liberals-CCF

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—"The unimaginative postwar policy of the Liberal government has severely threatened the security of the primary producer," M. J. Coldwell, national CCF leader, said here Thursday night.

Speaking before about 1,000 Lakehead electors, Mr. Coldwell said that "because the Liberals have been shortsighted in their trading policies, and have depended too much on the vacillating and unpredictable U.S. markets while allowing our traditional overseas trade to disappear by defaut, the Canadian producer has suffered unnecessarily heavy economic losses.

"And this is nowhere better illustrated," he said, "than in the setbacks incurred by one of the country's finest and most important primary industries, the dairy business. . . ."

MUST BE CAREFUL

"It is of vital concern to all Canadians, to regard the future of this industry with extreme care.

"But under the Liberal regime, the uncertainty of what tomorrow may bring has produced a pessimism in this industry alone, which threats to undermine its very foundations.

"The CCF believes that the future of the dairy industry, like most of our other industries, depends on our ability to secure markets overseas which need agricultural and dairy products because they cannot fulfill their own requirements. It is the only way we will ever be able to negotiate secure marketing agreements.

"A CCF government would undertake measures to make it possible for United Kingdom and other overseas nations to buy dairy and other products in which we excel and which they require."

2 Sawmills Destroyed By Roaring Flames

VICTORIA (CP)—Two sawmills were destroyed by roaring flames in British Columbia Thursday and total damage was estimated at more than $600,000.

At Leechtown, 30 miles west of here, preliminary estimates placed damage at more than $500,000. Besides the mill, which produced 25,000 board feet of lumber each eight-hour shift, 12 railway cars and nearly 1,000,000 feet of cut timber were burned.

Meanwhile, flames clearly visible in South Vancouver destroyed a sawmill and lumber piles on Mitchell Island in the Fraser river. Loss was estimated at $125,000.

Greece To Sign Pact

ATHENS (AP)—The foreign ministry announced today that Greece soon will sign a $20,000,000 trade agreement with Russia. The Greeks will exchange tobacco and other farm products for Soviet oil, timber, fish and newsprint.

Thunder Flash Burns Driver

CHATHAM (CP) — A "Thunder flash" exploded in the cab of a non-striking truck driver near here today. James Lott of Toronto was taken to hospital with burns.

Police said the "flash" was a type of small explosive used by the army to simulate gunfire in mock battles.

Officers said they did not know who threw the missile into Lott's truck, but they searched automobiles owned by striking truck drivers.

The incident came on the fifth day of a strike of more than 1,500 truck drivers in southwestern Ontario.

Lott, a driver for Tank Truck Transport Company, Weston, Ont., said a car pulled up beside him on No. 2 highway just outside Chatham and someone in the car threw the flash.

Lott was treated in hospital here.

bitter opposition of President Rhee.

Hopes were expressed, however, that 11th hour attacks of Rhee's government on the United States and its policies toward the South Koreans would not essentially affect the armistice conclusion.

The stubborn, old South Korean president acknowledged that a truce was imminent but added bitterly:

"I have no word on this crucial matter."

In a strongly-worded statement, Rhee accused the Allies of giving the Communists pledges which "render impossible a fulfillment" of some of South Korea's basic understandings with the United States."

WON'T BE PERMITTED

He said his agreement with U.S. Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson, President Eisenhower's truce envoy, provided:

1. ". . . That no troops from India or any other foreign nation will be landed in South Korea to guard prisoners of war."

Yet, said Rhee, "the Communists claim Gen. (William K.) Harrison has agreed that such troops will land in South Korea and that they will be granted police protection by the United Nations forces. I can only say that the Korean people will not permit this to happen."

2. ". . . That the United States will join with the Republic of Korea in setting a time limit to the political conference."

Yet, Rhee said, "the so-far uncontradicted report from Panmunjom directly states that this will not be done . . . This cannot be allowed to happen."

Last month Rhee threatened to wreck an armistice when he ordered the release of some 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners.

MEETS BRIGGS

Shortly before issuing his bitter statement, Rhee met for the third time in three days with U. S. Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs. RoK Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai said the session was "very brief and not important. We only confirmed the cables which were exchanged, some of which have been reported."

Allied and Red liaison officers met in a quickly-called conference. These officers have the job, among other things, of setting the meeting time for the full truce teams.

This conference opened an hour after a two-hour special staff officers meeting. This group is understood to be mapping plans for exchanging almost 100,000 war prisoners.

The chief Swedish representative to the truce supervisory commission said he hoped his group would be able to start work within a week.

Says Scotiadoc Struck Vessel

TORONTO (CP)—Capt. George Ward of the Canada Steamship Lines freighter Burlington testified yesterday that the Paterson Steamship Lines grain carrier Scotiadoc sheared into his vessel June 20 in dense Lake Superior fog.

His statement before a commission of inquiry was in direct contradiction to testimony given the previous day by Capt. George Morriss of Fort William, master of the Scotiadoc. Capt. Morriss said the Burlington rammed the Scotiadoc amidships and sent her to the bottom.

The eastbound Scotiadoc, carrying 250,000 bushels of grain, sank near Trowbridge Island, Lake Superior's famous Sleeping Giant off Port Arthur. One of her crew members, 37-year-old Wallace McDermid of Sault Ste. Marie, was drowned.

INQUIRY NEARLY OVER

The inquiry may end today. Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court is presiding. He is assisted by Capt. W. Beaty and Capt. F. C. Smith as assessors. Peter Wright is commission counsel.

Both freighters had headed into the fog to seek shelter from rough seas running in the open lake. Capt. Ward, whose ship was bound light for the Lakehead, said he "had no idea the Scotiadoc was in the lake" until he switched from long to short range on the radar and spotted a moving object about 1½ miles away.

Capt. Ward said he listened for fog signals but heard nothing. He returned to the radar screen and saw the object getting nearer.

"I told the wheelsman to turn to starboard 10 degrees and a half minute later I told him to turn to starboard another 10 degrees. Again I jumped to the front window of the bridge. Then I heard three whistles about 45 degrees on the port side and real close."

The Burlington's captain told his first mate to sound the danger alarm. At that moment the Scotiadoc appeared out of the fog "at right angles to our course and crossing our course."

Granting Permission Consistent?—Aldermen

In granting P. Latchford, 686 Park St., permission to build a greenhouse on his south end property, finance committee of the council questioned its consistency.

The city planning committee had previously given its approval and finance was endorsing it. Mr. Latchford, it was said, was building the greenhouse for a hobby. That was accepted until one of the aldermen recalled having bought flowers from him a year or two ago. He paid for them, too, and that transaction sounded to the alderman as being something more than a hobby.

Ald. Syd Black was dubious about Mr. Latchford being able o heat his greenhouse without a fire, probably coal.

However, he has given assurance that his greenhouse will not be a nuisance to the neighborhood.

On the other hand, the application of C. G. Gertley for permission to carry on tinsmithing in his garage on Monaghan Road opposite Prince of Wales School was rejected.

Granting the one and refusing the other set up a contrast which some of the members of the council questioned as inconsistency.

MISSED THE BOAT

Mr. St Laurent's address was broadcast from here in substantially the same form over the CBC's trans-Canada network. It had been recorded at Moncton, N.B., while his plane awaited clear weather at the fogbound Halifax airport on a flight from Bagotville, Que.

Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Drew "missed the boat" in that he is promising tax cuts that were put into effect by the Liberal government in its last budget.

The specific cuts were those of $300,000,000 a year that Mr. Drew would lop off the budget by eliminating surpluses and taking advantage of rises in the national income. But, said the prime minister, Finance Minister Abbott already had done that to the extent of $360,000,000 a year in the February budget.

SHOCKED BY PEARKES

Dealing with Progressive Conservative proposals for tax slashes elsewhere Mr. St. Laurent said he was "shocked" to see that Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, the official Opposition's chief military critic, was saying defence expenditures could be reduced by $250,000,000 a year. This later had become official Progressive Conservative policy.

But in the last Parliament, Mr. St. Laurent said, the Progressive Conservatives had been demanding more armaments. The election had changed their minds. Mr. Drew had suddenly discovered—"in Quebec," Mr St. Laurent said—that Canada was "doing too much for our own defence."

Suggest Second Deck On Parking Lot

K. M. Smith, 631 Lillian St., suggested in a letter to the council Tuesday that the Water St. parking lot could be doubled by building another deck over it. Steel and reinforced concrete construction with ramps off the three adjacent streets was mentioned in the letter inspired by a wish to help the city in its parking accommodation. Deputy city clerk M. Thomas was instructed to write Mr. Smith, thanking him for his interest and informing him that the double-deck proposal had been considered by the council in deciding to switch the old market to parking space.

Unlawfully Took $190

LINDSAY (ENS)—Harold Brown, of Cannington, pleaded guilty in Magistrate E. A. Gee's court, of an infraction of the Unemployment Insurance Act, when he collected a sum in the neighborhood of $190 unlawfully.

As the young man has a wife and three children the court, as well as officers of the department, were satisfied to let accused make restitution monthly.

Garson Refutes Drew Statement

BINSCARTH, Man. (CP) — Justice Minister Garson Thursday night took exception to statements by Conservative leader George Drew that the "centralization" of taxing powers at Ottawa destroys the autonomy of provincial governments.

At a political meeting here, Mr. Garson said the tax rental agreements now signed by all provinces except Quebec, are not a destruction of provincial autonomy but an indication that the provinces are exercising their autonomy.

The provinces themselves first pressed for the tax-rental agreements, the justice minister said, because they wanted to retain their autonomy to be able to carry out government at provincial level.

What Mr. Drew actually wanted, Mr. Garson said, was a return to the pre-tax rentals era when the central provinces, because they had accumulated a great deal of the wealth produced in the remainder of Canada, were in a preferred tax position.

Oshawa Man Gets Remand In Shooting

OSHAWA (CP)—Wilson Corson, 52, of nearby Highland Creek was remanded today to Sept. 4 on a charge of possessing an unregistered gun. He was freed on $8,000 bail.

The charge arose after a pistol discharged in his home July 8, injuring his wife, Edith, 50, in the head.

Police quoted Corson as saying he was loading the gun to shoot rats in his barn when it discharged.

taking pictures of one of the purge trials.)

"If I took the time to answer the false and malicious statements made about me, there would be no time to discuss the real issues . . . I do not believe that the kind, generous and chivalrous people of this province will approve of propaganda of that nature.

"There are great issues before us to be decided. Let us discuss them as sensible citizens of a great nation."

DEPARTURE FROM SPEECH

Mr. Drew's reference to a St. Lawrence river bridge here was a departure from a prepared speech which he read partly in English and partly in French.

A bridge was needed half way between Montreal and Quebec City, he said, to keep pace with the needs of an expanding province.

"I promise that if a Conservative government is elected, and with the co-operation of the provincial government, we will immediately see to the construction of a bridge across the St. Lawrence river."

Mr. Drew said:

"The party that pictures me as an enemy of Quebec by their false propaganda in Quebec tries to arouse prejudice in the rest of Canada by saying that I am too friendly with Quebec. This, my friends, is the party which talks so much about national unity."

He said he did not like discussing "so deeply personal" a question as religion, but "some of the most vicious and dishonest personal attacks" had been made in Trois-Rivieres.

HONOR FAITH

"I am a Protestant for the same reason that most of you here are Roman Catholic. I learned the prayers in which I first expressed my religious faith at my mother's knee. So did you.

"You would not respect me very much if I did not honor the faith which I learned as a child."

If elections were decided on the basis of religious differences "then freedom of worship, which is one of the great fundamental freedoms of democracy, would become a meaningless expression."

Turning to Quebec's textile industry, he said it had been argued that international agreements prevented enforcement of anti-dumping laws against United States textiles.

TEXTILE DUMPING

"At a time that the United States is keeping out our dairy products and other farm products, our government is permitting textiles from the United States to be dumped here far below the manufactured cost. As a result thousands of Canadian workmen are out of employment today."

It was not a question of tariffs.

"This government had anti-dumping laws. They should be enforced, and if they cannot be enforced they should be amended."

Mr. Drew also said the Progressive Conservative party proposed to outlaw Communist activities by "those traitors who are trying to undermine our democracy."

He referred to a Communist-led union which has applied for certification as bargaining agent for employees at the federal government's uranium industry in Saskatchewan. It was an apparent reference to the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers which he said was headed by "a man now named Murphy" who had been trained in the Lenin school of espionage at Moscow.

CAN TIE UP PRODUCTION

"This Communist organization is in a position to tie up our whole uranium production because of the weakness of the government in dealing with them."

Mr. Drew also spoke Thursday at Asbestos, Victoriaville and Nicolet, and stopped briefly to meet small groups at Bromptonville and Richmond on his motor trip from Sherbrooke.

Today speeches are scheduled at Shawinigan Falls, Louiseville, Sorel and Chambly. He will stay overnight at Montreal.

Wife Cashed Cheque Belonging To Husband

Mrs. Muriel Drain, 38, formerly of Peterborough, received suspended sentence for two years today when she pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of a $51.40 cheque from her husband, Garnet Drain.

Drain gave evidence that he and his wife had been living in a room at 267 Simcoe St. A few weeks ago he took a job in Toronto and his wife drew his pay while he was away.

When he returned to Peterborough to see her, he discovered she was gone. She sent him a letter saying that sh had secured employment at Victoria Harbor, six miles east of Midland, and had cashed a cheque from the income tax department.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, said the accused had apparently used the money to get away from her husband and suggested suspended sentence. The couple have no children.

Find Prices Mixed On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Prices were mixed to weaker as the stock market's week-long sluggishness continued in early afternoon trading today.

Industrials crept forward but base metals and western oils weakend. Golds mixed.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals followed a narrowly mixed path although Sudbury contact and Parbec drew support in heavy trading.

In industrials, steels, foods, refining oils and manufacturing companies firmed while papers and utilities slipped.

Golds attracted very little interest as all sections mixed.

Base metals made little attempt to follow up their moderate rally of Thursday as higher-priced issues traded losses and gains evenly while lower-priced stocks eased.

In Western oils changes ran from the 40 cents dropped by Canada Oil Lands to the 25 cents added by Home Oil.

Outboard Marine Votes 40-Cent Dividend

WAUKEGAN, Ill. — The board of directors of Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company at its meeting held Thursday declared a cash dividend of 40 cents per share on the common stock of the company, payable August 25, 1953, to stockholders of record August 4, 1953.

Just how the killings were carried out had not been made known officially here early today. But last night in Quebec City, a spokesman for the attorney-general's department said bluntly: "It is murder, cold-blooded and planned."

The discoveries were made at Camp 26, four miles west of Camp 24, where the elder Lindsey's remains were found, and about 65 miles from Gaspe.

PERSONAL BELONGINGS

Personal belongings found in the all-day search included a watch, cigaret lighter, shaving-soap container, laced boots, blue overalls and an undershirt. A piece of upper bridge-work was also found.

Supervision of the work was carried out by Capt. J. Alphonse Matte, provincial police crime-investigation expert, who arrived yesterday from Quebec.

He said last night he did not plan to go into the bush again today, but would send in a crew of searchers to carry on with the work of finding everything possible.

Yesterday's search produced none of the valuable equipment, such as rifles and binoculars, the hunters are known to have had with them when they set out from Gaspe early in June in their light truck. They are believed to have been last seen alive June 12.

Buffalo Drivers Back At Work

BUFFALO, N.Y. (CP)—Most of the Buffalo area's striking FL truck drivers and freight handlers returned to work today, abandoning a 24-hour resistance movement during which they defied International Brotherhood of Teamsters union leaders.

They ended their angry cries of "sell out," that marked the unorganized no - work campaign Thursday.

A survey of trucking firms showed that most trucks were rolling. The return to work ended a six-day walkout, the first five days of it authorized by the union in support of wage demands.

The strike began Saturday midnight with the union seeking a 20-cent pay increase on present hourly scales which range between $1.50 and $1.62. The Buffalo Trucking and Common Carriers Association offered a 12-cent increase and other benefits but the union voted that down.

The union agreed Wednesday night to end the strike, negotiate 10 days longer and submit the dispute to arbitration if necessary. But Thursday morning when the truckers were to go back to work they defied their leaders and marched about company terminals in protest.

The truckers, loaders and helpers claimed union local officials had no right to make such an agreement without consent of the membership.

Freight shipments within a 50-mile radius of Buffalo have been tied up by the work stoppage. Manufacturers reported dwindling supplies but none so far has been forced to curtail production.

MADE NO EFFORT

Police were reported to have made no effort to crash the lines. However, three provincial police inspectors were allowed to pass through the gates after the fighting was over.

During the fighting, the 30 workers attempted to get through the storehouse and down into the mine shaft. Only 20 made it. The others were hustled into the strikers' cars and taken from the property.

The strikers did not go after the workers who fled. Some reports said they were shift bosses and there would be no attempts to get them out

As the last car headed for the gates, an unidentified security officer shot at the vehicle's tires. He missed.

As the cars approached the gates, the picket lines opened and the strikers passed through. Then the lines closed and pickets warned police not to try to crash them.

The 30 workers entered the property Thursday under a police escort. They took food and camp cots with them and apparently planned to restart milling operations. One of them said then:

"We are taking food and beds with us just in case we have to stay a long time."

LINDSAY (ENS) — Constable John Hunter is investigating the theft of 25 one-dollar silver coins from the office of F. S. Crichton, optometrist, Lindsay St. North.

Dr. Crichton was absent at the dinner hour, leaving the outer room of his office open. The intruder hopped over a seven-foot partition into the inner office where he ransacked some drawers and took the 25 silver dollars. Police believe the thief was acquainted with the layout and the location of the till and watched for the optometrist to leave the office.

Drew Discusses Religion While Campaigning In Quebec

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

The subject of religion was introduced into the federal election campaign at Trois-Rivieries, Que., Thursday night by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader. Before the largest audience of his campaign tour to date—3,000 inside the armories, 2,000 outside—Mr. Drew said: "You have been told that you should not vote for me because I am a Protestant. My friends, I am a Protestant for the same reason that most of you here are Catholic. I learned the prayers in which I first expressed my religious faith at my mother's knee. So did you and you would not respect me much if I did not honor the faith which I learned as a child.

"If it ever comes to the time that elections are decided by the way in which we express our faith in God, then freedom of worship, which is one of the great fundamental freedoms of democracy, would become a meaningless expression."

At Halifax, where he opened a two-day Nova Scotia tour, Prime Minister St. Laurent said the Progressive Conservatives have "missed the boat" in promising tax cuts.

MADE BY LIBERALS

He contended that some tax reductions pledged by Mr. Drew were made by the Liberal government in the last budget.

"If Mr Drew is going in for more cutting of taxes, he will have to cut some existing expenditures, too, and there must be a good many who are on the receiving end of government expenditures . . . who are wondering which expenditures would be cut."

The prime minister recorded his speech for a CBC free-time political broadcast and then delivered substantially the same address to an audience of about 1,000 persons in a high school auditorium.

"When you think of all the extravagant promises to spend more money that all the other parties are making, it is surely no exaggeration to say that the only party which can hope to continue to reduce taxes and keep its other promises is the Liberal party, because we refuse to promise new expenditures without counting the cost."

CAN'T CUT DEFENCE YET

Mr. St. Laurent said the Liberals would cut defence spending quickly when it could be done with safety. But any party cutting defence expenditures by 10 per cent now would be backing down on Canada's undertakings to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The prime minister said he was "shocked" to see that Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Progressive Conservative military critic, was claiming defence costs could be cut by $250,000,000 a year.

At Nicolet, Que., Mr. Drew said the Liberals are painting different pictures of him in Quebec and in the rest of Canada.

Liberal supporters in Quebec, he said, claimed he was opposed to Quebec and French-speaking people. Elsewhere in Canada, the Liberals said he was too friendly with Quebec.

"Sometimes I find it difficult to recognize myself," he added.

PUT UP BRIDGE

Later at Trois-Rivieres, he promised that a government led by him would co-operate with the Quebec government to put a bridge across the St. Lawrence river there.

In an Edmonton radio broadcast, Elmer Roper, Alberta CCF leader, said there should be a national insurance scheme to protect farmers against unavoidable crop failures.

Farmers had made some progress toward farm security in the last 20 years, "but I don't believe there is an informed farmer in Western Canada who does not know that floor prices and farm assistance and rehabilitation have come because of Hon. Jimmy (agriculture minister), Gardiner's fear of the CCF in Saskatchewan."

COVER SOCIAL SECURITY

At Oshawa, Ont., Stanley Knowles, CCF member of the last Commons for Winnipeg-North Centre, said additional taxes on corporations, capital gains and excess profits would more than cover social security measures advocated by the CCF.

At Kitchener, Ont., Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative member for Peel in the last House, said many Liberals and CCFers will vote for Mr. Drew Aug. 10 "in a crusade for good government." Many persons, once proud Liberals, nad "bolted" the party.

Today, Mr. St. Laurent will speak at Middleton and Bridgewater, N.S. Mr. Drew will be at Berthierville and Joliette, Que., and CCF leader, M. J. Coldwell at Dauphin, Man.

CHAMPAGNE PUSH—The symbolic bottle of champagne breaks over the bow of the Cuidad de Cumana, built by Canadian Vickers Ltd. for the Flota Mercante Grancolombiana of South America, at a launching ceremony in the firm's Montreal shipyards. The sleek, 5,900-ton refrigerated vessel was christened by Senora Dolores Gomez de Carrasquero and on completion will sail under Venezuelan colors.

High Taxation Boosts Costs Michener Says

TORONTO — Home building costs are 20 per cent too high today because of the federal sales tax and other high taxation, D. Roland Michener, Progressive Conservative candidate in St. Paul's, said Thursday night.

In a radio address, the Conservative candidate said his party has the will and determination to settle three problems which bedevil home building.

One of them was the cost of construction, 20 per cent too high, Mr. Michener said. Another was the problem of high municipal taxation of real estate, a result, he said, of "the grabbing of too much tax money" by Ottawa. Of every tax dollar paid in Canada, 72½ cents goes to Ottawa.

One and a half million Canadians are looking for housing, more than the whole population of Greater Toronto, he said. With all the building done since the war the shortage of needed houses is 700,000—more houses than there are in Toronto and Montreal combined.

The Liberal Party, Mr. Michener said, has been in power during the whole 18 years in which the housing shortage developed. "They knew about it. After the war in 1945 they promised to fix it. Again in 1949 they promised. Today they don't promise, they say: 'Look how well we've done.'

"If you elect them on August 10 their record indicates that in 1958 we shall be worse off than today."

Smallwood Believes Pickersgill Next PM

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Joseph Smallwood told a political meeting Thursday that he believes J. W. Pickersgill will be the next prime minister of Canada "if, and when, Louis St. Laurent retires."

Mr. Smallwood told the meeting: "I believe we will be represented by the next prime minister of Canada." He did not elaborate.

Mr. Pickersgill, former clerk of the Privy Council, was named state secretary to succeed F. Gordon Bradley and is seeking election in Mr. Bradley's old riding of Bonavista-Twillingate.

Question:

Mr. Swanston, what have you to say to opposition charges of extravagance in national defence?

Answer:

Nothing that makes this country safe can be called expensive. The Liberal Government has been stock-piling defence items, and has spent a lot of money doing it. And that means that if we need those items, we won't be held up for six or eight vital months, waiting to manufacture them. Preparedness and national strength cost money. National weakness can cost everything we have and are.

Trade Minister Howe Defends Polymer Firm

SARNIA—(CP)—Trade Minister Howe Thursday night defended the government-owned Polymer Corporation with an attack on J. W. Murphy, Progressive Conservative member of the last House, representing Lambton West. In an address to a Liberal rally in Lambton West in support of the party candidate Mayor W. C. Nelson of Sarnia, Mr. Howe told a crowd of more than 700 at Sarnia Collegiate auditorium:

"Vote for Nelson, elect a Liberal government—but most of all take Murphy off my back and take him out of the House of Commons."

Mr. Howe said he had always tried to "keep politics out of Polymer."

DOESN'T PLAY BALL

But, he said, Mr. Murphy had "done his utmost to make political capital out of the Crown corporation."

Earlier at Windsor, Mr. Howe said completion of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway would provide Windsor with a waterway through which it could send its manufactured goods to the markets of the world.

He urged manufacturers and growers to devote "special attention" to the export markets which provide an outlet for Canada's excess production. Because of the growing export market inland water transportation is becoming more vital.

Criticizes Liberal On False Claims

TORONTO — Welfare Minister Goodfellow Thursday accused a Hamilton Liberal candidate of using false statements regarding welfare in his campaign advertising. He referred to J. P. (Pat) O'Reilly, candidate for Hamilton West, who advertised: "Be sure the baby bonus and mother's allowance are continued- Elect a Liberal government."

"Mother's allowances are entirely a provincial program," the welfare minister said. "The federal government doesn't contribute a nickel toward this aid for mothers who need help so badly." He added that the same applies to child welfare, homes for the aged, disabled persons' allowances, unemployment relief and day nurseries—"in case anyone wants to claim these for the federal government."

"O'Reilly must have been pretty hard up for material to claim a provincial program for his party," Mr. Goodfellow said. "I assure every receipient of aid under mothers' allowances or any of our plans that such aid will be continued no matter what party wins the election."

Predicts Red Wheat Pact

ST. STEPHEN, N.B. (CP) — George Hees, Progressive Conservative candidate in Toronto-Broadview, said Thursday night there is a "very good chance" Russia will be able to sign a long-term wheat contract with Britain if Trade Minister Howe "persists in his present uncompromising and dictatorial attitude."

The member of the last Commons addressed a party rally in support of the Charlotte Progressive Conservative candidate, H. N. Ganong.

He said Canada has no wheat agreement with Britain for the next crop year, beginning Aug. 1, and there is "no indication" one will be reached. Mr. Howe had refused to go to Britain in an attempt to conclude a contract.

So there was a good chance Canada would be left "out in the cold," Mr. Hees said.

Spoils System In Use Again

BOWMANVILLE (CP) — J. M. Macdonnell, Progressive Conservative member of the last Parliament for Toronto Greenwood, charged Thursday night that the career of J. W. Pickersgill is evidence of a trend toward re-establishment of the "spoils system in government."

Mr. Macdonnell described as "shocking" the promotion of Mr. Pickersgill last year from a position as secretary to Prime Minister St. Laurent to the non-political civil service post of clerk of the Privy Council. Mr. Pickersgill has since been named to the cabinet as secretary of state.

The appointment of Mr. Pickersgill, whom he described as "a party worker," as clerk of the Privy Council was a "body blow at the integrity and impartiality" of the civil service, Mr. Macdonnell told a meeting in support of Charles Stephenson, Progressive Conservative candidate for Durham.

Drew To Campaign In Ontario-Quebec

OTTAWA (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, will campaign in Ontario and Quebec during the last two weeks of the election campaign, his itinerary showed Thursday.

Mr. Drew will start from Ottawa next Tuesday, concentrating on southern Ontario points for most of the two weeks, with the exception of two days which will be devoted to Quebec.

His itinerary:

July 27—Ottawa; July 28—Niagara Falls, Welland, Hamilton; July 29—Brantford, Simcoe; July 30—Courtland, Woodstock, Sarnia; July 31—Chatham, Windsor; Aug. 1—Owen Sound; Aug. 3—Manotick Kinburn; Aug. 4—Lachute, Montreal; Aug. 5—St. Raymond, Quebec; Aug. 6—Orillia, Toronto; Aug. 7—Hawkesbury, Russell, Ottawa; Aug. 8—Oshawa, Cobourg, Kingston.

Mistaken Identity

MITCHELL—It happened on the main street of this Perth County town while the Liberals were waiting for a crowd to gather to hear External Affairs Minister Pearson speak from the civic bandshell. "I thought you said Drew Pearson was going to speak," charged one woman, with a southern U.S. accent, to her female companion. "I did not," replied the friend. "I knew it was not Drew Pearson. But I wasn't sure what his first name was." Mr. Pearson didn't overhear the exchange, but it is not the first time he has been mistaken for the Washington columnist. He told a Listowel gathering earlier that the wife of a U.S. cabinet minister made the same mistake at a recent reception in Washington.

Urges Insurance Plan To Protect Farmers

EDMONTON (CP) — Elmer Roper, CCF leader in Alberta, said Thursday night there should be a national insurance scheme to protect farmers against unavoidable crop failures.

In an election campaign address over radio station CFRN, Mr. Roper referred back 20 years to 1933 and the drafting of the Regina manifesto. He quoted the section dealing with agriculture and said it is still the CCF program.

He asked if one phrase, "insurance against unavoidable crop failure," is any different from unemployment insurance.

Says Many Voters Will Bolt Liberals

KITCHENER (CP) — Gordon Graydon, member for Peel in the last Parliament and Progressive Conservative foreign affairs expert, said Thursday night many Liberals and CCF supporters are going to vote for his party Aug. 10 "in a crusade for good government."

Speaking at a meeting in support of candidate Elizabeth Janzen, he said many persons once proud to call themselves Liberals have "bolted" the cause.

Need More Selective Immigration Policy

EDMONTON (CP) — Canada needs a "wider but more selective" immigration policy to balance trade between Eastern and Western Canada, Carl O. Nickle, Progressive Conservative candidate for Calgary South in th eAug. 10 election, said Wednesday.

In an address at the oil-boom town of Leduc, 20 miles south of here, Mr. Nickel said that under present conditions the west must accept less for its products than can be realized by eastern producers, and at the same time pay more for its purchases than buyers in other parts of the continent.

This situation will persist, he said, until the flow of immigrants "creates a balance."

Some Suggestions For Our Street Traffic Flow

Down-town Peterborough is heavily marked by traffic signs. There are so many that few drivers can get a clear impression of what they say and mean. The corner of Charlotte and George, for instance, is a jumble of traffic signs. In this jumble strangers are likely to miss, and do miss, the signs which say "No Left Turn". It seems to us that more diagrams and fewer signs would serve better. For instance, if a solid white line, like those on highways, were painted straight down the middle of the intersection, on the pavement, most motorists would know that a left turn was prohibited. They have been conditioned by highway driving not to cross solid white lines. (Signs would still be required, to make the lines legally effective.)

* * *

Another helpful diagram would be to mark at all important intersections the lane which drivers should use in making a right-hand turn. Mark it right on the pavement, with arrows and lines. This would instruct drivers not well accustomed to city traffic how to turn right, and how to prepare for the turn. A dozen times an hour at half a dozen intersections down town one sees unskilful or unwitting drivers doggedly making a right turn from the centre of the street, instead of from the curb side of the road. This confuses drivers coming behind or beside the clumsily-driven vehicle, and it bedevils traffic. Mark the lanes, and require drivers to use them.

* * *

This suggestion means, of course, that the "No Parking Here To Corner" signs must be strictly observed. A car cannot turn into the inner laneway if it is already occupied close to the corner by a parked car or truck. Incidentally, why cannot the curbs at No Parking spots be distinctively painted, as they are in most important cities? This system is more quickly recognized than a No Parking sign high above the car top and beyond the driver's field of vision.

* * *

While we are purveying these suggestions, we shall again repeat our complaints about double-parking on down-town streets. Smooth traffic is quite impossible if cars or trucks are parked, or even stopped momentarily, in the middle of the street. The worst offenders are trucks and delivery vans. Have they been given some special police dispensation? Are there not street parking zones especially reserved for them? If truckers are too lazy to carry their parcels or freight a few steps from these zones, let them make their deliveries—as they must in certain down-town districts of big cities—before seven in the moring or after six in the evening, when they should be able to find parking space in front of the store with which they have business.

* * *

To conclude these remarks we may as well observe that the two little 30 m.p.h. signs a mile out on the Chemong highway have been removed. Presumably the speed limit there is again 50 m.p.h. Either the city police have changed their minds, or, following our complaints and those of other citizens, they are not going to set up the speed trap until they get all the signs properly adjusted. It may be, of course, that the police are merely awaiting legal authority for the step, taken with such insidious haste a few weeks ago and now abandoned.

The Test Matches

To the non-cricketer, and consequently to the average Canadian, the Test Matches periodically played between England, Australia, India, the West Indies and South Africa may be incomprehensible. Why don't they stop having Test Matches and get down to the real thing? The answer is, of course, that the Test Matches are the real thing.

The longest and most famous series are between England and Australia, who fight it out for the non-existent "Ashes". For some years the Ashes have remained in Australia. During each tour there are five Test Matches. The touring side also has a number of other matches with local teams in between the Tests.

This year it was Australia's turn to tour England, and for the first time in several years England had high hopes of beating the Aussies. So far the struggle has been indecisive. The clerk of the weather has interfered with all three Tests so far, the result being a drawn game in each case.

Cricket is a leisurely game. It might be almost described as the chess of outdoor sports, for ordinary first-class matches in England take three days. The Test matches take four days, except for the last of the series, which goes on until one side or other wins. Theoretically it should be possible for the last Test to be held over until the next spring, if the batsmen forgot about making runs and concentrated on staying in.

But cricketers have for some time been alarmed at the tendency to play safe on the part of batsmen. It has taken much of the colour and excitement out of the game, and attendance at matches has suffered. Nevertheless it can still be a game of dramatic upsets, as witness the amazing collapse of the Australians in the second innings of the third Test Match just completed.

Though baseball is our favourite summer game it is good to go up to Nicholls Oval when a cricket match is in progress and watch our local team play. For them, at least, Willow is King in the summer months.

Necrology

We do not like to turn these columns into a record of people who have died, but from time to time we are struck with the fact that it is impossible to pick up a copy of a daily paper without finding a record of the death of somebody—perhaps not widely known among our readers—who has nevertheless given pleasure to hundreds of thousands of people, and left the world a better place than he found it. Recently, for instance, we read of the death of Jan Struther, the creator of Mrs. Miniver. Many people saw the movie about Mrs. Miniver and many more read about her life in books. She was a woman of a great heart and a fine spirit, who found in her daily domestic life plenty of humour, plenty of sentiment, and plenty of tragedy. She became so dear to many people that she ceased to be a person in a book and became a reality. This is one of the rewards of an author. Jan Struther herself became identified with her character, and her death, at the age of 52, has brought regret to countless people who knew her through her books.

We see also that Ruggero Ruggeri is dead. He was an Italian actor who lived to be 81. We never saw him, and should be surprised to learn that anyone in Peterborough had seen him, but he was an important figure in his own country, who raised the art of the theatre there a notch by the force and integrity of his work. What we think particularly interesting about him at this time is that he appeared in London only a few months ago, when he was 80, and astonished the critics by the youthfulness of his appearance. He looked 40 and it was hard to believe that he was more than 50. Asked about his youthful demeanour, he said that a life of association with masterpieces had kept him young! This is a pleasant variation on the usual replies of elderly people who are asked about their state of health, and we recommend it to anyone who seeks the secret of prolonged youth.

Big Hydro Stuff

Ontario is still hungry for hydro power, even after the hundreds of millions of dollars which have been spent on new power generating plants since the war to increase the horse-power capacities of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. One of the biggest Hydro projects still under way is a revision and extension of the Niagara power plants. It is rather frightening to Hydro users (who pay the bills through higher rates) that the Sir Adam Beck No. 2 generating station at Niagara needs another forty-three million dollars to finish it. The station, including a huge storage reservoir, has now had a total of $343,742,000 allocated to it.

Ontario Hydro has become one of the biggest spenders in Canada. Among the vast sums it has been getting and using since the war, an additional $43,842,000 above previous estimates is only a drop in the bucket. We trust, however, that Hydro officials realize that tax and rate payers, whose purses do not bulge with billions still consider $43,842,000 more than a trifle. As there seems to be no end to Hydro's quest for power, so there seems none to Hydro's demands for money. It is not altogether clear that Hydro makes any distinction between the propositions that power means money and that money means power.

Summer Bachelor

By BON VIVANT

MY wife's gone to the country,
Hurray, hurray!
She's taken the children with her,
Hurray, hurray!

The foregoing is all I can recall of a ditty which enjoyed a brief popularity in my youth. The gist of the song, as I remember it, told of the husband's rejoicings because he was to have freedom from his family for a space. Apparently he intended to kick up his heels and have a merry time. As a summer bachelor of some experience I find this hard to understand. It may be that in those uncomplicated days summer bachelorhood lent itself to such antics, but not any more.

✧ ✧ ✧

I HAVE more lists of things to do, and when to do them, pinned up around Chateau Vivant, than the available wall space can conveniently accommodate. A long, and complicated precis on the guppies, in sickness and in health, gives me much concern. Their feeding is also fraught with danger. Guppies seem to thrive on moth eggs, and in the warm weather, the eggs, which are kept in a bottle, hatch, and become moths. I never know when a moth is going to escape, and as I've been threatened with dire punishment should moths infest the family woolens, feeding the guppies is anything but a simple job.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE are also the newts. I can't say I'm fond of newts, but the owners of these reptiles place a great store by them, so I have to spend much time catching flies, alive mind you, and other tit-bits to tempt their appetites. This performance is gradually wearing me down to a nub, and I look forward to the return of the proprietors of the newtry so I may relax.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE is, furthermore, the garden, the pride and joy of the chatelaine of Vivant Acres. Fortunately it doesn't contain any rare or exotic specimens, but even the common varieties require some attention. I'm charged with weeding and watering this garden, and keeping it stirred up with a strange implement called a dutch hoe. As my early training in horticulture was sadly neglected I am unable to distinguish a flowering weed from a flowering plant. The last time I was left in charge the garden was a riot of colour on the homecoming of the family, but it turned out my carefully nurtured posies were mostly weeds.

✧ ✧ ✧

I CAN'T say I really mind watering. I'm quite a lad with the hose, and derive simple pleasure from tracing weird patterns with its stream in the parched soil. Given a hose, in the cool of the evening, and I can stand for hours in a state of suspended animation squirting things. Once in a while a more than ordinarily artistic flourish showers a neighbour who is taking the air in his garden. This invariably leads to halting explanations by me as to why the neighbours aren't speaking when the family again takes up residence.

✧ ✧ ✧

A FURTHER problem in the watering business is changing the valves. The Chateau has a water softener, and unless the valves are twisted a bit, the precious fluid is dissipated, and the water becomes as hard as a rock. No matter how I try, or how careful I am, it seems my ill fortune to forget the valves on the even of the family reassembling. This leads to hard words, and mutterings about stupidity. For some reason, which I cannot fathom, wives seem to think husbands, left on their own in the summer, are going to do a lot of cooking. I, for one, am not, but that doesn't save me from being left with a refrigerator bulging with the necessary ingredients. I have worked out a method of solving this one, and bestow upon a cheerful Austrian lady, who comes twice a week to redd the place out, whatever is left to tempt me to try my hand at the culinary art.

✧ ✧ ✧

DISHES, soiled linen and badly used clothing add headaches to a bachelor summer. The dishes I stack up for cleaning days, and take good care to vacate the domicile early those mornings so I will not be charged with poor housekeeping. It works, because upon my return in the shades of evening I find them washed and put away. This gives me a running start at accumulating a bit of extra work for next cleaning day. Soiled linen is the bane of my life. I have a list of instructions as to how many towels, sheets, etc. I'm to use, and what is to be done with them each week. This is all very well, but the laundry man and I seem to lack the co-operative spirit. I am positive he is coming on a certain day, and bundle up his take, placing it in a convenient place for his attention. He, however, plays tricks on me. He comes the day before, and finding nothing of interest, doesn't bother coming until the next week.

✧ ✧ ✧

ABOUT three weeks of such misunderstandings and the Chateau bulges at the seams with bedding, towels and other odds and ends is a most disreputable state. The usual result of these shenanigans is that on the approach of the foregathering date for the family, I have to pile the stuff into the car and hustle it to a laundry which will return it fresh and sweet in short order. It is expensive, but so far has had the saving grace of presenting the Chateau in a reasonably neat and orderly condition at the end of the holiday season.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE are other domestic tasks which harry me, such as putting out the garbage. I know I cut a most undignified figure chasing the garbage collector's truck down the street with a container of offscourings in either hand, bruising my shins and raising a frightful clatter as I strew lids of the cans, and a part of their contents over the landscape. If the garbage man would only come at a reasonable hour, or I could remember to put their items of interest out the night before, all would be well. To date this is only a vain dream in which I indulge myself on days when there is no garbage collection.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE chappie who wrote the bit about his wife going to the country didn't have all these things to contend with I'm quite sure. If he had he was a better man at coping with domestic problems than I am. If he had time for the extra-mural activity, during his wife's absence, at which the song hints, he was a better organizer than I am. My personal view is the paean of rejoicing which I quote at the beginning was written by a rich, unmarried man who had lived all his life in an hotel. He obviously knew nothing of the burdens the absence of the administrative head of the household places upon the incompetent shoulders of the man she left behind her.

Send Me A Postcard

B.B.C. BULLETIN

F. R. BUCKLEY, a freelance writer and broadcaster, gave an amusing account of the craze for picture postcards which was current some forty to fifty years ago. "It was customary for recipients, especially maiden aunts, to say picture postcards had provided them with a real armchair tour," said Buckley, "and without the necessity of tipping the guard for a corner seat facing the engine with a clean antimacassar. Obviously such treasures must be preserved for rescrutiny when wanderlust should attack Auntie again; mankind being what it is, preservation led to collection and collection to exploitation; and indeed, by 1904, cartophily was an established craze and already leading to strange excesses." Many of the cards in the collection to which he had fallen heir were unused and brilliantly coloured and he had great fun in sending them to correspondents on occasion, especially those he termed the "Death and Disaster" series. At that time any public event of this kind was always peddled in postcard form by some local publisher and he possessed postcards of a single-deck tram which turned over in Birmingham about 1910, a railway engine which ran bloodlessly off the rails at about the same time, some Hull trawlers which in 1904 were fired on by the Russian Navy and one of two Hamburg gasometers which blew up in 1909. There were more cheerful topical items too, including Joseph Chamberlain at a tea party in Birmingham in 1906, and King Edward opening Birmingham University. But there were other kinds of postcards, such as those enhanced by a sprinkling of tinsel, and there was a period "when practically everything was frosted, including the music hall stars." This tinsel rubbed off so freely in transit that the Post Office had to make a regulation that such cards must be enclosed in envelopes and then the manufacturers really let themselves go. "I have a spirited likeness of the Liverpool landing stage printed for no reason whatever on a postcard-sized piece of aluminium," said Buckley. "Furthermore, the question arose what was postcard size?; my unwanted collection contains a panoramic view of Gloucester eight and a half inches by five, and they came larger still." This was not all. "One genius," he said, "invented postcard transparencies; another turned out cards which you squeezed and they barked or said 'Mama!"; still another, deciding to give the fine arts a whirl, put out a series of Dore's illustrations to the Inferno—and, probably thinking they didn't look hellish enough, printed them in an ink practically indistinguishable from blood. A rival, evidently aware that old masters were notable for their brush-work, emitted Rembrands, Leonardos and Titians galore on card so embossed as to give the impression that the masterpieces had been painted with a shovel."

There were also trick cards, mainly French, and Buckley almost blushed when he revealed that his collection contained a card portraying a boudoir scene in which two ladies were shown full dressed; by pulling a tab they appeared in negligee with one actually showing her ankle. He had many cards of actresses and others, more mundane ones, of railway engines, steamships, and views. There were comic cards, some of private citizens in fancy dress, British troops in the first World War wearing gas masks, Edward VII Coronation cards, rickshaw boys, Indians with spikes through their noses and many more. Recently he consulted a magazine through which almost anything can be bought, sold or exchanged, and in it found one forlorn advertiser who said "Postcards wanted for cash. Many kinds for sale or exchange." He wrote saying he had thousands and would the advertiser come and fetch them quickly. "He replied on a coloured postcard showing a scale model of the Sydney Harbour Bridge," said Buckley, "saying he'd get in touch with me very shortly; but that was weeks ago, and he hasn't; and so here I am with one more hideous postcard than I had before and hope ebbing fast."

The Reds Are Curious

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

It is significant that the Soviet Government has requested from Great Britain a copy of the movies taken at the recent Coronation ceremonies. Just where the significance lies may be disputed. Those bemused cloud-dwellers who put faith in the Soviet's latest campaign of sweet reasonableness may imagine, if they wish, Joe Tovarich and his fellow shift workers viewing the movies (with no cuts and with accurate Russian sub-titles) during a special two-hour suspension from work.

It is more likely that if the Russian public sees the film at all, it will be in a distorted, mangled version, with appropriate propaganda commentary in Russian, pointing up the decadent Czar-like English aristocracy kept in power over the oppressed workers by American capital.

Of course, there is the possibility that Malenkov and his colleagues are just curious. Gromyko's report may have whetted their desire to see for themselves. Few have been out of Russia. The sight of a religious ceremony will provide an unusual experience for them. As for spontaneous, heart-felt cheering from a huge crowd, that will be a disturbing novelty indeed.

Letter To The Editor

MAJORITY ARE STILL WORKING

Sir: As I understand the matter, a requirement of the franchise held by the Peterborough Bus Lines, is that they supply the City with an adequate bus service, and particularly for those people going to and from work. During the current week and the week following most city factories are closed; therefore the management of the bus lines has arbitrarily decided that instead of a ten minute service we will have a twenty minute service on our bus routes, utterly disregarding the requirements of a great number of people who are not on vacation these two weeks.

Granted that it may not be necessary to maintain a ten minute service at all hours of the day during these two weeks, it is necessary that this ten minute service be retained during the noon hour. There are still a larger number of people—store clerks and office employees who work in the centre of the city, who are not on holidays. To enforce a limited bus service on these people when the ten minute service is needed, is very arbitrary indeed. Proportionate to their number, store clerks and office people ride the buses to and from work much more often than do factory workers, the greater number of whom use cars.

Those people who work in stores or offices, other than factory offices, have a staggered noon hour which operates anywhere from 11:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m., and during this period the Peterborough Bus Lines, regardless of whether or not the factories are closed, should operate a ten minute service. A ten minute service should also be operated from 4:30 p.m. until 6:30 p.m. Last evening I waited at the corner of Simcoe and George Streets for a bus going south from 5:00 p.m. until 25 minutes to six when I was fortunate enough to get a ride home in a car, and at that time there was no bus in sight going south. I understand this same situation prevailed between 6:00 p.m. and 6:40 p.m. That is not good service.

Strikers Help Capture Thief

HAMILTON (CP)—Striking truck drivers inadvertently helped capture a Kingston man wanted for car theft

Police said Lawrence J. Lawrence, 43, eased a car through a mass of pickets and police on the western limits of the city Wednesday, then climbed out and told the officers:

"I'm a very nervous driver. I don't think it's safe for me to go through these men. Anyway, this car isn't mine. I stole it."

Kingston police escorted him back Thursday to face the charge.

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret went with the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh Thursday night to see the American musical comedy "Guys and Dolls". She flashed a radiant smile.

HIGH LIFE AT 110—Walter G. Williams, 110-year-old Confederate War veteran, is all set for his first plane ride and is shown getting last-minute flying instructions from Ella, his 78-year-old wife. The plane, flown by Henry Heji, took off from the Bryan, Tex., municipal airport.

Believes Malenkov In Charge Since Stalin Was Stricken

By EDDY GILMORE

PARIS (AP)—Who is running Soviet Russia today?

Is it really George M. Malenkov? Could it be V. M. Molotov? Is Nikolai Bulganin the real man in charge? Is it possible that Nikita Khrushchev is manipulating things from the dark corners of the Kremlin? Or is it government by committee as the Communist party would have us believe—a committee composed of the party, the government and the Supreme Soviet?

Or, is it the army?

Frankly, I don't know and I doubt if anyone outside the Kremlin knows.

The dismissal of L. P. Beria—listed officially as Malenkov's No. 1 lieutenant—has narrowed the field. But it has also confused it.

NOT CONVINCED

A wise Western diplomat, with many years' experience in Soviet affairs, is not completely convinced of the Beria story. He explains:

"This could be another grand piece of Russian make-believe and deception They may be trying to confuse the West at this extremely important moment of our times. The Beria disgrace would be a huge hoax."

I do not hold with this diplomat.

I believe Malenkov is in charge and has been in charge since Stalin was stricken. I believe he saw Beria stealing up behind him and, out of the corner of his quick, Slavic eye, caught a glimmer of the knife in Beria's hand. That he felt strong enough, or desperate enough, to eliminate the high chieftain of the political police, with his principal henchmen.

NOT MUCH KNOWN

What do we know about Malenkov? Not much. I've seen him a lot of times. But I've never had such a good look at him as that Sunday afternoon in mid-March just after Stalin's death and burial. That was when the Supreme Soviet met in the Kremlin and elected him chairman of the council of ministers, or premier, on Beria's endorsement.

The few foreign correspondents at that Kremlin session had good seats, and I went early enough to get one of the vacant front-row chairs.

Malenkov is a fat man, but he's one of those fat men who move with a certain grace. He's light on his feet and he walks with a quick, sure stride.

He has long black hair that he parts on one side. Dark intelligent eyes, if you can say eyes are intelligent. A triple chin and he wears the traditional party khaki jacket, long khaki trousers and usually black shoes.

PRACTISED ORATOR

His voice is firm and extremely clear. His delivery is that of a practised orator. He looks at his audience when he speaks.

He seems sure of himself. He handled himself very well at this, his first public appearance after becoming premier. He paid not the slightest bit of attention to Beria, Molotov, Bulganin, Khrushchev or anyone else. He was in charge.

Few foreigners have had conversations with Malenkov. I have two notations from men who sat beside him in Kremlin banquets.

Note No. 1: "He didn't talk very much and when I told him a joke he managed a faint smile. He seemed preoccupied. He volunteered no remark to me. He had a certain poise. However, an unpleasant character, I'd say."

No. 2: "He seemed interested in his food more than he was interested in me as a dinner partner. But talking through a translator, he did appear to be intelligent, though reticent. When I made some remark about the weather he said he was never very conscious of the weather. All in all, not the kind of a fellow with whom to take a long trip on a tandem bicycle."

At 52, he is one of the youngest of the Communist leaders. And, of course, he's playing for time. He is consolidating his position, or trying to. Does he have time enough? And strength and intelligence enough? I believe so. And I believe that Malenkov, more than any single man, is running Russia.

Officer Taken To Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP)—Captain Martin Franklyn Smith arrived here by plane late Thursday under RCMP escort to face charges of theft in connection with disposal of $30,000 worth of brass shell cases.

The cases were allegedly stolen from Shilo, Man., military camp in 1952 while Smith was ordnance officer. The 34-year-old officer appears in provincial police court today. He is being held in a detention home.

Smith was arrested Wednesday night in his Regina home by RCMP officers. He was born in Westboro, Ont., and has a wife and four children. He once served at Kingston.

Mrs. Smith said the charges are ridiculous.

"I think he was framed," she added.

Producer Has Nightmarish Show

LEICESTER, England (Reuters) If there was ever a worse night than Wednesday night, vaudeville producer Reggie Dennis can't remember it.

Dennis, producing the current program at the local Variety Hall here, said this is what happened:

1. Alan Alan, billed as "the man they cannot hang" nearly hanged himself. Handcuffed and chained, he hung head-down above the stage. Normally he frees himself in 90 seconds. But they had to cut him down. He collapsed and was taken to hospital.

2. Knife-thrower Hal Denver, 28, misjudged and pinned his blonde wife's skirts and panties to the board she stood against.

3. George Mikowski's crash helmet slipped as he roared around a "wall of death" on a motorcycle 10 feet above the stage. He drove off the wall and onto the stage, dislocating his shoulder and bruising his arm. He too, went to hospital.

4. Finally, fencer George Hartzman slipped on the stage and his brother-partner's duelling foil cut a 12-inch gash down his back.

But the show went on Thursday night—with four of the artists in bandages.

Secondary Highway Closed For Manoeuvres

TORONTO (CP)—The highways department announced Thursday that a secondary highway from highway 11 to Sprucedale will be closed for 24 hours starting at 3 p.m. Saturday during dive-bombing exercises at the RCAF's Emsdale airport.

The Canadian Press carried an erroneous report Thursday that a section of highway 11 would be closed during the exercises. The highways department explained that this report was caused by a transmission error in its office.

YOUR VOTE CAN CUT TAXES

$500,000,000 this fall!

In four years, Canadians have been overtaxed more than $1½ BILLIONS! In the first two months of this year, there's already a $200,000,000 surplus in the Federal treasury. Yet you are being told by Liberal leaders that taxes can't be reduced!

This is your money. But make no mistake about it—the present Government will not reduce taxation.

So long as they stay, you'll pay—more tax dollars every year for the most expensive Government in history!

Certainly taxes can be reduced! The only way to stop reckless spending is to lower taxes.

A GOVERNMENT THAT CAN'T STOP WASTE CAN'T CUT TAXES!

we can . . . we will!

St. Catharines Lifts Lead From New York

By CRAIG SWAYZE

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP)—They begin separating the men from the boys today as 19 events face the starter's gun on the third day of the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta.

Nine of the races are finals while eight are heats for Saturday's big senior events. Two are eliminations left over from yesterday's program, not completed because of wind and rough water at the head of the one-mile, 550-yard course.

Largest field on today's card will be the high-school fours when six crews face each other over the mile collegiate distance. Ecorse High School is favored to repeat its 1952 victory, but faces strong opposition in Buffalo Tech, Detroit St. Anthony's, Brockville, Wyandotte, Roosevelt and Merriten.

The host St. Catharines Rowing Club will throw crews into almost all of today's races in an attempt to maintain the point lead which they lifted from the New York Athletic Club Thursday.

PILE UP 3 WINS

The cerise and blue oarsmen piled up three wins and four seconds to amass 88 points for first place in the aggregate for the Maple Leaf trophy, emblematic of regatta supremacy. However, the New Yorkers held second with 42½ points.

The Hamilton Leander Boat Club placed third after two days of rowing with 38½ points and Toronto Argonauts were fourth with 20. Buffalo West Sides, last year's regatta champions, lag in fifth place with 15 points, two up on Detroit Boat Club.

St. Catharines' win in the finals of the junior 135-pound eights and the junior 155-pound eights helped increase their point margin. They also caught a second in the 135-pound eights to add to the aggregate.

Hamilton Leanders also clicked twice in finals, but since they were a fours and doubles event, did not gain as many points.

Freddy Lane stroked his Leander quartet to a victory while Don Williams and Bob West came through in the junior 145-pound doubles.

AL (RED) SCHOENDIENST, Cardinals' second baseman and current NL batting leader, clutches his face with his hands after he was struck by Al Dark's throw in a game at the Polo Grounds in New York City. Red fell, bleeding profusely, and was taken to dressing room where he required nine stitches. First Baseman WHITEY LOCKMAN and UMPIRE DUSTY BOGGESS are shown in the picture.

Point Standing

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP) — The following is the point standing after two days of rowing at the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta here:

St. Catharines	88
New York A.C.	42½
Hamilton Leanders	38½
Toronto Argonauts	20
Buffalo West Sides	15
Detroit B.C.	15
Detroit R.C.	10
Wyandotte B.C.	9
Toronto Dons	8
Ottawa R.C.	5
Philadelphia Vespers	2½

Bisons Bow To Ottawa On 5-4 Count

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo and Montreal, the two top contenders for first place in the International Baseball League, both lost their games last night.

The Bisons dropped a 5-4 count to Ottawa Athletics. The Athletics scored the winning run in the 10th inning when rightfielder Emil Restaino misjudged a fly ball and allowed the winning run to score.

Ottawa won the six-game series 4-2.

Fred Gerken led off the bottom half of the 10th by taking first on shortstop Buddy Hicks' error. He went to second as Gerry Scala walked and came home on Restaino's bobble.

Buffalo scored singles in the first, fourth, sixth and seventh innings, two of them homers by Frank Carswell in the sixth and Harv Zerria in the seventh.

Ottawa pushed one run across in the eighth when pinchhitters Jack Spruill and Hal Bevan doubled and singled respectively. In the ninth pinch-hitter Bob Trice hammered out a three-run homer to tie the score.

SHOCK MONTREAL

Toronto Maple Leafs shocked a Montreal audience, chalking up six runs in the eighth inning to defeat the Royals 12-10.

The current five-game series now is tied at two each.

Trailing 4-0 the Leafs scored five times in the fourth inning to move ahead. The Royals retaliated with three in the fifth, two in the sixth and one in the seventh.

Red Fahr, one of five Toronto pitchers to appear in the game, was credited with the win. It was Fahr's sixth win against five defeats.

EXCHANGE RALLIES

At Rochester, Baltimore Orioles and the Red Wings exchanged three-run rallies in the ninth inning before Rochester copped the decision 6-5 and bounced back into third place.

Vern Rapp's pinch double drove in the tying runs for Rochester in the ninth and with the bases loaded Charley Kress tapped a bunt single to the left side to score Rapp with the winning run after two were out.

Here And There In Sports

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

NEW YORK (AP) — Arrangements for a Randy Turpin-Bobo Olson middleweight title fight in October are virtually complete, with the exception of the site, Harry Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club, reported Thursday.

If the fight is held in New York, it will go into Madison Square Garden during the third week in October. If it is held in the San Francisco Cow Palace, the date will be about the same.

Turpin, former middleweight champ, won European recognition by defeating Charles Humez in London. Olson eliminated Paddy Young to win the American title.

GAINS TALENT

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City Blues of the American Association gained some left-handed batting strength Thursday by obtaining in an option deal Harold Keller, catcher, and Cliff Mapes, outfielder, from Toronto of the International League.

The deal sends Kal Selgrist, second baseman, and Bruce McKelvey, catcher, to Toronto.

✦ ✦ ✦

PICK SITE

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vedder Canal, 50 miles east of here near the Fraser Valley city of Chilliwack, has been selected as the site for the rowing events at the 1954 British Empire Games here.

The games executive committee Wednesday night made the decision to ask the provincial lands and forests minister, R. E. Sommers for permission to use the canal for the events.

✦ ✦ ✦

FIELD READY

TORONTO (CP)—A banner field of 164 athletes from 18 clubs are poised for the opening of the Canadian Track and Field Championships at suburban East York Stadium tonight.

Topped by the 32-man entry of the Toronto Track and Field Club but including representation from Montreal, Vancouver, Hamilton, Kitchener, Oshawa and Sudbury, Ont., and a single contestant from New York, the championships will open under floodlights and continue all day Saturday.

✦ ✦ ✦

NEW PITCHER

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Browns Thursday night announced the sale of pitcher Alva (Bobo) Holloman to Toronto of the International League.

Holloman has a record of three victories and seven defeats with the Browns this year, his first in the majors. A 27-year-old righthander, he came to the Browns from Syracuse in the International League.

✦ ✦ ✦

CANADIAN HORSE WINS

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (CP) — Alberta Ranches' Indian Hemp, with jockey Johnny Longden up won the $12,500 Los Angeles handicap at Hollywood Park's closing meeting for 1953 Thursday.

Indian Hemp won handily in the mile and one sixteenth to pay $4.70. Time was 1.42 4-5.

Aussie Gamble Pays Off In Test Match

LEEDS, England (Reuters) — Australia's gamble of sending England in to bat after winning the toss paid off Thursday when England lost seven wickets for 142 runs on the opening day of the fourth cricket test.

Top batsmen Len Hutton and Denis Compton were out for ducks.

On a pitch which was damp and slow England's batsmen fought an uphill struggle against some excellent quick bowling by Ray Lindwall and Keith Miller, ably supported by keen fielding.

After three drawn matches in the best-of-five series, Australia needs only to avoid defeat in the last two games to retain the mythical cricket Ashes which they have held since 1934.

SAVES ENGLAND

A stubborn fourth-wickets stand of 62 by Tom Gravenev and Willie Watson saved England from complete collapse. Gravcney batted three hours 40 minutes for 55, and Watson's 24 was an admirable defensive knock.

Australia can be well satisfied with Thursday's play. But the match cannot yet be written off as they will probably have to bat on a bowlers' pitch today and in any case are faced with batting last on a pitch which may wear.

Orillia Dumps Mimico 18-10

TORONTO (CP)—Orillia Terriers tightened their hold on third place in the Ontario Lacrosse Association standing by downing last-place Mimico Mounties 18-10 Thursday night at suburban Mimico Bowl.

The winners were never in trouble, taking a 7-1 first-quarter lead. The Mounties' best quarter was the fourth, when they outscored the Terriers 5-3.

Orillia scorers were: Frank Facto, 5, Ken Croft, 3, Bruce Webster 2, Jack Kapasky 2, Steve Kapasky 2, Les Digby, George Masters, Elmer Lee and Gus Chard.

Stu Scott scored three for Mimico and Fred Sanford added two, Pete Bradkin, Don Meeke, Henry Paulowski, Jim McNeil and Bert Barager contributing singles.

Cincinnati Defeats Pittsburgh 7-0 Whitewashing

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

It takes a brave team to invade Ebbets Field these days so Milwaukee opens a four-game series in the home of Brooklyn Dodgers tonight. This is another of those "do or die" clashes that keep popping up all season. The Dodgers feel they've got the Braves on the ropes by now with a 5½-game lead and the season moving rapidly toward the two-thirds mark. A four-game Brooklyn sweep would write an unhappy ending to the first edition of Charlie Grimm's Milwaukee fairy tale.

Both Brooklyn and the Braves were rained out Thursday so they'll go into tonight's game with a welcome day of rest. The Dodgers were supposed to play Chicago and Milwaukee was scheduled at Philadelphia. The rain also cut short St. Louis Cardinals' series with New York Giants. Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh 7-0 in the only National League game played.

YANKEES COLLAPSE

The big noise in the American League was the collapse of New York Yankees in Cleveland for the third-straight game. This time the world champions looked like real country bumpkins as they were swamped 10-2.

Chicago White Sox muffed their chance to close in on the Yanks when they bowed to Boston 4-3. The White Sox trail by 4½ games.

Detroit's slumbering Tigers popped up with a four-game winning streak, taking a pair from Washington, 9-6 in 10 innings and 5-4. The victories moved the Tigers within half-a-game of the seventh-place St. Louis Browns who lost to Philadelphia 7-4 in 14 innings.

The Yankees tried a couple of their young pitchers against Cleveland and the Indians battered them for 14 hits and 10 runs in the first six innings. Tom Gorman made his first start and lasted into the fifth inning. Art Schallock toiled two and gave up five runs, four of them unearned because of an error by first baseman Don Bollweg.

HOME RUNS FIGURE

Home runs figured strongly in the Cleveland victory. George Strickland hit one with two on and Al Rosen another with the bases empty in the fifth. Luke Easter drove in two runs with a homer and a single.

At Chicago Hector (Skinny) Brown came back to haunt his old White Sox team mates with a four-hitter for his seventh straight victory. He gave up two runs without a hit in the second inning when he walked three men. Brown pitched hitless ball from the fourth until Jim Rivera hit a home run in the ninth.

Ray Boone hit a three-run homer in the 10th inning for the Tigers' first-game victory over Washington. Home runs by Jim Delsing and Bob Nieman, and a timely two-run single by Gerry Priddy helped Ted Gray win his fifth game in the nightcap.

CASH IN ON PAIGE

The Athletics cashed in on Satch Paige's relief efforts for four hits and three runs in the 14th to win their marathon at St. Louis. Eddie Robinson brought home two of the tallies with a triple.

Harry Perkowski, who has been improving steadily after a bad start, won his eighth game for Cincinnati as he scattered eight hits for the shutout. The loss was the 13th for little Murry Dickson.

Toronto Bakery Owner Last Tennis Hope

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian tennis championships went into their fifth day today and the country's hopes in singles competition rested with Mrs. Hilde Doleschell, Toronto bakery owner, the only homebrew survivor in the men's and women's division. Expert opinion is that she hasn't a hope of gaining a final spot.

The 28-year-old former Austrian champion is matched against Mrs. Thelma Long, Australian champion seeded No. 2 behind Mexico's Melita Ramirez in the foreign division. The last of the men's Canadian entries were blasted out on Wednesday and quarter-finals in the women's singles Thursday brought elimination for June Merrill and Louise Brown, both of Toronto, and Pat Macken of Montreal.

IN OTHER SEMI-FINAL

In the other semi-final are Miss Ramirez and Laura Lou Kunnan of St. Petersburg, Fla., the 20-year-old darling of the tournament. The betting is that the Mexican school teacher will continue into the finals to be played Saturday.

But the topic today centred on Thursday's quarter-finals in the men's singles between Eddie Moylan, an old pro from Trenton, N.J., and baby faced Astushi Miyagi, Davis Cup player from Japan. Their four-hour, 59-game set, which saw Moylan spot the 21-year-old Japanese the first and then take the next three, was labelled as the greatest in the Canadian championships in years.

The drama was packed into the 26-game final set which Moylan took 14-12 after capturing the second and third 6-4, 6-3. Miyagi, full of bounce and threatening to chase his older opponent off the court, took the opener 8-6.

IN SEMI-FINALS

Joining Moylan in the semi-finals were the Australian big three—Mervyn Rose, Rex Hartwig and George Worthington, seeded in that order among the foreign entries. They will play Saturday, Rose meeting Moylan and Hartwig going against Worthington.

In quarter-finals Rose disposed of Tony Vincent of New York 6-3, 6-3 7-5 and Hartwig eliminated Mexico's Mario Llamas 6-1, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

It was a cinch for the invading stars in the women's singles Thursday. Three hours after Miss Brown defeated Miss Merrill 9-7, 6-1 in the third round, she tangled with the chubby Mrs. Long and went out 6-1, 6-1.

Miss Macken was overwhelmed 6-0, 6-2 by Miss Ramirez. Matches were played also in the men's and women's doubles, mixed doubles and veterans singles. Competition continues today in all these divisions with the feature matches in the quarter-finals of the men's doubles.

Rose and Hartwig, second-ranking doubles team in the world, will meet Jacques Guigerre and Val Harit of Montreal and a fourth round will bring together Worthington and Vincent against Masanobu Kimura of Japan and Don Kaiser of Louisville, Ky.

Have Obtained Same Share As Liberal Ridings—Fraser

ENNISMORE (By Staff Reporter).—Gordon K. Fraser Thursday night said every time he sees references to his not living in the riding he has to smile.

Speaking to about 50 people in St. Martin's parish hall here, the Progressive Conservative candidate for Peterborough said: "We have a very comfortable home in Peterborough county and pay taxes in Harvey and Burleigh townships."

"I know how to pull ropes in Ottawa," he said, "and I have been able to secure almost as much for Peterborough as any Liberal member in any other riding.

"They say I don't know much about business. But I ran three businesses as a young fellow. I'm not in politics for gain. I believe it's the duty of every citizen to get into politics to help his fellow men."

The member of the last parliament gave full support to the 16-point platform outlined at Guelph by Progressive Conservative leader George Drew.

MORE MONEY IN POCKET

"By voting Progressive Conservative you're putting more money in your own pocket and voting for the good of the country," he said in support of Mr. Drew's promise to cut taxes by $500 millions.

"Agriculture Minister Gardiner said there was no doubt whatsoever that $300 millions could be cut from the budget and I don't think you have to go very far to cut another $$200 millions," the speaker argued.

"The present government hasn't got an idea at all of what the value of a dollar is," he charged. "Mr. Howe said to me in parliament: 'If the defence department asked me for a gold-plated piano, I would get it for them,' and that's right in Hansard."

"I feel the Hon. George Drew is the man we should have in Ottawa because he will carry out his 16-point program exactly as he carried out his 22 points while premier of Ontario," he said.

He said that a Progressive Conservative government in Ontario had been the first government to make capital grants to hospitals and months later the government in Ottawa was shamed into doing the same. The same government, he said, was the first to give capital grants towards the cost of building schools, to have free TB clinics, county health units, medical care for old-age pensioners and pre-natal examinations for mothers.

MANY FIRSTS

The Progressive Conservatives, he said, were the first to recognize the necessity for old age pensions in 1919 and unemployment relief in 1921 and recognized the principle of unemployment insurance.

"The Liberal government says in its propaganda they were the first to introduce these benefits but all these things were introduced by the Progressive Conservative government," he said. "I believe that taxes could be cut without cutting out any of these benefits.

"It was the Progressive Conservatives who eventually forced the federal government to bring in old age pensions without a means test. I recommended it in parliament and I also recommended an increase in the pension.

"Contributory health insurance is an absolute necessity," the speaker added.

"I've protected your rights for 13 years," he concluded. "I'm accused of asking too many questions. But if you want a bench-sitter, don't vote for me."

"I don't know of a better example of a servant of the people," the Hon. Harold Scott, MLA, said of Mr. Fraser. "We hear that we should have a member on the government side of the House. But wouldn't you hate to think this constituency didn't receive what was coming to it just because its member was elected to the other side of the House? I would like to think the federal government is big enough to give every riding its due."

John Corkery, of the Young Progressive Conservative Association of Peterborough, said that the Liberal party had not presented the voters with any policy or platform.

"They seem to be content to rest on what they call their laurels," he charged. "But there are many instances in which they have shown a lack of responsibility to the people who have elected them. They are elected by the people to represent the people. They seem to have lost recognition of that fact.

"You people know that with the loss of markets and an increase in the cost of farm machinery your standard of living is decreasing. It is the duty of the government to see that the farmer, who cannot unionize, receives fair prices in order that he may enjoy the same high standard of living as the industrial workers."

Chairman of the meeting was Reeve James Gifford.

A demonstration of magic was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bradshaw of Peterborough.

NO SWEAT—Little Conrad Imhaus, of San Francisco, finds it hard to believe, but this big Duroc pig is not taking that mud bath for fun or as a beauty treatment. Pigs don't perspire, so covering themselves with mud is the only way they can keep cool when the weather gets hot. The Duroc will be a 4-H Club entry in the California State Fair in September.

Footloose Herds Of Caribou Problem For Wildlife Men

OTTAWA (CP)—Footloose caribou herds of Canada's north which migrate in a seemingly haphazard fashion across the tundra pose a headache for wildlife experts here.

After an intensive survey in the Mackenzie river and Hudson Bay areas during the last six years together with correlating data dating back 100 years, the experts still don't know if herds congregate one with the other to form large groups or remain single-herd units the year 'round.

This knowledge is necessary to conserve caribou, vital to the economy of more than 20,000 Indians, Eskimos and whites of the vast area. Without knowing their behavior, adequate management steps cannot be taken. This would involve limiting caribou kill in districts where herds were small and possible extension in areas where caribou were plentiful.

ONLY HABITAT

The barren-land caribou is found only in Canada's northland—nowhere else in the world.

Compared with moose, they are not large animals. Males average 220 pounds in weight while cows are about 150 pounds. Antlers on the bulls are many-pronged, impressive and large. Cows have antlers, though much smaller.

Caribou migrate from the timber line to the tundra in April and May and stay there until August when they start the return trip. An excellent vantage point to observe this migration is at Churchill, Man., where twice yearly caribou—sometimes as many as 75,000—cross the railway tracks, single file.

With recent increased development of Canada's north, fears have been voiced about the animals' future. It's generally agreed that in the area recently studied, caribou are in sufficient numbers, estimated at 670,000 spread over a 600,000 square mile area—to support the native population if useless slaughter can be stopped.

KILL INCREASING

Unfortunately, according to wildlife men, the mentality of the northern Eskimo and Indian has changed little from the bow-and-arrow stage. Then it was all he could do to kill sufficient caribou to provide his needs. Today, with a new clip of shells in his rifle, he still kills with the old abandon, but at a much greater rate.

About 1900 the caribou population was estimated at 1,750,000; since then it has taken a 62 per cent drop while the population of native groups and whites engaged in mineral, forest and other occupations has increased.

Present annual kill is about 100,000 of which Indians take about 50,000, Eskimos 30,000, and other trappers and hunters 20,000. Estimated average yearly kill for a native hunter to satisfy all his family needs is 125 caribou.

But, the wildlife service reports, it is a frustrating business getting actual statistics. Natives are not in the habit of counting animals killed. When questioned, they just can't recall. Also, some natives do not report kills because of fear of retaliation for excessive slaughter.

Wolves also take a comparatively high toll, estimated at about 34,000 animals each year. But the greatest predator is man.

Russian Burp Gun Presented To Athabaskan For Help

A Russian-made 9mm burp-gun rests in its place of honor above the fireplace in the ward-room of HMCS Athabaskan after presentation recently by an RoK unit as thanks for a little friendly co-operation.

Recently some 100 members of a RoK regiment were withdrawing from a reconnaissance raid in Communist held territory when they came under heavy fire from North Korean army troops.

The Athabaskan, stationed just off shore, was called upon for aid which she immediately gave. While firing 60 rounds of 4-inch shells, the Canadian destroyer called for air support from a nearby USN carrier. The South Koreans began their withdrawal as the Athabaskan stood by to direct the air assault.

The evacuation was completed without further hindrance. Two RoKs were given emergency surgical attention aboard ship and then were flown out of the area for hospitalization.

About a month later the commanding officer of the RoK regiment boarded the Athabaskan and issued a report that 113 North Koreans had been killed and 51 wounded in the rescue by the destroyer.

As a token of thanks, the Russian-made burp-gun, captured during the raid, was presented to the Athabaskan.

Abandon Park

COBOURG (ENS)—The park at the west end of the town, near the wartime housing, has been abandoned temporarily by the parks board, although title to the land will remain with the board. The park was established with the view of providing a playground area for children in that part of the town but the expense and difficulty of getting the necessary fill to build it up, have resulted in the decision to drop the park for the time being.

Approve Budget U.S. Defence

WASHINGTON (AP). — The Senate Thursday night gave President Eisenhower a major victory in approving his trimmed-down defence budegt of $34,500,000,000 and rejecting a Democrat-led move to bolster the air force's atomic punching power.

Passage of the big military money bill—a total of $5,000,000,000 less than former President Truman recommended — came after two days of debate.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure three weeks ago. The bill now goes to a senate-house conference to iron out differences in the separately passed versions.

Last-ditch efforts of Democrats to restore at least part of the air force's funds ran into a stonewall of virtually solid Republican strength despite assertions that Soviet rulers might trigger a new war that would find the United States lagging in air strength.

It was the fourth and final test of the decision by Defence Secretary Charles Wilson, with Eisenhower's public backing, to lop more than $5,000,000,000 from new funds for the air force and lower the immediate goal from 143 to 120 wings.

Sees No Evidence Embargo Broken

LONDON (Reuters) — British shipowners said Thursday there was no evidence that they had broken the UN embargo on the export of strategic materials to Communist China.

A meeting of the council of the British Chamber of Shipping "noted with surprise" allegations by Senator Joseph McCarthy's U.S. Senate investigations sub-committee that British shipping firms were dealing in strategic goods with China.

The matter still is being studied, the council said, but added that pending the full report "it can be stated that there is no evidence that British shipowners have not been loyally abiding by the United Nations embargo."

House Of Representatives Kills Bill To Increase Tariff Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives, backing the Eisenhower administration, Thursday night killed a bill to increase tariff protection for U.S. industries against competition from foreign goods.

A 242-161 rollcall vote slapped down a determined drive, led by insurgent House Republicans, against the administration's policy of promoting freer world trade.

In the showdown, after four hours of hot debate, Democrats supplied most of the votes against the trade-restricting bill.

The proposal would have specifically raised tariffs on foreign lead, zinc and watches, and would have imposed tight ceilings to curb imports of foreign oil.

More generally, it would have tended toward higher tariffs or import quotas in scores of other fields. These could have been invoked upon claims by U.S. producers, workers or farmers who were being hurt by foreign imports.

The vote came shortly after Republican Leader Charles Halleck (R, Ind.) said a vote for the bill would be "ridiculous" in view of previous approval of a bill extending the trade-promoting Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act.

Cobourg Woman To Show Pottery Skill At Exhibition

Nunzia Zavi, a ceramic artist, now living in Cobourg, will demonstrate pottery making in the Women's Building at the Canadian National Exhibition this year.

Married to fellow artist Jarco Zavi, and with two children, she still finds time to operate a kiln and tourn out work for exclusive shops.

She studied art and ceramics at Central Technical School, Toronto, and later under Professor R. J. Montgomery of the University of Toronto. For seven years she operated a shop in Toronto while teaching at the Technical school. She married Jarco Zavi in 1939 and seven years ago they moved to Cobourg, where they made a name for themselves in Canadian handicraft.

Recently Jarco developed a feautiful orange textured glaze using a base of uranium oxide. Much of their work consists of the Majolica technique—designs painted with glaze on glaze.

Their children, Tanya and Adria, also turn out clay fish and dolls, and according to the parents, show promise.

Two Toronto Men Held As Theft Suspects

GUELPH — Two Toronto men were locked in city hall cells here Thursday after their arrest by police in Georgetown on charges of theft.

Peter Dresdick, Seaton St., Toronto, and Joseph McCormick, Walmer Rd., Toronto, are the suspects. When they were stopped in Georgetown, police seized three electric drills, an electric iron, nine cigarette lighters, and freshly laundered shirts.

The arrests came about after the co-owner of a Guelph hardware store missed a drill from the store window. He stepped out on the sidewalk in time to note the licence number of a departing car, which he relayed to city police, who put out a general alarm.

Love For Dogs Costs Dublin Doctor £550

DUBLIN (Reuters).—Dr. William B. McCrea, who loved dogs so much he kept 110 of them in his house, today was ordered to pay his former landlord £550 for damage to the house and furnishings.

The animals bounded in and out of the windows, chewed up the carpets and munched on the furniture, witnesses testified at a high court session.

SUPERTEST SURGING POWER

Immunization Has Been Halted

WINNIPEG (CP)—A suspicion that persons recently immunized against other diseases become more subject to polio-caused Manitoba health authorities to suspend all innoculations and other immunizing injections Thursday.

Dr. M. R. Elliott, deputy minister of health, said the theory is not proven but injections were halted as a precaution.

There were 16 more polio cases reported Thursday but four cases from Wednesday's total were subtracted due to incorrect diagnosis. The provincial total now is 230. Five deaths occurred and 156 cases of paralysis.

Dr. Elliott said a study will be undertaken of the supply of gamma globulin, the preventive serum, to see if its use can be widened in the province. He said more serum is needed to increase the number of injections.

Asks All-Canada Route

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government has urged that construction of an all-Canada pipeline from Alberta to Eastern Canada be started without delay.

The government's department of mines, in a brief made public here Thursday, said it told the Alberta gas conservation board in Calgary Tuesday that Ontario's market for fuels has increased so much that it is necessary to seek a sure and economic source for natural gas.

The province appealed for an all-Canada route by which service could be given to centres at the Lakehead and other Northern Ontario points which would not benefit should the line be constructed south of the Great Lakes.

Thurber Comedy 'Male Animal' For Next Week

"The Male Animal," described by Burns Mantle as "The funniest comedy since 'Life With Father'," is being presented by the Peterborough Summer Theatre as the sixth attraction in its current season. The authors, James Thurber and Elliot Nugent, promised each other while still freshmen at Ohio State University that some day they would write a play together. It took them 20 years, but they scored with one of the American theatre's most successful comedies when they got around to co-authoring "The Male Animal."

The play tells the story of an embattled young college professor who concludes that since tigers, panthers, and even penguins fight physically for their mates, so will he. Not only has he to fight for his wife, but he also has to fight the university authorities over whether he can read to his students the famous farewell letter of Vanzetti, the radical executed in Massachusetts in 1927, as an example of eloquent prose written by an uneducated man.

DOMESTIC DIFFICULTIES

Chiefly, however, the comedy is concerned with the mild professor's domestic difficulties in the face of the reappearance at a big Homecoming football weekend of the Lothario-like ex-football star of their undergraduate days, who has now become a big-shot alumnus. He realizes that he must stand up and fight for his mate and his principles. The scene of this worm's turn is considered one of the funniest in the American theatre. Gerry Saracini makes a welcome return to the Summer Theatre in the role of Joe Ferguson, the great football hero.

The two authors, James Thurber and Eliot Nugent, had both become well-known writers before they got together to collaborate on "The Male Animal." Thurber became famous as the artist-writer for the New Yorker Magazine, whose sketches depicting the "war between men and women" have been delighting readers of that magazine for years. Nugent had written "Kempy," "The Rising Son," "The Poor Nut," and "The Breaks," and played in all of them on Broadway. He also made notable appearances in about a dozen other plays before going to Hollywood, where he wrote, directed and appeared in a score of movies.

The original production of "The Male Animal" ran for a season when it was produced on Broadway in 1940, with Elliot Nugent in the lead. It was revived in 1952 with Nugent again playing.

U.S. Senate To Get Fresh Views On Niagara Power Development

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Senators next week will get fresh views on who should develop Niagara power.

And the ideas may conflict with New York Governor Thomas E. Dewey's vigorous plea that the job be turned over to New York state.

The Senate public works committee recessed Thursday after hearing the New York governor outline, for two hours, why he felt his state should develop the $400,000,000 project in co-operation with the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

Dewey took a plane back to New York last night. He declined to predict what action the committee would take.

Dewey insisted to the senators that New York had an "inalienable" right to undertake the project. At the same time he contended that turning it over to private utilities would result in higher rates to power consumers.

The House of Representatives has approved a bill that would authorize five New York utilities to seek a licence from the Federal Power Commission to carry out the project.

FEARS HIGHER PRICES

The utilities, Dewey argued, "propose to take away our cheap power" and "sell it back to us at vastly increased prices." He said that would be "the rankest injustice I know."

The governor said that while he did not deny Congress had the right to bar New York from Niagara's power potential, such action would single out the people of one state for a different kind of treatment from those of all the others.

Dewey said he would "challenge the wisdom and possibly the constitutionality" of such a move.

Dewey keyed part of his plea to defence. Without integration of power lines, he said, "the northeast is susceptible to utter desolation, one atomic bomb in the wrong place would destroy perhaps 50 to 70 per cent of the entire complex."

If the state plan goes through, he said, integration will be required.

Railroad Head Refuses To Accept Seaway Plan

NEW YORK (AP)—The president of the New York Central Railroad has declined to go along with a suggestion by a U. S. senator that eastern railroads stop fighting against the St. Lawrence seaway project.

Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem.-Minn.) wrote President William White asking that the railroads "exhibit statesmanship in the national interest" regarding the seaway. He said the Eisenhower cabinet had given it full support.

In a letter written July 21 and released Thursday, White replied to Humphrey:

"Both as the representative of a $2,000,000,000 corporation and as a private citizen and taxpayer, I am convinced the St. Lawrence seaway is something that we do not need. . . .

TOO MUCH DEBT

"I cannot for the life of me understand why we would want to spend tax money or incur debt for a seaway that would be largely used only by foreign-owned vessels; that would be ice-bound for about five months out of 12; that would put cheap foreign labor in competition with well-paid American labor; that would build up the port of Montreal in competition with American ports; that would tend to weaken one of our strong arms of national defence—namely the railroads; and lastly, that would make necessary the defence of another channel of commerce in time of war, to some extent at least comparable to the defence of the Panama canal and the Sault.

"We have in this country the cheapest transportation available anywhere in the world. . . ."

Humphrey had written to White, believing eastern railroad presidents were to meet in Washington July 21 to determine their position regarding the seaway. White said the presidents' conference had planned no meeting for July 21 or any other time to discuss the matter.

COBOURG (ENS)—A car driven by W. Washburn of Fenella, overturned near that village when it failed to make a curve. The car was considerably damaged when it rolled over a number of times and ended up in a cluster of stumps. The occupants were shaken up but uninjured. Provincial Constable Frank Clough of Cobourg investigated.

Seize Cigarettes

Charges Court Permits Using Secret Evidence

NEW YORK (AP)—Hayden C. Covington, chief legal counsel for Jehovah's Witnesses, says the U.S. Supreme Court has permitted the use of "secret evidence" in two recent cases.

Covington, speaking Thursday before the world assembly of the religious sect, said the Supreme Court, by admitting such evidence, has "fixed standards of fairness lower than those of ancient Caesar in the days of Jesus."

Covington did not say what the cases were, nor did he define what he meant by secret evidence. Covington has represented the witnesses, officially known as the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, in more than 40 cases before the Supreme Court.

He told the assembly in Yankee Stadium to don "the full armor of God and fight for your freedom."

CAN EXPECT ANYTHING

"To try to know what the next move of the (Supreme) Court will be," he said "is like trying to tell when and where lightning is going to strike. From now on, just brace yourselves for anything."

The society has been involved for many years in litigation growing out of refusal of members to salute the U.S. flag, for door-to-door preaching and for refusal to bear arms on ground of conscientious objections.

Jehovah's Witnesses believe in the literal truth of the Bible. Saluting the flag, they contend, means bowing down to a graven image as forbidden in the 10 commandments.

Despite a lashing rain, more than 42,000 delegates remained in their seats at the stadium. More than 132,000 members, including representatives from 96 countries, are taking part in the eight-day meeting.

The stadium speeches were heard via loudspeakers by thousands of other Witnesses remaining in tents pitched near the stadium and by those remaining at their trailer camp in Piscataway township, N.J. A direct wire and loudspeaker system has been set up from the stadium to the camp, housing almost 45,000 persons.

Divers Search For Ancient City

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) A diver with a German expedition searching the bottom of the North Sea for evidence of the fabled lost city of Atlantis today brought up an ancient cobblestone.

Two vessels of the German Hydrographic Institute of Hamburg have confirmed that there is evidence of ancient ruins 30 miles off the North German coast, it was reported here.

Shool Fair Graduate

It isn't so long ago, so it seems, since John Lewis, student for the ministry, was a Smith township school boy competing in public speaking at the Bridgenorth school fair. On one of those occasions he received the first prize, a piece of silver plate. As quite a small boy he gave promise of a special ability that is now developing in his studies at Victoria College. It is likely that some day the conviction will grow upon him that the school fair was an important influence in his youth.

✦ ✦ ✦

Juniors At Worship

In all the details of divine worship, Peterborough Junior Farmers assumed the direction and leadership in their annual service at Gilmour Memorial Church last Sunday evening. The weather was hot and humid, but all the pews were occupied. Men discarded their jackets in a concession to summer's ripening heat.

Archie Davidson, president of the Peterborough Juniors, conducted the service, assisted by Burritt Mann who led in prayer and Jack Matchett in scriptural reading. A new and impressive feature was the Juniors' choir with Charles Allen at the organ.

Roseneath Wheat

ROSENEATH (ENS)— Prize-winners for 1953 in the Cornell wheat (fall wheat) competition sponsored by Roseneath Agricultural Society are: 1st prize, Rupert Nichol & Son; 2, Earl Waldie; 3, Charles Sandercock; 4, Clarence Parker; 5, James L. Timlin; 6, Herbert McCracken & Son; 7, Charlton Grigg; 8, R. E. Drope.

Mr .A. J. Campbell is president of this organization and Mr. C. W. Varcoe is secretary.

The wheat was judged during the past week by R. W. Phillips, Belleville, teacher of agriculture at the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational Institute.

✦ ✦ ✦

Long Lived Holsteins

A striking demonstration of type, production and longevity took place at the Twilight Meeting of the Durham County Holstein Breeders' Club July 16 at the Browview Farm of James T. Brown and Sons, Newcastle, when four members of the herd with a combined age of 46 years were paraded. One of these cows had been classified as "excellent," the highest rating for conformation, while three of them were in the next class of "very good." In addition, each of them has completed an official lifetime record of over 100,000 lbs. milk, thus qualifying for a certificate of longtime production. Some 300 breeders and their families were present for this occasion.

✦ ✦ ✦

Staggering Hay Figures . . . . .

It would be interesting to know some of the details of this season's hay crop, the number of loads or bales tucked under cover on individual farms where the tonnage has been excessive. Some one mentioned to the Examiner that Dave McIntyre of Otonabee had taken off 130 loads, winding up that job a week or more ago.

Reports say that barn capacity is not sufficient to store the quantity cut. That is in the Peterborough district. A Western Ontario paper recently had a picture of a Dutch farmer, one of the newcomers to this country, who stacked his overflow of bales in pyramid pile, laying what looked like thatch over the peak and adjoining rows near the top.

The address was given by John Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis, an undergraduate of Victoria College, Toronto. He spoke of the problems and difficulties that are peculiar to this age and day, and recalled that mankind has had to come through comparable experiences in all generations. Even some of the Israelites of biblical times turned back from testing realities ahead of them in the Promised Land.

Mr. Lewis said that problems are associated with opportunities in the tremendous changes of the present. He cited the increasing development of control of atomic energy with the challenge facing the world of the use they are to make of that resource of this atomic age.

The responsibility and opportunity confronting people today was the right use of man's new powers, and particularly that they should be set for the betterment of humanity.

The service was one of the main achievements of Peterborough Junior Farmers this year.

✦ ✦ ✦

At Lifloc Farm

The Peterborough dairy calf club (4-H) meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday, July 28 at Norman McConkey's farm. Judging of classes of Holstein and the showing of new films comprise the program.

✦ ✦ ✦

Club At Fred Bolton's

Norwood 4-H Calf Club met on Wednesday evening at the farm of Fred Bolton with Walter Clark, leader, in charge of the program. Judging and discussion of a class of Holsteins was a major item, and Ken Best showed films on the care and management of dairy calves and heifers.

✦ ✦ ✦

Hereford Meeting

Wm. Mood, secretary, has sent out notices of a meeting of the Western Ontario Hereford Club to be held Monday, July 27 at the office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Business includes discussion of a picnic and prizes for the Norwood Calf Club; pass last year's accounts and decide on entries at the World Plowing Match.

Holsteins To Venezuela

A recent shipment of Canadian Holsteins left Montreal by boat for Venezuela. This consisted of 20 head of purebred Holsteins consigned to Agropecuaria la Victoria, S.A. Aragua, Venezuela and ten head of grade Holsteins to Antonio Diaz. The shipment was inspected by G. M. Clemons, Secretary of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada who described the cattle as "an attractive lot."

The purebreds consisting of 16 second calf heifers and 4 first calf heifers were all dehorned and were more black than white.

It is understood that Mr. Diaz is planning a shipment of 50 purebred Canadian Holsteins shortly.

Those contributing to the current shipment were J. P. Doane, Norval; Harry Beardmore, Brampton; T. O. Dolson, Brampton; Fred J. Sharp, Brampton; Allan Smith, Glanford Station; Geo. Davy & Son, Bath; and Clarence C. Lyons & Son, Cheltenham.

Spring Show Report

At a meeting of some of the directors of the Central Ontario Spring Show Thursday night, A. O. Dalrymple, of Stirling, agricultural representative in Hastings county, presented an interim statement showing a credit balance of $1,354.

The corresponding bank credit at December 16, 1952, was $1,070.24. Mr. Dalrymple said he expected two or three grants that have not yet been received.

The annual meeting will be held in November after the Royal Winter Fair. Enlistment of more Junior Farmers and 4-H Club members is one of the projects to be considered, and it was also suggested that the show might be able to stimulate interest in cash crops, particularly soybeans and grain corn. F. C. Paterson expressed doubt about sufficient yields being possible from soybeans in Peterborough and Victoria, but other counties in the show's territories and their potential should be taken into account.

In reference to the financial statement, he explained that some bills had to be paid by the show this year, instead of being a contribution from Peterborough Exhibition.

Ed Summers, Bowmanville, agricultural representative in Durham, said he liked the Peterborough Citizens Band concert so much last March that they might be engaged again for a separate night. Robert Armstrong presided.

Soy Beans In Durham

"There are more soybeans being grown in Durham county this year than ever before. One grower has an excellent field of 35 acres."
